THE CUCKOO.

. . . . . On the ear
The unexpected note, Cuckoo! again
And again came down the budding vale;
It is the voice of spring among the trees,
That tells of lengthening days, of coming blooms;
It is the symphony of many a song.
Thus ever journeying on from land to land,
She, sole of all the innumerous feathered tribes,
Passes a stranger's life, without a home.

Grahame; "Birds of Scotland."

F. CARL, Publisher, 154, Fleet Street, London, E.C.

ADVERTISEMENT CHARGES.

6d. for the first eighteen words. One Halfpenny for each word over eighteen.
Name and address to be reckoned. MINIMUM, 18 words 6d.

IMPORTANT NOTE.—Two or more Advertisements coming from the same advertiser, even if sent in different names, are reckoned together, and, after the first Eighteen words, are charged at two words a penny. No single advertisement, even if accompanied by others, will be charged at less than the minimum price, viz., Sixpence.

Headlines or Footlines, 1/-, 1/6 2/-, 2/6, according to size.

The rate for displayed advertisements is 7/6 per inch. Rates for a series on application.

ADVERTISEMENTS UNACCOMPANIED BY CORRECT REMITTANCE WILL NOT BE INSERTED.

Postal Orders must be sent as far as possible. All moneys should be made payable to F. CARL.

The Proprietor reserves the right to refuse any advertisement, or to cancel any advertisement ordered for a series, at any time, without assigning any reason for so doing.

Advertisements must in all cases bear the bonafide name and address of the advertiser, and no advertisement will be inserted if addressed to a receiving office, or similar place of call.

Small prepaid advertisements of a general nature and not connected in any way with the Cage Bird Trade are inserted at the rate of ½d. per word throughout. Minimum 12 words 6d.

Advertisements close Tuesdays first post in each week, and should be sent to the advertisement Manager, CAGE BIRDS, 154, Fleet Street, London. Terms for Display Advertisements on application.

REPEATING ADVERTISEMENTS.

ALWAYS USE "CAGE BIRDS"

DEPOSIT SYSTEM.

We are not responsible for the statements made in advertisements, nor of the bona-fides of either buyers or sellers In all transactions the adoption of our Deposit System should be insisted upon

RULES.

1.—PROCEDURE.—The intending purchaser should send to this office the amount of the purchase (our deposit fee included), and at the same time he should communicate with the seller, stating what it is he requires sent on approval. We acknowledge receipt of the deposit to both parties. In all cases the depositor should give his name and address, and also that of the vendor, and must write same clearly and distinctly.

2.—END OF TRANSACTION.—The deposit is retained by us until we hear from both parties that the transaction has been completed. If a sale has been effected, we hand the amount deposited to the seller. If a sale has not been effected, we return the amount to the depositor. The transaction must be conducted by the parties themselves. We merely hold the deposit.

3.—AMOUNT OF COMMISSION.—The fee is 6d. for each £1, or fraction of £1, and it must be sent at same time as the deposit.

4.—IMPORTANT POINTS.—The depositor must decide within forty-eight hours of the receipt of the goods whether he will keep or return the same, unless, that is, some other period of approval (of which we must be advised) is agreed upon by both parties. The depositor must at the same time notify us of the fact that he has returned the goods. If the goods are not returned within the said forty-eight hours, we reserve the right to send the deposit to the seller after the expiration of that period. And should the seller fail within three days to notify us of the receipt of his goods back again, the transaction will be treated as ended, and the deposit will be returned to the depositor.

5.—A SATISFACTORY PURCHASE.—When a transaction has been completed to the satisfaction of both depositor and seller, both parties must at once return the deposit receipts as a guarantee of its completion. The depositor must at the same time instruct us to pay over the deposit to the seller.

6.—GOODS ALREADY SOLD.—If the goods are sold before our deposit note reaches the seller, or if for any other reason he declines to do business, he must at once return the deposit note to us. Failing its receipt, we reserve the right to return the deposit to the sender after the expirration of three days.

7.—FRESH TRANSACTION.—In case no sale be effected, a deposit is available for purposes of a fresh transaction, provided another deposit fee be paid.

8.—GOODS IN TRANSIT.—Goods in transit are at the seller's risk, and any damage or loss sustained on the journey must be borne by the seller. But goods not approved of must be properly packed and returned by the same means as were used in sending the same.

9.—PAYMENT OF CARRIAGE.—The payment of carriage must be a matter for arrangement between the vendor and depositor We do not undertake to settle disputes affecting questions of carriage. But in the absence of other arrangements the purchaser is liable for the carriage of the goods, and if the goods are sent on approval and returned, each party pays the carriage one way.

10.—DISPUTES.—In case of a dispute, the decision of the Editor is final.

IMPORTANT.

SEND THE FULL COMMISSION.—If the full commission does not accompany the deposit, the vendor will not be notified of its receipt until the amount deficient plus the extra postage incurred has been paid to us.

HOW TO REMIT.—Under no circumstances will Cheques or Post-dated Money Orders be accepted as deposits. Uncrossed Postal Orders must be sent and the numbers taken for safety.

NOTICE TO BIRD PURCHASERS.

It is advisable that all newly-purchased birds, especially foreign birds, be kept isolated from established stock for a week or ten days, until by their condition they establish the fact that they are thoroughly healthy.

SOUTH BIRMINGHAM O.S.

Fourth annual members' show, Dec. 26, Marlboro' Hotel, Small Heath. A most satisfactory entry was received, and the attendance was very good. Competition for the silver cups of the society and the many splendid specials brought some fine birds out, Yorkshires again being well to the front, and the finest seen for a long time graced the show Benches. Great praise is due to show manager, G. Bayliss, and stewards Messrs. Hickling, Yardley, Harding, Burke, Barron, and Cowley, who had all nicely arranged for Judge Roe, whose awards gave every satisfaction. Cup winners: Champ., Mr. Cowley; nov., Mr. Thomson; Brit. cup, Mr. Raby (outright). Special winners: Messrs. Burke, Harding, Cowley, Luckman, Barron, Hickling and Raby. Decided to invite the members of the Blaenavon Society to compete under the same conditions as our own members. Sec. reported the business settled at the Welsh National show meeting of Dec. 21, and it was decided that Mr. Cooper and Mr. Mortimer were to act as judging stewards at the Welsh National how. Now, members, rally up to the next meeting, Prince of Wales' Hotel, Jan. 20, at 6.30. Only members clear on the books will be allowed to compete at the Welsh National at the reduced entry fee.—H. H. Mortimer, Hon. Sec.

BORDER FANCY C.C.

Annual general meeting, Scottish National Showroom, Jan. 1, with a good attendance. Mr. George W. Brown, president, in the chair. The balance-sheet was gone over, and showed an income, including balance from 1913, of £53 13s. 8d., and an expenditure of £34 1s. 2½d., leaving a balance in favour of the club of £19 12s. 5½d. On the motion of Mr. Lumsden, seconded by Mr. Gentleman, the secretary was unanimously granted a salary of £5 per year, which is included in expenditure. Sec. thanked the members on behalf of Messrs. Richardson and Jamieson for the handsome way they contributed to the testimonial, and gave a full statement of same, which was heartily approved of. Motion for standard show cage was brought forward, and after some discussion the members decided that we had a standard show cage, and on a vote this was allowed to remain as at present. On the motion to alter clear or ticked to clear or foul, an amendment was carried that it remain as at present. Motion that class number label be the only label allowed on show cage, members could not see how this could work in cases of members competing for any special which required to have a label to quality for same, but members recommend that class number labels should be fixed directly under perch away from the drinker. Motion that any society running variegated classes, cock or hen in one class, do not get patronage, caused a great amount of discussion, and it was agreed by a majority that we ask for better classification in variegated section and also green classes. Motion that five members be appointed at this meeting to meet on the last Saturday in August to grant club patronage and help in any way in the interest of the club, was unanimously carried, and the following were elected: Messrs. Geo. Bennet (Kelso), J. Patterson, sen. (Chirnside), M. Jamieson (Hawick), Jas. Lumsden (Edinburgh), W. Dods (Edinburgh). A few new members were proposed. Election of office-bearers resulted in unanimous re-election. Mr. H. Bennet and Peter McKenzie, Kelso, were appointed auditors. The president was awarded a very hearty vote of thanks for the great interest he had taken in the club during the year. There being no other business the meeting closed. New delegate for Carlisle, Mr. G. Meekley, 8, Maryport Cottages, Carlisle.—Walter B. Smart.

LEICESTER (Hand-in-Hand).

Meeting Jan. 5, Mr. Gibbins presided over a large attendance. Several minor items were dealt with. Decided to guarantee the usual advertisement in CAGE BIRDS. Cups were handed to winners: Challenge Cup, W. Henmry; "Westby" cup, E. C. Brooks; Young Bird cup, E. H. Hulse (5th consecutive year). Recipients suitably replied. In spite of the early closing it was decided to continue the night shows. Birds to be staged by 7.45. Mr. Sarson was elected to judge next Table Show, Charity Show was fixed for Jan. 30. Officers for 1915 were elected.—A. Freestone.

PORTOBELLO C.B.S.

Meeting, Masonic Hall, Tower Street, when the following officials took up their duties for the year: Pres., Mr. T. K. Vass; vice-pres., Mr. A. Matthew; treas., Mr. J. Small; sec., Mr. William Baxter, 20, King's Road, together with a streng committee of well-known fanciers. After discussion it was unanimously agreed to extend the boundary and admit members residing in the following area: Purshill on left side of tramway line to Willowbrae Road, Duddingston, Craigmillar, Cauldcotes, Niddries Mills, Jewel Cottages, Newcraighall, and all Fisherrow on Portobello side of river. Fanciers residing in above area are cordially invited to become members. Next meeting we hope to have a pair show; date will be duly announced, when we will be glad to see intending members.—William Baxter, Sec.

HALIFAX O.S.

Annual meeting, Headquarters, Plummit Line Hotel, Jan. 9; Mr. Lord, chair, before a good attendance. Balance sheet for the open show held in November was brought forward and considered very satisfactory, seeing the opposition we had brought to bear against us. Balance-sheet for the year's working was then placed before the members, and seeing that we had only gone down slightly on the year's working, it was considered very satisfactory. We regret to state that there are a few outstanding subs, yet due from members for 1914, which, if they had been paid, would have balanced things up. Officials elected for 1915:—Pres., Mr. H. Lord, vice-pres., Mr. D. A. Macpherson, Mr. J. Robertshaw, and Mr. S. Haigh; sub-committee, Messrs. F. Burdekin, R. E. Helliwell, J. Mottram, W. H. Ball, J. A. Dunn, T. Pilling, and P. Child; auditors, H. Lord and M. L. Sharp; steward, N. Scruton, trustees, T. Pilling and J. Mottram; assist. sec., J. Burdekin; sec., H. Clegg. Proposed that we hold our 25th annual show on Nov. 19 and 20. The sub-committee was instructed to draw up a syllabus for the year to place before the members at next meeting, Feb. 6. Any fellow fancier willing to join our society should do so as early as possible, so that he can get his name and address in the syllabus for the year. Annual moker and presentation of prizes will be held Jan 15, at Plummit Line Hotel, commence at 7.30 prompt. All members and friends will have a hearty welcome. Harry Clegg, Sec., 19, Melrose Street, Lee Mount, Halifax.

CINNAMON C.C.

Members kindly note that patronage has been granted to the Welsh National Show, at Cardiff, Feb. 5, 6, 8. This being their first venture I trust all our members will rally round and make it a great success by filling the four classes so kindly allotted to us. Surely the officials are deserving of a good response by venturing under such trying times, and I hope that this appeal will meet with all our members' approval.—W. E. Seed, Sec.

OPEN NORWICH C.C.

The following are the names of winners for the various competitions, season 1914-15:—Open: Champ.: 1, W. Crawshaw, 149 points; 2, J. Thomas, 127; 3, A. Hirst, 97; 4, W. A. Wilson, 7. Amat.: 1, Jas. Wilson, 8; 2, 3, 4, not won. "Percy Illingworth" cup and "Joe Thomas" rose-bowl, Mr. W. Crawshaw; "Edwin Hattersley" cup, Mr. W. A. Wilson; "Ramsden's Special" Champ., Mr. J. Thomas; Amat., Mr. Jas. Wilson. Members who have not paid sub. for 1914-15 please forward same without delay and oblige.—F. Rhodes, Sec.

SHEFFIELD C.B.S.

Annual meeting, Jan. 3, Wentworth Cafe; Mr. F. Jones (president) chair. Ballot for officials and committee resulted as follows:—Pres., Mr. F. Jones; vice-pres., Messrs. T. Hemming, W. Bingham; treas., W. Oxley; sec., A. Hobson; assist. sec., E. Sisson; auditors, Messrs. J. W. Varley, H. Hobson; committee, J. Woolhouse, W. T. Furness, G. Drabble, W. H. Champion, L. Fallding, W. H. Webster, C. W. Hobson, T. Tow, A. Bailey, P. Walsh, J. Curley, A. W. Sparks, H. Hobson. Members who have sold their gilt birds from the annual show are requested to hand money to sec. Several very important recommendations were made to the meeting, which no doubt more will be heard of at next meeting. A vote of condolence was passed to our esteemed member, Mr. T. Tow, in his illness, also votes of thanks to our late assist. sec., Mr. J. Woolhouse, past members of committee, stewards at annual show, and all members and friends who have helped to make the season 1914 such a success. Table show was held, the following being the awards.—NOV., YELLOW.: 1, Sisson; 2, Woolhouse; 3, Wragg; 4, vhc, Curley; hc, Sparkes; c, Varley. BUFF: 1, Sparkes; 2, Wragg; 3, Marcroft; 4, Sisson; vhc, Curley; hc, Woolhouse; c, Varley.—J. Woolhouse, Sec.

CLAPHAM C.B.A.

Annual General Meeting, Jan. 6. Sec. produced the medals he had purchased for the Association. Sec. read a letter from Mr. Vale, regretting his unavoidable absence, and it was resolved that the vice-chair., Mr. H. Yeoman, should preside. Sec. gave a summary of the work done during last year, and announced that the Association would begin this year with a balance of cash in hand of £11 3s. 9½d. The meeting warmly congratulated Mr. Hose upon his being able to put such figures before them, and Mr. Hose, in responding, said that he regarded it not only as a pleasure, but also as an honour to be entrusted with the secretarial duties of such a great and powerful Association, and although he was not getting any younger, and did not enjoy the best of health, the Association could rely that he would at all times do his best to prove himself worthy of the confidence that the Association had reposed in him. Mr. Bloomfield, Streatham, was nominated for membership. Messrs. Vale and Yeoman were re-elected chairman and vice-chair., and Messrs. Cooper and Snook auditors. The following were elected on committee—Messrs. Allen, A. Hollon, J. W. Hathaway, Morris, Phillips, A. G. Snook, W. J. Silverthorn, E. J. Whittome, Easterling, Hy. Yeoman, A. R. Coe, F. Clark, A. Emms, W. J. Francis, E. Hattaway; Madame M. A. Feist-Madewell, Messrs. C. Cooper, C. T. Maxwell, Nicholls, and W. H. Vale. Meeting adjourned until Jan. 19, at 8, at Clock House, Clapham Park Road, when it is to be hoped that more members will make it convenient to attend, as of late our meetings have not been so big as we should have liked them to have been.—A. R. Coe, Press Corres.

SHEFFIELD C.B.S.

Meeting Jan. 8, Mr. Jones presiding. This being the first meeting of the year, the president took the opportunity of wishing the members, as far as possible, a happy New Year. A pairing competition had been arranged, and several of the members brought birds. After Mr. T. Tow (whom we were pleased to see well again) had paired the birds according to his own selection, nearly all the members tried their skill. Mr. L. Woolhouse succeeded in placing all the pairs correctly, while Mr. J. Woolhouse and Mr. G. Gill were the runners-up, several of the cracks only gaining one point. Mr. Tow afterwards gave his views as to his placing of the birds, which were well received. During the competition Mr. Jones and Mr. Hemmings gave a few minutes' chat on their methods of feeding their stock. Mr. Jones mentioned that he spoke for "the" Canary (Yorkshire), but of course some of the members dissented, as the Norwich section was well represented. Mr. Hemmings gave one or two very good ways of providing green food for the early season. Both these gentlemen's remarks were interesting, and formed a feature of the meeting. For next meeting, Feb. 5, it was decided to have a matched pair show, two classes for each section, also a class for Crests. A good sum was promised to augment the prize money, as well as for the best pair and best vhc. This should be an inducement to members to bring their birds, and so keep the enthusiasm of the society running during the year 1915. Messrs. C. D. Austin and A. Simpson were elected members. A vote of thanks to Mr. Tow brought an interesting and enthusiastic meeting to a close.—E. Sisson, Assist. Sec.

LEEDS C.B.S.

Annual general meeting, Jan. 2, Mr. H. J. Mennard chair. Decided to hold our tea, concert and prize distribution on Feb. 6 in the St. Cuthbert's Schoolrooms, Beeston Hill, tickets 1s. 6d. each, tea on the table at 5.30 p.m. Tickets may be obtained from the sec. or any member of the committee. The following officers were elected:—President, W. Hall, Esq.; vice-presidents, Messrs. E. Hattersley and Wm. Greenwood; committee, Mr. H. J. Mennard, chair, Mr. J. Chambers, vice-chair, Messrs. E. Hattersley, T. Baldwinson, W. A. Wilson, H. Chew, W. Hornby, J. Owen, C. E. Hall, J. Livingstone, E. Reed, W. Waind, H. Simms, hon. treas., Mr. E. Middleton; assist. hon. sec., Mr. A. G. Rhodes; hon. sec., E. Norton. Mr. J. Chambers kindly offered to assist sec. during the absence of Mr. Rhodes who is serving with the 5th West Yorks, stationed at York. It was decided that members serving with the colours be kept clear on the club's books until their return. Passed that novice rule be altered, which now reads: A novice is one who has not previously won his novice medal, three first prizes in novice classes, one first prize in champion classes at members' show, or one first prize at any open show. A member commencing the season as a novice may show as a novice until the end of the season. Passed that sec. accepts no entries for members' shows after the time stated in schedule, and that sec. posts a list of exhibitors and number of entries on to the chairman first post after closing of entries. This brought a fairly well attended meeting to a close.—Ernest Norton, Hon. Sec.

Mr. H. Clegg, hon. sec., writes that the 26th annual open show of the Halifax O.S. is fixed for Nov. 19-20 next.

The Plymouth W.C.O.S. show will be held on Oct. 12 and 13 next. The judges appointed are Messrs. C. A. House and J. Robson.

Will members of the Norwich Plainhead Club who have not yet paid their subscription for last year kindly forward same on, writes Mr. F. Cunliffe, the sec.

We hear that all prize-money has been paid for Great Horton and Ardwick and Manchester. Any exhibitor who may have been overlooked should apply to the respective secs.

Kindly inform the many inquirers re Bathgate show date, writes Mr. Alex. Nicol, sec., that the show is to be held on Feb. 27. The proceeds will go in aid of the Belgian and Red Cross Funds.

The writer of last week's article, "The Selection of Norwich and Yorkshire breeding pairs," Sergeant A. Thomas, has removed from Frimley to Langley Common Farm, Barkham, Wokingham.

Mr. W. Harrison, the sec. of Wolverhampton show, writes that if intending exhibitors will notify him what train they send their birds by he will meet train and see that the birds are immediately taken to show room.

Mr. F. Hayward, hon. sec. Manchester and N.C.O.S., writes that the annual members' show of the society will be held on Feb. 7 at the Northern Homing Club, 32, Victoria Street, City, and the nest feather show on July 3.

Will members please note, writes Mr. F. W. Capell, sec. Croydon F.A., that nomination of officers for 1915 should be forwarded to me at once (not later than 20th inst.) to enable list of nominations to be sent out to each member with notice convening meeting, as per Rule 4.

A special meeting of the Swansea C.B.A. will be held on Jan. 21 at 7.30, at Market Coffee Tavern. Cage-bird fanciers around the district are heartily invited to attend, writes Mr. A. Hitchings, sec. pro tem., to try and reform the old society and bring it back to its former pre-eminence.

The annual general meeting of the Scottish Roller C.C. will be held Jan. 16 in Neilson's Temperance Hotel, Ingram Street, Glasgow, at 6 p.m., writes the sec., Mr. J. Macconald (169, Glasgow Street, Adrossan). All Scottish Roller fanciers desirous of becoming members are cordially invited.

A slight mistake occurs in your report of Scottish National show, writes Mr. J. H. Buchan. 3rd prize Belgian, 1914 bred, was not "claimed catalogue price," as stated, it being the bird I am advertising now. Mr. D. Hunter writes also that he won 6th in Crest 20s. sell, not Mason as printed.

In the report of Wishaw show, 1st Norwich hen should be Haston, not Houston, as printed, and owing to a dropped line after the report of the Hybrid class, the heading of the Foreign Goldfinch and Bullfinch class was omitted. 1st in this class was J. Campbell, 2nd W. P. Campbell, and the rest as printed.

I have sent out over 600 schedules to known fanciers, writes Mr. Geo. Reed, sec. Brandon Colliery C.B.S. (35, Newcastle Street). Anyone overlooked can have one by applying. We trust fanciers will rally up and give us a good entry; we are paying prize-money on day of show to fanciers present.

The annual members' show of the Wimbledon C.B.S. will be held at the Queen's Hall, Queen's Road, on Jan. 19. 46 classes are provided, and the list of specials enumerates no less than 49 extra prizes, including three silver challenge cups and a trophy for most points during the three members' shows of the season.

The attention of Norwich and Yorkshire breeders is directed to the extensive classification given at the show to be held in Glasgow on Jan. 22 and 23, the schedule for which is published in our issue this week. Entries may be made from this schedule and forwarded to the sec. There is an extensive "specials" list for novices and other competitors. A hearty response is solicited to ensure the venture of success.

We hear that the show due at Driffield on Jan. 8 and 9 unfortunately had to be cancelled, owing to lack of support.

Mr. J. Broxup, the well-known Burnley dealer, writes that he has removed from 24, Pendle St., Burnley, to 24, Hulme St.

Haltwhistle and Dist. C.B.S. intends holding its annual open show on Feb. 3, judges Messrs. W. C. Duncan and A. Holden, writes Mr. Wm. Tallantyre, the sec.

Will all members of the Great Horton Good Intent O.S. who have not already paid their subscriptions please do so at once, so that balance-sheet can be prepared for the general meeting, Feb. 6, writes Mr. A. Firth, the sec.

I have resigned the secretaryship of the Pudsey, Stanningley and Dist. C.B.S., writes Mr. H. Raistrick. Mr. R. Kell has been appointed the position, and all correspondence should be addressed to him at his address, Vickersdale View, Stanningley.

I desire to offer an apology to those customers whose kind orders have been delayed through my recent serious illness, writes Mr. W. Pimm, Icknield Port Rd., Birmingham, and to thank kind inquirers for their good wishes. I am now "in the pink again," and can give my usual prompt attention to all orders.

Winning Border Changes Hands.

I have just sold my buff cinnamon Border Fancy hen, 1st prize Scottish National show, to that well-known breeder and exhibitor, Mr. Wm. Haddow, of this town, writes Mr. Dan Hamilton (of Hamilton). I may say that I had several offers for her at the above show. I wish her new owner success with her.

Mr. John Tyson Ill.

We regret to hear that Mr. John Tyson, that very well-known and respected fancier, and manager of the late Horticultural Hall show, has been laid up by severe illness for over a fortnight, and is still quite unable to attend to any business, which, however, he hopes to tackle once again in a very short time. Mr. Tyson's hosts of friends in the Fancy will join us in wishing him complete and speedy recovery.

A Thought for Fanciers at the Front.

It will be remembered that some time ago that enthusiastic bird-lover, the Hon. Mrs. Bourke, very kindly offered to look after the birds of anyone called to the Colours, during their absence at the Front. We are glad to know that this lady's kindly thought met with appreciaion; 53 birds belonging to soldiers and other members of our gallant forces are being carefully tended, pending the return of their owners.

Aberdeen Show Report.

When referring to the above in our last issue, we stated that no catalogue had reached us, although applied for. The secretary, Mr. W. Allison, writes that this is not so, as no request for one was received by him. We are glad to have and publish Mr. Allison's disclaimer. Our request (sent a day or so prior to his society's show) evidently went astray in the post. It was posted along with applications for the catalogues of other shows held round about the same date, all of which have duly come to hand.

The Aviculural Society.

This society is established for the study of British and Foreign birds in freedom and captivity. Any who are interested in birds (Canaries not included) are invited to send in their names to be proposed as candidates for election. The subscription is 10s. per annum, and the entrance fee 10s. 6d. "The Avicultural Magazine" is sent free to members monthly. This contains beautifully coloured plates of many species of British and foreign birds, as well as black and white illustrations and reproductions of photographs. Articles and notes are published which are written by experienced and well-known aviculturists and ornithologists. Those who wish to join the society are asked to communicate with the Editor of the magazine, H. D. Astley, Esq., Brinsop Court, Hereford.

Good Business.

The accounts of the City and Suburban A.C.B. are in a very flourishing and satisfactory condition, evidenced by the audited balance-sheets sent us by the painstaking hon. sec., Mr. V. Wynn, and the members are to be congratulated on the past season's work. Mr. Wynne remarks: "Considering the circumstances we have lately been living under, the Association has been extremely fortunate in having only two fewer members paid up than last year. Further, after purchasing a No. 8 Remington typewriter, our cash in hand is £3 3s. more than last year. The members at the meeting last night unanimously voted for a half page advertisement in the forthcoming CAGE BIRDS ANNUAL." [We heartily thank the members; and venture to hope that other societies will help along our "Annual" in a similar manner.—EDITOR.]

ZOO DRAMA OF THE "GERMAN" EAGLE.

Lammergeier Whose Prussian "Frightfulness" was Not a Success.

When the war broke out the Lammergeier at the Zoological Gardens was in a great state of excitement. She proudly ruffled her feathers, spread out her large, cruel-looking claws and made jeering noises at the other birds.

For, under the queer nom-de-plume of Lammergeier, she was really a German Eagle, and "bearded" at that. Moreover, the large letters on the plate outside her cage stated that Germany was her birthplace.

It was nothing to her what the other birds said or what the visitors said—her likeness was imprinted on the Imperial flag of the Fatherland; and what other inhabitant of the Gardens could boast of that?

To-day the poor Lammergeier is dead. The taunts and gibes of her fellow Eagles and Vultures killed her—she simply pined away.

Eerie in the Eyrie.

For a week or so she tried to terrify her neighbours with a sort of "war frightfulness," but—it did not go down. After that came the decline.

Two British Golden Eagles—one from Rossshire and the other from Sutherland—were the first to resent the arrogant attitude of the Lammergeier.

"What is a Lammergeier?" said one, peering superciliously into the enemy's cage.

"I always thought it was a piece of cheese," returned the other.

Other Eagles and Vultures soon joined in the fray. The majority of them hailed from British dominions overseas, and they were loyal to Great Britain from the tips of their beaks to their very tail feathers.

Bird with "The Blues."

"Miserable little Sparrow!" cried the handsome Tawny Eagle from South Africa. "I only wish I could get through the bars—I would soon make short work of you!"

To all this criticism the Lammergeier tried to be indifferent for some days. She flapped up and down her cage looking terribly fierce.

"Mother, do come here—here is a bird from Germany," boys and girls would cry. "Why, it must be a German Eagle. Oh, you horrid, conceited old thing! I hope they do not give you any more meat and that they let you die."

"So that is a German Eagle," elderly men would say. "What a miserable looking bird. It looks like an overgrown chicken!"

To make things worse the feathers would come out of the Lammergeier's tail, giving her a most undignified scarecrow appearance. That was the finishing touch to her pride—she gradually succumbed on her perch.

All the big birds of prey are still talking about the Lammergeier. They now have suspicions about a South American Condor, who is alleged to have said that "it was a shame!" and that the German Eagle "was as good as anybody."—"Daily Mirror."

An announcement which should have the careful attention of all bird-keepers, bird-dealers, and traders generally appears on page 11.

By W. E. TESCHEMAKER, B.A.

HOW few undertakings there are—either in aviculture or in the battle of life—which prove on closer acquaintance to be easier than we had anticipated! Youth is a land of dreams—of long, long dreams; but how few of those dreams are ever realised! Nevertheless, the dreamer may be considered a fortunate person; he escapes many of the dismal realities of life, and now and again his dreams are proved in the most startling manner to be practical possibilities. Witness the aeroplane and submarine.

Let it be granted then that the progressive aviculturist must have dreams, or, at all events, ideas. Many of these ideas will be destined to fail, but some will prove a brilliant success. For aviculture is a kind of adventure; it is for the most part an unexplored land, and no one can predict what those who have the courage to explore may find round the corner. I came across rather an interesting instance of this the other day.

PLAN OF Mr. TESCHEMAKER'S AVIARY.

A well-known aviculturist, not unconnected with the Zoo, remarked in "The Field" that the breeding of the Australian Blue Wren was one of the most remarkable achievements which had come under his notice. It seemed a safe remark to make, and few indeed would not have agreed with it. Nevertheless, close upon the heels of this pronouncement appeared an interesting article in a contemporary (by G. A. Heumann), describing the domestication of some species of native insectivorous birds in a New South Wales aviary, in which the writer said (speaking of the Blue Wren): "Once they are used to the new surroundings and food they live well and breed easily; they will then feed their young on almost anything soft. They seldom get a mealworm from us, and yet the young thrive quite well." One certainly would not have guessed that such a fairy-like little sprite would have reared its young on "cake" and "raw minced beef," but, as I said above, aviculture is mostly an unexplored land.

A Long-Cherished Dream.

The breeding of the Spotted Flycatcher has been one of my own avicultural dreams for a number of years past, but I never counted upon seeing it realised. I think this particular dream had its origin in an account I once read of the "meating off" of a Spotted Flycatcher, the process including the daily capture of innumerable "blue-bottles" from window panes and much hand-feeding. The experiment was only continued for a short time on account of the great labour involved, but the experimentalist evidently thought that he had not done badly to keep the bird in good health even for that short time. You may therefore imagine my astonishment when the first Flycatcher that I personally experimented with not only survived the "meating off" process, but lived through one of our long, dark winters in an outdoor (but heated) aviary, and was released in moderately good condition in the following spring.

What made the experiment more noteworthy was that the bird was sent me directly after capture in a very small and very dark box with nothing whatever to eat but some crushed hemp-seed. It was, needless to say, in a state of complete collapse, and evidently on the very verge of that dark river which none of us may recross, but after a "wee drap" of Scotch whisky (the very finest specific for this purpose known to the writer) and some patient hand feeding with mealworms, it made a remarkable recovery. It never, however, looked happy, though feeding well, and I may here remark that unless an insectivorous bird has been skilfully handled during the first few days of its captivity, it never will look happy, and never will be of any permanent use to its owner. There are some mistakes which Nature never forgives.

Pied Flycatchers in Captivity.

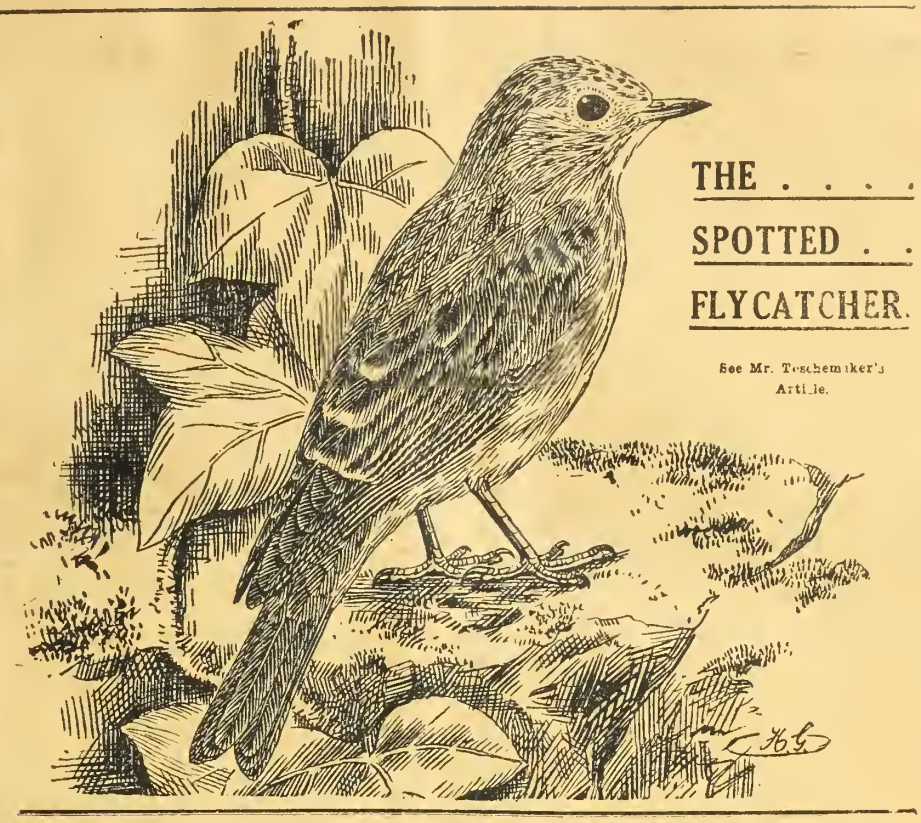
The above experiment therefore can only be called a qualified success; and the next, though it promised well, had an unfortunate termination. One fine September a number of Pied Flycatchers crossed the North Sea and landed on the sand-dunes near Great Yarmouth, where they were taken with ordinary spring net-traps, baited with a mealworm. Mr. W. Lowne sent me three, and two reached me from another source. They had all been thoroughly well handled, and were as lively as lively could be. Charming little birds they were, with dark brown backs and white breasts, much more compact than their spotted cousins and twice as active.

Instead of flirting the tail, which, as I pointed out in a former article (on the White Wagtail), is an almost invariable habit of those insectivorous species which prey on swiftly-moving insects, and which serves the purpose of keeping the muscles in tension, ready for instantaneous movement, these Flycatchers used to flirt their wings. It was delightful to watch them in the winter aviary. In cold weather they used to spend a good deal of their time in the heated shelter which was light and airy with glazed sides; but they also had the free use of an outdoor flight 45ft. long, and this was where you were sure to find them on a sunny morning. Absolutely tame, they would perch within a few inches of the observer, the long, pointed wings intermittently lifted with a rapid jerk above the back and fully extended.

Dead Shots.

Suddenly the keen bright eyes are riveted on a distant gnat, invisible to the observer. Up go the wings with a flip; another flip; then silent, gliding, but swift as a flash of light, the little feathered arrow is launched into the air. You can hear the beak close with a snap; the arrow turns and comes back to its starting point; the wise little head is cocked on one side and turned triumphantly towards the observer, as though to say: "Got him, my boy; and first shot."

In order to provide sufficient exercise, all mealworms were thrown into the air, and visitors were often challenged to try to beat the Flycatchers by throwing a "mealy" in any direction they liked and at any speed.



THE . . . . SPOTTED . . FLYCATCHER.

See Mr. Teschemaker's Article.

But the 'Catchers always won. Some visitors, who were fortunate enough to see the five 'Catchers start simultaneously from different points of the compass and cannon into one another "at the death," said that it was almost as brisk a thing to watch as a football scrum.

We got through the winter famously, but, as it proved, it was this very diversion which led up to the ultimate failure of the experiment. The spirit of rivalry became keener and keener; also, when one 'Catcher cannoned into another, the latter did not forget it. Gradually they began to fight, mildly at first, then furiously; then the stronger birds began to drive the weaker ones out of the heated shelter at roosting time, so that, after one frosty night, we had to hold two inquests. Finally only one was left; he was very fit, but quite useless to us without a mate, so, one warm spring day, we opened the aviary door and threw a mealworm swiftly through the open door. The 'Catcher flew swiftly after it to take his place once more in the wide world.

The Kind of Aviary Required.

In aviculture one can only expect to acquire wisdom slowly, and by the somewhat tedious process of selection and rejection of methods, so that I did not regard the time spent in the above experiments as wasted. I had ascertained that it is not difficult to "meat off" either of our Flycatchers, but that it is inadvisable to keep either of them in captivity during the winter; also that the Spotted Flycatcher is a peaceable species, but the Pied a fighter.

A Flycatcher's Paradise.

However, in 1912 I obtained three Spotteds in May and placed them in the corridor of the summer aviary, the size and shape of which are shown in the accompanying plan. This was designed partly as a means of observing birds closely when nesting, and also as a suitable place for breeding those species which love a wall. The corridor is 5ft. wide and 12ft. high, and forms the space between the aviary proper and the wooden palisading, 7ft. high, which screens the aviary from wind. Against this wooden palisading are trained peach and plum and cherry trees, and there are a few standard pear and apple trees in the centre of the space. Golden-eyed Babblers (an Indian species) nested here, making a wonderful felted nest of pieces of string and worsted teased out, and some other species. For Flycatchers it was a paradise, for, in the first place, all the flies in my garden seem to select the palisading for the purpose of sunning themselves, and in the second place, you must have noticed how all 'Catchers love a wall.

One cannot hope to breed a shy species unless one places it in surroundings which will make it feel quite at home; therefore one has to carefully study the small things which make all the difference. Notice then that, in the first place, we have here a sunny wall covered with flies. Secondly, that the corridor is not straight, but bent at a right angle in the middle; nothing frightens birds so much as to find themselves cooped up in a narrow, straight place, because when anyone approaches them they have to pass over the latter's head. Thirdly, notice how the doors are placed, so that in whichever wing of the corridor the birds may happen to be, one can always enter it without disturbing them by selecting a door in the other wing.

A Breeding Pair Obtained at Last.

I did not succeed in inducing the 'Catchers to breed that summer, but they did so well and looked so bonnie when I turned them out after the moult, that I decided to have another try. Last spring, therefore, I wrote to various trappers and experts, but none seemed able to help me, so that I had at last to fall back upon birds imported from Germany. I may here remark, without comment, that when, last spring, one of a pair of Wrens, which had commenced to nest, escaped, I entirely failed to obtain a substitute in this country, and one well known expert expressed the opinion that an adult Wren could not be "meated off" in summer; but, when I wrote to Berlin, I obtained without the least difficulty, two freshly caught birds, both of which prospered exceedingly, and from one of which a young Wren was bred and fully reared.

AN OWL'S FRIENDSHIP WITH A DOG.

SIR,—A few days ago I happened to come across a birdy friend, a staunch supporter of the British Softbills, large and small, and he stated he had a surprise for me. I received an invitation to see his new venture in the bird world. On arriving at my destination I was shown a nice outside aviary made specially for its occupant, which was an Owl, in beautiful condition.

During the summer months a nest of Owlets was found in a wood a few miles from here, and my friend decided to have one, so when they were ready he took one and reared him, and he is a real family pet. He has been named "Jimson," which you only need to whisper, and he will look at you and fairly pierce you with his large eyes.

The Owl is allowed its liberty, and loves to roam about. All at once you may miss him and think he has flown away. You can shout "Jimson," but he will take no notice. Look round, however, and behold you will find him with his boon companion, a smooth Airedale dog, in the kennel, as snug as two Doves, in perfect slumber! He will ride on the dog's back and walk about with him with an ease and freedom which are astonishing.

His diet is rather peculiar. My friend has a provision stores, so it is little trouble to feed him. You can give him a slice of your best ham or bacon, but he will not waste his time to even look at it. He will insist on his pound of flesh (with plenty of blood in it). His smell is very keen, and should you be cutting up his dinner he will let out a screech as would frighten any timid young lady. His diet consists of raw flesh only, foods such as liver and a rabbit's head or a live mouse are thoroughly enjoyed.

He is a keen bather. You can put the bath in the aviary at night for the following day, but he does not believe in waiting. He starts bathing at a minute's notice in candle-light! This owl is a charming pet. Whether he will stop when the spring comes round, however, and he wants a mate, I cannot say. I am afraid some fine spring morning he may leave to nest in yonder wood. The photo will speak for his condition.

A STUDY OF HEN NORWICH CANARIES.

Note the article by Mr. Norman printed below.

THE LADY IN THE CASE.

Our well-known artist lays stress on the value of good hens in the breeding room.

By H. NORMAN (Carshalton).

IN all live-stock breeding there has from time to time been considerable discussion respecting the merits of the sire or dam as influencing the show points of the progeny. Most people will admit that young ones have some resemblance in outward appearance to both their parents. The likeness to one of them may be exceedingly small; still, it is there, and that fact has to be remembered when mating time arrives.

In animal breeding the grandsire appears to find his good points crop up in his grand-children, and breeders of stock being fully aware of this fact are particularly careful in their matings, they do not forget him, and expect a certain proportion of his good qualities to be transmitted to the young.

In all animal breeding it appears to be the sire that is thought much of. It is his name that is quoted when speaking of the young; it is his pedigree that is handed down with succeeding generations. We bird breeders scarcely give him such an exalted position. We look upon our hens as of equal value from a breeding point of view. The opinion generally is that the hens influence the type of the young, and as type is of such vital importance to the would-be successful exhibitor, the producers of it are naturally taken every care of.

It therefore follows that in our breeding operations we should have the finest hens we can procure. We are not all, however, gifted with the necessary means to start with the very best, and must do the best we can with what we already have, and strive gradually to improve them until our ideal is reached. If a young fancier can see some advance in the type of his hens in each succeeding year he is without doubt upon the high-road to success.

The hen in the sketch showing roughness of feather at the thigh is one pretty frequently met with. She is not bad in type and if it were not for objectionable roughness would look considerably better. We have no hesitation in using her, but must not forget that even that little peculiarity can be transmitted to the young, and therefore if it is our desire to stamp it out of our stock, any youngsters retaining it should be disposed of. There are many worse faults, though, and we must be careful not to encourage another tiresome one when trying to get rid of this.

It is here that a well-kept stock-book evidences its value, although we may at times feel disinclined to continue to keep it entered up. If just before we mate up we look through it carefully, we shall find many items that will not only interest us, but have a beneficial influence upon our results.

Her Saving Point.

Possibly many fanciers would not breed with the cap-marked hen in the sketch; but if one has few others it is simply "Hobson's choice." She possesses a decent head and perhaps for that reason alone we feel that we must use her. Good heads may not be the strong points of our strain, and although many fanciers contend that the cock bird is responsible for this part of the young birds, I am sure the hen's part is not negligible.

One may not notice this if he has been breeding from decent-headed birds for several generations, but let him try the experiment of introducing a weak-headed hen into his strain and I am sure he will soon appreciate my point. It stands to reason that all fanciers cannot breed with good-headed birds: there would not be enough to go round; but where one is obliged to make use of stock not quite up to the mark in this respect care should be taken in after selections to retain only those birds which show an improvement.

Selection is the whole secret of successful breeding. What to retain and what to get rid of are very vital questions, and questions that only the thoughtful painstaking breeder can answer for himself. He knows his own stock best, their parents and grandparents, for all must be taken into consideration; and the further he can go back with his pedigree the better. If it is possible for a certain marking to crop up occasionally in the stock it should be a proof that other points are also being transmitted.

In building up our strain the merits of the hens should be closely valued. We should try if we possibly can to retain our best, selecting typical good quality birds year after year. And if we are fortunate enough to breed good hens from our best hens these should be retained, so that in time we shall get a strain we can rely on to produce good ones in the majority of their young.

'CAGE BIRD HYBRIDS'
THE STANDARD WORK ON THE SUBJECT.
By Chas. Houlton. Price 7s. 6d.
"CAGE BIRDS," 151, FLEET ST., LONDON, E.C.

GOOD AND BAD IN EXHIBITION GOLDFINCHES.

By C. PRIOR, (Ropley).

A leading judge, who has himself won numerous prizes with this species, helps all who exhibit his favourite to "sift the wheat from the chaff." An article written round Mr. Norman's coloured plate accompanying this issue.

ONCE again to the scribe's prosy pen falls the lot of supplementing as best it may the poetry of the artist's brush. For the coloured plate of Goldfinches presented with this issue of CAGE BIRDS—latest claimant to place in the bird lover's picture gallery—has an educational value equalled only by its artistic charm; and mine is the honour of indicating and discussing the strong and weak points of the various specimens depicted as they appear to me from the exhibitor's standpoint.

Inset are two young Goldfinches (which, as everyone knows, the fancier calls Greypates) apparently not long out of the nest. A glance suffices to discover their sex; they are cock and hen, brother and sister, of course. Sister sits modestly in the background, brother boldly offers himself for inspection.

WHITE BLACKBIRD SITTING ON NEST.
One of the three photographs referred to in the inscription to the Robin picture on page 17.

A smart little chap he is, and, so far as his quality may be estimated, a promising bird. But the blaze—all-important detail—is, of course, not yet there, and it is impossible to forecast what it will be like when it comes. He may be an ombryo champion, or he may turn out an utter waster, or he may occupy any intermediate position between the two extremes. Meanwhile his future, like Topsy's nativity, is "wrapt in mystery."

The plate proper introduces us to half a dozen fully adult Goldfinches, who have long since passed the interesting mystery period. The central figure of the six is a thoroughly representative example of the typical exhibition British Goldfinch. Take, first, his blaze; that is what the judge will do, no matter what percentage of points the standard allots to it.

Although presented to us sideways, we see at once that there is plenty of it. A front view would reveal width as well as depth, imparting to the whole face the desirable, though not entirely essential, property which we call square cut. The colour of this blaze is also excellent. It is crimson; rich, yet pure and bright; level, because unmixed with black, grey, or yellow splashes. The black line running from eye to base of beak is dense, solid, and narrow; if it were widened ever so little the blaze would be encroached upon, and a fault be recorded.

A Cardinal Virtue.

Examine, next, his body colour. The back is a solid nut brown, and this colour is continued also on to the side and down the flank. A little modified in density, it traverses the upper and lower portions of the breast, leaving a small patch of greyish white about at the centre of the chest. This brown colouring, which we refer to as tanning, is pure as well as rich; and indeed purity of colour throughout is one of the cardinal virtues of the show bird.

Now observe the easy, pleasing angle at which he stands. He has been snapshotted, so to speak, standing to attention. See how neatly he has brought his wings together, and how conspicuous and regular are their "buttons." This term explains itself, and the picture fixes the point more clearly than any words can hope to do. Do not, however, always expect him to land on his perch precisely thus. If he has no habitually faulty wing carriage, if he shows to his best advantage at certain critical moments, he may be allowed to drop his wings occasionally, or to cross them at the tips now and again.

Note also such minor points as these. His well displayed wing flights are of a tint midway between lemon and orange, his shoulder-butts are dense as his moustache, the black cap behind his blaze is clean cut and unbroken by misplaced speckling, and he has more size than any other of the lot. Then you have exhausted the chances of fault finding.

A Bird for the "Old-Timers."

To the left of our first subject is a Goldie of considerable merit, whose faults are comparative rather than positive. A red-hot jonque, he is the sort of bird to delight the hearts of many of our old timers, as representing the only class of Goldfinch which they could accept as really and truly British. Like most jonques of all species he is decidedly on the small side, even in length; and he emphasizes his already palpable lack of substance by striking the swaggering attitude of a Yorkshide Canary.

For the rest, he is every whit the equal of his predecessor. His blaze is equally pure and rich, and although actually less in extent is not proportionately so. His wings are perfection; his quality of feather tremendous. He is very heavily tanned, but this is hardly a fault. On the contrary, if rarity counts for anything it is an asset; because for every single Goldfinch that is overtanned, there will be a score not tanned enough. Let him but undertake an early and rapid moult, as he probably will, and he may be depended upon to beat far more than will beat him, at least during the first half of the show season. This because the superfine texture of his feather and the naturally rich store of colour in his system, starts him off in October with a polish of body and crimson of face that many better Finches cannot develop until December. A very useful bird.

Quite Out of It.

Alongside of the inset in the top, right-hand corner, the artist places a specimen of altogether different type. Although smallish he is nicely modelled on chubby lines, which is one clear point in his favour. His blaze, too, is fairly wide and square, as well as clear and bright in colour, albeit lacking the richness of the two central figures. But that black line running, like an ugly scar, from the base of his beak down to the corner of his blaze is a most unwelcome feature; he is "guttered" in a very pronounced fashion.

In addition to this, he is seriously short of chest tanning; could, in fact, take all that our little jonque friend has to spare, and still want more. His back, too, is failing in the proper warmth and solidity of nutty brown. Altogether his failings are such as must considerably discount his chances excepting in quite easy competition.

Lower down our attention is directed to the "slanging" match proceeding between a brace of angry scolds. The quarrel is not our affair, however, and the exchange of epithet is without interest for us. Our sole concern is to discover what are the disputants' qualifications for the show bench.

The one on the right does not bring many good points into the picture. First and foremost, his blaze is altogether too small and round. Then, his cheeks are not only of an undesirable chalky whiteness—compare them with those of the swaggering little jonque—but they are also too extensive; he has too much cheek, and no doubt the other fellow is telling him so.

A similar fault is apparent in the too conspicuous white band which divides the black cap of the head from the chestnut of the back. The less obvious this is the better, and the ideal is reached when it vanishes altogether, which is not often. There is also a certain comparative cloudiness of back colour. All these points, be it observed, are more or less secondary ones. No degree of excellence in them could ever carry him far into the prize list in company with a blaze of such insignificant dimensions.

A Regular Mixture.

The bellicose posture of the left-hand belligerent at once exposes the lack of correctness in wing-tippings—otherwise buttons—which a more normal deportment might, for a time, conceal. His "buttons" are small, indistinct, and irregular. The similar whitish tippings which should be just showing on the tail feathers are absent; a small matter in itself, which is quite in keeping with the more serious deficiencies it accompanies, but just worthy of note in passing. Taken all round, he is an epitome of the good, the bad, and the indifferent. He has plenty of substance, and, when on his best behaviour, should be a bird of good type. There is nothing to cavil at in his wing bars, and his tannings are all right; but the crescent at the nape of the neck is again too prominent.

The blaze, after all, is the deciding factor. Super-excellence in this direction would lift him clean out of the rut in spite of his minor failings. But although not bad, and certainly something better than indifferent, the blaze is by no means excellent. True, it is good and broad on top, passing the eye nicely and crossing the head in a perfectly straight line. On the other hand, the underblaze is not carried down far enough towards the breast; and although the outstretched neck makes this fault to appear more than it may actually be, the too much rounded-off corners will not mitigate it when he resumes a more normal pose. There seems to be, moreover, a decided tendency to "brassiness" in the blaze colouring which adds heavily to his other handicaps.

Must be a Hen.

Last under inspection, in the bottom right hand corner, is a specimen which, by all the rules that guide us in differentiating between the sexes, must be pronounced a hen. To exhibition quality of the male order it has no pretensions whatever. The pale, diminutive blaze, dull grey-brown body colour, short round head, thin little beak, small size, general lack of brilliance, the ragged edged, grey flecked cap; all these things point unmistakably in the same direction. In a class for hens we might imagine—but stop: our license doesn't extend to the indulgence of vain imaginings, so we leave this little pet in the corner where we found it.

The grey flecking on the head of this specimen prompts the observation that many good exhibition Goldfinches are not entirely free from a modification of this small defect. Although it is desirable to have the black portions of the head and neck as solid and even as possible, the presence of a foul feather or two should be regarded as of no importance, excepting only in deciding the issue of an exceptionally close race.

Having now completed his endeavour to interpret the skilfully rendered lessons of the artist, the scribe would like, before laying down his pen, to be allowed the privilege of making brief allusion to matters which, at this moment, are uppermost in the mind of all men. He would, in all honesty and without so much as the semblance of bitterness address a few words to the opponents of bird-keeping. They are these.

A Point for Consideration.

We have seen, in the stupendous happenings of these momentous times, how an entire people, having lost their sense of perspective are capable of riding roughshod over the liberties of other peoples; blatantly trampling upon their rights, and arrogantly denying them the most elementary principles of justice. This has been done in the name of culture and civilization. May it not be that what is possible to a whole nation in a national sense, is doubly and trebly possible to individuals in a domestic sense? The point is at least worth considering.

Further, he craves to give expression to the fervent wish which he knows will be echoed by every reader of CAGE BIRDS: May the year 1915 witness the glorious triumph of our Empire in the stern and desperate struggle she is maintaining to hold secure that freedom which is alike every Briton's birthright and most precious possession; and may every Englishman, in whatever sphere his lot be cast, make it his foremost personal duty to contribute his utmost endeavours toward that end.

And may the next anniversary of CAGE BIRDS' birthday find us celebrating with it the restoration of a blessed and honourable peace.

HOW MY SUNBIRDS CAME HOME FROM AFRICA.

By The Hon. Mrs. BOURKE.

HAVING been asked to contribute a few notes on the Sunbirds I brought home with me from Africa last year, I must first tell you that I am indebted to the kindness of Monsieur Peringhey, director of the Capetown Museum. This gentleman procured two pairs for me, a pair of Lesser Double-collared Sunbirds, and a pair of Malachite.

There are plenty about, if you know where to look, but they are very difficult to acquire, and I never could hear of any for sale, though no doubt private individuals keep them out there. They are protected in some parts, and also difficult to catch without spoiling their plumage, and a sticky bird, of course, is not fit to take on a long sea voyage.

Owing to the abnormal heat in the tropics last March, I lost the hen Malachite from heat-apoplexy, but the cock survived, and is with me to this day, resplendent in his metallic green plumage, always active, and singing throughout these dark, dreary days of a London winter, by electric light as well as though the sun were shining.

A Liking for Gnats.

They are fed on the usual mixture of Mellin's Food, honey and milk, with grapes, and any live insects I can obtain; though the Malachite prefers, above all other food, the gnats he could catch in the summer, on the wing, in a garden flight, into which he went every day when I was in the country. He comes out into the room in London, and has a bath and a fly round each day, returning to his cage of his own accord.

The chief difficulties in the way of getting them home are: (i.) the rules of the Union Castle Steamship Line, which are very strict, all birds having to remain in the butcher's shop. This is often lit by artificial light for many hours of the day, and when first caught the Sunbirds will not feed except by daylight, and so are apt to go too long without food. (ii.) The butcher has his work to do and cannot attend to the birds till after 9 a.m. (iii.) Many people do not believe that the milk mixture wants changing three or four times a day in hot climates, and it either congeals or goes sour.

Not Exactly Pleasant.

I used to change the pots of milk myself three times a day. The descent to the butcher's shop on a rough day, with the meat swinging about, was anything but a pleasure, but to doing this I attribute my success in landing the Sunbirds. The cock Malachite was nearly done when I got to Southampton last April, but I put him in a specially-heated cage (adapted for me by Mr. Andrew Wilson, of Argyll Street, Glasgow). In this he lived for three weeks at a temperature maintained at about 70 deg., and completely recovered.

He came into full colour in May, and so far (January) has not changed. I find this Malachite Sunbird a most charming pet, easy to keep, and very tame and confiding.

I feel that these notes are so inadequate that I must refer my readers to an excellent article on these and other Sunbirds in the "Avicultural Magazine" for 1914 (January number), called "My Sunbirds' Aviary," by "A Lover of Birds in France," which describes how to keep, feed, and treat them far better than I am able to do.

[By the kindly permission of the Editor, Mr. H. D. Astley, we are enabled to reprint the following extracts from the article of "A Lover of Birds in France." – Editor, "C.B."]

The floor of the Sunbirds' house is covered with sawdust, which is raked up daily and at intervals thrown away and replaced as necessity commands, for I may say here that if there is anything I believe in, where the keeping of birds is concerned, it is the strictest and most unceasing attention to hygiene and cleanliness. As the whole of the room where my birds are housed is whitewashed, dirt is easily rubbed or sponged off, and I boast of the fact that no "bird-smell" prevails anywhere.

All my Sunbirds get the usual mixture of Mellin's food, Nestle's milk and honey, as well as a little insectivorous food for the few Sugar Birds who share their home; then a variety of salads and ripe fruit—grapes, orange, pear, apple, banana, figs, etc. Twice a week I receive fresh from the country, in addition to some big roots of grass for my Finches, traveller's joy or other creeper, and this, besides furnishing all inmates with food and amusement, forms when being sprayed, their favourite bathing-place.

They love to alight on the wet foliage, some even seeking the spray, shaking their iridescent plumage, throwing out their golden shoulders, rubbing and brushing their feathers against the dripping leaves, then carefully combing them with their slender beaks. To this, and to the more thorough bath which they generally indulge in afterwards, in the trough provided for the purpose, also of course to the large space given them and which ensures them exercise, I attribute their faultless and brilliant plumage, their happy appearance, and their almost incessant singing.

Beautiful But Pugnacious.

Quarrels, unfortunately, there are, as most of these species are so spiteful by nature, but so far, there have been no serious rows beyond occasional bad words, owing no doubt to their being able to get away from each other, and also to the great number of feeders provided round the different sides of their enclosure. It is a pretty sight of a morning and after the daily cleaning process has taken place, to see them all crowding round the entrance door, waiting the appearance of the food tray, then perching all over it the moment it is carried into the aviary, each bird eager to be first served or to find his favourite feeder.

I am often asked which species of these lovely birds I like most. Indeed it is hard to say, though for combined grace of shape and attitude, charming plumage and brilliant song, perhaps the Malachite is my favourite —one of them especially, who from the first was always tame, and allows me to touch him without even trying to get away.

The Great Adventure.

But of my present collection, the gem is that rarest of rare birds, the Scarlet-chested or Southern Bifasciated Sunbird (Cinnyris mariquensis). This species inhabits the wilds of the lower parts of the Transvaal, and in order to procure it for me, as well as another charming one, the White-breasted Sunbird (Cinnyris leucogaster or Talatala) it was necessary for the birds, after capture, to be conveyed across the Transvaal Veldt for six wearisome weeks in a rough waggon; then followed a five days' journey in the train to the coast, and, lastly, the three weeks' sea journey home. Yet even some of those reached these shores in almost faultless condition, and to my mind this speaks well, not only for the well-known "pluck" and determination to live, which forms an interesting feature of these apparently frail birds, but also proves the care and diligent attention bestowed upon them by those to whom I owe so many of my finest and rarest specimens.

A pretty sight is to watch all these birds when it has been possible to obtain for them some branches of honeysuckle, bignonia, lethœa, or other flowers containing nectar. Some of them will perch on the blooms, twisting backwards and forwards into every conceivable position and attitude. Others, the Malachite for instance, enjoy hovering over the blooms, after true Humming Birds' fashion, all plunging their long beaks into the very heart of the flowers in order to extract the honey by means of their flexible tongue.

But they can also take solid food in the way of small insects—spiders, flies, green fly, etc., when in season—though in a few cases the mixture seems to be much more relished. Nearly all will also eat fruit, large pieces of the moistened sponge cake, like the Sugar-birds. As this is rather fattening, and one must beware of fits with all these genera, I find it necessary to dose all at times with a pinch of sulphate of soda dissolved in the syrup.

TROUBLES OF BIRD BREEDERS

AND HOW TO OVERCOME THEM.

Instructive short articles read in the recent Essay competition of the City and Suburban A.C.B.

Essay by A. FLEET (Upton Park).

Hens that refuse to feed their young often happen to be unlighted hens, and the cause of it is nervousness and anxiety on their part for their young. I find with other hens, and often these, too, that a dose of Epsom salts in the water for one day (about enough to cover a sixpence) starts them to feed.

Sweating Hens: This "sweating" may be caused by weakness, excess of maternal care, or by feeding too freely with green food, especially when dandeliens are used. Let the hen have a salt-water bath every day, and a dose of Epsom salts for one day (about enough to cover a sixpence). A thin strip of wood across the nest will present the hen from settling down closely and allow a current of air to pass between herself and young.

Preventing Clear Eggs.

Clear Eggs: Prevention is better than cure. If the birds are kept in the winter well supplied with cuttle fish bone and shell gravel, and given twenty drops of Parrish's chemical food in their water once a week, and egg-food with three drops of cod-liver-oil emulsion mixed amongst it, we should have no clear eggs.

Young birds found dead in shell: This is caused either by the failure of the hen to turn her eggs in the nest, or through lack of moisture—a daily bath towards the end of incubation will prevent the mishap, so far as moisture is concerned.

We must also remember that the nest pan should be placed in the most sheltered portion of the cage, then the hen will continually be reversing her position, also every time she returns to her eggs, she will turn them. But if the nest pan gets the full glare of the light, the hen will only sit in one position, and the eggs will seldom get turned.

Assisting the Hatch.

I have also found it a good practice to sprinkle the eggs every evening, when near hatching, with a little warm water. If this is done daily for the last five or six days that the hen is sitting, many young birds will break the shell which otherwise will not do so.

In dry seasons many youngsters are lost by the skin which envelops them becoming hard and dry; when in this state, it becomes fast to the young birds and adheres closely to the skin, so that it is impossible for the youngster to move to crack the shell. Those who are troubled in this manner should not neglect to give the sprinkling process a trial.

Broken Eggs: These are generally caused by the hen's claws being too long, or else by dirty feet.

My Crossbill "Charlie."

By MADAME FEIST-MADEWELL.

AS you have recently favoured "Charlie," my Crossbill, with his portrait (or correctly speaking picture) in dear old CAGE BIRDS perhaps you would like to know a little about him I have had him over two years and when I bought him he was a rough, poor little chap, harsh in feather, tail "playing cricket," and not looking worth twopence (although, of course, I gave more than that for him).

After I had had him a few days he began to make himself at home and amused himself destroying his perches. These I replaced with pieces of cane, much to his disgust, for, do all he could, it was quite impossible for him to make any impression on these, so he made up for it by eating and wasting as many seeds (mixed), monkey nuts, etc., as he possibly could.

When the time came for him to moult, oh, dear! I thought I had never seen such a "ragged Robin" before in my life. His feathers all stuck out and he developed a pair of trousers (or, rather, knickers) that came right down to his claws. So disreputable did he look that my husband said to me: "Surely you are not going to keep that thing?" You should have seen "Charlie" look at him. He seemed to say (like someone else we know) "Wait and see."

Since 1913 he has taken several prizes, among them 2nd at the L. and P.O.S. Holborn Hall Show, and 5th at the Horticultural Hall Show. Now he is resting on his laurels, waiting for the pair show of the L. and P.O.S., where he hopes to appear again and amuse himself with monkey nuts and chillies and tearing up the prize card which perhaps the judge will give him. (Perhaps not, let me add.)

THE WHEATEAR: OUR EARLIEST SPRING MIGRANT.

SOME HINTS ON PARROT KEEPING.

By The MARQUIS of TAVISTOCK.

His Lordship has made a special study of the Parrot family. We are indebted to the Editor of the "Avicultural Magazine," Mr. H. D. Astley, for permission to reproduce this informative article.

THERE are three ways of keeping Parrots—using the term "Parrot" in its widest sense to include everything from a Budgerigar to a Red and Yellow Macaw. They may be kept in close confinement in cages or on stands; they may be kept in aviaries; and they may be kept at complete liberty. The first method is the commonest and the most simple; the second is the most satisfactory and the most lucrative; the third is the most attractive and the most exasperating.

It must be borne in mind that all Parrots do not bear close confinement equally well, and many even of those which will survive for some years in cages are in reality quite unsuited to cage life. Anyone, therefore, who desires a Parrot as an indoor pet should make sure of getting a bird which is at least likely to turn out long-lived, contented and affectionate, even if there is not much hope of its ever possessing remarkable linguistic talents. Grey Parrots, Senegals, Amazons, Vasas, Cockatoos, Caiques, some Conures, Quaker Parrakeets, Brotogerys Parrakeets, and Budgerigars are all more or less suited to cage life. Some Polaornis Parrakeets (Ringnecks and their allies) also become very talented and amusing, but with this family the cocks only should be selected as pets. A hen Polaornis in close confinement is usually the dullest bird imaginable.

The Proper Kind of Cage.

A Parrot cage should be rectangular; a bell-shaped cage is apt to spoil the bird's plumage, as it is always rubbing and pressing its feathers against the bars whenever it climbs about. Most Parrot cages are provided with a swing, hanging from the top, and a kind of metal grating at the bottom. The swing may amuse the bird, but as often as not it only irritates it and gets in its way, in which case it is best removed.

The grating is a senseless contrivance which serves no useful purpose whatever. It in no way adds to the bird's comfort, and greatly increases the difficulty of keeping the cage clean. A sliding metal tray well covered with grit and sand is all that is required, and it is important to use enough sand to absorb the moisture from the droppings before it reaches the tray itself.

In the case of very valuable or delicate Parrots, a metal "shield," shaped like an empty book cover, is useful to put round the back and sides of the cage as a protection against draughts, but on no account should the cage be covered with a cloth at night. A large rectangular cage, three feet or more square, composed of wire netting on a metal framework and provided with detachable perches of hard wood, a shield of the kind above mentioned, a sliding zinc tray, and a small door in the front for the insertion of food, water and baths, will be found very useful for birds requiring a fair amount of wing and leg exercise. It is particularly suitable for new arrivals which need a period of rest and quarantine before they can safely be placed in an aviary, as well as for aviary birds which cannot be left out-of-doors during the winter months.

All Parrots should be kept constantly supplied with pieces of soft wood to bite up and amuse themselves with, and they should be allowed baths. An unglazed earthenware dish, shaped like a pie dish, makes the best form of bath. China dishes will do if nothing better is available, but they are too slippery and the birds are often afraid to step into them. Parrots which refuse to bathe should be gently sprayed or sprinkled with tepid water, or in summer put out in a shower of rain; they ought afterwards to be kept in a fairly warm place until quite dry. Budgerigars never bathe in the ordinary way, and may be provided with a piece of wet turf in which they are often fond of rolling.

Allow "Polly" Exercise.

Caged Parrots should, if possible, be allowed out daily for exercise. This is not, of course, absolutely necessary, but it is very beneficial, and all true bird-lovers wish their pets to find the conditions of captivity as little irksome as possible. It must be borne in mind that Parrots are very intelligent birds, loving variety and amusement, and that when in a wild state many species take a real pleasure in flying for its own sake, and do not merely employ their wings as a means of getting from place to place, and of escaping from the attacks of their enemies.

Macaws, on account of their huge size, cannot as a rule be accommodated in cages, and are usually kept chained by the leg to a stand. The spectacle of the unfortunate bird perpetually fastened to the same hard perch until its legs grow stiff and its wings lose their power is not a very agreeable one, and I would not therefore advise anyone to keep a Macaw unless it can be given plenty of liberty in or out of doors, or proper aviary accommodation.

Parrot-keeping in aviaries is, as I have said before, the most satisfactory and the most remunerative of the three methods. Not only do the birds usually appear happier and in more perfect plumage than when confined in cages, but there is also a fair chance of successful breeding, and a prolific pair of some rare species may constitute a substantial pecuniary asset to their fortunate owner.

The size of the aviary must, of course, depend upon the money and space available. As a general rule the larger it is the better the birds will thrive, but it must not be forgotten that more satisfactory results are usually obtained when each pair have a comparatively small compartment to themselves than when the whole stock is kept together in one large flight. At the same time, if the species and individuals are carefully chosen (never forget that with birds as with humans "extremes meet," and that while near relatives may quarrel, distant ones may agree), two, and even three, pairs may be kept together and rear their young in perfect harmony.

The Secret of Success.

The great secret is to select birds differing considerably in size, and to make sure that the larger, while being masters of the smaller, are yet of a gentle disposition and not given to meddling in their neighbours' affairs. As an additional precaution the nest boxes should be provided with entrance holes of different sizes, for Parrots, as a general rule, instinctively select breeding quarters with the smallest entrances capable of admitting their bodies. A nest box or barrel should be fixed high—close against the roof, if possible—for a sitting bird dislikes having her neighbours constantly alighting on the roof of her home. The bottom should be concave and covered with a layer of soft decayed wood or sawdust, and the entrance should be only an inch or two above the level of the floor, otherwise the young may find difficulty in making their exit.

In building an aviary the materials used must bear some relation to the destructive powers of the birds which it is intended to introduce. Ordinary wire netting and stout woodwork will confine most Platycercine and Polytelis Parrakeets, the smaller Palaornidæ, Lories and Lorikeets, Lovebirds, Kings and Crimsonwings. Conures, Quaker Parrakeets, and the smaller Parrots require rather stronger netting, and no unprotected woodwork will long resist their attacks. Large Parrots, Cockatoos and Macaws can only be kept in by something of the same nature as the metal-work which covers the large flight cages at the Zoological Gardens.

THE WINTER MANAGEMENT OF CANARIES.

By E. W. ALLSOPP, Cardiff.

A well-known breeder and exhibitor, who is in the habit of thinking things out for himself, offers his fellow-fanciers some interesting and novel advice.

IT is with mixed feelings that I entertain the Editor's request for a little chatter regarding the winter management of Canaries, in preparation for the breeding season.

On the one hand I realise that the Fancy has added much to my measure of happiness and prosperity, which I needs must repay in some manner, and therefore I cannot allow even a tiny opportunity to escape me, particularly under the present national circumstances, whereby the Fancy is likely to be pushed, if only temporarily, into the background.

On the other hand, however, I realise that in this all-important matter of feeding and management I am indeed a "rebel." I am convinced that some day, after all sorts of upheavals and revivals have been experienced in many things and in divers ways, there is going to be some "kicking over the traces" in the Fancy regarding the feeding and management of Canaries as now generally adopted, though perhaps our winter management will not be so much concerned as will our subsequent breeding season management.

An Important Prediction.

Considering how important is the part played by feeding and management towards the net results of our efforts in the birdroom, I maintain we devote as fanciers something less than even a passing interest in it; or, at least, we appear to have done so up to now. However, we shall eventually see what we shall see, and that, in my opinion, will be a marked departure from our present-day accepted methods of feeding and management, particularly during the breeding season.

Now the secrets I refer to above are the unpalatable ones. Years ago the "old hands" experienced the same ills to which Canary flesh seems heir to, but said "nuffin." To-day the younger generation has more wisdom. And so, after many pilgrimages to the dust-bin, or kitchen range, during the breeding season, in which "havens of rest" have been deposited not only the tiny mites in which they cherished many hopes, but, alas, too often, their mothers as well, and when, added to this, they have found a general disposition of the stock to shirk even such fundamental duties as nest-building, laying, sitting, and feeding—then these youngsters ask themselves, and others: "Why, oh, why are these things?"

Taking the Wrong Turning.

Lots of such wails went up last season, but as for the answer being forthcoming—as with the burial of Sir John Moore—"not a sound was heard!" Too often, I fear, the seeker after truth in these matters, when offering comparisons to nature's teaching or methods, is directed up the wrong street when told the period of domestication enjoyed by our Canaries is such as to preclude any such comparisons. How much of our grip upon the apron strings of Dame Nature have we loosened after all? Apart from environment and diet, and matters of type, size, and colour, I for one believe we still nestle up to Mother very closely; and we should do much better if we nestled up still closer.

Now, if evolutionists count a thousand years merely as a day when reviewing the history of things, and our usual annual crop of birdroom troubles has come about in less than five hundred years (the period, I understand, which covers the Canary as a cage-bird)—if in this comparatively short space of time we fanciers have broken down the instincts to perform such vital duties accompanying reproduction, then something in our methods is seriously at fault. And that something I am convinced is feeding and management.

As food for reflection I might ask whether Dame Nature imposes upon kindred species of the Canary, as Linnets, Goldfinches, Greenfinches, and others, greater or lesser physical demands during the breeding, compared with the winter season. Do you not think that with the longer days, the ceaseless imperative journeyings when seeking food for the hungry family impose a tremendous physical call upon the parent birds far greater than that experienced in winter when merely searching for their own individual needs? I do!

But, you say, see what a bounteous store of good things Dame Nature provides during the breeding season, abundant succulent "green-meat" and seed, luscious insect life in various stages of development, to support her hard workers.

In reply, I may say: Yes; it is so. Dame Nature supplies a good table, and takes very good care to counteract its rich, stimulating character by enforcing lots of exercise in getting the food-stuffs.

When We Reverse Things.

Thus in the season of greatest plenty we find our birds making longer and more frequent journeys when fulfilling their natural mission, whilst we clever breeders allow them to do just the reverse in our birdrooms. We winter our Canaries in six-feet flights, and in the season of greatest plenty, with rape, hemp, egg-food, etc., ad lib, when we expect them to reproduce their kind with ease we confine them in twenty-inch breeding cages.

Circumstances compelled me during the 1913 season to use a four-feet flight as a breeding cage. What a time of it the pair of Norwich Plainheads had in that cage. Morning, noon, and evening they seemed to be going helter-skelter from perch to perch, one of which was at each end, giving three feet of freedom, just so many hundreds of feet per diem, or thousands of feet per week, more than their less fortunate brothers and sisters could obtain in their twenty-four inch breeding cages.

Doing Right Well.

How many youngsters the pair in this flight would have produced I cannot say. But I do know they brought up two families, a six and a seven, just as "easy as winking," and looked round for more, and they are the only pair of Plainheads I ever bred with that showed no signs of the exhausting character of the breeding season, as we say.

And what had they different to other pairs of even more robust constitution then breeding? Only two feet more room for exercise to counteract the season of plenty.

Well, a wink is as good as a nod with me; and after such a revelation you will not be surprised to learn that two four-feet flights were pressed into service during last season. The results were grand.

Something to Try.

The net result of two seasons, with only three pairs in flight cages, is not, of course, nearly sufficient evidence to permit me to say we breeders are fools. Nevertheless, if you, reader, have not been doing so well of late years in the breeding season, don't get into the habit of blaming the weather, just turn these things over in your mind and, incidentally, give your flight cages a trial as breeding cages.

After this rather lengthy digression I had better say something about winter management, though in my own mind I am sure you will undo all the good winter preparation if you persist in breeding, as usual, in what we term breeding cages. However, the result is entirely a matter for you yourself. I will proceed, therefore, to tell you how I manage my own stock; I do not know how other breeders manage theirs.

"A BOOK OF BABY BIRDS."

One of the most charming gift books that any bird-lover could select for presentation to children is "A Book of Baby Birds," published at 1s. 6d. by Messrs. W. and R. Chambers, and obtainable of any bookseller. It comprises a most attractive coloured cover (stiff boards) and many full-page illustrations and pictures in the text, with deliciously humorous verses on well-known birds (Larks, Robins, Tits, Nightingales, Ducks, etc.) of which we append those dealing with the Wren. The accompanying drawings we cannot praise too highly; they are broadly humorous, yet the characteristics of the species are never lost sight of. As a means of inculcating a knowledge of birds into young minds, we heartily commend this delightful book to our readers.

The Wrens, you know, are very small
Their nest is like a mossy ball;
With care they build it, bit by bit,
And make a door in front of it.

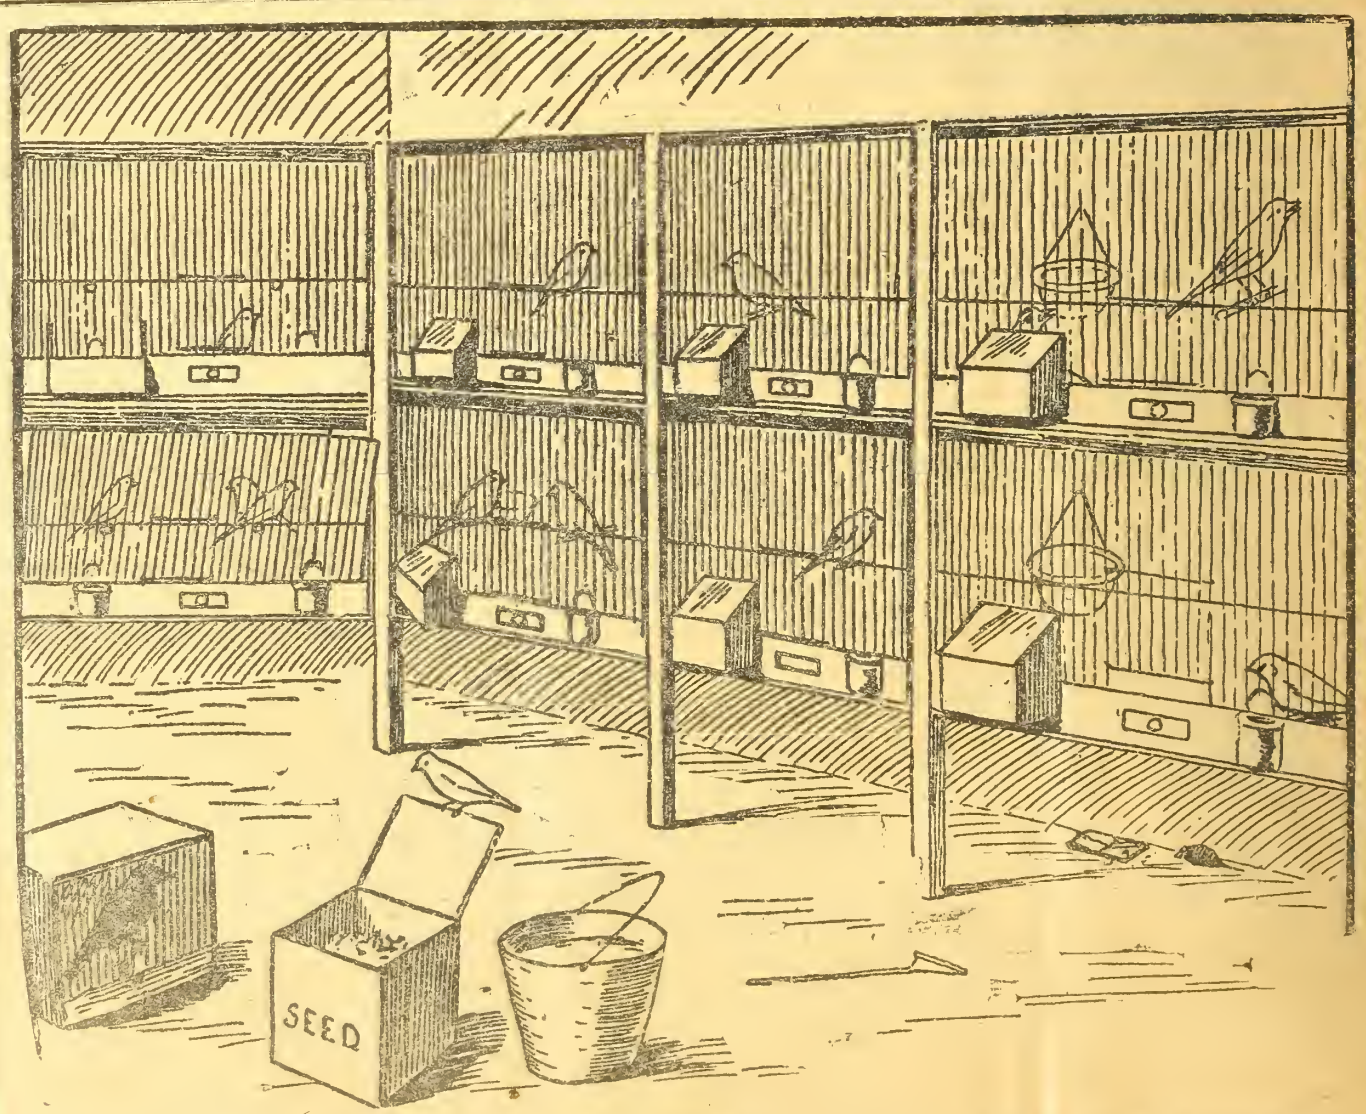
The baby Wrens, of course, by far
Are smaller than their parents are,
But there is such a lot that you
Would think the nest would come in two.

If you should pay their house a visit,
They all peep out to ask "Who is 't?"
And if you touch them, in a crack
They all flop out, and won't go back.

For baby Wrens, although so wee,
Are very bold and fierce, you see,
In fact, sometimes the things they say
Would frighten even cats away!

Goldfinches Increasing near Carlisle

I should like to state that the Goldfinch has been a regular visitor to certain districts near Carlisle for many years, and has visited one particular feeding ground, which is within the city boundary, for over twenty years. It visits the same feeding ground regularly for a few weeks each year, and from a few birds it is pleasing to note that they have gradually increased in numbers, and this year we were visited by a fine flock of between 40 and 50 birds, which were watched feeding for three hours one day.—Bird Lover, in the "Cumberland News."



A PUZZLE PICTURE: CAN YOU SUPPLY THE SOLUTION?

Five Shillings Cash (or our Books to value) to whoever sets to rights this disorderly birdroom.

Our artist has imagined a bird-room wherein the owner has committed sixteen "sins" from the careful bird-keeper's point of view. To the reader who sends us a correct list of these acts of carelessness we will present the above prize. In the event of none giving the 16 items correctly, the prize will go to the list containing the most correct items, and in the event of a tie, the winner will be drawn for. All replies must be sent on postcards only; don't forget to add your name and address. Latest date for sending in, Monday, Jan. 25th. The decision of the Editor must be accepted as final.

Birds Going Bare on the Head.

SIR,—I have noticed few queries in CAGE BIRDS re birds being bare on their heads. I have had some in my time go like that after the moult, but after a couple of dressings of vaseline the feathers have come on again. Don't put too much on, of course.

A. E. LONG.

The Giving of Prize Cards.

SIR,—I should like to ask why it is the largest show in London (i.e., the Horticultural Hall) does not give prize cards to the fortunate exhibitors who have gained them? I think I can safely say that the majority of exhibitors, especially novices, place far more honour on the cards won than on the money, and it appears to me to be bad judgment on the part of show officials in not giving them. Surely the patience, time, etc., of the fortunate exhibitor is worth a PRIZE CARD.

The Greenfinch Class at Doncaster Show.

SIR,—Kindly allow me space in your valuable paper, of which I am a supporter, with regard to the result at Doncaster show in the Greenfinch class. I would like to know whether my bird was on the bench or underneath it? Only a fortnight since he got first at Gateshead in a class of 22, and your reporter spoke very highly of him. My champion Greenfinch has been under the judge five or six times, and he has awarded him three firsts, two specials and two seconds; and this the first time he has not gained honours. His record of wins is: Oct. 25, 1913, 1st and sp. Middlesbrough; Nov. 8, 2nd Hartlepool; Nov. 13, 2nd Selby; Nov. 22, 1st Stockton; Dec. 6 and 8, 2nd Bradford National; Dec. 12 and 13, 1st, sp. Gateshead; Jan. 10, 2nd Doncaster; Jan. 16 and 17, 4th Sunderland; and at Gateshead, Dec. 19 in 1914, 1st in class of 22.

A. CUSS.

The Value of "Push."

Sir,—One of your correspondents says he often has to sell birds worth 20s. for 7s. How does he know they are worth this? Presumably by the price he has had to pay himself; but this is no criterion. The way to get full value for his stock is to exhibit at one or the other of the leading shows, and win prizes. He will then have no difficulty of disposing of any he has for sale—and at more than face value—no matter where he may live.

——— J. BASTOCK.

Sir,—In noting the invitation for help from Mr. H. Coker, I fear he hardly realises the task he would impose upon me. Firstly, I am prompted to ask, upon whose authority does he make the statement that the birds sold for 7s. each, were honestly worth 15s. to 20s. each? Secondly, were his advertisements merely an indication of his being a seller; or were such couched in convincing truthful language? A formidable obstacle in the way of many advertisers failing to realise the prices asked for their surplus birds is their own inability to properly appraise their reasonable value. Much as I feel I should like to help Mr. Coker, he being a novice, beyond asking him to re-read my article and calmly comparing what he actually did with the advice therein tendered (I am assuming that he alone, and not the birds, is responsible for the apparently poor results obtained) I regret that I cannot suggest a speedier and more reliable way of changing his birds into the cash he desires.

E. W. ALLSOPP.

When Judges Disagree.

The Case of "White Rose."

SIR,—I noticed with interest when reading your excellent report of the Scottish National show, that Mr. Parlett's handsome, but mysterious, Hybrid, "White Rose," had been thrown out of competition by the judge, Mr P. McQuiston, he refusing to accept it as a variegated Canary-Bullfinch (presumably, then, he considers it to be of Greenfinch-Bullfinch parentage. Yet on walking into Ardwick show on Saturday last, there was the bird again, this time behind a first prize ticket, awarded it by Mr. Chas. Houlton. What are we Hybrid breeders to think when we find a state of things like this existing? Does it mean that our judges don't know what the bird really is? Or does it mean that one man can find evidence in it to prove that it is one thing, and another man to prove that it is another thing? Anyway, it is very unsatisfactory. I always thought that a Hybrid carried clear traces of its parentage on both paternal and maternal sides; all of those which I have seen have done so. I must candidly say that Mr. Parlett's bird to my mind—and I have owned most crosses, and have also compared it with other Canary Bullies—shows no trace of the Canary cross at all, except its uncommon light colour. On the other hand it is distinctly like a Greenfinch-Bullfinch Hybrid in build and carriage. Therefore it seems to me that Mr. McQuiston is clearly right, and that the bird is a variegated (light, or rare-feathered) Greenfinch-Bullfinch Hybrid. It would be interesting to know what are the points, other than its colour, on which Mr. Houlton (and other judges who have given it prizes) relies to prove his view that it is a Canary-Bullfinch. In my opinion Mr. Houlton and others have allowed the bird's light colour to influence them, and not taken into consideration other—and more important, because not accidental—points about the bird.

RED ROSE.

Special Prizes at Falkirk Good Intent Show.

SIR,—In answer to Mr. Walter Clarkson, I think he has gone off the subject when he mentions about the writer of the letter signed "Interested" being an individual belonging to some other body. The Falkirk and District has done more for the Fancy than any other club, and none of their members would write like this to a paper. Why could Falkirk and District and Grangemouth and Bannockburn combine together and have a show, and the Good Intent refuse? Let Mr. Clarkson and Co. join in with the rest of the clubs and encourage the novice; it will lend a harmony among the fanciers in Stirlingshire.

A SPORTSMAN.

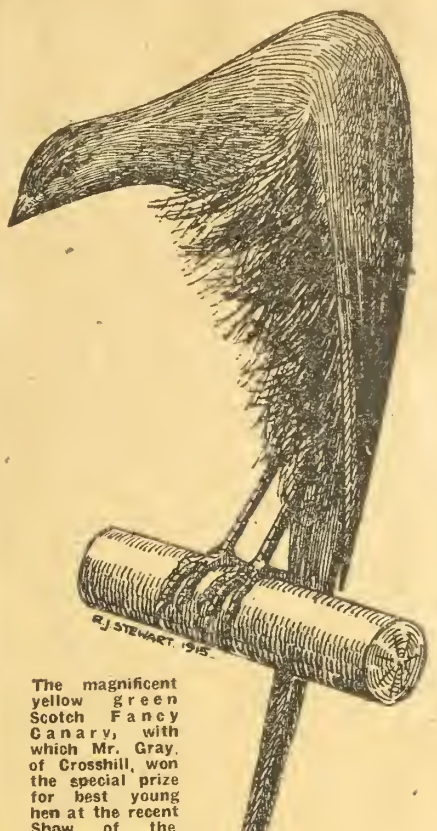
How to Obtain More Young Cock Canaries?

SIR,—Will any reader of CAGE BIRDS kindly inform me if there is any method of obtaining a larger number of cocks than hens among young Canaries when breeding, and if so, what the method is? I am quite a novice in this line, only having started last season, so should be much obliged if someone could give me a bit of advice on the subject. Of the old birds (which are "German") with which I have been breeding, the cock was about two years old at that time, and the hen about 12 months. Out of the 15 young ones which I reared eight were hens and seven cocks, so that if anyone can inform me how to obtain a larger average of cock birds when I breed again and also the best method of training them to sing, I shall be very pleased. I wish your interesting paper, CAGE BIRDS, every success.

B. Y. (Wellington).

[Training to sing was dealt with at great length in the article on the Roller Canary recently published by Mr. Tomlinson.—EDITOR.]



The magnificent yellow green Scotch Fancy Canary, with which Mr. Gray, of Crosshill, won the special prize for best young hen at the recent Show of the Glasgow Scotch Fancy Association.

The L. and P.O.S. Collection of Stuffed Birds.

SIR,—Consequent on the increasing requirements of the Naval Authorities at the Crystal Palace, the L. and P.O.S. have found it necessary to remove their collection of stuffed birds, which has been temporarily taken charge of by Messrs. E. Gerrard and Sons, the taxidermists, and will still be available for exhibition purposes when occasion arises. I may add that amongst the more interesting recent additions to the collection, are the following:—Cinnamon House Martin, presented by Mr. E. J. Lamb (New Malden); Kingfisher, Mr. V. Wynn (Park Lane); Dartford Warbler hen, Mr. Evans (Hindhead); Canary-Bullfinch Hybrid, variegated, presented by Mrs. Askham (Torquay). It may be urged that the first two are not strictly cage birds (not being in the N.B.B. and M. list) but the former at least is a rare if not unique specimen, and therefore a valuable addition to the collection. The last bird has taken honours, and is, as far as I have seen, the only variegated Canary Bullfinch Hybrid ever shown (with the possible exception of Mr. Parlett's). Whilst thanking these donors, and all who have kindly sent me birds for the collection, I may venture to hope that no fancier will lose an opportunity of assisting me to make this collection complete. Of course, "It's a long, long way to Tipperary"; and I may vary my appeal to my Scotch friends by quoting the Scotch version, "It's a long, long way to Auchtermuchty."

G. CRABE.

What Birds Are These?

SIR,—Re the above discussion in CAGE BIRDS, I may say that fully two years ago a ship arrived in Liverpool from South America with about a dozen birds on board which were liberated. They all resembled cock Sparrows, the only difference being the male bird had a slight crest.

J. W. SCOTT.

An Alleged "Canker" in the Ardwick and Manchester C.B.S.

SIR,—Kindly allow me space for a few lines in respect of one of the most successful societies in the North of England. I refer to the Ardwick and Manchester and Dist. C.B.S., which held its first open show on Jan. 8 and 9, a great success, nearly 500 birds being staged. But there is a dark side; murmurings of discontent have been heard, and when investigated show that unless the curb is put on very tight this society will begin to degenerate, like everything else where there is canker. As every fancier knows, a bird society is mainly composed of working men, and as long as the working men have the governing all will go right. I wish to give a few words of advice to the working men members of Ardwick Society. Look to yourselves before it is too late, and don't allow yourselves to be led by a certain clique of gentlemen who are hiding their schemings and machinations under a cloak. Get the officials you want, and not those thrust upon you by this clique. Stand together lads, and you will have one of the best societies in England.

The Canary in the Army.

SIR,—For some unknown reason, "Bill" is the stock name for the Canary in married quarters in barracks, no matter the sex of the bird. Those hucksters who had the right of entry to barracks, a much sought after privilege, to supply the men with goods they could not obtain in the canteen, always had a stock of birds and cages on hand. The quality of the bird might be judged from its cage. A Canary and cage that could be purchased for, say 2s. 6d., did not represent much in the way of voice in the inmate, or finish in its house. Following 2s. 6d. came 3s. 6d. (no sixpences here, if you please). This was a distinct improvement.

Then the 5s. and 7s. 6d. lots came; and both were good value. The 5s. bird had a wicker cage; where these wicker cages are made is uncertain, though probably by individual workers, as they cannot be purchased in ordinary shops. The 7s. 6d. bird had a gorgeous house, nicely painted and decorated. Privates purchased the 3s. 6d. outfit on marrying. Corporals usually indulged in the 5s. ones on the same auspicious occasions, and warrant officers and sergeants bought the 7s. 6d. birds. No guarantee as to singing was given.

A Canary seems to represent home life to the British soldier. The man who married without permission, and could not therefore obtain married quarters, furnished rooms outside. He obtained the furniture on the instalment system, and installed the wife in these apartments; and he always bought a bird in a cage. The newly-wedded wife, on her part, always bought a pair of vases for the table. A bird seems to represent home to Mr. Atkins in the same way that ornamental vases represent "culture" to Mrs. A.

The Modern Norwich Plainhead and How to Improve It.

Sir,—I have read with great interest the letters and articles which have appeared in CAGE BIRDS from time to time from the pen of Mr. E. Allsopp, and was very pleased to see the challenge thrown out to him to start a discussion on the present-day Norwich Canary. To my mind Mr. Allsopp is about the best person to carry on an enlightened and intelligent discussion on the subject. He is evidently an educated man, and goodness knows there are enough of the other sort in the Fancy to-day, with the result that they are led or driven by a few who are out for £ s. d., and are therefore prevented from making any headway at all. I sincerely hope this discussion will commence, as the breezy and good hearted way in which Mr. Allsopp writes will be sure to please even the man who holds a contradictory opinion. May he long be spared to give us the best he is capable of.

——— H. EVANS.

Sir,—It is not my intention to enter into a "chipping" contest with Mr. Allsopp; so I'll leave him to take the medicine, or swallow the bottle, as he likes. On taking up the breeding of Canaries again, the first thing I did was to visit several of the shows to see what had been done during the years I have been outside. I found that the Norwich were very much larger, with bolder, broad heads, an improvement, to my idea—then I looked about me to see who was breeding this type of bird. I had no intention of starting to get them from the old fashioned specimens; if I am to succeed I must start right here, and try to improve on those before us now. After a lot of trouble I got a few birds together, paying more than the face value sometimes to get the type I required. I only had two cocks that bred in 1914, but I reared 23 young from them, seven of which have won prizes, so I am vain enough to think I am on the right track.

I take neither of the descriptions given by Mr. Allsopp as my ideal of a modern Norwich. We will start with the yellow Norwich. The yellows shown by Mr P. V. Williams during 1913, and the yellow exhibited by Mr. Crawshaw during 1914. I take as my ideal. For the benefit of those who have not seen these birds I will give my description of them. The first extra large, deep chest, short flights and tail, good broad head, and fine quality of feather. The 1914 bird, grand broad head, well rounded off, and full cheeks, extra large body, well carried wings, grand colour, and good quality—if a fault, rather on the long side. That a cross has had to be used to get his wonderful head properties, I have no doubt. Now, what is the cross most likely to produce it? I have started this discussion hoping to get information and exchange of ideas; also to give information and assistance to those breeders who have not had much experience. I hope fanciers will join in.

J. BASTOCK.

SIR,—I can assure "Sub Rosa" that his remarks are quite welcome. Have you carefully taken stock as to where and under what judges these "cracks" (which I presume you are defending) have been exhibited? You will find the number of shows very small, and you will also find that those winners only win under certain judges. Isn't it curious, my friend, that your champion (not mine) was whacked, and easily, at Ardwick show? I think I have you nailed down here. The winner was a typical Norwich, nice round head, good clear eye, short beak, short thick neck, broad, deep chest, wings and tail short and compact, etc. The second (your champion), larger bird, better colour, nice soft, silky feather, plenty of it, well shown, but (and I make these remarks without any prejudice to the owner) he is too sulky looking, and you have to lift the cage the height of your head to see the whole of his eye (when on the show bench you could only see half of it); further, he is too long in wings and tail, with an oscillating carriage should also have been beaten by the 4th bird in the class, a good typical Norwich show bird. Now, my friend, I wait to see more winners like the Ardwick winner (unflighted yellow). I commend the judge for putting a typical Norwich first, a bird nearest to the N.P.C. standard and type.

ARDWICK.

First Annual Show of the Ardwick and Manchester C.B.A., St. Thomas's Schools, Jan. 8 and 9. Years ago there were two open shows annually in Manchester, but the Pendleton Society seems either to have died out or to be in urgent need of some bird specialist's "Revivo," for it has for some years now not held an open show. This year, that go-ahead young society, the Ardwick, has stepped into the breach and held what can only be considered a first-class show for first venture. The show was an unqualified success, for some wonderful birds were to be seen; while we gathered that financially everything was as good as could be expected. The room was a good one; plenty of large windows all round the sides, lofty, and on the Saturday afternoon it was almost uncomfortably crowded. The staging was everything that could be desired, and the birds could be seen from any position. The Society has the Rev. C. E. Gaul, as president and as an exhibiting member, and another member of the clergy, the Rev. J. W. Wragg on the committee. Chairman, Mr. W. Robinson, is a fancier with a reputation of long standing, while an energetic fancier in Mr. A. E. Thorpe also fills the treasurer's position, and the hon. sec., Mr. Spencer, is the embodiment of all that is civil, and vigorously energetic. On the second day a big placard announcing that "prize money is now being paid" was pasted over the secretary's room. Parlett's "White Rose" was again a centre of attraction, and many were the opinions expressed as to its parentage; but this time the bird was safely ensconced behind the red ticket. Norwich were a grand lot, although we noticed few noted local faces. Mr. Crawshaw's noted unlighted yellow stood only second, but on the Saturday, when we saw the bird, he seemed to stand away from anything in the show for all round excellence. Special for best Norwich went to Mr. Crawshaw with a wonderful cl. yell. cock, a bird hard to find fault with. Yorks. were not good in numbers, but some very good stuff was out. Special for best went to Mr. O. Bulmer's unflighted buff, a massive bird of good quality and type. Borders, though not in great quantity, contained high-class exhibits, and there was keen competition right through. British were very good, many of the season's tried winners doing duty for their owners. Mules and Hybrids contained a good lot of well-known high-class exhibits. The Foreign class was led by a grand pair of Nonpareils in perfect condition. Mr. H. W. Battye judged Yorks and Nor., Mr. C. Houlton the remaining sections.

YORKS., YELL. (5): 1, Dykes, fine upstanding and lengthy, superb qual., lovely round body; 2, Dyson, better wing and tail carr., grand legs, beaten in qual. of feather; 3, Henderson and Crosby, long bird, nice level back, twist in neck sometimes, which probably downed him; 4, Hirst, all clears; vhc, Helsby. BUFF (10): 1, Dykes, nice feather and cond., but not over long; 2, Dyson, very lengthy, grand qual. and leggy, neat head, crosses wings a bit; 3, Henderson and Crosby, neat head, neck, back, and qual., must have pressed, good as any; 4, Wilkinson; vhc, Hirst; hc, Ramsden; c, Bingham and Furness. HEN (8): 1, Dyson, grizzle back buff, very neat, lengthy, grand feather; 2, vhc, Darlington Bros., yell. mkd. eyes and wings, grand pos.; 3, Henderson and Crosby, grizzle neck buff, very slim, lovely qual.; 4, Broughton, one of the finest, mkd. neck yell., very grand type, sweetest of heads, grand straight tail; hc, Hibbert; c, Bingham and Furness. UNFLIG. YELL. (8): 1, Hibbert, very long grizzle neck, magnificent specimen, straight as a lamp-post; 2, Bingham and Furness, cl., long-sided bird, nice pos., bad wings; 3, Bulmer, mkd. neck, lovely col. and qual., neat head; 4, Potts; vhc, Broughton; hc, Dykes; c, Foster. BUFF (5): 1, sp, Bulmer, great size, long drawn out, rare feather for big one; 2, Dykes, mkd. wing, equal size, grand pos., trifle stouter perhaps; 3, Broughton, cl., very slim, grand qual., rare legs, bit too lively; 4, Foster; vhc, Bingham and Furness. HEN (6): 1, Dykes, head and rump mkd., nice pos., lovely head and qual.; 2, 4, Potts, cl. yell. leads, grand qual. of feather, good wings; 3, Hibbert, heavy mark, very neat, beaten wing carr; vhc, Broughton; hc, Helsby. AMAT. YORKS. YELL. (7): 1, Millet, nice length, true Yorkie, rare col. and qual.; 2, Riley, good cond., straight up, rare legs, trifle too racy; 3, Taylor, very clean cut cl., lovely head and qual., well up on leg; 4, Hird; vhc, Harrison; hc, Whittle. BUFF (8): 1, Hird, grand cl., best of qual., steady as a rock, grand oval head, fit for open; 2, McTurk, good pos., rare legs, neat head, beaten length; 3, Harrison, mkd. head and wings, feather of the silkiest, neat tail and wings; 4, Rothwell; vhc, Wright; hc, Hawkins; c, Taylor. HEN (7): 1, McTurk, cl. buff, very neat, medium length, exquisite feather; 2, 3, Rothwell, two grand birds, yell. and buff, neat heads, wings, and tails; 4, Taylor; vhc, Jones; hc, Pickup; c, Wright. UNFLIG. YELL. (8): 1, Brown, lovely type, only medium size, but all there for points; 2, c, Harrison, again not a big one, neat head and col., beaten neck; 3, McTurk, mkd. head, rare col., grand wings and tail; 4, Pickup; vhc, Whittle; hc, Hisling. BUFF (8): 1, Riley, long bodied cl., rare oval head, grand back; 2, Rothwell, loveliest grizzle head and neck mkd. bird, rare type, grand pos. and legs, nobody would have grumbled had it won; 3, hc, Millett, cl., lovely col. and feather, neat oval head, 4, Davies; vhc, Harrison; c, Afflick. HEN (8): 1, Davies, sweet neck mkd. yell., lovely type and qual.; 2, vhc, Taylor, cl. buff, silky feather, bad to beat; 3, Riley, cl. yell., grand type and pos., beaten qual.; 4, Millett; hc, Wright; c, McTurk. NOR. YELL. (12): 1, sp, Crawshaw, Manchester winner, rare good bird, seems a trifle less stout than when we saw him last; 2, 3, Turner, massive cl., great head and col. and type; 3, var., of grand type and qual., behind in size; 4, Hirst; vhc, Rev. Wragg; hc, Vint; c, McAndrews. BUFF (9): 1, Hirst, monster cl., rare body, bit pinched in head; 2, Thorpe, bigger still, grand col., feathery at thighs; 3, Crawshaw, the well-known mkd. breast, not a feather out, good broad head, neck, chest, and clean under, should have won; 4, Turner; vhc, Vint; hc, Rev. Wragg; c, Fields. YELL. HEN (13): 1, Sharples, cl., good head, rare col. and feather, too slim, catalogued at £3, no claimants; 2, hc, Smith, grand var., massive head, rare col. and qual., deep chest and wide; 3, Lewis, eyes mkd., nice silky tone, good head, neck and type; 4, Crawshaw, cl., grand col., nice level back, deep chest and good head; vhc, Turner; c, Cook. BUFF (8): 1, Fields, nice col. and body, rare type and qual., sweet head; 2, Hirst, very similar, not quite the head points; 3, Lawson, massive cl., very wide body, level back, grand head and thick neck, pale col., and should have won; 4, c, Vint; vhc, Peters; hc, Turner. UNFLIG. YELL. (17): 1, Fields, very neat cl., nice silky feather, good head and neck, could do with more subs.; 2, c, Crawshaw, noted cl., best we have seen this year. Why second here? 3, Hirst, well-known var., rare head and shape, beaten in general tone of feather and size; 4, Cooper, slimmer, cl., very taking bird though, beautiful qual. and col.; vhc, Turner; hc, Boothman. BUFF (8): 1, Crawshaw, not the biggest, but for all round excellence hard to beat; 2, Lawson, more massive, and perhaps better in head and neck, but faulty wing carr., keeps him down; 3, Vint, nice shape, col. and qual., beaten head; 4, Fields; vhc, McAndrews; hc, Huggins; c, Thorpe. HEN (9): 1, Lawson, var. yell., lovely type and qual., beautiful wide head, thick neck, clean cut as a Robin, tail no more than two inches, not a nondescript by any means; 2, Cook, the noted var, big bird, good qual. for a big one, rare head and neck; 3, Rev. Wragg, big cl., rare head, nice qual., should make up well; 4, Cooper, hottest col. buff in show, looks cocky; vhc, Turner; hc, Thorpe; c, Fields. AMAT., NOR. YELL. (15): 1, W. Spencer, nice cl., grand feather and type, good deep chest; 2, J. Spencer, large var., massive head and body, beaten qual.; 3, Bradley, tick wing, slimmer in body, grand col.; 4, Garbutt, good deep chest, rare head and neck, bit hairy; vhc, hc, Rev. GREAT HORTON.

Annual Open Show of the Great Horton O.S., Jan. 9, Cross Lane Council School. The room is the best room in Bradford, is large enough for a National Show, and possesses a splendid light. Both the exhibitors and visitors seemed to be delighted with it. The caretaker (Mr. Hudson) took great interest in the exhibits, and did his best to have the temperature carefully regulated. Entries numbered 276, a very good number, seeing that it was the last Yorkshire Union Show of the season, and all the competition had been won. It was curious to note, however, that, not one class had the stipulated number of fifteen entries for full prize money, so prizes throughout were on the sliding scale. Quality was above the average, most of the notable winners being benched and several of them got well beaten. The President, Mr. Fred Self, had full charge of the management of the show, and the way in which he held the reins is deserving of the highest praise. Sec., Mr. Holroyd, got through his duties in the usual businesslike manner being ably assisted by Mr. B. Hainsworth. The show stewards were Messrs. Harry Jennings (one of the most experienced in Bradford), Hainsworth, and Self. The gatemen were Messrs. Morley, Hunter, and Joe Hainsworth. The railway cases were well looked after by Mr. Hartley. Other helpers were Messrs. S. Midgley, G. Midgley, Crabtree, Snead, Ellis Self, and Shackleton. The society must be proud of having such a strong body of working members, and the way in which the duties were carried out reflects great credit upon their abilities. The prize money was paid out to most of the exhibitors at the show, and the remainder has since been paid. The packing up and sending away the exhibits was done without a hitch. Mr. A. Hirst judged and seemed to give general satisfaction.

CHAMP. CL. OR TKD. YELL. YKS. ELGIN.

Fifth annual show of Elgin C.B.A., Corn Market Hall—a successful show in every respect. Although entries showed a decrease on last year, quality was splendid and competition was keen all over. The silver cup for best hybrid or British was won by Mr. J. D. Hird, for the sixth year in succession. The arrangements, which were excellent, were carried out by Mr. A. W. Douglas, Bishopmill, sec., and an enthusiastic committee. Judges were:—Canaries, J. Winter, Edinburgh; Hyb., Brit., and For., F. A. Watt, Banff. The surplus funds from the show were to be given in aid of the National Relief Fund.

LLANELLY.

Annual Open Show of the Llanelly C.B.S., Jan. 12. In the fine Market Hall, a spacious building, well suited for a big show. Entries were hardly up to the grand totals of previous years, the falling off being mostly noticeable in the Canary sections. The British are mostly kept locally, consequently there was once more a very fine display, the Goldfinch, Linnet and Bullfinch classes being something exceptional. Mr. Richards, of Narberth, held the three trump cards in the house-moulted Goldie class, his fine exhibits coming in for a lot of attention. The F.-M. Linnet class was a stormer, the judge having 25 to select from, and there was not much to choose between the first half dozen. Borders were a very nice lot, classes filling capitally. Mr. Harvey won the S.B.F.C. diploma for best in section with a charming yell. cock. The entries in Canary section unfortunately did not come up to expectations, and really we think, considering the classification offered, the Society deserve better support. Only 130 entries in 23 classes are a poor response to a good classification; some notable winners were staged, however.

The management of show was once more in the capable hands of Mr. D. John, who, as usual, had everything in correct order. He was ably assisted by Mr. Webster, Assist. Sec., Messrs. Gregory, Evans, Harvey, Gregory, senr., Jones, Thomas Lewis, Jenkins, Hamilton, McDonnell, Crawford, etc. Mr. H. Norman judged Borders and British, and Mr. J. Robson the remainder. The Chairman, Councillor D. R. Jones, who is at the front, sent enquiries respecting the show, and best wishes for its success.

PONTYPRIDD.

Cage birds at the show of the Pontypridd F. and F.S. on Jan. 6, were very nicely staged in a large comfortable room at the Victoria Hotel, away from the rest of the show, and made a good display, the entry totalling 176, an increase on last year's figures. Of the quality we cannot speak too highly. In no part of the country has the cage bird fancy made more rapid strides during the last few years than in South Wales, not so much in an increased number of breeders as in the improved quality of the stock, and this improvement was strongly reflected here, especially in the Norwich and British sections. For a long time it was a moot question as to whether the show would be held this season or not, but having decided to run it, and for the benefit of the Red Cross Fund, the committee went to work with a will, and a good response was received. The committee were very zealous, and right well did they do their work. Mr. A. A. Gordon McLucas long ago won his spurs as a secretary, and he is as energetic and obliging as ever. Mr. C. A. House judged.

BIRTLEY, CHESTER-LE-STREET, PELTON FELL (Amal.)

First annual show, Nov. 7, Dun Cow Hotel, Chester-le-St. Entries came up well, totalling 176. Norwich were not up to expectations as regards numbers, but quality was excellent. Yorks were well represented, some very good birds being staged. There was a capital entry of Borders and Crests, some of which will be heard of later, and a good muster of British. Mr. J. Riseborough, Sunderland, judged, getting through his work in grand style to the satisfaction of all.

GLASGOW.

Annual Show of the Glasgow and Western Counties C.B.S., Jan. 9, Good Templars' Halls, Ingrams Street. Entries came up well, particularly in British which were quite a show by themselves. Norwich were a fine lot with some very promising young birds. Borders contained some fine quality birds, and on the whole the entry was considered very satisfactory, totalling 300, a slight increase from last year. The sec., Mr. Jas. Macgowan, had all arrangements carried out in a businesslike manner, and was well supported by such capable fanciers as the veteran president, Mr. P. Pettigrew; vice-pres., Mr. T. Bannerman; committee, Mr. P. Campbell, Mr. John Liddell, Mr. James Findlay, Mr. James Dick, Mr. W. Munro, and Mr. J. Ballantyne; not a slacker among them, every one striving his best for the success of the show. Cup, best young Nor., J. Liddell; do., Bord., Findlay; do., Brit., Liddell; sp. most entries, Findlay; 2, Pettigrew; most points, Brit., Pettigrew. Judges were: Canaries, Mr. G. Arnott (Kirkcaldy); remainder, Mr. James Strachan (Bathgate), and their awards were well received.

ABERDARE.

Show held at The Market Hall, Jan. 7, all the profits of which are to be given to the Belgian Refugee Fund. The birds were nicely staged at the side of the hall, which is well lighted and free from draughts. Mr. James proved a very courteous and obliging secretary. Mr. W. Davies acted as head steward, and there was nothing left undone for the comfort of the exhibits. A few more classes another year might be an advantage. Mr. J. H. Jones, Merthyr, judged, and gave entire satisfaction.

GARSTON B.B.A.

Annual show Dec. 5. Entries were quite up to the previous year's, and quality was A1; quite a lot of noted winners were out. Mr. F. Rothwell won the Tate cup for the second year, also most points for the year. Mr. J. Lloyd most points for the one show and most points British. Mr. A. Willings judged.

HIGH WYCOMBE.

15th annual show, Oakley Memorial Hall, Dec. 29. The hall is not an ideal one, top light being bad, and the cage birds being staged on top of high poultry pens made it difficult to see them properly. Entries were in advance of former years, both in quantity and quality, some well-known winners being amongst them. In mule classes there were some charming exhibits, the light class being really a marvel for quality. It seems strange how some of the small shows can get an entry of six light mules. Mr. T. Bowler took cup for best bird with his well-knewn Goldie-Can. British were a beautiful collection, some that could hold their own in bigger competition, Mr. T. Bowler still again getting premier honours, also silver and bronze medals for best Brit., a Goldfinch of the first water. Foreign were small in numbers, but very dainty. The society are to be congratulated upon having such an hard-working sec. as Mr. S. C. Pearce, ably assisted by Mr. A. Rivers. Stewards were Messrs. T. Bowler and F. Abbott, who worked hard, and were obliging to the extreme. Mr. Geo. Gardner judged, and his awards were well received.

YKS., BUFF (7): 1, 2, 3, Hawes Bros., a hot team, leader a cl., grand length, nice round head, good subs., well fitting wings, good col., A1 qual., 2 cl., not subs. of winner, wings slightly crossed, nice length, good col. and cond.; 3, Ratter, nice pos., neat wings and tail; vhc, Dimmock; hc, Shilcott; c, Runchman. DONCASTER.

Doncaster C.B.S. being unable to secure a hall large enough to hold the usual annual show, pluckily decided to run two smaller shows in the only hall available. One show for Canaries, and the other for Mules, British and foreign. The latter was held January 9, in a spacious room attached to the Black Bull Hotel, a very suitable place for the purpose. The birds were nicely staged in a good light, and all could be seen without any difficulty. The entry, about 200, compared favourably with previous shows, the largest class being 23. Greenfinches, while quality all through was good, many prominent exhibitors having big teams forward, including a good number from Scotland. Secretary Hunt and his assistant, G. Bescoby, had everything in perfect order, and with the co-operation of Mr. Blanchcon, show manager, and a hard-working committee, the whole of the work was got through without a hitch. A few birds were a bit late in arriving, but their classes were allowed to stand over till the birds arrived. The judge, Mr. J. Maddison, set to work with the classes that were ready, and, being well served by stewards who kept him busy, the judging was finished and all cards up before one o'clock.

VARIEG. CAN. MULE (5): 1, Parlett, head and wing mkd. Linnet, good size, col. and cond.; 2, Blancheon, big var. Goldf., rich col., silky feather, in grand order; 3, 4, Inman, Goldf. CANARY QUERIES

Answered by CLAUDE ST. JOHN.

RAGGED LOOKING (J.D.).—The birds are evidently very susceptible to cold, and are doubtless of a weakly constitution. You should keep them in a comfortable temperature until the spring is getting advanced, but do not overdo it. Give a staple diet of a mixture of three parts canary to one part summer rape. In addition to this give separately half a teaspoonful of crushed sponge cake with four drops of cod liver oil emulsion mixed in it and sprinkled with maw every third day to each bird, and a morsel of banana four times a week in preference to apple. It would also be beneficial to keep a morsel of rind of fat boiled pork or bacon stuck in the wires for them to peck at when they feel inclined. In the drinking water add 20 drops of Chemical Food about every third day. Continue this treatment for a month, and if the birds are not then in good condition, write again, and repeat particulars and I will advise you further.

BOBBING ON PERCH (Jack).—I am afraid I cannot tell you whether the bird is worth treatment or not without more details about its previous treatment, and its symptoms; you give practically no particulars to enable me to form any opinion what is wrong with the bird. Give a staple seed diet the same as you will see recommended here very often, and in addition give a morsel of bread and milk sprinkled with soft sugar every second day, and on the alternate days a spray of watercress or a morsel of banana if the salad is not obtainable. In the drinking water add six drops of syrup of rhubarb and a crystal of sulphate of soda the size of a small pea every second day for a week, and in the following week give instead 20 drops of Chemical Food. If this does not set matters right in a fortnight or so, write again, and give full particulars about the bird, and also how you have been feeding it hitherto, and I will endeavour to help you further.

CANARY WASTING (Constant Reader, Kilburn, W.).—(1) You do not give the slightest clue to the cause of the wasting, so it is not possible to give you the best means of curing it. Better write again and say how you feed it, where you keep it, and give as full particulars as you can as to any symptoms of illness shown by the bird. Meantime give a morsel of bread and milk daily, which you may sprinkle freely with maw to induce bird to eat freely, and add 20 drops of Chemical Food to its drinking water four times a week. (2) Yes, you can safely use, for breeding Canaries, a hen Canary which has previously been used for breeding Mules.

A TRIPLET (New Start).—(1) The sexual difference of Canaries are all comparative, and often very slight, so that it is only by experience and close observation that one can become expert at sexing birds separately with any degree of certainty. The cocks have a bolder and more defiant carriage generally, a bolder eye, and generally carry a richer tone of natural colour on the throat, wing butts, rump, and are better filled in on the under tail coverts, giving a more graceful sweep of outline from the lower breast on to the coverts. The voice is more clear and liquid than the comparatively harsh note of the hen. The song is the surest guide for the inexperienced to judge by. It should be clear, sustained, and unbroken, and the throat is very fully inflated, and throbs unmistakably as the notes are produced. In comparison with a cock the vocal efforts of a singing hen are usually merely a scrappy twitter. (2) See Mr. Norman's column next week for reply to your Mule questions, and please remember that queries for different departments should be written on separate sheets, as they have to go to different persons. (3) I do not know whether it is true that dipping a bird in cold water will make it moult. I doubt it, but would not put it to a practical test, and think the one who would do it would deserve a ducking himself.

SEEDS AND BOOK (Chantrey).—(1) No samples of seeds have come to hand. (2) Our Manager could doubtless get the book for you, or would send you the address of publisher on receipt of a stamped addressed envelope.

MAKE SPITTING NOISE (Berlin).—The bird is suffering from a catarrhal cold, most probably due to exposure to cold draughts, or sudden extremes of heat and cold. Does it hang in a window? If so, that is a sufficient cause. See that any such cause is removed, and in addition to the staple diet give a morsel of bread and milk with three drops of cod liver oil emulsion on it and sprinkled with maw seed every second day for a fortnight or so, and on the alternate days give half a teaspoonful of scalded rape seed, and a morsel of banana. Twice a week also give a small teaspoonful of mixed seed. In the drinking water add five drops each of oxymel of squills, ipecacuanha wine, and sweet spirit of nitre, every second day for a week or so.

BREEDING ROLLERS (J.J.S.).—(1) In starting out to breed Rollers seriously, you would do well to read up the subject in detail, for which purpose you will find much information in Part XVI. of "Our Canaries," and in the chapter in House's "Canary Manual," the last post free from our Manager, for 1s. 2d., and also in the series of articles which have been appearing in our columns for some time past. You could get moderate stock birds at the price you name, but not the best pedigree bred singing strains. They should be good enough for the first year until you have gained a little experience. (2) Only one hen should be paired with each cock at the same time, but he could be mated with two or three hens in succession. (3) You should not run two or three pairs together in the same cage, if that is what you mean. It is much better to keep each hen, or pair, in a separate cage. (4) Yes, a good box 4ft. square could doubtless be converted into very decent breeding cages. If divided horizontally and vertically by partitions into four equal sections, and each section provided with punched bar wire fronts, it would make four good sized breeding cages. But that is all it will do, as to divide it up into any more would be to spoil all. By all means keep the cages in the room above the kitchen with no fire. It will be far better in every way than the kitchen. But do not get birds from a heated room to keep there, unless you wait till the weather is mild in spring before starting. (5) Answered in No. 1.

RELATIONSHIP (Novice).—(1) The birds you propose mating are half-brother and sister, which is very close indeed, and such matings, as I am frequently pointing out, should only be tolerated when there is a definite object in view, and then only when the parents have not been previously in-bred to any extent. You do not say whether you have any such object in view or not. The parents of these birds not being in-bred a casual mating like this would be just permissible, but still, if it is only just for the sake of making up a pair, you would be better advised in getting unrelated mates for the birds. (2) I do not quite see what you mean in "a matter of luck." If it is that the hen is a chance bred bird, with no marked tendency to breed even-marked specimens in the strain she comes of, then it will certainly be a matter of luck if she breeds anything striking in that line herself. Still, as the cock must have a fair amount of even-mark blood in his veins, there is certainly a very fair chance of a more or less perfect marked bird turning up. The bulk will probably be clear and ticked, with some lightly variegated.

LOSING FEATHERS (New Year).—See that he is not exposed to cold draughts or sudden extremes of temperature. In addition to the staple seed diet give half a teaspoonful of crushed sponge cake with four drops of sherry and two of cod liver oil emulsion well mixed in it and sprinkled with maw seed every second day for a fortnight or so, and on the alternate days give a similar quantity of a mixture of equal parts hemp, niger, teazle, millet, and broken groats, and a morsel of banana. Also dissolve half a drachm of ammoniated citrate of iron and quinine in an ounce of sherry, add a teaspoonful of glycerine, and give 20 drops of this in the drinking water two days in every three until the feathers have ceased dropping.

BRITISH BIRDS, MULES AND HYBRIDS.

Answered by H. NORMAN.

PET BIRD (Esperance).—A Jay or Magpie makes a capital pet, and either is not a difficult bird to feed, as scraps from the table form a good portion of the food, and the remainder is not very expensive. They can be taught to imitate sounds, and some of them speak quite plainly, and they are otherwise very amusing. Now, about getting one, the best time is during the early summer, when, if you watch our advertisement columns, you will be sure to see young ones offered for sale. You should procure one that still requires a little hand-feeding, and if you handle him frequently and allow him a little liberty he will grow up into a tractable pet, although the Magpie is occasionally given to being a bit vicious, and a good sound peck from his strong beak is something to be remembered. Some of them, however, are much better in this respect than others, and when properly managed remain very tractable.

The barbarous and mistaken idea that the splitting of the tongue improves a bird's talking capacity has long been a thing of the past, and no intelligent person ever believed in it. As regards the Blackcap, it is certainly a delightful songster, and not difficult to keep in confinement to bird-lovers that have had a little experience in bird-keeping. It keeps very tame, but could not be let out of the cage and handled in the same way as a Magpie or Jay. On the whole I should think one of the latter would suit you best. You could keep him in a big rough box with a wire front or in a properly-made cage. A Parrot's cage is not at all suitable, although I happen to know where there is one kept in such a cage, but his plumage is not good, and the bird is cramped, and has anything but a happy look. You would procure your Blackcap during the summer, when a few are offered for sale, price about 10s. One of the larger birds would not cost you so much to buy.

MULE AILING (Sam).—I have carefully read your letter, and note you are still in trouble with your bird; I am afraid he is not particularly strong. Treat him as follows: Give the seed mixture of canary and teazle, but for a time discontinue the rape. Give the wild seed mixture and the maw seed. Let all his drinking water be boiled or distilled. Procure from the chemist one oz. of citrate of iron with ammonia, dissolve a drachm of it in two ozs. of port wine, and give 10 drops in two tablespoonsful of water; this is strengthening and binding, so watch his motions, and use discretion in giving it. Put him in your largest cage and let him bathe daily, giving the bath early in the morning; take it away about 10 o'clock if he does not use it.

LOSING MEALWORMS (Redwing).—Sorry to hear you are losing your worms, especially as they are just now so valuable and difficult to obtain. Have you noticed any very tiny insects running about your box? If so, these are the cause of your loss, and you will have to throw away the contents and thoroughly clean the box, or, better still, destroy it. I also note you have had the box in use several years; this is not desirable. It is a much better plan to start fresh boxes from time to time; there is such a thing as a mealworm box becoming insanitary. You say you have "transferred some to another box"; if these have gone on all right, it should be a proof that your old box only wants a thorough overhauling, and that there is no disease among the mealworms.

COLOUR OF BULLFINCH (Thomas Yale).—I am glad to hear your Bullie is better, and the change of position had the desired effect. I am also pleased you did well with him at the show. Respecting the colour, a bird the age of yours would not improve now. Colour is in the blood, and although colour-feeding gives a certain darker tone, it lacks that peculiar brightness which is so noticeable in a good coloured wild specimen. The bird you mention is quite abnormal as regards colour, although I remember a specimen equally as rich, which I know had no assistance, but was simply moulted in the open and fed on an abundance of wild seeds and berries. (2) It is a difficult matter to put into words the difference between British and Siberian Bullies; the great difference as a rule is size, but there are other distinguishing features which one knows more by what I may term intuition than anything else.

FOREIGN BIRDS.

Answered by WESLEY T. PAGE, F.Z.S.

IN POOR PLUMAGE (W.P.).—Your Parrakeet is undoubtedly a young bird, and evidently belongs to one of the races of Ringnecks. Every fourth day for a month put one teaspoonful of Dinneford's Magnesia in the drinking water, and on the intervening days put half a teaspoonful of syrup of hypophosphates in the water. In addition to the seed mixture (one quart each canary, white millet and white oats, one pint each hemp, sunflower, dari, and crushed maize, and half a pint of shelled nuts, the whole to be well mixed and stored in a dust-tight tin), supply ripe fruit (any kind it will take), crusts of bread, biscuits, and plain cake. Cuttlebone, grit, and a piece of a branch of a tree should be continually in the cage. Keep the bird out of draughts and not above the gas jets. As the bird gains in condition the feathers will be normally produced. Slightly moisten a piece of biscuit, crust of bread, or sponge cake with hot water, dust it with flowers of sulphur, and supply to the bird once or twice daily. Do not give tea, coffee, or milk sops, table scraps, or any kind of animal food whatever. Treat carefully as above, and report progress a month hence.

CUTTHROATS, ETC. (Spearing).—No general principal can be laid down, but it certainly prevents waste of energy if the sexes can be separated from

"Colour-feeding" (3½d.); or the "Nutshell" booklets (2½d. each); No. 6 "Ailing Birds and How to Cure Them," No. 9 "The Disinfection of Cages, Bird-rooms, etc.," No. 14 "Gouldian Finches," No. 16 "Avadavats," No. 17 "The Grey Parrot," No. 18 "Budgerigars," No. 19 "The Pekin Robin," No. 20 "Warbills." November till March inclusive, and when birds are kept in cages they are best so treated. Cutthroats are very erratic in reproduction. Some pairs are very prolific, others will simply lay clutch after clutch, and merely play at incubation, often not rearing a single youngster in the season. Again, others will incubate and hatch out, then forsake the young when a few days old, and begin to nest again. Separate your pair till the middle or end of March according to the weather, then put them together again, supplying a fresh, clean nest receptacle, and let them take their own way without any undue interference. The liberty you give them ought to help matters considerably. When young are hatched, in addition to canary, white and spray millet, supply greenfood liberally; some live food (such as mealworms, gentles, and anything small you can get from garden), but let it be as varied as season permits; a little of some good make of insectile mixture; and keep a small tin of dried ants' eggs within their reach. The above will apply to many species of foreign Finch. I should say a pair of Zebra Finches would do well with you.

BUDGERIGARS (A. M. Cook).—As your birds are evidently without husks at present do not supply these till the early part of March. They can have any kind of greenfood they will take. I do not favour watercress being given too liberally, and it must be thoroughly well washed before being given to the birds. It is difficult to suggest a remedy to the mice. Traps should be kept going continually to keep their numbers down. If the cages hang on a wall, this can be made unclimbable by covering the area the cages occupy, and a good space all round them, with sheet zinc. If the cages stand on a table, the legs of the table should be similarly made unclimbable; more I cannot say without knowing definitely what your conditions are. If the birds are not let out into the room at all, it should not be difficult to keep the mice down by trap and poison.

GENERAL.

Answered by THE EDITOR.

P. Small.—We have been told of, and read of, Canaries that could talk, but have never had the pleasure of listening to one. Of course, we have heard birds which have said "Pretty Dick," "Kiss Pretty Dick," etc., etc.; but this we are unable to term "talking," the sounds construed into the said words being merely natural notes of the birds.

POST MORTEMS.

Mr. G. Yates, M.R.C.V.S., 1, College Road, Harrow, Middlesex, will examine and report upon dead cage birds for a fee of 1s. 6d. each bird; for reply direct, 2s. 6d., analysis, 21s. Subjects for post mortem examination must be sent packed in a box direct to Mr. Yates, with the fee, this and any accompanying letter being kept from contact with the dead bird. Send by letter post: it is cheaper and quicker than parcel post. Any bodies sent to the office of this paper will be thrown away, and if a fee is enclosed the loss will be the sender's.

Norwich Hen.—Death occurred from heart failure. The Bird was over fat, and its heart's action impeded.

J. Cockram.—Bacterial necrosis of the lungs; a very troublesome and fatal disease, and highly contagious. The bird was in excellent condition, but a large patch of the lung had been affected for some time. The disease is due to a germ which destroys the tissues with which it comes in contact, producing necrosis (or local death). Separate healthy from diseased, and disinfect thoroughly.

An Aviary That Beautifies a London Backyard.

The property of Mr. G. A. Parker, of Stratford, who, with his son, is seen in the photograph. Mr. Parker is a keen lover of birds, both Canaries and Britishers, and has exhibited with success.

A Leave-Taking at the Hastings and St. Leonards C.B.S.

The Rev. J. M. Paterson, the esteemed president of this society, recently left to take up duties abroad. He is seen seated in the centre, and the cup on the left is one he presented to the club; the other he himself, a keen exhibitor, won outright.

Now is the Time to Select Your Birds for Breeding

The One Standard Cage-Bird Book that will never let you down.

Do not do it in a haphazard way. Try expert knowledge. Try breeding according to rules which are founded on years of patient experiment. Try selecting and mating and pairing your Birds after you have studied what the experts say. This is the way to produce Prize Birds. The Book that will teach you how is the Waverley Standard Book on the subject—

CANARIES, HYBRIDS, AND BRITISH BIRDS

Written by well-known Fanciers in every Department.

Complete in One Compact Volume, with Reliable Coloured Plates.
Supplied with a Magnificent Anatomical Model of a Canary.

SENT ON APPROVAL
FOR A WEEK'S FREE EXAMINATION AT HOME.

The Only Breeding Guide You Need.

Point I.—It covers the whole ground, and is the only book the Fancier needs.

Point II.—It is written by men who are making big money by breeding Cage Birds; every subject is treated by a Specialist.

Point III.—It begins at the beginning: it is equally valuable to the novice as to the practised Fancier.

Point IV.—It embodies the results of years of patient experiment and enables its owner to profit by the wisdom and experience of the most famous breeders.

Point V.—It is practically Illustrated in every department: and the Coloured Plates are exactly true to nature, enabling the Breeder to see what he is breeding to.

Point VI.—It has an Index of over 600 items, so that every point of doubt or difficulty can be turned up in an instant. At the same time the various sections are written by such genuine Bird-lovers that the delighted Fancier is captivated. He reads right on!

Test it FREE ON EACH of THESE POINTS.

Point VII.—It is absolutely up-to-date in every department. It gives the latest authoritative information on Shows, Exhibiting, and the Standard points, defects, etc., of every recognised breed of Canary and Cage Bird and Hybrid.

Point VIII.—It contents are highly stimulative and suggestive to the intelligent Breeder. This is especially true of the section on the breeding of Hybrids in which is embodies much information that has never before been tabulated on this fascinating subject. Here, too, the breeder is informed of those Crosses that have not as yet been achieved.

Point IX.—It is the latest, the best, the most complete book on everything concerning Canaries, Cage-birds and British Birds of every description. Get it for Free approval to-day, and you will see that it is the ONE BOOK YOU NEED—if you mean to win at the next Show, or if you are just a Bird-lover who does not go in for Exhibitions at all; or if you keep Birds and want to know more about them. Send it back if you decide not to order it.

Mr. Bryant, Acton, London :—
"Best work on this subject I have ever seen."

Mr. Ralph Harrison, Whitley Bay :—
"The book to make breeding a success—complete in every department."

Mr. H. Hancock, Burslem :—
"I think the book a great help and well worth the money."

Mr. Lenjon, Cl.dach, Rhondda Valley :—
"I have no hesitation in recommending it to young breeders as essential. Without doubt the most complete work of its kind."

Hundreds of Enthusiastic Letters.

Mr. McLinden, Dublin :—
"It commends itself to the past master in bird keeping, and is invaluable to the amateur, for it is written in such simple language. The chapters on Rearing and Pairing are very explicit, and the coloured plates are, to my mind, simply superb."

Mrs. Bertram, Christchurch, Hants :—
"I have found it of the greatest use, while the illustrations are of value to the novice and the expert alike. The sections dealing with Hybrids is especially commendable, and should prove of service to fanciers."

14 DAYS' TRIAL—OUR RISK

Preston Contest Rollers, same champion strain that we supplied the winners at the principal contests for years and have received thousands of testimonials. Here are a few received this last few days. Mr. Daniel Jones, 12, Wind-st., Aberdare, writes: "Received the Roller safe. I am highly satisfied with my bargain." Mr. W. Wilson, 171, Bryan-st., Hanley, writes: "I am very pleased with the bird. Please send me a Roller hen." Mr. A. E. Jeffries, Hartforth, Richmond, Yorks. breeder and exhibitor: "Enclose, 5/- in settlement for the Roller cock, which has turned out the best I have ever had. You can rely on my orders." Mr. John Tunstall, 21, Hotspur-st., Backworth, Northumberland, writes: "Roller to hand all right on Tuesday morning. He has been singing day and night. These wonderful songsters, only 15/- each, on 14 days' trial at our risk; special terms, send 10/- deposit to us and promise balance in two weeks, and we will send one of these non-such Rollers on 14 days' trial at our risk. Hens same strain, 3/6 and 4/6 each; Yorkshire, Norwich and other Canaries on the same terms; lists free: Bairstows, Ormskirk-rd., Preston. (1981)

WHERE DOES THE VALUE COME IN?

Well, according to the quality of song, and the only way to ensure satisfaction is to have on approval and hear for yourself. This, too, is the only safeguard against receiving unsound specimens dear at any price. Amongst the following are some very highly trained birds, which include water Glucke, pure Seifert, British-bred Rollers, Randall's etc.; cocks 6/6, 7/6, 10/6, 15/-, 20/-; hens, 1/9, 2/-, 2/6; a grand lot of pure Randall's hens, 3/6 and 5/-, in finest breeding condition; if you pay 10/- each, you can get none better than these. I can strongly and honestly recommend them. Buy now, and save disappointment later; pair matched for breeding, 7/6, 8/6, 10/6, to 25/-; cages 3d.: W. Rudd, The Bird Specialist, Norwich.

What Hundreds of Thousands

Have said, you will say, if you will only favour me with an opportunity to send any bird or birds you require on approval. As to Testimonials as proof, I shall be delighted to show any person favouring me with a call, more than they would otherwise believe. I have this week sent another batch for the Editor's inspection, and allow me to point out that these are not the savings of years, nor do I refer you to antediluvian opinions.—As a matter of fact, it is my opinion that the Editor of CAGE BIRDS has examined more thousands of testimonials sent by me than units of any other person or firm.

PLAIN-HEADED NORWICH Winners and stock as follows:—Cocks, 6/6, 7/6, 8/6, 10/6; hens, 3/-, 4/-; pairs, 8/6, 10/6, 12/6, 15/-, 20/-, 30/- up.

Twitterings.

Mr. Wm. Wrigley writes that he has removed from 143, Back Lane, to 53, Fountain Street, Godley, Hyde.

I read your Birthday Number with great appreciation; the articles were most interesting.—P. Page (Highgate).

The British Roller Canary Club has decided to hold the International Show as usual, and it will take place on Feb. 19 and 20, writes Mr. J. W. Norris, the Hon. Sec.

I thought the Birthday Issue of Cage Birds was very nice, and I thank you for the good things in the way of articles and Plate of Goldfinches.—E. Moffatt (Carlisle).

Mr. W. Curry, hon. sec., writes that Gateshead and Dist. C.B.S. has fixed Dec. 10 and 11 for the next annual show. Will societies please make a note of same?

Mr. H. Legg, Hon. Sec. of the Crystal Palace and Penge C.B.S., has resigned owing to pressure of business. All communications should now be addressed to W. D. Fryett, 25, Gowland Place, Croydon Road, Beckenham, Kent.

The pair show of the Highgate, Hampstead C.B.S. is on Saturday, Jan. 23, at Spencer Hall, Dartmouth Park Hill (close by Tufnell Park tube station and tram and bus routes), writes Mr. J. Hyde, the sec. Visitors welcomed during the afternoon and evening. Mr. G. E. Weston is judging.

My heartiest felicitations upon your birthday number this week. The coloured plate of Goldfinches is indeed splendidly executed and worth framing, whilst the numerous articles are intensely interesting to all bird lovers. Long live Cage Birds is the sincere wish of an old admirer.—John B. Waterman (East Dulwich).

Mr. David Reeks, 67, Henslowe Road, East Dulwich, has been elected Hon. Sec. of the Dulwich and Peckham C.B.S., writes Mr. A. G. Cant, late hon. sec. I hope members and friends will give him the same support as I have received during my year of office. I wish him every success, also the society. Mr. John B. Waterman has for the sixth successive year been elected a Vice-President of the Society.

I have been awaiting the arrival of the Birthday Number of Cage Birds impatiently, and am more than pleased with the fine coloured plate of Goldfinches, also the article discussing the same, which is very instructive. When I say I have never missed a single number of Cage Birds for the last eight or nine years, it is clear proof that your paper has always been greatly appreciated, and I hope we may continue to receive so many good things weekly for the small outlay of one penny.—H. A. Wilson (Bishop Auckland).

We hear that prize-money has been paid in respect of Doncaster and Llanelly shows. Anyone accidentally overlooked should apply to the respective secretaries.

We have had occasion before to refer to the satisfaction the customers of that well-known specialist, Mr. W. Rudd, of Norwich, derive from their dealings with him. Further incontrovertible evidence comes to hand this week, a bulky package left by the postman proving to contain between two and three hundred letters and postcards, all bearing postmarks of quite recent date, which Mr. Rudd has received from his clients expressing their great approval of the birds, cages, medicines, and other specialities purchased from him—a gratifying achievement.

Mr. J. R. Meikle, sec., Scottish National C.B.S., sends the following particulars of special prize-winners at the recent Edinburgh New Year's show:—Point winners: Crest, rose bowl, A. J. Smith, Birmingham; 5s. specials; Norwich, W. Crawshaw; Crest, A. J. Smith; Border, H. Bennet; Yorks., R. Heggie and H. H. Towers (tie); Mules, Martin and Archer; British, J. Sykes. Mr. D. Kinlayside's prize for most entries, T. Arnot (Hawick). Result of Gift Class: 1st, A. Bremner, Juniper Green, ticket No. 401; 2nd, Miss Wyne, Juniper Green, 402; 3rd, — McKinnon, Juniper Green, 498; 4th, J. Kerr, Edinburgh, 5; 5th, H. Napier, Juniper Green, 490; 6th, — Crawford, Longstone, 361; 7th, — Yule, Loanhead.

OBITUARY.

MR. S. PIKE (Reading).

I regret to inform you, writes Mr. O. C. Smith, sec. Reading C.B.S., of the death of Mr. S. Pike, one of the best supporters the society has ever had, and one whose place it will be hard to fill. Always willing to give, when the society needed, his cups which he gave to be won by members each year will always remind the members of the great good he did for all. I am sure all members share in deepest sympathy with Mrs. Pike and family in their great loss.

Our Coloured Plate.

Allow me a word of praise for your splendid coloured plate, also the article, re good and bad exhibition Goldfinches. I think every credit is due to your splendid artist, Mr. Norman, also to Mr. Prior for his able article. Their combined efforts have made it clear to the novice what goes to make a good or bad exhibition bird. I am delighted with it as, being only a novice, it has taught me something I have wanted to know for a long time. It shows at a glance whether your bird has any chance of success on the show bench. I wish Cage Birds every success.—S. Starling (Middlesbrough).

Surrey's January Blackcap.

A correspondent of "The Field" records the appearance of a Blackcap Warbler in his garden on January 5. He says: "It was sitting close to the ground on the bough of a small tree within a few feet of the window. On closer examination I saw that the bird was a male Blackcap. It stayed nearly a minute, and gave a good view of its head, throat, tail, and general coloration. It then fluttered in a half-hearted way round the corner of the house, and although I ran out of the front door to get another view it had disappeared." The occurrence of the Blackcap during mild winters is not unknown.

A Fine Year's Progress.

We started last January with a membership of ten, and now have 74 on the books, most of them keen fanciers, writes Mr. H. P. Thomas, sec., Barry F. and F.S., so I think we can look forward to a strong society in this district. We are taking a postal vote of members for officers and committee; thus every member is given a chance of a say in the management of the society. [The balance-sheet to hand shows the satisfactory amount of £8 5s. 7d. cash in hand.—Editor, "C.B."]

Do Snakes Fascinate Birds?

I was walking in the Australian Bush on a warm summer day, when I had my attention drawn to a bird that was fluttering in a helpless way about 3ft. from the ground. On approaching quietly, I saw a snake immediately underneath it, with head slightly raised, and its eyes fixed upon the bird. What the end would have been I know not, for my appearance broke the charm, if such it was, and the snake disappeared. I have an idea that the bird would have gradually got nearer the snake, and then with one lightning stroke the bird would have been seized.—C. Brown (Mitta Mitta, Victoria, Australia) in "The Nottingham Guardian."

The Study of Scientific Breeding.

Now is the time when fanciers turn their attention to the mating of their birds with a view to breeding specimens that will conquer at the shows later on. Far too many people are inclined to trust to chance in this important matter, to bring "a likely-looking pair" together, to treat them well as regards food and housing, though with no very special care for their particular needs, and then to trust to "luck," or some equally uncertain quantity, for progeny that shall do the undeserving owner proud. It is too late in the day for these haphazard methods Bird breeding has made enormous advances of late years; very little indeed is now left to chance; and the man who is not prepared to recognise this, and to study the ways of the experts, to apply the rules as laid down by them after years of patient experiment, had far better leave bird-keeping alone. A book that teaches all about bird breeding is the Waverley Book Company's "Canaries, Hybrids, and Cage Birds in Cage and in Aviary," of which particulars will be found in our advertising columns. We strongly advise our readers to take advantage of the enterprising publishers' offer to send this grand book for a week's free approval. Praise of a book is superfluous when you may, without spending a penny, read it and examine the coloured plates of every known breed for seven days clear, and test its excellence in your own home. No man or woman who wishes to breed good birds can afford to ignore this sound and standard book on the subject.

REVIEW OF SCHEDULE.

Haltwhistle C.B.S.—Mechanics' Hall, Feb. 3. Judges, W. C. Duncan, A. Holden. 30 open classes: Bord. 10 (2 Nov.), Ncr. 7 (1 Nov.), Yorks. 4 (1 Nov.), Sell. 1, Brit. 5, Mule 2, For. 1. Fee 1s. Prizes 8s., 4s., 2s. Entries close Jan. 30, to Wm. Tallantyre, South View, Haltwhistle.

BUSINESS AS USUAL.

"I have sold nearly all my dogs, through 3 advertisements in CAGE BIRDS, after spending pounds on other papers without an answer." —(Miss) M. ROGERS (Cambridge).

"I received 30 answers to my last advt. in CAGE BIRDS and have supplied the majority of the applicants with rugs."—F. JONES (Manchester).

"I must thank you for the number of answers I had to my advt. in last week's CAGE BIRDS, and I had so many that I found it no easy task to sort them out, and I could not reply to them all."—H. KAY (Blackpool).

"Kindly let the numerous applicants for birds know through your valuable paper that I have disposed of all I have to sell. I have received about 30 letters through my advt. in CAGE BIRDS. I wish your paper every success." —A. J. CLARKE (East Dulwich).

THE GREAT WELSH NATIONAL SHOW.

A Review of the Splendid Schedule.

The Welsh National Show to be held at Cardiff, Feb. 5, 6 and 8 promises to be a very worthy substitute for the Crystal Palace event which this year has had to be abandoned, and will be welcomed by the many fanciers who have for so many years looked upon the familiar glass house as providing a final gathering of owners and birds of the season.

A splendid schedule of 138 classes has been sent out, and all sections have been liberally provided for. Yorks. have 24 classes, four of which are for amateurs, 7 for novices, and 3 selling. Norwich the same; while Borders have 6 open classes, 3 novices and 4 Greens. There are 6 classes for Lizards, 6 Crests, 2 C.B., 4 Cinnamons, 2 each Lancashires, Belgians and Scotch Fancy. Green Yorks. and Green Norwich have 4 each, and 2 selling classes are for Canaries other than Yorks. and Nor. There are 9 classes for Hybrids, 23 for British, 4 of which are for amateurs and novices. The Foreign classification comprises 10 classes, and a stock class makes up the total of 138.

The judges are: Messrs. H. C. Smith, Yorks., except Greens; E. W. Allsopp, Norwich, except Greens; D. Jenkins, Borders; J. R. Leech, Lizards; J. Robson, Crests and C.B., Cinn., Lancs., Belgians, Scotch, Green Yorks. and Nor., and Sell.; D. A. S. Longden, Hybrids and odd numbers in British; W. F. Lloyd James, even number British classes; and W. T. Page the Foreign birds. It will be seen that, except in the case of Mr. Robson who takes a number of sections, each section will be in the hands of a specialist in the particular variety which he is judging, and it is all to the credit of the Principality that no less than six of the eight judges are resident in Wales.

Among the numerous specials are challenge cups for Yorks., Norwich, Borders, Hybrids, British, and Foreign, and there are gold medals or cash and other specials in most of the various sections. Prize-money is 10s., 6s., 3s., 2s. 6d., 2s. and 1s. 6d., for a fee of 2s. (affiliated members 1s. 6d.), and entries close Jan. 30, positively (there will be no whip-up cards) to, W. Sampson, 93 Llanishen St., Cardiff.

A most useful innovation which appears in the schedule in the form of a time-table of night trains from all parts, timed to arrive in Cardiff in the early hours of Thursday morning, Feb. 4, marks the attention to detail which has been given by the officials responsible for the running of the show. The chairman, Mr. Banks; treas., and show-manager, Mr. Sampson; sec., Mr. Thomas, and the committee are all experienced in show management, and are unanimous in their intention to make the first National Show of Wales worthy of its name. If any extra inducement be needed to stimulate entries we need only say that the proceeds of the show will go to swell the Prince of Wales' patriotic fund.

An Interesting Event at the Zoo.

The Quaint Kagu Ends the Old Year Well by Laying an Egg.

THOSE of our readers who have seen that very rare and quaint bird, the Kagu, at the London Zoo, will be interested to learn that there seems a fair prospect of some baby Kagus putting in an appearance there. This bird, the sole species, inhabits New Caledonia only, and in its wild state is nocturnal in its habits, and seems to have practically lost the power of flight. It has a beautiful crest (after the manner of the Hoopoe), which it expands at will.

In announcing this interesting event on Dec. 31, in "The Field," Mr. D. Seth-Smith writes:—"Our Kagus are amongst the most interesting as well as the most valuable of the birds in the Gardens, and since our single bird, received in 1906, was, thanks to the generosity of the Marquis of Tavistock, provided in 1913 with three companions, the prospect of some day breeding this species in the Gardens did not appear to be so remote as formerly. Mr. Finckh, of Sydney, on one occasion hatched a Kagu chicken and one egg at least was laid in our Zoological Gardens years ago.

Our old Kagu, 'Johnnie,' which has been in the Gardens for nearly nine years, was always thought to be a male from the way it persistently displayed, throwing up its crest and extending its long breast feathers. Mr. Heumann, who has kept several Kagus in Australia, told me that the sexes could be distinguished by the colour of the eyes. A superficial examination of our birds revealed little difference, but when closely viewed one was able to see that in the three new birds the iris was bright red over its whole extent, whereas in the old bird this had a dull ring surrounding the pupil. When Mr. Heumann was here in the summer he examined the eyes of our birds and pronounced the old bird to be a female and the three new ones to be males.

Not knowing the means of distinguishing the sex, we put two of the new Kagus into the summer aviary last spring in the belief that they were a pair. Kagus do not readily take to new mates, and it was some time before the old bird would allow another in the same compartment of the aviary. However, after a time we got her to agree with one of the new birds and now they are quite friendly together in the large central part of the western aviary.

Acclaiming the Deed.

Early in the morning of the last day of the year, long before it was light, the keeper, Bailey, who lives in the lodge in the Gardens, heard the Kagus calling very loudly. He had never before heard them at this time, and never at any time had they been heard to call so loudly. He could not think what was the cause, but on visiting the aviary later, an egg was discovered in the semi-darkness of one of the back shelters. There was no pretence of a nest, and as the aviary contains a very mixed collection of birds, some of which would almost certainly have eaten the egg, it was taken away and placed in an incubator.

Whether this egg will prove to be fertile or not it is impossible to say, but there seems no reason why it should not be, and we hope for the best in spite of the very bad time of the year. Very possibly the young might not be particularly difficult to rear. But whether we succeed in this case or not it is much to be hoped that now that this pair has commenced to lay, they may do so again when better weather prevails, and they can be placed in an aviary better suited for incubation and the rearing of young. It appears that only one egg is laid.

By E. W. ALLSOPP (Cardiff).

AT this stage it will be helpful to say that the success in the winter management of my stock is materially governed by three important factors, viz., winter, feeding, and exercise. There are some fanciers who regard, and have expounded their views of, the winter as being a season of recuperation, whereby, providing reasonable care is exercised in the management of the robust stock, and special care expended upon the stock that is not robust, the breeding season is eventually reached with every bird a picture of health and good condition, stored up within them being such reserve supplies of health, stamina, and energy as will easily carry them through.

Now I hold the expounders of these views in the greatest respect, not because I claim some of them as friends, but because their doctrine is put forth in the sincere belief that it is the correct one. Nevertheless I heartily disagree with it.

A Period of Stress.

In the first place I cannot, after a fairly close association with Nature in many moods, believe that the winter season is recuperative in the way some imagine. Indeed, the evidence of my eyes, coupled with a fairly lengthy experience, has convinced me that Nature during the average winter season subjects her birdie families to the severest physical tests of endurance, by visiting upon them extreme degrees of cold (cutting off practically all food supplies for more or less lengthy periods) severe spells of flood and wind. For what purpose?—for I say there must be a purpose in view. Merely to carry out her inexorable decree of the survival of the fittest. My winter scheme in the management of the stock leads to the same end; the end that is safest, the end that has served Nature's purpose from the moment of creation. 'Tis true my stock cannot experience the full rigours of the winter conditions, by reason of being housed in a room. Nevertheless, the latter is unheated, and subject to the varying temperatures and climatic conditions that are passing, and though these may be modified in severity, they come fairly into line with the tests as applied outside, allowing for the refinement brought about by captivity.

Regarding cages, I have all of box pattern, ranging from twenty-four to forty-eight inches in length. Of course I cannot hope that in these my stock is going to obtain the practically unlimited exercise offered in a state of nature; nor is it necessary. Experience has proved that leaving out of our calculation the breeding season, a Canary, cock or hen, not prone to fatness, can be maintained in perfect health and condition even if confined for several years in nothing larger than a twenty-four inch cage.

Establishing Their Constitutions.

Nevertheless, even though it be so, I arrange from the close of one breeding season until the commencement of another, that all my weeks in turns in the forty-eight inch flights. birds shall have at least a few uninterrupted My reason for so doing is to establish their constitutions, particularly in birds of the current year, to build it up to the highest state of efficiency, and to strengthen any weakness that may be present, which exercise is likely to permanently benefit, before the advent of real wintry conditions.

Now we arrive at the all-important matter of feeding. My endeavour in this respect is to adopt a minimum scale of feeding that will be sufficient to meet the full needs of the robust stock, but will nevertheless not be sufficient to bolster up the weaklings throughout the testing period. In short, my system of management to be successful must be such that trying and searching climatic conditions will surely guide my hand to those birds not fitted for the duties ahead; exact counterparts of those whom Nature is laying her heavy hand upon outside, which go under just as surely as do my own weaklings, of course, after assuring myself that their distress under the testing circumstances is not due to accidental origin, if I may so describe those ailments to which even the most robust are liable.

To learn that any of the defaulters are merely constitutionally weak, but otherwise sound, does not, however, bring forth a reprieve at my hands, for I realise it is no part of Nature's programme to blend the weak with the strong, or the strong with the weak, Success is dependent solely upon the support the strong render those who also are strong.

In ruthlessly carrying out Nature's teaching in my birdroom, I fully realise that experience is what is most needed. What is a safe minimum of diet? You only determine this after you have obtained real experience of your stock. The fancier who annually clears out the bulk of his birds to replace with others, cannot hope to succeed under this sytem. At least a cycle of twelve-months is needed to obtain the true measure of the health and stamina of some of your stock. Under this system I have been "pals" with some of my stock through three, four, and even five years of experience, during the winter seasons of which they "suffered" nothing worse than contentment under my management.

With the same determination to succeed as Nature succeeds, I pursue my way, and if a mortality of only two hens during the past three breeding seasons is any criterion of success, then I am doing well. There also is the fact of the mortality amongst the babies from successfully hatching to the conclusion of the moult not exceeding five per cent. during the same period of time to be considered. To this may be added the pleasing spectacle of your stock carrying out their parental duties in a manner as Nature intended.

With such a stock founded upon the principle of "the survival of the fittest," you may note the fleeting shadow of a bird passing the birdroom window, and instantly a note of alarm will ring out, every bird is hushed to silence, and stands rigid, but ever alert for further action. 'Tis merely the instinct of self preservation from a possible feathered foe that has asserted itself as strongly to-day as at any time in the past. Again, during the breeding season a tiny squeak given forth by the handle of your birdroom door will silence all within. A peep reveals each cock bird defiant, though apprehensive, whilst some of the hens have already scuttled to their nests, and are nestling down, oh! so closely, to their precious charges of eggs or babies, until all signs of danger are past. Again, merely instinctive precautions.

If a period of five hundred years of cage-life has, as alleged, killed the more vital instincts of sitting and feeding, why have not these minor instincts been also destroyed? Can it be after all merely a matter of maintaining in the birdroom this most vital law of "the survival of the fittest" if we would be really successful?

Although the articles of diet given my stock during the winter are much in common with those of other breeders, it may perhaps prove helpful to touch upon them in a general way, and I will conclude this article by so doing in the next instalment.

A New Show.

SIR,—Crowtrees Working Men's Club (Bowburn) C.B.S. is getting up a new show for members and affiliated members (radius of eight miles). There will be a meeting of the society on Saturday, Feb. 6, at 6.30 p.m., and anyone wishing to become a member can do so by attending this meeting, or by writing to the secretary, who will give all particulars.

The Giving of Prize Cards.

SIR,—I was very glad to see someone writing about not receiving prize-cards from the L.C.B.A. show. I had the pleasure of winning in the champion Norwich section, and was expecting a nice prize-card from a show like this, and was disappointed on receiving my prize-money and no card. I think myself that when fanciers win at a show like this, they like to get a prize-card to show for it.

DEVONSHIRE.

Home Grown Bird Seed.

SIR,—I am anxious to grow a certain amount of seed for my aviary birds, Canaries and small foreigners. Would it be possible to grow millet and rape as garden crops? Canary seed I fear would not ripen in this country. At a time in which seed is so costly any information on this point would, I believe, interest other readers, and I shall be very glad if some one can oblige us.

BIRD LOVER.

[We should like to hear the experiences of readers on these points. We have had sent to us samples of canary seed grown in this country. It had ripened nicely. Given in the ear (like millet sprays) it is greatly relished by all birds.—EDITOR.]

A Fancier's Experiences in the Fighting Line.

SIR,—I have just returned from France, where I have been with my regiment, the Coldstream Guards, since Sept. 1, and we have seen some rough times, as you will guess. At one time I got lost from the trenches near La Bassee. Amongst some ruins I noticed a cote of pigeons, the birds refusing to leave their abode in spite of the heavy bombardment continually going on. There was plenty of corn on the stacks for them. They used to fly about as if nothing unusual was happening. I also saw a very fine cock Bullfinch. This little fellow used to come and perch in an apple tree, which was quite near the end of our trench. I could not hear the songs of any other birds near; they must have suffered round about the firing-line, as the concussion from the heavy artillery was surely enough to kill them. I found in a ruined house a cage with open door and a supply of seed and water. That was quite near the place where Master Bullie perched, and I came to the conclusion that these poor people, not being able to take him away with them, had given him his liberty. He seemed, with his bright red coat, to be "on guard" till his owner returned. I may say that I am laid up for a time in Hendon Hospital.

A FANCIER FROM GRASMERE.

An Alleged "Canker" in the Ardwick and Manchester C.B.S.

SIR,—The writer would like to take up the challenge thrown out by "A.S.P.," as he styles himself, evidently too much of a coward to place his name at the foot of his letter, the contents of same being an entirely false accusation, which he can neither prove nor substantiate. His letter will, in next week's issue, be dealt with by the society itself, which will be quite equal to the occasion. All I ask is that "A.S.P." will be manly and straightforward with the society he appears to speak so highly of, and at the same time accuses of underhanded work, by replying to our answer to his letter, and that he will have the moral courage to sign his name.

The Spotted Flycatcher in Captivity.

SIR,—I see by the interesting article regarding the Spotted Flycatcher that it is rather a difficult bird to keep for any length of time. Perhaps it may be of interest to some of your many readers to know that on the 30th of July, 1913, I moated off a young moulted bird, but during the winter it went into poor condition. I may mention my birdroom is inclined to be damp, and is unheated, out of doors. With the coming of spring the bird improved, and during the month of June moulted quickly and well, and was in perfect condition. It warbled away all day in a low, creaky manner. Mr. E. Taylor, that well-known softbill exhibitor, saw it in July, and remarked about its fine condition. It fell off in condition again during September, and died about Christmas, though its death was due to an unfortunate oversight on my part. In all I had it 17 months. I have been unsuccessful in meating off any Spotted Flycatcher I have had since then, but will try again on some future occasion.

SOME HINTS ON PARROT KEEPING.

THE young of some species of Parrakeets are apt, on first leaving the nest, to dash themselves violently against the sides of the aviary and sustain fatal injuries. It is therefore advisable to cover the end at any rate of a long wire flight with sacking when a valuable brood is expected to make its appearance.

When Finches and other small birds are kept in the same aviary with Parrots, it is advisable to protect the roosting and nesting quarters of the former with large-mesh wire netting through which they alone are able to pass. In the open they can, unless very young, keep out of the way of danger, and it is when asleep or cornered in a nest-box that they are likely to be caught and injured. Not all Parrots, however, can be trusted in mixed company even with these precautions. Blue-bonnets and Lovebirds are impossible neighbours for anything weaker than themselves, and I, personally, would never trust Conures, Caiques, Lorikeets, Brotogerys Parrakeets or Budgerigars, though amiable individuals do sometimes occur even among the most mischievous and aggressive species.

Mind the Paint.

No portion of the interior of a Parrot aviary should ever be painted or varnished, or the most disastrous results will be sure to follow. Parrots are extraordinarily sensitive to mineral poisons, and I have found to my cost that Australian Parrakeets, which can stuff themselves with laburnum seeds and yew buds with absolute impunity, will die in convulsions within a few hours of nibbling fragments of painted wood.

Where the aviary consists of an inside shelter and an outside flight, the former must be absolutely free from draughts. It is best to arrange for all ventilation to come from the front only. I dislike top ventilation as it nearly always produces a continued upward current of air, which draws in from the door and, striking the birds underneath, is very likely to cause enteritis.

If artificial heat is provided it is very important to secure an even temperature irrespective of outdoor weather conditions. This is by no means easy to arrive at, and I have always obtained far better results from the use of a stove or gas radiator than from any system which involves the employment of hot-water pipes, which are usually most ineffective and troublesome.

When turning birds into an aviary for the first time it is a wise precaution, where an inner compartment exists, to shut them up for the first few nights. It may also be advisable, especially if the nights are cold, to give a little artificial heat, even though they may not previously have been kept in a warm room. Parrots, when first placed in unfamiliar quarters, have a perfect genius for selecting the draughtiest and most exposed places to roost in, and it is most disheartening to turn a valuable breeding pair into a new aviary and then to go out next morning to find the cock or hen dead of enteritis. I have more than once experienced this calamity in the case of species reputed to be extremely hardy.

In concluding these hints on aviary management, it will be well to say something about the important art of bringing birds into breeding condition. This is chiefly a matter of feeding, and with Parrots, more perhaps than with any other class of birds, satisfactory breeding results are dependant on the judicious provision of extra dainties at the right moment.

The Importance of Green Food.

Green food must be supplied ad libitum, and it is particularly important to continue giving it after the young have hatched. Grass, chickweed, shepherd's-purse, dandelion, sow thistle, and lettuce are all good, as well as the shoots and leaves of non-poisonous trees. Lettuce is sometimes said to be bad for Parrots, but I have given it to Cockatoos, Amazons, Platycerci, Eclecti and Grass Parrakeets and never found it in the least degree injurious; it must of course be perfectly fresh and unfrosted. When at liberty in this country the Australian Parrakeets feed their young largely on the leaves and flowers of the common daisy, and although I cannot say I have ever offered the plant to my aviary birds, I have not the slightest reason to suppose that it would prove harmful.

Suspicious of New Foods.

Fruit, particularly apple, is an important item in the menu during the breeding season, and mealworms may also be offered, though not all Parrots will eat them. A full ration of hemp and sunflower should be supplied in most cases, though this can generally be reduced again, with advantage, after the moult is over.

In giving green food, etc., do not think that because the birds will not touch it the first time it is offered that it is no use trying it again. Many Parrots are extremely suspicious of new foods, and only summon up courage to try an unfamiliar article of diet after it has been placed before them many times. Do not grow discouraged, either, if they only seem to touch the tiniest fragment of what is given them. Little as they may actually eat, it may make the whole difference between eggs and no eggs, or between fertile eggs and clear ones.

When it is desired to breed from a hen bird which has been kept for a very long period in a cage, it is often prudent to keep her for some time alone in the aviary on a very plain diet before introducing her mate and the nest barrel. In this way the risk of egg binding is a good deal lessened.

CORRESPONDENCE.

The Value of "Push."

Sir,—In reply to Mr. Bastock, the answer to his question how do I know they are worth what I stated, is, by knowledge of birds gathered from shows I have attended, the very keen interest which I have taken in such birds generally, and last (but not least) I have had several prizes for them, although I am only still in the novice class. In reply to Mr. E. W. Allsopp, I may say the same. I still thing it a difficult matter to dispose of them at a reasonable price, but perhaps I have not yet learned the art of a rousing advt. I do not understand Mr. Allsopp's statement as to truthful language; perhaps I am too truthful over it.

A Deserving Charity Show at Leicester.

Sir,—The Leicester "Hand in Hand" and Leicester Cage Bird Societies are still pursuing their good work. They have decided to hold their 3rd annual combined show at the Vaughan Working Mens' College on Saturday, Jan. 30th. Once again they appeal with confidence to all the fanciers of Leicester and Leicestershire for their support. Schedules will be posted to any address on receipt of a postcard. Prizes will be awarded from the entry fees (3d. per cage) on a sliding scale. We trust we shall have plenty of entries in order that the show may be a huge success, and that the Children's Hospital may receive even a larger sum than last year.

The Return Journey from Watford Show.

Sir,—Exhibitors at Watford Show may possibly have had some anxiety at not receiving their birds back early on Friday, and I should like to explain the cause. The railway company would not guarantee to dispatch the exhibits on Thursday night, but wanted to keep them in the booking office all night. My committee gave the matter due consideration and decided to pack and dispatch the whole of the exhibits on Friday morning, so that the birds should have a drink, and a feed before starting on their journey. All birds were dispatched before 9 a.m., and prize-money will have been paid by the time this letter appears. I thank all exhibitors for their support and trust all the birds arrived home safe. On behalf of the committee.

When Judges Disagree.

The Case of "White Rose."

Sir,—Was ever poor Hybrid so badly ill-used?
I've often been slandered, and now I'm accused
Of not knowing who was my father!
The sauce of my critics I ne'er shall forget,
They've twice sent me home with my cage-bottom wet;
And angered my owner—well, rather.
They admit I'm a Hybrid, from head to my toes.
But ask after father—why, heaven only knows!
With one mate most Bullie hens find 'nough to do,
Though my mamma seems to have been blessed with two—
To recognised rule quite contrary,
She loved Greenfinch as well as Canary!

White Rose.

(We think it well to say that we are not absolutely sure the above lines were penned by Mr. Parlett's interesting Hybrid.—Editor.)

Sir,—With interest I read the letter of "Red Rose" in last week's Cage Birds referring to the fact that the Hybrid "White Rose," after being wrong-classed at one show, was awarded first prize a few days afterwards at another show. But "Red Rose" omits to mention that at the Scottish National Show "White Rose," for the first time in its career, was shown in a class for variegated Canary Mules, and the judge, Mr. McQuiston, who is no novice, refused to accept it as a Canary Mule. Previous to that show, and since, it has always been shown in classes open to Canary-Bullfinches and Hybrids, where it could not be wrong-classed by the judge, because they who could not accept it as a Canary-Bullfinch had the alternative of judging it as a Greenfinch-Bullfinch.

Having very carefully examined this bird on more than one occasion, I am firmly convinced that had it been a normal-coloured bird it would have been the finest specimen of a Greenfinch-Bullfinch Hybrid ever seen on the show bench. It has characteristics not possessed by any Canary, or Bullfinch. The whole of its dark plumage favours the Greenfinch-Bullfinch cross, particularly in the outer flight and tail feathers, which show a distinct deep yellow bar, and this can only come from the Greenfinch—never from the Canary. Till it can be proved that a bird can have three parents, I shall never be able to believe there is any Canary in this Hybrid.

Scotch Thistle.

Sir,—I notice some judges and other fanciers still doubt that well-known mule, "White Rose." When will they be convinced? Are they waiting until there are about a dozen light or variegated Canary-Bullies on the bench? A "lightly variegated Greenie-Bullie"; how ridiculous. They might as well call it an Albino Bullie, and I don't think they dare call it that. I remember when the first Canary-Bullie was staged. "Impossible," some of the "doubting Thomases" cried. It was the same with the light Greenfinch-Mule, the Redpoll-Bullie, and several other crosses. They couldn't be bred, said the doubters, and until they were backed up with a regiment of the same crosses, these men would not believe it. Now if these fanciers do not believe the bird to be a Canary-Bullie, will they kindly describe what they expect a lightly variegated Canary-Bullie will be like, and then compare the description with "White Rose"?

W. Keeling.

An Appeal for the Welsh National Show.

Sir,—Kindly oblige me by inserting a word of appeal to all intending exhibitors at our forthcoming great Welsh National show. I especially wish to exhort them to assist the workers by sending their entries in good time. A show of this magnitude, with so many classes, involves a great amount of labour and clerical work. Fanciers can materially assist by entering early, thus distributing the work evenly and avoiding the secs.'s bugbear—the late entries and consequent worry and rush. A hearty response and a bumping entry will receive my grateful thanks.

W. Sampson, show manager.

Langland House, Llanishen Street,
Cardiff.

Sir,—I appeal to all fanciers for a bumping entry. To Welsh fanciers especially I would commend the opportunity to help the Patriotic Fund, and also establish this National Show as an annual event. I would remind the Fancy that many obstacles have had to be overcome to enable the Committee to put before them the excellent classification which appears in your advt. columns to-day (see also our Review of the Schedule—Editor) and we are particularly anxious that every class should stand. I am hoping that the sum to be handed to the Prince of Wales's Fund will be at least three figures. This can be brought to pass if fanciers will only support us with as many entries as possible, and also visit the show. What a grand advertisement for the Fancy it would be! I sincerely trust that all fanciers will appreciate our motto of "Business as usual" by giving the first Welsh National show a record entry in each class.

E. J. Banks (Chairman).

The Water Supply at the Welsh National Show.

Sir,—May I ask Mr. Sampson, the show manager, if he will give fanciers who live a distance away and who cannot get to the show, an assurance that all the birds will not only be watered on arrival, but that the water tins will be cleaned out (not just emptied) at least twice and fresh water given daily, seeing that some birds will be away from home almost a week. We can always depend that the officials at the Crystal Palace show will see to our birds' needs, and we want to know if the officials at the Welsh National will do the same.

Britisher.

[From what we know of the officials we can confidently say that everything possible will be done.—Editor.]

The Greenfinch Class at Doncaster Show.

Sir,—Kindly allow me space to reply to Mr. A. Cuss, re our Greenfinch class and his champion Greenfinch. Anyone can see this is a case of "disappointed exhibitor," but I think Mr. Cuss has gone a little too far in his insinuation about his bird being "under the bench." Our members and myself have taken it as the greatest insult that could be launched at us. We don't do work like that at Doncaster; we try to please every exhibitor, as Mr. Cuss knows by reason of his other exhibit, a Mealy Redpoll which was entered in class 11 for Lesser Redpolls, but which my committee were good enough to change to its proper class and so give him a run for his money. This is the thanks we get! Re the Greenfinch, I shall ask the judge, Mr. Maddison, to explain why he put out the Greenfinch, No. 2, Class 8, cardless. Perhaps the above remarks re changing birds to their proper classes, might catch the eye of another exhibitor who will take the hint and say thank you.

G. Hunt, Hon. Sec.,
Doncaster and Dis. C.B.S.

TREDEGAR.

3rd annual open show of the Tredegar C.B.S., Town Hall, Jan. 14, one of the best rooms that could be wished for; the birds were staged all round the hall, leaving plenty of room for visitors, who turned up well in the afternoon. Unfortunately, there were two other shows in South Wales in the same week, and Tredegar probably missed a good many entries through adopting the sliding scale. However, what was lost in quantity was more than made up in the presence of first-class specimens in each variety. The show is run on modern lines. The president, T. H. Davies, Esq., gave a helping hand, and the show manager, Mr. E. Powell, had everything at his finger ends for the success of the exhibition. A band of hard-working officials in Messrs. E. J. Bevan (treas.), G. Thomas, T. Harris, T. Morgan, G. Bennett, H. O. Jones, J. Griffiths, R. H. Griffiths, E. Davies, and H. Woodhall, backed up by that admirable sec., Mr. W. B. Watkins, helped to make a pleasant day for exhibitors and visitors alike. The champion unlighted cup went to W. E. Watkins, novice to J. Llewellyn, the runner-up Mr. G. Thomas only lost by one point. Champion rose bowl E. J. Bevan, Hyde's W. B. Watkins. Unfortunately, Mr. Davies' and Mrs. Dalton's birds did not arrive in time to be judged, although the sec. kept the classes back until 1.30. Mr. Metcalfe, Liverpool, judged, and we heard no grumbling.

CRESTS (2): 1, Powell, very nice leafy feather, crest well drooped, well radiated. NOR. YELL. CK. CODNOR PK. & EASTWOOD C.B.S.

Fifth annual show, Assembly Room, Three Tuns. A record show for the locality, nearly 300 birds being staged. Norwich were particularly strong, while Yorks. were not over strong in numbers, though quality was beyond question. British were strongly in evidence, and altogether competition was unusually keen throughout. Mr. E. Fox judged to the general satisfaction. The secretarial duties were jointly discharged by Messrs. A. Smith and G. Lees, and their whole-hearted energies, combined with those of the working committee, met with a well-deserved reward.

The cutting sent by the joint hon. secs. gives principal winners as follows: NOR.: Smedley, Simpson, Adnitt, Bradley, Faux, Wilcox, Earnshaw, Stretton, Holmes Bros., White, Porter, Carrington. YORKS.: Kew, Beardall, Freebury, Housley, Parkin and Son, Dickens, Potts, Lees. CREST: Holmes Bros., Adnitt, Beardall. MULES: Adnitt, Smith, Hayter, White. BRIT.: Hayter, Adnitt, Beers, Smith, Lees, Henshaw, Kew. FOR.: Smith, Potts, Lees. MEMB. POINTS, SPS.: J. Adnitt, 141, cup; A. Smith, 50; A. Kew, 45; W. Bradley, 42; G. Lees, 40; B. Simpson, 39; W. Henshaw, 32; F. White, 27; W. Porter, 27; W. Dickens, 21; S. Prince, 13; P. Potts, 10; W. Harrison, 8; W. Bradley, for best Nor. Mr. Adnitt, having won the cup three years in succession, retains the trophy.

SUNDERLAND.

Sunderland C.B.A., the oldest established in the north, held its 25th annual open show Jan. 15 and 16, and it proved in every way a big success. The venue was again the Miners' Hall, Monkswearmouth, a fine place for a show, nice light, good size, and in every way adapted to meet the requirements of both exhibits and exhibitors. The war scare which has caused the abandonment of so many open shows evidently had no terrors for the Sunderland fanciers, for they not only decided to run their annual two days' show but actually increased their classification. In the circumstances, and taking into consideration the fact that there was no other open show in the district the entry of 666, although very good, was not quite up to expectations, this being probably due to the lateness of the season and to the fact that the season's winners have been practically settled. Norwich made a fine display, the majority of the birds excelling in size and type and teeming with quality. Mr. E. Kennerson took diploma for best in section with a very nice unflighted yellow hen, a bird that should do him some good. Crests were not very numerous, but competition was very keen. Mr. Geo. Dobson took the diploma with his well-known Crest. Yorks. were a very stylish lot, and very true to type. Mr. H. H. Towers took diploma for champion Yorks., and Miss .E. E. Pyman sp. best unflighted. Borders came up well, totalling 127 in nine classes, and quality all through was superb. Several Scottish National winners were on view, and one of them, the buff hen which won sp. for best Border at the big Scottish event (now in new hands), beat its previous fine performance by securing diploma for best bird in show, after a hard tussle with Mr. R. D. Parlett's well-known "White Rose." Lizards were a magnificent collection, and we doubt if there has ever been a finer display of the spangled beautice; such a grand show of this charming variety will undoubtedly give a much needed impetus to it in the north. The class for Light Mules or Hybrids contained nine entries, and Mr. Parlett's now celebrated "White Rose" took premier honours, and diploma for best Mule or Hybrid, beating a clear Goldie-Canary exhibited by Mr. J. Maddison and a dark Canary-Bullf. and Gr enf.-Chaffinch shown by Dr. Wilson. Needless to say, "White Rose" was a great centre of attraction, and the bird found many new admirers. British were superb, strong classes and grand birds, one of the finest displays seen in the north this season. Mr. J. Davison secured diploma for best British with a very nice Waxwing, but our own opinion inclined to the grand Bullie shown by Dr. Wilson, which we consider about the most perfect Bullie that has yet been staged. Foreign birds were not numerous, but what was lacking in numbers was quite amply made up in quality, and in this section Nicholson and Son took diploma for best with a lovely Sugar Bird. The show was under the able supervision of the genial chairman, Mr. J. Farfar, who acted as show manager, and all his work was well done. He had under him a grand body of fanciers in Messrs. W. F. Swan, J. Riseborough, W. Reid, G. Davidson, T. Davison, T. Gray, T. W. Smith, A. Brown, R. Procter, W. Owen, C. Waters, J. Macbin, J. M. Walker, and J. Fraser, all doing their best for the good of the show. The clerical work was again in the hands of Mr. J. Peacock, the courteous and obliging secretary; for hard work and ability he is par excellence; and the whole of his work was carried out without the slightest hitch. He was ably assisted by Mr. F. Riseborough, who did some hard work, and did it well. Judges were Mr. T. C. Crawhall (Newcastle), Mr. J. Jobneton (Wallsend), and Mr. G. Wilson (Frizington).

Nests of Birds, Poultry, etc., should be regularly sprinkled with KEATING'S POWDER, especially when hens are sitting. Don't forget to do this just previous to the eggs hatching, to destroy the Red Mite. Kills all insects. Harmless to everything else.

WATFORD.

The 10th annual show of the Watford C.B.S. held in the Halsey Hall, Jan. 13 and 14, was quite a success, and although the committee did not have the expected response to their fine classification over 600 birds were staged; the lack of entries from the London fanciers was keenly felt by the management. In the large hall were gathered very fine examples in all sections. Norwich and Yorkshires were of very high merit, and the classes were well filled, but Borders and Crests were disappointing. Hybrids contained some of the cream of these interesting birds, and British were a wonderful collection. Although the Foreign birds had a specialist judge to themselves the entry in some classes was not overwhelming, but the collection as a whole was the best we have seen this season outside the Horticultural Hall; the whole show was most interesting. The hall is an excellent one for a large show, with plenty of artificial light, the management was perfect, and the attendance good. The veteran John Goodall had everything in perfect order, and the birds well looked after; he was assisted by a good body of workers including Messrs. Sears, Corley, Bull, Littlechild, Collen, Pretty, Quantrell, Watts, etc. Mr. W. Rackley is well up to the secretarial duties, and a thorough worker. Some of the Yorkshires from the north arrived rather late on the morning of the show, but the classes were put back to give them time to recover. We heard that the railway company could not guarantee dispatch of exhibits at the close of the show, so the committee wisely decided to dispatch local birds and keep the others until next morning, giving them an hour's feeding by gas-light and sending them off at 7 on the Friday morning. The judges were Messrs. Robson, Silver and Watts. As Mr. Crisp was too unwell to take the Yorkshires Mr. Robson consented to judge them, and he had a big day's work. Catalogues were on sale within a very short time of the last slip being handed in. The members' cup for best three unflighted birds and most points was secured by Mr. J. Fox.

NOR. YELL. CK. (8): 1, Sears, nice size, very typical, although a wee shade long, grand head, excelling in qual., well shown; 2, 3, Irons, leader shade bolder in type, fine head and front, good wings and tail, scarcely the col. and finish of winner, 3rd exceedingly clubby, good head and neck, short wings, nice qual.; 4, 6, Fox, big bird, nice type and style, not quite so good in head as winner, but still a capital exhibit; 5, Silk. BUFF (7): 1, Pilcher, capital size, neat head and wings, lovely qual.; 2, Litchfield, good size and type, scarcely so clean cut as we like, nor so bold in head, but nice qual. and cond.; 3, Leech, a real Norwich, wonderfully short, beautifully rounded, grand head, nice short wings and tail, clean cut, some thought the best in the class, much admired; 4, Greaves and Richards, good size, nice bold front, capital wings; 5, Hart; 6, Clark. MKD. YELL. (3): 1, Rollington, big bold yell., grand subs., nice wide skull, full neck and front, neat wings and tail, sound rich col. and qual.; 2, Bowler, even bolder and fuller type, hardly so good in head, but nice wings and tail, A1 cond.; 3, Leech, not the size of winners, but neat type, nice qual. feather. DERWENT VALLEY C.B.S.

Meeting, Jan. 9, Co-operative Hall, Low Westwood; Mr. Geo. Barkess (chair) and a fair attendance. Decided that same hold office for 1915 as in 1914. Decided to hold table shows at monthly meetings, the first at next meeting, Feb. 6. Classes: Nor., Yorks. (old birds) and Greenfinch, F.M. Mr. W. Tomlinson, judge. Fee 3d. per cage. Prize money according to entries. Decided to get membership cards for 1915. Trusting members will bring a few birds and try to make it a success.—Jameson and Johnson.

SOUTHERN BORDER F.C.

Owing to the Palace Show having been abandoned it has been decided to hold the annual general meeting at headquarters, Feb. 14, when balance sheet will be presented and officers for 1915 elected. Specials won at the patronage shows will also be presented to winners who are present. I earnestly hope that London members especially will make an extra effort to be present It has been very disheartening to the officials lately to see so few attending the meetings, more especially after the big and enthusiastic meetings we used to have. Don't leave it all to the other fellow, for the other fellow is bound to turn in the end. Will members who desire to send in any alteration to existing rules let me have them as soon as possible, as I want to get the ballot papers printed by Feb. 1?—Geo. Burton, Sec. pro tem.

YORKSHIRE UNION OF C.B.S.

Result of Union competitions for season 1914 and 1915. Gt. Horton O.S. show, Jan. 9, brought to a close the season's competitions, which resulted in the following competitors being successful in the respective competitions. CAGE BIRDS' competitions being of most value, I take this opportunity of giving the number of points gained by eligible competitors, but Mr. Hammond, as see. of the prizes committee, will publish below a complete list of winners. Amateur gold medal winners are: Mr. P. Hirst, J. C. Beaumont, A. Sheard and F. Self, with 124, 92, 89, and 69 points respectively. Novice gold medals, Yorks. section: J. T. Sharpe 172 points, Fisher and Dyson 171, F. Studd 135, J. Harney 89, W. H. Dibb 74, E. Wilman 71; Norwich: J. W. Kaberry 199 points, J. M. Thomas 128. Winners of Mr. W. Cruises' prizes: W. Crowther 67 points, S. Ratcliffe 54, Baker Bros. 53. Ramsden's colour feed prize, champ. section: L. Dykes 199 points; novice: Fisher and Dyson 126. Winners Errington's colour-feed prizes, champ.: T. Bennett 142 points, P. Mason 93; novice: J. W. Kaberry 167 points, F. Studd 131. If any competitor finds the above list of points does not compare correctly with his own will he kindly write me immediately? Will secretaries of Union Societies please bear in mind that Union judges are to be nominated this month, and that new rules, alteration to rules, and all Union officials must be nominated on or before February 1, to be placed on the ballot papers? Societies please note that I am resigning the secretaryship this year, and nominations will be required for that office.—H. Hill, Sec.

Decided to hold a pair show Feb. 10, St. George's, at 7; 2 Nor., 2 Yorks., 2 Bord., 1 Mule, 3d. per cage. 1s. limit, entries go to society. Judge, Mr. Woodhead.—J. W. Thornton, Sec.

ALTRINCHAM (Open) C.B.S.

Last year's country ramble of members and their friends of the Manchester and Sale societies being so successful and enjoyable, the Altrincham members hope to arrange for a similar ramble on Saturday, May 15. An invitation will be extended to Manchester and Sale friends, and it is hoped that they will again join them. Details of arrangements will be forwarded later. Next meeting, January 27, Station Cafe. Discussion on open show; very important.—C. Bailey, Hon. Sec.

PORTH AND RHONDDA VALLEY.

Special meeting, Jan. 13, Porth Hotel, the best meeting since this society was formed. Decided to have a matched pair show March 10, when there will be a silver cup for most points. Mr. A. H. C. Legg was in the chair, and the amount of business gone through was surprising. Now members, let's stick together and see what we can do. I am sure we can keep up with the rest with a bit of pushing, so please attend the next meeting at the Porth Hotel, as it will be our annual meeting, and try and bring a new member or two.—J. S. Jones, Hon. Sec.

Martin, W. Mugford, T. L. Sayer, E. C. Offord, W. Prance, W. Sanders, H. W. Dickinson, A. W. Hart, J. Chard, and W. Francis; auditors, Messrs. Prior and Curtis; scrutineers, Messrs. Shepherd and Sanders; hon. sec., Mr. V. Wynn; asst. hon. sec., Mr. F. Thynne. The winners of the judging competition in Crest and Crestbred at last meeting were: 1, Mr. C. Poulton, 35 pts.; 2, E. C. Offord, 33; 3, H. Hobden, 32. Neither hall at headquarters being available for date fixed for pair show, it was left to hon. sec. to make the best arrangements possible. Meeting adjourned till Jan. 25.—F. Thynne, Asst. Hon. Sec.

WIMBLEDON C.B.S.

Meeting, Johnston's Rooms, 6, The Broadway, Jan. 4, twenty-eight members and visitors present. In the unavoidable absence of Mr. W. H. Stoakley, Mr. H. W. Hobden was elected to the chair. Sec. announced that he had received resignations from Mrs. Carson and Mr. W. W. Lachbury. Letter read from Mr. R. A. Newley intimating that he had very little to report of the last meeting of the London Federation. Mr. H. Norman gave a bird washing exhibition, which proved very instructive. Before commencing washing, the lecturer explained no bird should be hand-washed if in a low state. He preferred Sunlight soap for cleansing the feather, and used a soft shaving brush. Taking his first specimen (a Chaffinch) in hand, he showed his audience the different ways of handling the bird. As the washing proceeded, the lecturer explained the different ways of using the brush. To remove the dirt from around the beak, he used a soft tooth brush. A judging competition was next in order, with Mr. Norman as final judge. Eighteen birds were put up, and eighteen members took part in the competition; the points gained were: Mr. F. W. Owen 19, Mr. F. G. Snow 16, Mrs. Hobden and Mr. F. W. Hamilton 14 each, Mr. F. Thynne and Mr. E. Randall 13 each, Mrs. Griffiths 12, Mrs. S. Farley and Mr. L. G. Owen 8 each, Mrs. M. M. Owen and Mrs. Thynne 6 each, Mr. G. H. Stevens and Mr. G. Birch 4 each. Special prizes for annual show at Queen's Hall, Jan. 19, were allotted. Forty-three specials were placed to the satisfaction of the members, and the meeting closed with a vote of thanks to Mr. H. Norman for his interesting and instructive washing exhibition, and for acting as final judge.—G. Griffiths.

DARVEL C.B.S.

General meeting, Town Hall, Jan. 12, also table show of Canaries; judge, Mr. G. Alston. NOR. CK.: 1, 2, 3, Anderson; 4, Hopkins. HEN: 1, 2, Anderson; 3, Morton; 4, Hopkins. BORD. BUFF: 1, 2, Allan; 3, Fairful; 4, Beaton. YELL.: 1, 2, Allan; 3, 4, Beaton. Sec. read financial report of year 1914, which showed a balance on the right side, though slightly less than last year. All office-bearers were re-elected. Next general meeting and table show of British birds, Feb. 9.—J. Fairful, Sec.

BARROW C.B.S.

Meeting, Jan. 13, which was full of changes. Bro. Hudson, late sec., takes position of pres., Bro. Shackley vice-pres. D. McFarlane, late pres., takes position of sec. Bro. W. Willison treas. Bros. Wagstaff and Large, auditors. Nest feather show, fixed for July 10, table show January 27, also judging competition. Mr. A. Hudson appointed judge for table show. New members made and a very interesting meeting came to a close. Please note.—All communications to D. McFarlane, Sec., 26, Lord Roberts Street, Vickerstown, Barrow-in-Furness.

WINDHILL C.B.S.

Annual general meeting, Jan. 16, Blue Bell Hotel, with a good attendance. Balance sheets for open and members' shows were read and passed, also yearly balance. Election of officers for 1915: Vice-President, G. Hardy, A. Brown, A. Parker, H. H. Towers, Dr. Jenkins. Committee: W. B. Atkinson (chair), M. Broadley, and R. Garnett (vice), E. Halliday, J. Halliday, P. Mason, E. B. Denton, J. Harney, R. Sutcliffe, H. Soloman, G. H. Walton, E. Shepherd, S. Hopwood, W. Booth. Sec. and Treas., J. A. Taylor. Assist. Sec., J. W. Ellis. Auditors, R. Garnett and J. Harney. Union delegates, M. Broadley, W. B. Atkinson, R. Garnett. Our annual tea and concert is on Feb. 13, at 5 p.m. Tickets 1/6 each from the secs. All who intend to come must let me know by Feb. 10 at the latest.—J. A. Taylor..

HALIFAX O.S.

Smoker, Jan. 16, headquarters, the Plummet Line Hotel, Mr. S. Haigh presiding before a good attendance. The following artistes contributed to the evening's enjoyment: Mr. Dale, comedian; Mr. Verity, bass; Mr. Wilkinson, solos on the concertina; Mr. Bancroft, recitals; and Mr. Brooks, conjuror; Mr. Charles Dennis was the accompanist. Mr. Dale was well received in his songs "I followed her here," "Ginjow," and "Songs in Opera in Ragtime," which drew forth several encores. Mr. Wilkinson contributed on the concertina "Caliph of Bagdad," "Brothers in Arms," and "Church Bells and Organ," and was recalled. Mr. Verity gave "Up from Somerset" and the "Veteran Song," and was well received; also Mr. Bancroft in his recitals, especially "The Message," which caused much amusement. Mr. Brooks showed cleverness in his manipulation of a pack of cards. Prizes won at members' shows were distributed, after which a vote of thanks was recorded to the artistes who contributed to the evening's enjoyment.—J. Burdekin, assist. sec.

CHESTER-LE-STREET, BIRTLEY AND PELTON FELL (Amalg.).

The Amalgamation shows have come to a close, and I think these three districts can have a good show of their own. Chester-le-Street is a suitable place. Birtley had one of the best open shows around the district, and paid members full prizes. Pelton Fell, too, is one of the first members' shows in the district. I hope members of the Amalgamation will stick together, for they are all true fanciers. Mr. W. Davison gave a gold medal for most points in six table shows; Mr. James Stanger won it. Mr. J. Redpath running him a good race. The members promised a medal, value 15s., for most points in six table shows for British birds. There were 5 shows and a misunderstanding, and as they could not agree, it was moved the money go into the society. There had been a good race for this medal between Mr. W. Davison and Mr. Wilford. We had a ring prize; each member paid 2d. for his rings, and a penny went for the prizes. There was £1 5s. in prize money, 10s. for first, 7s. 6d. 2nd, 5s. 3rd, 2s. 6d. 4th, and 5th a picture. These prizes were given for three nominated birds at the three shows. Mr. R. S. Bewick and Mr. Ward ran a dead heat with 46 points each Mr. Robinson 44, Mr. J. Stanger 43, Mr. I. Redpath 39. I think we have three hard-working secretaries, Mr. Lindsay, of Birtley, Mr. Ward, Chester-le-Street, and Mr. J. Robinson, Pelton Fell, and a few true fanciers to help them on. All the shows paid 5s. a class, 6d. a cage, and 7s. 6d. for membership. The three shows did well, so if they can pay this they should do well at 5s. a member, and I think then we would get more members to join in the district. We were talking about having a supper to finish the season, and I hope all fanciers will give their names to any of the secretaries.—J. Stanger.

"CAGE BIRDS," 154, Fleet Street, London, E.C.

NORTHERN BORDER & S.F.C.C

Meeting Jan. 6, Pillars cafe, Mr. W. P. Smith chair. Decided to hold pair show at next meeting, three classes each section. Mr. Smith presented a coffee pot and a hot-water jug for most points and second most points at table show, three highest birds to count, points to count according to number of birds in class. Mr. W. Espie gave a silver medal for novice competition on similar lines. Questions were then asked and answered to the satisfaction of every one present.—M. C. Potts.

ATTERCLIFFE C.B.S.

Meeting Jan. 14; owing to unavoidable circumstances we were without either president or vice-president, so Mr. W. Richinson was elected to the chair. All rules on the club card were retained with the exception that the society's grant to the shows be made "per entry" instead of "per class" heretofore. The discussion of cup rules was left over until February meeting when I trust members will endeavour to get there a little earlier, as this 9.30 closing makes business very short otherwise.—E. Johnson, sec.

PERTH CITY AND COUNTY O.A.

Monthly meeting, Laidlaw's Rooms, Leonard St., Mr. A. G. Forrest, president, in the chair. Sec. announced that Mr. J. R. Fullarton, treas., had been called back to his regiment again, and Mr. D. Carstairs was appointed treas. Classes for pairs show: Crests, Nor., Bord., Scotch, Yorks., Mule or Hyb. pair. Brit. bird single. New members enrolled: Messrs. W. Gunning, D. McLaren, A. Stratton. Mr. Blyth moved that our fees be reduced to 2s. 6d. instead of 4s. 3d., to try and get more members, and it was unanimously agreed to make the alteration. Messrs. Blyth, Bruce, Gunning and the secretary were appointed to visit fanciers and try to get them to become members. The meeting closed with a vote of thanks to the Chairman.—J. L. Smith, sec.

LIVERPOOL B.B.A.

Annual meeting, Oldham Hall, Jan. 14. Balance-sheet passed. The following officers were elected:—Pres., Mr. W. R. Knowles; vice, Mr. F. Handley, Mr. J. W. Metcalfe Mr. J. Gore, Mr. C. Robinson, Mr. W. Jones, Mr. A. Corbett, Mr. T. Rowlands, Mr. J. Walker, Mr. J. Lloyd, Mr. Hartley, and Mrs. Hartley; chair, Mr. J. Abbott; vice, Mr. E. Bunner; committee, Messrs. T. Evans, F. Wilson, J. Walker, J. G. Rodgers, F. Rothwell, E. Ewan, A. Heyes, and E. Douglas; treasurer, Mr. Hunt; sec., Mr. T. R. Jones, 25, Emerald Street, Liverpool, S.; assist. sec., Mr. J. Handley; auditors, Messrs. J. W. Metcalfe and F. Handley. The officers and members were grieved to learn of the death of our member Mr. J. McMahon, and a vote of condolence was passed. Four new members were nominated. Members please note secretary's address.—Thos. R. Jones, Sec.

SOUTHAMPTON C.B.S.

Annual general meeting, Jan. 11. First annual report and balance sheet, showing a very satisfactory state of affairs, was passed with many congratulations to Mr. W. L. Page, the hon. sec. During the past year three members' shows have been held, also an outing, all very successful, and the balance-sheet shows a sum of over £7 in hand, in addition to which five challenge cups have been purchased. A small honorarium was unanimously voted to Mr. Page, and a vote of thanks to the assist. sec., Mr. W. T. White, for their combined work in so sucessfully launching the society. The voting papers were scrutinized by the auditors, and as a result Mr. W. L. Page retains his position as hon. sec. Mr. W. G. Fellows being elected chairman, and Mr. Hayter vice. Mr. A. G. Washer again holds the treasury, whilst the auditors were re-elected. An attractive programme for 1915 (including two table shows, open show, outing and lectures), drawn up by the hon. sec., was discussed and approved. The meeting night was altered to the first Wednesday in each month at 7.30 p.m. Members are reminded that subs. are now due.—G. J. Slade, Assist. Sec.

CITY OF BIRMINGHAM C.B.S.

Meeting headquarters, Crown Hotel, Station St.; chair, Mr. Broadhurst. The following were elected officers for 1915: Chair, Mr. A. Broadhurst; vice., Mr. J. H. de Maillet; vice-president (in addition to those serving 1914) Messrs. F. Dipple and H. G. Hill; committee, Messrs. Southron, Austin, Burke, Childs, Denny, Fessy, Raby; treasurers, Messrs. Allen and Collier; auditors, Messrs. Clay and Cowley; sec., J. H. Jones; assist.-sec., A. C. Shirley. One of our rules was altered, a champion exhibitor in British wishing to take up Canaries is eligible to show in novice Canary classes, providing he has not won one first in champion or three firsts in open novice classes in Canaries. Decided to hold members' show Feb. 6, birds to be staged by 2; judge, Mr. J. H. Roe: Nor. champ. four classes, nov. 4; Yorks. champ. 4, nov. 4; Crest 1, C.B. Cinn. 1, A.O.V. 1, Mule or Hyb. 1, Goldf. or Bullf. Siskin, Linnet, Redpoll or Twite, A.O. Hardbill, Softbill. The following were elected as members: Messrs. Ankers, Austin, Hinton, C. Clarke and W. Clarke; also nominated Messrs. Price, Merryman, Allen, Lewis and Hernshaw; these new members will be eligible to show at above show. Will members try their best to make it a success? We want more members, the society is going strong, but there is plenty of room for members in all sections, particularly in Crests, Rollers, Borders, British, Cinnamon and Foreign classes. Send your names along (Sub. 4s. per annum) to A. C. Shirley, 155, Hobmoor Road, Small Heath, Birmingham.

GLASGOW (West of Scotland) O.S.

Annual general meeting, Jan. 16, Nelson Temp. Hotel, Mr. Wm. Wood chair. Financial statement was submitted, and was considered satisfactory. Election of office-bearers for ensuing year: Hon. pres., Hon. C. Scott Dickson, ex-provost, H. Pason; pres., Mr. W. Wood; vice-pres., Wm. Gunion and Mr. Jas. Nimmo; sec. and treas., W. Hutchison; committee, Messrs. Black, Barron, Heggie, Pierce, Graham, Begg, Rankine, Smart, Tulton, Martin, Laurie; auditors, Messrs. Heggie and Barron. With slight alteration, rules were adopted en bloc. Arrangements were made for pair show Feb. 6, in Nelson's Hall, at 5; classification: Crests 1, Plainheads 3, Bord. 3, Yorks. 2, Muling Pairs 1, Hyb. Pairs 1; judges, Messrs. R. Jeffrey (Glasgow) and H. P. Hutchison (Barrhead). Vote of thanks to the chairman terminated the meeting.—Wm. Hutchison, Sec.

HIGHGATE, HAMPSTEAD C.B.S.

Annual General Meeting, Jan. 4, Spencer Hall, balance-sheet adopted as read, showing an income of £51 1s. 5d., and expenditure of £51 17s. 11d., a deficit of 16s. 6d. on the year's work, with assets amounting to £10, which, considering all things, gives great credit to all those who have worked untiringly for the welfare of the society during the year. Mr. Gardner thanked the retiring officers for their services. Mr. R. T. Dann also moved a vote of thanks to Mr. Gardner for his valuable services as chairman. There was a good muster of members present, and the following officers were elected for the ensuing year:—Pres., Geo. Touche, Esq., M.P.; vice-pres., Messrs. C. W. Law and E. R. P. Moon; chair, Mr. G. Gardner; vice-chair., Mr. R. T. Dann; hon. treas., Mr. F. Sparks; hon. assistant sec., Mr. G. Street; committee, Messrs. J. P. Ayres, E. T. Bush, J. Carrington, P. Johnston, W. Knight, A. Knight, E. Mound, W. Shakespeare, W. Large, W. Withers, W. H. Wills, and W. Shorter; auditors, Mr. J. M. Kent and W. Shearer; hon. sec., Mr. J. Hyde, 1, Raydon-st., South Highgate, N., to whom all enquiries concerning the society should be made.

Special committee, Jan. 13, Spencer Hall. Show dates for the year were fixed. Young bird show, July 10, Mr. F. Easterling. Annual show, Nov. 19 and 20, Mr. G. Gardner. Pair show, 1916, Jan. 22, Mr. J. Robson. Societies please note so as to avoid as much as possible clashing of shows.—J. Hyde, Hon. Sec.

In the Courts.

Bird Catcher Fined at Wakefield.

At the Wakefield City Court, Jan. 6, Christopher Hatton, a bird-catcher, of Brighton, was fined £1 and £2 10s. costs, or one month's imprisonment, for causing to be conveyed eighty-three live birds in such a manner as to cause them unnecessary suffering. The birds were despatched from Brighton on Dec. 17, and should have been delivered to the consignee, Edward Elliott, Kirkgate, Wakefield, early on the morning of the 18th. Instead of that they were tendered to him at 5.15 on that day, and he refused to accept delivery. The local inspector to the National Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals took the matter up, and on the boxes being opened thirty of the birds, mostly Linnets, were found to be dead, and most of the others in a dying condition. There was neither food nor water in the boxes, and in the case of one box it was found that there were only four square inches of floor space to each bird.

Questions and Answers.

FOR RULES SEE LAST WEEK'S ISSUE.

CANARY QUERIES

Answered by CLAUDE ST. JOHN.

TWO HENS (G. W.).—(1) You should have examined the swelling carefully and described it as closely as you could, otherwise it is impossible to say what it may be when one has not seen it. Does the swelling come and go at intervals, or is it constant? If the former, it may be nothing more than over-eating, and in the latter event it may either be some obstruction in the crop, or an accumulation of fat. Add six drops of syrup of rhubarb and as much Epsom salts as will cover a sixpence to the water every second day for a week. Feed on plain canary seed supplemented with a liberal supply of watercress, and if there is not a good improvement in a fortnight, write again, and give particulars mentioned above. (2) Treat this hen the same as advised to "A. S. R." in this issue or a fortnight.

MATE FOR CREST-BRED (G.W.).—A clear buff crested hen, or a clear body buff with a grey or dark crest would be the most suitable mate for your Crestbred cock. Choose a bird with plenty of size and feather, and densely feathered crest, with broad leafy feather, a small neat centre, and a good wide entrance at base of beak.

PANTING ROLLER (A. S. R.).—The bird is a victim of the adverse weather conditions of late. Keep it on the warm side until quite well, but be careful to see that the place is fairly equable, and that the bird is not exposed to cold draughts, or the fumes of burning lights in the evenings. Give a morsel of bread and milk sprinkled with soft sugar every second day for a fortnight or so, and on the alternate days give a morsel of banana and half a teaspoonful of scalded summer rape. In the water add for one day ten drops of syrup of buckthorn, and afterwards give instead five drops each of oxymel of squills, ipecacuanha wine and sweet spirit of nitre every second day for a fortnight.

VARIED (R. Foxe).—(1) There is no objection whatever to the use of pine sawdust, coarse cut for preference, as it does not blow about so easily in the cages, at this season, and supplying grit in a separate vessel. It is to be preferred to sand for stock and flight cages, as it keeps them cleaner and more hygienic. There is no risk of the birds eating it. Their picking among it when fresh is put in is merely a habit, as they would do the same whatever was put in. (2) Not injurious, because they will not really eat it. (3) As a rule it is best to give each kind of seed in a separate vessel, especially in large cages, to prevent the waste that is caused by some birds picking out that which they like best and scattering the rest on the floor. Where it is not convenient to employ so many separate vessels it is quite allowable to give as staple a mixture of canary and summer rape—3 to 1. (4) Tit-bits are not absolutely essential, but when given should be given separate from the staple—in the egg-drawer, for instance. To use the seeds you have, mix together two parts each hemp and inga, one part each of teazle and millet, and a half a part each of maw and gold of pleasure. Give a teaspoonful per bird of this mixture twice a week. (5) One part rape to three parts canary is a good proportion, but there is no harm in increasing the proportion of canary if you wish. Thanks for your remarks anent this column, which we appreciate.

YORKSHIRE HEN (WN., WB.).—Your feeding is not very good. Give a staple diet of plain canary only, and in addition give separately half a teaspoonful of summer rape every second day. On the intervening days give first a morsel of bread and milk sprinkled with soft sugar, and next half a teaspoonful of a mixture of equal parts millet, niger, hemp and teazle, but see that the hemp is quite good and sound in the kernel. Give a spray of watercress three or four times a week. In the water add six drops of syrup of rhubarb and as much Epsom salts as will cover a sixpence every second day for a week, and after this give instead a crystal of sulphate of soda the size of a small pea, ditto of sulphate of iron half as big, and add six drops of dilute sulphuric acid. Give this in the water every second day for a fortnight.

ROLLER COCK ILL (D. W.).—First of all see that the bird does not hang in the way of a cold direct draught, nor where it is exposed to the fumes of burning lights in the evenings, or a serious drop in temperature at night. Then treat the same as advised to "WN., W.B." in this issue, except that you give a small teaspoonful of crushed sponge cake with two drops of cod liver oil emulsion and four of sherry mixed in it, and sprinkled with maw seed instead of the bread and milk advised in that reply. If the bird is not well in two two or three weeks, write again, and repeat particulars, when I will advise you further.

YORKS. AND ROLLER (Glasgow).—(1) You ought to have said what the treatment last season consisted of. That it is not so successful this season is probably due to the fact that the bird is a year older, and probably not able to respond so quickly to any treatment. See that all exciting causes are removed as far as possible, and give in addition to the staple seed diet half a teaspoonful of crushed sponge cake with four drops of sherry and two of cod liver oil emulsion mixed in it and sprinkled with maw seed every second day for a fortnight, and on the alternate days give a morsel of banana or watercress. In the water add six drops of glycerine, ten of lemon juice, and as much chlorate of potash as will cover a sixpence every second day for a fortnight. (2) Keep this bird fairly warm, but avoid draughts or severe fluctuations of temperature. Add to the drinking water four drops each of tincture of gentian, tincture of calumba, and aromatic sulphuric acid every second day for a week, and after this give 20 drops of Chemical Food every second day for a fortnight. (3) The Roller cock is evidently not in a fit condition to breed, and unless he should get quite active and robust and in vigorous song I would not advise you to try him again in the breeding cage.

CROUCHES ON PERCH (H.F.H.).—In addition to the staple diet of plain canary seed give separately every second day half a teaspoonful of summer rape, which you may scald twice a week for a change, and also a spray of watercress. On the alternate days give a similar quantity of crushed sponge cake with two drops of cod liver oil emulsion mixed in it and sprinkled with maw seed, and a pinch of a mixture of equal parts hemp, niger, millet, teazle and broken groats. Offer the bath three times a week in mild weather. In the water add ten drops of syrup of buckthorn, for three days, and afterwards 20 drops of Chemical Food every second day for a fortnight.

TIME FOR MATING (Novice).—Yes, it is much too early to think of mating the birds for breeding yet awhile. The last week in March, if the weather is quite favourable, otherwise the first week in April, is the proper time for mating, and the best time.

WANTS TO NEST (A. B.).—(1) You did quite wrong to give the hen nesting material to play with when you saw her wanting to nest. You should move her from the other hens into a fair sized cage, add a pinch of Epsom salts to her drinking water for two or three days, and keep her on a diet of plain canary seed and a little green food for a time. (2) There is no reason why a Linnet caught last autumn should not breed successfully if mated with a hen Canary about middle of April or May.

BRITISH BIRDS, MULES AND HYBRIDS.

Answered by H. NORMAN.

CANARY HYBRIDS (J. McCourt).—You need not keep your birds together entirely all the winter. If you let the Goldie in with the hen occasionally so that they are not afraid of each other, it will be quite sufficient, and then about the end of March they could be put together finally in the breeding cage. The difficulty of keeping them together during the winter is that the Goldie requires rather different food to the Canary. Treat him on the following lines: Make a mixture of 4 parts teazle, 3 parts canary, 2 parts hemp, and 1 part each of linseed and sunflower, and ½-part rape. Let him have this constantly before him, and procure a packet of good wild seed mixture, and give him a spoonful of it three times a week. Give a piece of sweet apple for him to peck at during the winter, but when there is no frost a dandelion leaf or small spray of chickweed or groundsel should be offered. Feed the Canary on canary seed as a staple food with a pinch of rape seed daily, and once a week a spoonful of mixed seed. Give this twice a week during February and March. Our book on Canary Breeding for Beginners would be useful to you.

BIRDS DYING (Waterloo).—I am sorry to hear of your loss, and it is a rather difficult matter to say of what ailment they died; further, you do not tell me what species you have lost, only the birds you keep. Now, I note you give me the details of the seed mixture you use, and upon which you feed all your birds. In this matter I think you are wrong, because no seed mixture is quite suitable to all varieties. One will stand stronger food than another, and what will keep a Linnet alive will starve a Goldfinch. I would advise you to treat every species separately, and if you are not quite sure of their treatment, procure the Hardbill part of The British Bird Manual from this office, or our Nutshell booklets dealing with each species. If there is no disease among your birds you should be able to keep them if treated as advised in the above books. Freshly-caught birds do sometimes succumb, even if well looked after, and in many cases it is due to over-kindness; an aperient occasionally would have saved them.

BIRDS FOR AN AVIARY (Esperance).—(1) A single Bullfinch is generally a bit restless during the spring and summer months, and I think you would find a pair (cock and hen) answer your purpose better. (2) The Crystal Palace aviary was originally designed as an ornament to a living room, and in it one can keep several species of birds, preferably all cocks. Finches, Canaries, and a few Foreign birds do admirably, and one gets a good deal of song and amusement from them if they are not overcrowded.

SEXING MULES (New Start).—The cock Mule is always brighter in colour than the hen, but this is only comparative, and would hold good where you could compare birds from the same nest. A hen bred from a highly-coloured Canary might show quite as much colour as a cock bird bred from dull-coloured parents. If you possess the birds you should cage them off separately, and wait for their song. As a rule, Mules are excellent songsters, and therefore you would not have long to wait. If you are asking because you wish to purchase, and have had no experience, my advice is, hear him sing before parting. Should you be obliged to buy without this sign, pick the largest and best-coloured; this holds good with both Goldfinch and Linnet Mules.

SEXING SONG THRUSHES (Song Thrush).—The Song Thrush is as near as possible 8½ inches, and the Missel Thrush 11 inches. It is always a difficult matter to sex the Song Thrush correctly, because there is very little difference between them. In most species the cock and hen differ considerably, but this is not the case with the Thrush, and, contrary to the usual difference in bird life, the hen Thrush is a handsomer bird than her partner, and is usually selected for exhibition purposes. If you get two together you will find the cock is a trifle darker on the back, he is a little better colour, and the underpart whiter. These differences are so slight that I think you would do better to cage off your birds separately, feed them well, and doubtless the male birds will soon break into song.

FEEDING A LINNET (Robt. Wensley).—I think you would do well to add ¼-lb. of each of canary and the same of teazle to your seed mixture, otherwise I cannot find fault with your feeding. Freshly-caught birds should be given an aperient occasionally, and I suspect you have omitted to give this, and have lost some in consequence. As much salts as will cover a sixpence dissolved in two tablespoonfuls of water given early in the morning and removed at night, is the proper dose.

LINNETS IN A KITCHEN (Cannabina).—The winter has been so mild that birds could be hung outdoors for an hour or so on several days, but it would not be safe to take them straight from a heated room and put them into the open air for any length of time, but birds that are kept in a cold room would not come to any harm providing they were not hung in a draught. The month of April is a good time to turn birds into an outside aviary; as a rule the weather is fairly mild then. I think you would get much more song out of your birds if you kept them in separate cages; when several are together in a big cage, it is not always a decided success as far as song is concerned. (2) Respecting seeds, if your birds refuse to eat any particular kind, you had better leave it out of the mixture, the one you mention is not absolutely necessary to them. If you use the so-called cole seed in place of summer rape you should use less of it, as it is much stronger and more pungent to the taste. Soaking improves it immensely.

FOREIGN BIRDS.

Answered by WESLEY T. PAGE, F.Z.S.

BENGALESE AND ZEBRA FINCHES (Bedford).—Both these species breed on and off all the year round in captivity, though the former are not as a rule good sitters, and not many young per season are reared; the latter usually do well once they make a start, which should be in the early spring (this applies equally to both species), but do not be disappointed if the start should be delayed, as the season is not over for the charming Zebra Finch till real winter weather sets in. If they have had neither nest nor material up to the present, do not supply these till mid-March. No name and address (see rules), you are not entitled to a reply.

GOLDEN-CROWNED CONURE (E. M. K.).—I am afraid the Conures as a whole are given to the objectionable habit of screeching their dissatisfaction at being left, or at not getting the full gratification of their tastes or desires. I have noticed this trait equally, whether the bird be in cage or aviary. Some also of the genus Brotogerys have the same trait, though in a less pronounced form. I said on one occasion of them that they shriek out their pleasure, their petulance, their hatred, their wants, and then their satisfaction at having them granted. But you have one remedy, thanks to the individuality of your bird, that is, retain it on your shoulder except when it needs to eat and sleep; which is one way of stating that I know of no remedy for the annoyance you complain of, which spoils an otherwise interesting pet. I fear procuring him a mate, or getting a companion of another species (Conures are by no means an amiable group) would only double the noise. It is possible that time may soften, if not wholly eradicate, the annoyance, but what is natural and really part of its being can never be entirely eliminated, though the effect of surroundings may modify it.

BUDGERIGARS, ETC. (G. B.).—(1 and 2) Between April and October, inclusive, though they breed on and off all the year round in most aviaries, but if your quarters are such as enable you to catch them easily, then, at the end of October, separate the sexes. Also at same time remove and clean husks and leave them in the open, but protected from wet, for the bulk of the winter. Put the birds together again the last week in March. (3) April to October. They will use either a small square box, husk or rush nest as a receptacle. Hay, grass and a little moss will suffice for nest-material. (4) If you can get them so, let your stock consist equally of imported and aviary-bred birds, but if you can't get good imported ones, then buy each pair from a separate source, and accept only large, well-feathered birds, with plumage lying nice and tight to body. (5) Lovebirds and Parrakeets require plenty of room, and to put many into a small space usually spells disaster. Here are a few Lovebirds: Red-headed (60s.), Black-checked (40s. to 50s.), Peach-faced (£5 to £6), Madagascar (5s. to 6s.), Blue-winged (10s. to 20s.). Small Parrakeets: Tui, Tovi, Orange-flanked, All-Green, Canary-winged, are all pleasing, their value varying from 20s. to 60s.; the prices quoted are all per pair. I cannot name special birds for your aviary without details, neither can I refer you to any list. You must write to those advertising in our pages and make your own selection; again, you cannot go into a shop and find all the above species in stock; supplies are irregular, especially so in these times.

GENERAL.

Answered by THE EDITOR.

W. Wolf.—You have a clear case for the return of your money. Threaten a County Court action, and carry out your threat promptly if not forthcoming. Why did you not deposit your money with us? Look at the trouble you would have been saved thereby. Shall be most pleased to receive contribution you mention.

A Lover of the Greenfinch.—Surely you must know that your letter is grossly libellous, and thus quite unpublishable?

Bird Lover.—Note the correspondence columns of this issue.

Enquirer.—The publication of enquiries such as yours seems only to lead to ill-feeling, and we think you had better ask one of the officials of the Society for the information.

A FINE FEAT AT LLANELLY SHOW.

This trio of British Goldfinches won 1st, 2nd and 3rd prizes for Mr. T. W. Richards, of Narberth.

To "clear the deck" in this manner is a great performance at any show, and especially so at a Welsh fixture, where competition in Goldfinches is always very keen, and many grand birds are usually staged.

F. CARL, Publisher, 154, Fleet Street, London, E.C.

ADVERTISEMENT CHARGES.

6d. for the first eighteen words. One Halfpenny for each word over eighteen.
Name and address to be reckoned. MINIMUM, 18 words 6d.

IMPORTANT NOTE.—Two or more Advertisements coming from the same advertiser, even if sent in different names, are reckoned together, and, after the first Eighteen words, are charged at two words a penny. No single advertisement, even if accompanied by others, will be charged at less than the minimum price, viz., Sixpence.

ALWAYS USE "CAGE BIRDS"

DEPOSIT SYSTEM.

We are not responsible for the statements made in advertisements, nor of the bona-fides of either buyers or sellers In all transactions the adoption of our Deposit System should be insisted upon

RULES.

1.—PROCEDURE.—The intending purchaser should send to this office the amount of the purchase (our deposit fee included), and at the same time he should communicate with the seller, stating what it is he requires sent on approval. We acknowledge receipt of the deposit to both parties. In all cases the depositor should give his name and address, and also that of the vendor, and must write same clearly and distinctly.

2.—END OF TRANSACTION.—The deposit is retained by us until we hear from both parties that the transaction has been completed. If a sale has been effected, we hand the amount deposited to the seller. If a sale has not been effected, we return the amount to the depositor. The transaction must be conducted by the parties themselves. We merely hold the deposit.

3.—AMOUNT OF COMMISSION.—The fee is 6d. for each £1, or fraction of £1, and it must be sent at same time as the deposit.

4.—IMPORTANT POINTS.—The depositor must decide within forty-eight hours of the receipt of the goods whether he will keep or return the same, unless, that is, some other period of approval (of which we must be advised) is agreed upon by both parties. The depositor must at the same time notify us of the fact that he has returned the goods. If the goods are not returned within the said forty-eight hours, we reserve the right to send the deposit to the seller after the expiration of that period. And should the seller fail within three days to notify us of the receipt of his goods back again, the transaction will be treated as ended, and the deposit will be returned to the depositor.

5.—A SATISFACTORY PURCHASE.—When a transaction has been completed to the satisfaction of both depositor and seller, both parties must at once return the deposit receipts as a guarantee of its completion. The depositor must at the same time instruct us to pay over the deposit to the seller.

6.—GOODS ALREADY SOLD.—If the goods are sold before our deposit note reaches the seller, or if for any other reason he declines to do business, he must at once return the deposit note to us. Failing its receipt, we reserve the right to return the deposit to the sender after the expirration of three days.

7.—FRESH TRANSACTION.—In case no sale be effected, a deposit is available for purposes of a fresh transaction, provided another deposit fee be paid.

8.—GOODS IN TRANSIT.—Goods in transit are at the seller's risk, and any damage or loss sustained on the journey must be borne by the seller. But goods not approved of must be properly packed and returned by the same means as were used in sending the same.

9.—PAYMENT OF CARRIAGE.—The payment of carriage must be a matter for arrangement between the vendor and depositor. We do not undertake to settle disputes affecting questions of carriage. But in the absence of other arrangements the purchaser is liable for the carriage of the goods, and if the goods are sent on approval and returned, each party pays the carriage one way.

10.—DISPUTES.—In case of a dispute, the decision of the Editor is final.

IMPORTANT.

SEND THE FULL COMMISSION.—If the full commission does not accompany the deposit, the vendor will not be notified of its receipt until the amount deficient plus the extra postage incurred has been paid to us.

HOW TO REMIT.—Under no circumstances will Cheques or Post-dated Money Orders be accepted as deposits. Uncrossed Postal Orders must be sent and the numbers taken for safety.

Multum in Parvo

Catalogue contains more Illustrations, more goods, more reading matter than any other of its kind, including much that is interesting and useful to the Novice. It is original, too, for I was the first ever to publish a catalogue of this description, hence all others are only followers. If you want aviaries, cages, fittings, foods, medicines, or any one thing connected with aviary or birdroom, see this unique Catalogue before deciding elsewhere. A postcard will bring it to your door free at once.—W. RUDD, The Bird Specialist, Norwich.

SOFT MOULT—NOT SINGING

Wanted, a trial; we are confident our medicines will give you satisfaction; they are used by most leading fanciers, and are supplied to the London Zoo. Special notice: If you have any birds that you are relying upon for the coming breeding season, that are not singing, or have gone into the soft moult, we guarantee you a perfect cure. We have the grandest medicine ever introduced for bringing birds into breeding condition. Ditchfield's Tonic Drops are a guaranteed cure for soft moult, not singing, going light, egg-binding, dullness, feather-plucking, and inflammation of the bowels, sold in 7d., 1/1 and 2/- bottles. For bronchitis, wheezing, and hoarseness, get Ditchfields Special Lung Tonic, the grandest medicine ever introduced for chest and lung affections in cage birds; also in 7d., 1/1 and 2/- bottles. For constitutional weakness and debility, and for birds that are run down, or in slack feather, get Ditchfield's famous Revivo, in 7d., 1/1, and 2/- bottles. This medicine is absolutely unequalled for giving new life and vigour to the birds, and for producing that smart tight appearance of the plumage so much desired by all fanciers. As an advertisement, we will send two 7d. bottles of any of the above medicines for 1/-, three for 1/6, or two 1/1 bottles for 1/9, three for 2/6; the 1/1 bottles are treble the 7d. size. All medicines are post paid, per return at our risk. Also four valuable food recipes, how to feed the Lark, Linnet, Roller, Thrush, and Blackbird for health and song given free to all purchasers of our medicines: Frank Ditchfield, Bird Specialist, Oldham. STOREY'S ROLLERS
There is a lot of shout about strains and breeds. Some there is, and some there is not. What you want is a real good German trained songster, one that you can rely upon, a breed that has stood the test against all comers for the last twenty years, a class of Rollers that has merited the praise of every purchaser, and all hearers. I have only a limited number for disposal. The quality and prices are right. Just have one of my Rollers on approval and compare the quality of its song with some of the supposed champions, and keep the bird that gives you the most satisfaction. Storey's genuine trained St. Andreasburg or Hartz Rollers, cocks with full change of song by day and artificial light, price according to quality of song, cocks 6/6, 7/6, 8/6, 10/6, a few extra good songsters 12/6 each. I have none of the common half-bred rubbish, but have a few classic hens, 1/9, 2/-, 2/6, 3/- each. All birds on seven days' approval; neat travelling cages, 3d. each, 2/3 dozen. The old reliable firm and address: E. L. Storey, Crowle, Doncaster.

Approval
Is the only way to ensure satisfaction. Hear them for yourself. This, too, is the only safeguard against receiving unsound specimens dear at any price. Amongst the following are some very highly trained birds, which include water Glucke, pure Seifert, British-bred Rollers, Randall's etc.; cocks 6/6, 7/6, 10/6, 15/-, 20/-; hens, 1/9, 2/-, 2/6; a grand lot of pure Randall's hens, 3/6 and 5/-, in finest breeding condition; if you pay 10/- each, you can get none better than these. I can strongly and honestly recommend them. Buy now, and save disappointment later; pair matched for breeding, 7/6, 8/6, 10/6, to 25/-; cages 3d.: W. Todd, The Bird Specialist, Norwich.

I have sold my Redpoll, 1st Scottish National, 1st Doncaster, 1st Glasgow, 1st Larkhall, to Mr. W. J. Bancroft (Swansea) at catalogue price, and I wish him every success, writes Mr. W. P. Campbell (Larkhall).

I have been elected sec. of the Guisborough and Dist. "Priory" C.B.S. in place of Mr. Warnker, and future correspondence re the society should be directed to me, writes Mr. A. W. Knaggs, 63B, Westgate, Guisbro, Yorks.

Kindly announce in CAGE BIRDS that the Southampton and Dist. C.B.S. annual show will be held on Dec. 1 and 2. Mr. Norman has been engaged to judge, writes Mr. W. L. Page, hon. sec. Secretaries please note date to avoid clashing.

It has been decided to resume meetings of the Plumstead and Woolwich C.B.S. (which were cancelled owing to the war), under a new secretary, and I have been appointed to fill that office, writes Mr. Thomas G. Crutcher, 85, Delafield Road, Charlton, S.E.

We have decided to hold our 1915 show, writes Mr. John C. Bell, hon. sec. Border City (Carlisle) O.S., on Wed. and Thurs., Oct. 27 and 28, with Mr. J. Robson (London), Mr. W. Nicholson (Stockton), and Mr. I. McCredie (Dumfries) as judges. The members' pair show has been fixed for Feb. 11.

The Coventry Godiva C.B.S. have been compelled, through increased membership, to remove their headquarters, and we have engaged the Sydenham Palace for all shows, writes Mr. W. Saunders, hon. sec. We hold our next open show Oct. 23, 1915, and are hoping to make this fixture the Palace of the Midlands. We thank all exhibitors for past support, and hope for more in the future.

Will fanciers please note change of room for the Leeds C.B.S. tea, concert, and prize distribution, writes Mr. E. Norton, hon. sec. This will be held in the Co-operative Hall, Penny Hill, top of Church Street, Hunslet, on Saturday, Feb. 6; tea on table 5.30; tickets 1s. 6d. Fanciers invited. Will members please notify their intention to attend, also return all tickets unsold by Monday, Feb. 1, so that we shall know how many to provide for.

In the "Avicultural Magazine" for January, the journal of the Avicultural Society, the editor, Mr. H. D. Astley, writes of the Rose breasted Grosbeak, and includes an interesting extract from the writing of the ornithologist Audubon, with a beautiful coloured picture of a pair of the birds. Dr. A. G. Butler contributes a chapter on "Reason in Birds," and amongst the other contents is a continuation of the valuable list by Dr. E. Hopkinson on "English Names for the Parrots."

We hear that Mr. A. Hirst, Accrington, will judge at the show of the Leinster O.S., Dublin, on Feb. 10.

I find CAGE BIRDS perfectly invaluable, the only fault being that it does not come out twice weekly.—M. Haworth-Booth (London, S.W.).

Messrs. Deer and Cundy, secs., write that the Southend C.B.S. shows for 1915 will be: Pair show, Feb. 17; F.F., July 21; and annual open, Nov. 24 and 25.

The City of Birmingham C.B.S. is holding a members' show Feb. 6 (half day) writes Mr. J. H. Jones, sec. Judge, Mr. J. H. Roe; entries up to 2 p.m. on day of show.

Owing to a misunderstanding we have to postpone our combined charity show arranged for Jan. 30 until Feb. 6, writes Mr. A. Freestone, sec. Leicester Hand-in-Hand C.B.S.

I have now taken over the secretaryship of the Vale of Leven C.B.C., in room of Mr. A. H. McLean, resigned, writes Mr. John Hannah, 373, Main Street, Bonhill.

I have taken over the duties of sec. to the North-West Glasgow C.B.C., and all communications should be addressed to me, writes Mr. John Houston, 31, Willowbank Crest, Glasgow.

Kindly correct error in my note in Twitterings in CAGE BIRDS of Jan. 16, writes Mr. F. Hayward, hon. sec. Manchester and N.C.O.S. Our members' show date is Feb. 6, not 7, as I stated.

We hear that Mr. W. Everett has been appointed secretary to the Skelmanthorpe C.B.A., and all correspondence should be addressed to him at Bagden Hall Stables, Huddersfield.

Mr. R. Best ("Tadorne," Kingswood, Surrey) informs us that he has been trading in birds and animals in Antwerp, and would be glad to hear from anyone who could find him occupation in this line during war-time.

It was decided at the last meeting of the Upper Rhondda C.B.S. that we give all the support possible in entries, etc., to the Welsh National Show, writes Mr. H. Watts, the sec., and I hope members who were absent will aid us in this endeavour.

"British Birds" for January, Messrs. Witherby and Co., High Holborn, one shilling monthly, opens with notes by Miss Maud Haviland on the breeding habits of the Curlew Sandpiper, with photographic illustrations. Principal among the other contents is "A Practical Study of Bird Œcology," by H. G. Alexander—a very interesting contribution. The usual monthly "Notes" include an account of the appearance of a Chiffchaff at Swanage on Dec. 10 last.

The hon. sec. of the British Roller C.C., Mr. J. W. Norris, writes: "Re the International Show, the hall we have had previously is not available now, so I have had to find another hall at a short notice. It will be held at the "Cock and Lion Hotel," 62, Wigmore Street, London, W., and the judges are Messrs. Fisher, Lester and Tomlinson. Owing to the war, we are not asking Roller societies for specials this year, but if any member likes to send a special we shall be very pleased to accept same.

The January issue of "Bird Notes," the organ of the Foreign Bird Club, is mainly comprised of an interesting review of the foreign birds at the recent Horticultural Hall exhibition, and a list of members and their addresses. Miss M. Bousfield writes of her Tanagers, Mr. A. Silver contributes some notes on the Japanese Hawfinch, and Mr. W. A. Bainbridge tells of the successful breeding of Hybrids between the Tri-coloured Mannikin and the Bengalese. The issue contains reproductions of some beautiful drawings by Mr. H. Goodchild.

Accrington Fancier's Misfortune.

East Lancashire fanciers will be sorry, writes Mr. A. Hirst, to hear that one of the Accrington Society's members, Mr. J. E. Hartup, is lying seriously ill in bed.

Prize-money Paid.

We hear that prize-money has been paid in respect of the following shows: Tredegar C.B.S., Watford C.B.S., Brandon Colliery C.B.S. Those who may have been accidentally overlooked should apply to the respective secretaries.

A Helping Hand.

We hear that the members of the London and Provincial O.S. intend to support the Welsh National Show to the best of their ability. Their secretary, Mr. C. W. Law, made a special appeal to this effect at the L. and P.O.S. annual dinner held last week.

Water Glasses Wanted.

Mr. E. Tams, the well-known dealer, of Church Street, Longton, writes that he is desirous of buying wholesale glass fountains, etc., for bird-cages. The firm with which he previously dealt has ceased to stock them. Mr. Tams will be glad to hear from any maker or wholesaler.

Going Strong.

The hon. sec. of the City and Suburban A.C.B., Mr. V. Wynn, informs us that eight new members were nominated at their last meeting. This, coming on top of a batch of six elected as members, serves to show, he says, that there is still plenty of interest being taken in the hobby.

Zeppelin Kills Talking Linnet.

In the recent Zeppelin raid a fortunate escape was that of Mr. Walden and his family, who live in Albert Street, King's Lynn. Mr. Walden is a farrier and "dog doctor." A bomb crashed into the open space behind his house, making a hole at least four yards across and three yards deep. The back bedroom of his house, which had been built as an addition, was blown completely away; happily nobody was asleep in it. In the middle room his young son was smothered by falling plaster. The father rescued him. The windows were blown out of the front bedroom, in which Mr. and Mrs. Walden were sleeping. "But we had one casualty," says Mr. Walden: "a brown Linnet, one of my best friends in the world. I reared him from the egg, and he could talk like a Parrot. He used to say to me every morning, 'Ere he comes; pretty Dick; kiss me!' And kiss me he would; but nobody else. He is dead, but another bird, blown into the next room in his cage, is all right. So are the dogs."

"Please thank all enquirers for the Goldfinch which I advertised in CAGE BIRDS. I had so many applicants that I am unable to write to all, but have sent answers to those sending stamp. This speaks well for CAGE BIRDS as the means of disposing of our birds."—G. W. SAUNDERS (Haslemere).

HOME-GROWN BIRD SEED.

By THOMAS ARNOTT (Kirkcaldy.)

IN reply to "Bird Lover's" query in your last issue concerning home grown bird seed, I may say that some years ago I grew canary seed in my garden, merely as an experiment, and it turned out highly satisfactory. I used about ¼-lb. of good Spanish canary seed to about one square yard of ground. Now, this soil had no special treatment in the way of manure, yet the crop was good and compared well with the best Turkish seed on the market at that time. I sowed the seed towards the end of March and harvested the same in August.

The result satisfied me that if I cared to grow more it would be even more satisfactory by treating the soil with manure and by giving more attention during the summer. I am absolutely certain that canary seed could be grown in the south of England and be a commercial success. At a time like the present, also since the Turkish war in 1913, the price of canary seed has become extraordinary, and British fanciers would, I am certain, encourage canary seed growing in Britain. At present canary seed is only grown in England in small quantities and does not come upon the market to any noticeable extent.

There is black rape seed grown in England, also in France and Holland. The English quality is by far the best, although the French quality is more often used. Like canary seed, I do not see why the German summer rape cannot be grown quite as successfully in the far south of England. The German summer rape is the best of all rape seeds for birds.

At present the finest millet seed is grown in Italy; it is very good. The French millet is of a yellowish tint; but both the Italian and French millets are more expensive than the millet we get from Smyrna, which is a good quality, and cheap. Red and brown millets are extensively grown in the Danubian valley. These are only used in moderate quantites by fanciers, because a still cheaper quality is imported from Persia.

Spray millet is also grown in France. Indian millet is imported in comparatively small quantities and used in conjunction with other seeds for the feeding of Foreign birds, principally. Millet seed of good quality might also be grown successfully in the south of England.

The manure I would use for the growing of any of these seeds would be out of my poultry run — as old as possible and in a dry powder form. I believe it the very best sort of manure for this most interesting purpose.

Mr. T. J. Reynolds writes from Cornwall that he has also grown canary seed. He says: "It ripened all right, and I had a good crop. Spanish seed does the best. I sow the seed in April, and do not dress the ground, as it ripens better without this. When the seed is ripe I cut it and let the heads lie on the ground for a day or two in the sun.

"I should think that rape seed would do well, too, as lots of farmers grow it for their sheep. Maw seed has done very well with me. I sowed this in March."

The Shows.

GLASGOW.

First open show of Norwich and Yorkshire Canaries held under the auspices of the Scottish Plainhead Club and the Scottish Yorkshire Club, Union Hall, West Nile Street, a spacious hall with abundance of room for visitors. This initial venture proved successful in every way. Birds were finely staged round the three sides, and a very imposing sight they were, quality being a leading feature. Many of the past season's prominent winners, in fact the cream of Scotland, were present, with a liberal entry of very choice specimens from over the Border, which fully held their own, Yorkshire exhibits scoring well. The entry of 300 was considered very good. Unflighted Rung Bird Confined Class was disappointing, the ring question, which caused much adverse criticism, being the cause; many members are entirely against their use. All arrangements were ably carried out by Sec. Mr. E. Barron, supported by such capable fanciers as Pres. A. Sloan, S.P.C., and Pres. R. Heggie, S.Y.C.C.; committee, Messrs. W. Hutchison, W. Aitchison, A. Maxwell, R. Jeffrey, F. Taylor, J. F. Park, J. Fulton, W. Priest, and W. Cochrane. Mr. J. Pinnock (Glasgow) made his debut as a judge in Yorkshires, and according to his awards he knows his way about. Mr. A. Gardiner (Newtongrange) judged Norwich, and his awards met with but slight criticism.

NOR. OPEN. YELL. CK. LINDLEY AND DISTRICT F.A.

In connection with show held in Mechanics' Hall, Dec. 19, a class was provided for cage birds. We do not see why this section should not be well supported, as we understand there are a few fanciers about. The show on the whole was a great success. Mr. Fred Archer (Oakes) judged, and his awards were well received. A.V. CANARY: 1, 2, and open sp., Cotton, cl. yell. Yorks. cock, beautiful col., correct shape, greatly admired; 2nd, cl. buff cock, tight as a Java, cond. all one could wish; 3, Shanks, Cl. Buff, grand bird, but spoilt with washing; vhc, c, and members' sp., Moore, two very nice Yorks., on small side; c, Daley.

BRANDON COLLIERY

Second annual show of Brandon Colliery C.B.S. Jan. 23, in the Miner's Hall, a room with plenty of size, nice light, and entire freedom from draughts. Entries totalled about 360—less than such an enterprising society deserves. No show could be more admirably conducted. Norwich were the pick, but Yorks. were also good, and some grand birds were staged. In Borders quality was well to the fore, and in Crests and C.B. several well-known winners again met. British made a fine display, and many of the leading winners were staged. Dr. Wilson had a grand team out, and his winning Bullie found many admirers. In For., Mr. T. Almond's Rainbow Bunting proved a great attraction. The society is grandly favoured in the matter of officials, with the lady patron, Mrs. Burrell, at the head. The president is Mr. James Wilkinson, while the list of vice-presidents contains the names of no less than seventeen well-known local gentlemen. Chairman, Mr. W. Basey, is a grand worker, keen and enthusiastic. Mr. A. Robson, treas., undertook the duties of show manager, and his work was well carried out. The secretarial work was again in the hands of Mr. Geo. Reed, and everything passed off without the slightest hitch. The whole of the members are keen and anxious to make the show one of the best in the North, and if hard work counts for anything they should succeed in doing so. Judges were Mr. T. Dixon (Bedlington) Canaries, and Mr. F. Marwood (Eaglescliffe) the remainder.

BORDER CITY (Carlisle) O.S.

The New Year's Show at Carlisle proved one of the finest seen in the city, not having had an open show this season the local fanciers sent their birds in goodly numbers. Borders were again the feature, averaging over 16 per class, birds standing without tickets which would be well up at other shows. Norwich and Yorkshires were not so strong, but a high standard was kept up. A dozen hybrids graced the bench, while the British and Foreign were very attractive. The judges were Messrs. Thompson, Wigton; T. J. Robson, and T. Holmes, Carlisle. Owing to the illness of Mr. Thompson, Mr. Robson had the arduous task of judging the whole of the Canaries, which he did with great credit, giving the utmost satisfaction. The secretarial duties were again carried out by Mr. J. C. Bell, who was well backed up by the committee.

WIMBLEDON.

Annual show of the Wimbledon C.B.S., Queen's Hall, Wimbledon, Jan. 19. The entry was not quite up to expectations, about 200 birds being staged. Yorks. headed the list, and made quite an imposing display; there were also a few good Norwich and Borders, and some excellent Hybrids and British. The Saunders cup for best unflighted Norwich was won by Mr. Birch, with a high-coloured yellow, and sp. best unflighted Yorks. by Messrs. Owen and Son, with a nice yellow. Mr. W. J. Heath won sp. for best Yorks., with his buff hen, a lovely specimen that was much admired. The Border cup was secured by Mr. H. W. Hobden. The birds were tastefully arranged, and Mr. Griffiths, the secretary, had everything in perfect order; he was ably assisted by Mrs. Griffiths, Mrs. Owen, Messrs. Owen, Stoakley, and H. Smith. Mr. J. Robson judged.

A DUTCH CAGE BIRD SHOW.

The War Seriously Affects the Entry.

The show of the Nederlandsche Vereeniging "Avicultura" in the Zoological Gardens at The Hague, Jan. 16 and 17, fell far short of last year in the matter of entries, the falling off being more than fifty per cent. Fortunately for the committee the gate was considerably better, and in only two days resulted in better returns than the three of former years, so it is quite possible the show in the future may be restricted to two days, as it means a lessening of expense. German Canaries opened the schedule, but the only exhibitors were Messrs. J. G. Bloys van Treslong, J. van den Borden, D. W. Molhuysen, and Mrs. J. de Bordes, and the latter was successful in winning the special for the best Cinnamon with a beautiful little bird. Special for the best clear went to Mr. Bloys van Treslong, who also took that for the marked birds with a very nice grizzle crested yellow. Mr. R. A. Wilson, who won two specials for the best collection of English Canaries, took the Lancashire special with a good yellow plainhead, a bird of nice shape and length. His winner of the Norwich special was a very typical, rich coloured yellow. He also won the medals for best Yorks. and best Cinn., the former with a beautiful silky feathered buff, and the latter with a smart bird of Yorkshire type. In Borders he put down a big team of capital shape and feather, and secured all the prizes except one, which fell to Mr. D. W. Molhuysen. Mr. H. F. Brand won with a lovely Waxwing in the Insectivorous Inlandsche class, and his collection of Bullfinches, Goldfinches, Chaffinches, and Yellow Buntings, also scored a first. Mr. W. J. M. de Bas staged a splendid team of Albinos and Pieds, including Cinnamon and White Starlings, Pied and White Blackbirds, and Pied Linnets, and his collection of foreign birds was also deeply interesting. The judges of this section of the show were Messrs. C. L. W. Noorduyn and F. E. Blaauw.

The section for German Singing Canaries was a wonderful success, the six classes drawing 240 entries. In single birds, 39 entries, 1st was won by Mr. U. G. Heinecke with a bird that was said to be a most wonderful performer; 2, H. Van Nimwegen; 3, R. M. de Gier. Class II. (two birds competing) had fifty-six entries. The winners were Messrs. J. Van Buul, Adv. Horsten, and J. F. Van den Sande. Class III., quartets (52): 1, 2, W. K. de Groth; 3, L. Teurlings; 4, W. C. Kleyn. Class IV., also quartets, had thirty-two entries, the winners being J. Westy, J. C. Lauerman, J. B. Van Geffen, and Miss E. P. Rykbosch. Class V., pairs, 46 entries: 1, 2, J. Van Buul; 3, H. Van Nimwegen. Class VI. had fifteen entries, with Messrs. Schaafsma, W. Spalt, and H. Van der Hurh as winners. The judges of the singing contest were Messrs. H. Bartels and J. Schoonwater as one pair, and C. Orth and J. Van den Schaaf as the other. The birds were nicely arranged in a beautifully warmed and decorated room, and they presented a very pretty appearance amidst the handsome foliage plants. All the arrangements were excellently carried out, and the executive are to be congratulated upon the success which attended their efforts in running the show in such troublous times. The Dutch fanciers are feeling the strain of the war very much. Many of them are with the army, which has been mobilised since war broke out, and others are feeling the pinch of lack of work and high prices of the necessaries of life.

GREEN CANARY ASSN.

Annual club show, Liverpool, Jan. 16, some 300 entries being staged. This practically decided the competition in all sections, although the club has given its patronage to the Welsh National at Cardiff, at which we trust to see the Green fanciers supporting freely. The Yorks. Green champion cup was won by Mr. J. W. Metcalfe; this being the second time, it becomes his own property. The Norwich and Border cups will be decided at Cardiff. The coveted President's prize for best Green Canary was won by Mr. J. Johnston with his yellow Green Border, the second time that a Border has beaten the Yorks. and Norwich Novice cup was won by Mr. W. J. Collier, his team of Borders being practically unbeatable this season. We were pleased to see the president and his wife (Mr. and Mrs. F. Handley) looking after the interests of the exhibits. Mrs. Handley saw that all birds had seed and water. The room was nicely decorated with plants and flowers supplied free by the Sterling Seed Co. Railway birds all left before 5 p.m. to reach home in good time. The judges, R. E. Hellwell (Halifax), and Tom Harrison (Altrincham), got through their work in good time. Specials and prizes were up by 1.15.

HOUGHTON-LE-SPRING.

Annual show Nov. 28, Queen's Head Hotel, a nice place for a show, plenty of size, nice light, and comfortable to a degree. Entries came up well, and quality was of a nice standard, Norwich in particular being very good, most of the birds being of correct type, combined with good quality and colour. The popular sec., Mr. R. H. Dixon, had everything well in hand, and carried out his duties with his usual skill and ability, everything passing off without a hitch. The chairman, Mr. Matt Dixon, and the work he does cannot be overestimated. He has under him a grand working committee: Messrs. Wilson, Stables, Ferris, Lawson, Kilner, Fenton, Bisset, Allen, Atkinson and Fenwick, all working hard for the good of the show, and Mr. G. Lynn ably carried out the work of assist. sec. Silver cup for best young bird was won by Mr. J. Appleby with a nice yellow Nor. Mr. Appleby is serving with the colours and his birds were staged by Mrs. Appleby, who was heartily congratulated. The show was well patronised, and we heard was a great success. Mr. W. Reid (Sunderland) judged.

BOLTON ROLLER C.S.

Annual open contest, Dec. 31 and Jan. 1, in the large room at the Joiners' Arms Hotel, an ideal one for the purpose. There was a record entry for the club, 207 birds competing. They came from as far North as Ayrshire and as far South as London, London being very well represented. Mr. Kilshaw, the sec., was here, there and everywhere, superintending the show and, along with some willing helpers after judging, soon had the show open for the public. At the close the room was cleared very quickly, all birds being sent off at the station before 9 o'clock. Catalogues and points sheets were dispatched to reach by first post next morning exhibitors who had sent for them, a very creditable performance. There was a large attendance of fanciers from all parts of Lancashire, Yorkshire and Cheshire. The birds shown were of good quality, but the general tendency of the birds is to be more faulty.

LARKHALL.

Annual show of the Larkhall O.S., Public Hall, Jan 23. Sec., Mr. J. McEwan, had everything in fine order, and was well backed up by a hard working committee in Messrs. J. Anderson, P. Meek, Alex. Brownlee, James Brown, Peter Cook, T. Hamilton, Wm. Brown, James Alexander, R. Russell, F. Clark, D. Richardson, Wm. Lilly, George Boag, R. Cummings, and W. P. Campbell. Mr. John McLay, Kirkintilloch, judged, and his awards were well received.

GOLDF. OR BULLF. (20): 1, Mrs. Wallace, well-known Goldf., "Scotland's Best," fine size, clean cut blaze, well tanned, lovely wings and buttons, staged to perfection; 2, McGavin, Bullf., grand dense black cap, rich breast col., good cond., well placed; 3, Trotter, Goldf., grand blaze and size; 4, McQuiston, very nice house-moulted Bullf., in the pink, loses in col. only; vhc, Niven, very nice Goldf., close up to the 3rd; he, McEwan; c, Ellery. A.O. FINCH (5): 1, Cummings, Bramble., plenty of size, bit too dark in col., jet black head, without lacing and not extra good in tanning, bit lucky perhaps; 2, McQuiston, grand Hawfinch, hard lines to get beaten here; 3, Liddell, Wishaw winner, best Bramble in the class; 4, Brownlee and Cook; vhc, Boag. LINNET (12): 1, McQuiston, Glasgow winner, grand big bouncing bird, full of qual., nice fine working, grand wings, showing white on wings and tail to perfection, well placed; 2, Boag, Glasgow winner, grand F.M. bird, nice size, good stamp, should be heard of again; 3, Campbell, nice size, lost on condition; 4, no name; vhc, Trotter; he, No. 10, no name; c, Neilson. MEALY REDPOLL OR TWITE (11): 1, McQuiston, Twite, looking better than ever, full of working, pure distinct pencilling, nice bars, showing whites well, very steady, wins well; 2, McEwan, Mealy Redpoll, nice Poll, but unsteady; 3, 4, Cummings, fine Twite, well placed, and Redpoll, might have changed places with 2nd Poll; vhc, Boag; he, McGavin; c, Johnstone. F.M. LESSER (5): 1, Calder, nice thick-set bird, grand head, bold front, plenty of work on breast, nice tone of col., Wishaw winner, wins well; 2, vhc, Brownlee and Cook; 3, Johnston; 4, Kerr; the above lot must have given the judge some trouble. SISKIN (11): 1, McQuiston, fed nice dense cap, good bib, clear bars, sweet tone of col., well placed; 2, 4, he, Cummings; 3, Calder; vhc, Brownlee and Cook, might have gone up to second place; he, Lambie; c, Kerr, some of these were too hot in col. and spoilt in appearance. LESSER REDPOLL, H.M. (8): 1, Campbell, stout, thick-set, excellent head, rare col., but some preferred 2, McQuiston, one of the best we have seen out this year and the bonniest col. in class; 3, Boag, Scottish Nat. winner, we preferred this also to the 1st; 4, McEwan; vhc, Lambie; he, Ferguson; c, Kerr. BORD. CK. (9): 1, 2, Stewart, leading with a nice buff full of quality, grand carr., tight as boxwood, lovely round head, well carried wings, beautifully cut away, 2nd close up; 3, vhc, Johnston, fails cond. to leaders; 4, Kerr; he, Ferguson; c, Scobbie. HEN: 1, 3, 4, Stewart, grand team of little gems; 2, Johnston, must have pressed for 1st place; vhc, Clark; he, Ferguson; c, McFarlane. COMM. CAN. (12): 1, no name; 2, McLean; 3, Kerr; 4, Sandilands; vhc, he, Clark; c, Lee; a difficult class to judge. NOR. CK. (5): 1, 4, Liddell, leading with a grand fed buff cock, good type, in best of order, wins; 2, McEwan, yell., nat. col., grand big head, bold front, short flight and tail, well worth its place; 3, Boag, variegbuff; vhc, Campbell. YORKS. CK. (7): 1, 2, 3, Ferguson, grand team, 1st a grand yell., well placed; 4, vhc, he, c, Marley. YORKS. HEN (7): 1, 2, Marley, 1st a big buff, bit rough in feather, we considered lucky, 2nd variegbuff, also a little open in front; 3, 4, vhc, Ferguson, might have led in this class. FOR. (5): 1, Lee, lovely King Parrot; 2, Campbell, Glasgow winner; 3, Morrison, a great talking Macaw; 4, Ellery, Ribbon Finches; vhc, Campbell. MULE OR HYB. (6): 1, McQuiston, light variegbuff; 2, Campbell, Goldf.-Bullf.; 3, Boag, dark buff Greenf.-Can.; 4, Brownlee and Cook, nice. Siskin-Goldf.; vhc, Hyslop; he, Smith. HEN FOR MULE OR HYB. BREEDING (6): 1, Campbell, well-known Greenf.; 2, Kerr, very nice Bullf.; 3, Trotter, Linnet; all these very well placed; 4, vhc, Brownlee and Cook; he, McQuiston. GREENF. (5): 1, Boag; 2, McGavin, might have won; 3, McEwan; 4, Calder; vhc, no name.

LEEDS ROLLER C.C.

Ninth annual members' contest, Lockhart's, 55, Briggate, Jan. 23. There was a good entry of 95 birds in three classes; Mr. J. B. Hesling, Wakefield, judged, and gave entire satisfaction.

CHAMP. YOUNG BIRDS: 1, 2, Best. NOV.: 1, Roberts; 2, 4, Atkinson; 3, Condliffe; 5, Thwaites. OPEN, ANY AGE: 1, Bew; 2, Best; 3, Heaton; 4, Peel; 5, Atkinson; 6, Kramer.

After the contest the annual meeting was held, Mr. Walton chair. Officers elected for the year: Pres., Mr. Walton; vice.-pres., Mr. Heaton; sec., Mr. Best; auditors, Messrs. Barnett and Atkinson. Carried unanimously that no member be supplied with rings before he has paid his subscription. Also that the winner of the Leeds members' challenge cup be presented with a gold medal each year, starting at the next annual show in Nov. Vote of thanks to the chairman and judge brought to a close a very busy and successful day.—H. Best, sec.

FOR the reason stated, the 'Catchers were not turned into the corridor until the 18th of June, but fortunately this species is a late breeder. Not being by any means sure of the sexes, I turned in three, which proved to be two males and one female. On the 5th July I found one of the males stiff and cold; it had fallen in fair fight for "one glance of beauty's eyes." But please note that this was one of the cruelties of aviculture, not of Nature—the result of associating two males in a confined space, where the vanquished had no means of retreat.

On the Edge of Great Events.

I had, however, the consolation of knowing that we were on the edge of great events, and that—perhaps for the first time—the Spotted Flycatcher was about to nest in an English aviary. On the 6th and 7th the pair were building hard, apparently realising that the season was well advanced.

On the 12th a Sparrow mysteriously found its way into the aviary, and, when I requisitioned a small air-gun to remove it, the male 'Catcher at once came up from the end of the corridor to take a hand in the game. I missed with my first shot, but the 'Catcher was right on the mark and turned the Sparrow tail over tip. My second shot was a "bull," but the Sparrow, though lifeless, still hung, with stiffening muscles, to the netting. Up came the 'Catcher again and struck the corpse a blow which hurled it to the ground. Who says birds have no reasoning powers?

The beautifully modelled little nest of moss, lined with some hair and feathers, was built in a box, about 10in. long by 8in. deep, hung by a nail on the palisading; it was in the same box and in the same corner of it that the Golden-eyed Babblers had built. On the 14th, when I examined it with a short ladder, it contained three eggs.

Something About Feeding Flycatchers.

You will notice the position of the food-box marked on the plan, but I daresay you will want to know what I put in it. Though the Spotted Flycatcher is not a caterpillar-eater, it seems to take an interest in mealworms from the first, and will in any case eat them after a little hand-feeding. Then it is easily brought on to fresh ant-cocoons and grated sponge-cake, dried flies, and soaked maw-seed, simply by rubbing all these ingredients together so that they adhere. I only fed my birds in the early morning and evening; during the rest of the day they foraged for themselves.

I have been able to settle one point which has frequently been disputed, namely, whether this species eats cherries; it does, but it only takes just one bite, leaving a mark on the fruit like a longitudinal slash. Redstarts, in the same aviary, used to strip the cherries to the stone. I think I have said before that probably every insectivorous bird has an alternative food, but for which they would perish in a time of scarcity.

I do not think, however, that there is any evidence that the young of this species are normally fed on anything but winged insects, and this, of course, is the real and obvious difficulty of breeding the species in captivity. The aviculturist, however, must have ideas, and my original idea was to transfer one of my beehives to the corridor. Unfortunately, the so-called Isle of Wight bee-disease had destroyed all my, and my neighbours', bees, so I had to cast about for another idea. I hung up another box, with the open side facing outwards, and placed in it several quart tins of maggots—("gentles")—which had turned into pupæ. When the flies emerge they are queer-looking, pallid objects—rather like ghosts of flies—and crawl upwards to the nearest place of refuge (in this case the dark corners of the box), where they remain for fully a day until their wings have hardened. How the Flycatchers used to haunt that box!

The Battle Won.

The young hatched on the 24th July; and now the tug of war began. At such times as these birds rely on instinct, or, in other words, on the inherited experience of thousands and thousands of years, and during all those thousands of years probably no Spotted Flycatchers had ever fed their young on what I wanted them to feed with—live ant cocoons. For a day and a half the cock Flycatcher found sufficient natural food, which he brought to the hen, who sat brooding the young, and she would pass it on to the latter. But, towards the end of the second day, the supply was exhausted, and, as yet, I had not succeeded in persuading them to try a single ant cocoon. I drilled a couple of holes (marked on the plan) through the palisading with a ⅜th inch bit, so that, standing behind them, I could see every action of the birds at the nest from a distance of a few feet. At last a very simple idea surmounted the difficulty; of course, it is only a very simple idea that one can transfer to a bird's mind, because we and the birds have no common language.

Having captured a few "blue-bottles," I brushed their wings with white of egg and then sprinkled them with ant-cocoons. As soon as the albumen dried, the cocoons were a fixture. Through the hole I watched the result. The cock Flycatcher brought one of these queer-looking objects rather doubtfully, and the hen evidently did not like the experiment, for she ate it herself. However, the second one she gave to one young hopeful, and, observing that he liked it, called for another; but the other was the last. The cock 'Catcher explained the position to her, and the two birds looked at one another. It was the crisis.

Suddenly the idea, which I had been so long struggling to convey, occurred to him—why not the cocoons without the fly? He dashed off and returned with a beakful. The hen protested, but he pushed her on one side and thrust them down a gaping mouth. Both watched the result anxiously; the youngster appreciative, and asking for more. Off dashed the male for another beakful; then the hen tumbled to the idea and fetched some herself. And they stuffed those youngsters with cocoons until they could not squeeze one more in! The battle was won!

Is it a Record?

The young flew on the 7th August, and, by the end of the month, I was able to release the whole family, and had the pleasure of seeing them flying at liberty in the garden and hawking flies for themselves.

I will now explain to you why I was so anxious to breed the Spotted Flycatcher. I am not sure that any species which normally feeds its young on winged insects has been fairly and squarely bred in an aviary. Of course, the remarkable record of the breeding of the Nightjar in the sitting-room of a German family will be recollected by all aviculturists, but in that case the young were hand-fed, in addition to what they received from their parents, and, as we all know, we can hand-rear almost any bird. It is quite impossible, however, to say definitely what may or may not have been accomplished by the early aviculturists here or on the Continent, so you must please note that I express no opinion whatever as to whether the above is really a record.

I find that in writing at express speed I have omitted to say that for purposes of corroboration I showed the young Flycatchers on Aug. 14 to my neighbour, Colonel Lucas (who is very interested in Indian birds), and on Aug. 23 to Messrs. Wolfe and Tayleur.

How to Make Members Attend Meetings.

SIR,—I should be glad if some of your numerous readers could give me a few tips on how to build up a society and to get members to attend meetings regularly? Perhaps some of the numerous secretaries have had a like sad experience to mine, and have found a remedy. ANXIOUS.

The Water Supply at the Welsh National Show.

SIR,—I wish to thank "Britisher" for giving me this opportunity of assuring him and all other fanciers that they may rest content that the welfare of their birds will be most assiduously studied at our forthcoming show. We have in our midst a body of experienced workers, whose reputation may be thoroughly relied on. Mr. E. Thorne, a well-known Foreign bird exhibitor, has kindly undertaken the supervision of the Foreign section, and I shall be very glad if Foreign exhibitors and soft-billed Britishers, whose birds require special food, treatment, etc., will affix instructions to cages. So roll up "Britisher," and send us a good entry.

W. SAMPSON.

The Case of "White Rose."

SIR,—I am surprised at such an exhibitor and judge as Mr. J. Maddison (Newcastle) being ashamed of signing his name to anything he sends to CAGE BIRDS for publication. Does this not show the world plainly who is in the wrong? After this season's six firsts under our most popular, independent and self-influenced gentlemen, who have awarded "White Rose" the red ticket, I ignore judges that put the bird back. It is more gratifying to see that gentlemen who saw the parents in the cage, a good-headed and Norwich-type cock Canary and a hen Bullfinch of good head and size mated, and saw the eggs, also the young while they were being reared, are not ashamed to sign their names. Long live "White Rose," is the wish of many. R. D. PARLETT.

P.S.—I am away from home working for the Government in Dorset, but if you don't publish J. Maddison's name, don't publish any part of this letter, as it is only jealousy, and I know it is he writing.

[As Mr. Parlett expressly desires us to publish Mr. Maddison's name, we do so, but we beg to say that he (Mr. M.) had nothing to do with starting the present discussion.—EDITOR, "C.B."]

SIR,—Now that the thorny question of "White Rose's" parentage is on, it might interest some of your readers to know that there is now being mounted at the Natural History studios, 2, Dame Street, Dublin, a wild Greenfinch, shot in county Roscommon, which appears to me, judging by your illustration, to be just the same colour as Mr. Parlett's bird, with the exception that the latter seems to have some slight marking on the wings, whereas this bird is quite clear, and much the colour of a young yellow Canary in its first plumage.

HUGH WILLIAMS.

Haltwhistle Show and the Northern Norwich P.C.

SIR,—I earnestly appeal to the Northern Norwich P.C. members to remember Haltwhistle show on Feb. 3. This is the last show for our patronage, so let them have a record entry. They are giving a liberal classification, and have a specialist judge.

F. W. LAIDLOW (Sec. N.N.P.C.).

The Giving of Prize Cards.

SIR,—I can fully endorse all your correspondent, "Prize Card," says. I am certain that fanciers for the most part (especially novices, who should be encouraged in every way) greatly appreciate these pieces of pasteboard, some, indeed, placing more store upon them than upon the money won. I well remember the first card I succeeded in securing. I had, with much nervousness, taken one bird—a Yorkshire—to the show held by the Southern Yorkshire C.C., at the Raglan Hotel, Aldersgate-street, in the year 1906, and when I entered the room and found my cage adorned with one of the minor prize cards I know I must have felt as much delighted as any race-horse owner whose steed has won the Derby! Prize cards should always be given to successful exhibitors.

JOHN B. WATERMAN.

A Hawfinch which is Said to Talk.

SIR,—While looking over some back numbers of CAGE BIRDS, I saw an article on a talking Rook, so I thought I would tell you of my wife's Hawfinch that talks, and which has had a varied experience. I am a gardener on a large estate, so have a good chance to study bird life. In May, 1913, I noticed a nest in a large nut tree, and a fine cock Greenfinch was always hanging about. I told the wife about him. She said "Get the nest, and I will hand-rear the young ones; perhaps we shall rear a champion." So up went the ladder one dinner-time, and to my surprise I found what I took for four fine young Bullies. I carried them home, and they took to their food beautifully. In about a fortnight my father came to see us, and said to the wife: "Where did you get those Hawfinches?" That started an argument. I said they are Bullies; he said Hawfinches. I very soon found he was right, by the beaks and plumage and size. I sold two, and one died. The other we kept; it turned out a hen. During the year I had to write to Mr. Norman twice about her, and his advice did her a lot of good. This winter she is a grand one, and when all is quiet you can hear her talking to herself. She can say "Pretty Polly," "Be Quick," "Polly wants a pea," "What"; also she can mock the Linnet and Chaffinch singing. I wish CAGE BIRDS every success.

By E. W. ALLSOPP (Cardiff).

BEFORE actually touching upon the foodstuffs I will sing the praises of bathing as a material factor towards obtaining the top notch of health and condition. From the day the youngsters commence feeding themseves I hang a five-inch bath, and all now take to the water as naturally as if expecting it. From thence until the conclusion of the moult, a day is rarely missed without the opportunity to bathe, and not many are missed through the winter season.

So long as a bird has not been hand-washed, I find even during the coldest weather bathing gives no discomfort to the birds; nor is it dangerous providing sufficient time is allowed for them to become dry, which is generally accomplished in about two hours. It is really astonishing how persistently the birds will stand in the water, flapping their wings, and ducking their heads, before becoming wet, when not hand washed, but when hand-washed the moment they enter the water the plumage becomes sodden, and it is a disgusted looking bird that emerges and tries to again arrange its many feathers.

For some reason hand washing permanently destroys the water resisting quality of the feathers, and is not remedied until another moult has been experienced. For this reason I will not hand wash any bird if I can possibly avoid it, as under this scheme of management I feel duty bound to furnish every opportunity for each bird to live, and whilst bathing is really an aid to that end on the one hand, there is upon the other with hand washed birds a decided element of danger introduced, if only by reason of the feathers being robbed of their water-resisting power. My practice during the winter is therefore to lightly spray all hand-washed birds, and allow three to four hours for them to become dry.

Building Up the Unfortunates.

Occasionally, even from the most robust pairs, a youngster will crop up which, due perhaps to some accidental occurrence attendant on its birth (as a few hours overdue; or perhaps exhausted with its almost futile labours to liberate itself), does not obtain the same fortunate kick off in life as others, and though healthy, it seems weak and inclined to go under. With extreme care in feeding, the generous offering of the bath, and exercise obtained in a flight cage, I have had the pleasure of seeing such birds slowly but surely emerge from the moult, strong, robust specimens, well fitted in every way for their mission in life; thanks being mostly due to the regular bathing.

Again, there is nothing better to bring about permanent strengthening for leg weaknesses, also minor toe troubles (not slip claw, which needs a rubber bandage, but usually stiff hind toes, which afflictions the largest youngsters seems prone to, due perhaps to the muscles of their legs and feet not being sufficiently developed at six, seven, or eight weeks to support their heavy bodies). In addition to regular baths, I daily run such youngsters into a show cage, and by turning the spray bottle upside-down, I am able to direct a steady jet of water upon their legs for a few minutes, and by so doing have in a few weeks wrought a permanent cure.

For the flight cages, in which are usually groups of birds, I find enamelled baking or meat tins about twelve or fifteen inches square and 2½ inches deep, with a wire cage made to suit, meet the situation very nicely. Had I nothing more to recommend baths other than the real delight such afford the birds, I should still have something substantial, but it is more than affording delight, for it is an aid to the perfection in health aimed at.

Now having arrived at the foodstuffs, if you are expecting an elaborate and precise winter menu to regularly follow, I shall disappoint you. Many and varied are the items I press into service, yet in actual volume the winter needs, or use of such, would amount to almost a negligible quantity.

When tending my birds I am always mindful that their mission in nature is to help preserve the balance of things. Those species which prey and live thereby upon the hordes of insect life are doing much more in life than merely live, and I expect it is because of this that nature has so managed affairs that birds have an enormous capacity for stowing away insects, or seeds, and other items upon which they naturally subsist.

Nests of Birds, Poultry, etc., should be regularly sprinkled with KEATING'S POWDER, especially when hens are sitting. Don't forget to do this just previous to the eggs hatching, to destroy the Red Mite. Kills all insects. Harmless to everything else

Affairs of the Yorkshire C.C. of Scotland.

SIR,—In the catalogue of the Glasgow open show the above club tells us they are doing all in their power to strengthen the hold of the Yorkshire Canary in Scotland. If so, might I ask, through the columns of CAGE BIRDS: (1) Out of a membership of 34 for all Scotland, how many novice members they have? (2) How many novice classes were scheduled at shows under their patronage? (3) Is it true that at a certain Glasgow show one of the S.Y.C.C. officials exhibited birds in another fancier's name? (4) Is it also true that at another Glasgow show the judge officiated on birds which he had sold during the previous fortnight? (5) Could a more modern method of electing officials not be suggested by some fancier than that which is at present in vogue? (6) Could a disinterested judge not be secured for each of the patronage shows? Though deeply interested in the Yorkshire Canary, and the above Club, I will be

ONE LESS.

The Value of "Push."

SIR,—I can support Mr. Coker in what he says. Dealers offer 5s. 6d. to 6s. per couple for colour-fed Yorkshires, or 18s. per doz. for large hens. Then just consider the price of bird foods. Take my own case, at the end of October, 1914, I had for disposal over 50 Canaries. Money was short, birds had to go. I sold to a dealer at 7s. 6d. per couple birds bred from pairs that cost me £3 to £2 10s. per pair in 1912 and 1913. I don't blame the dealers; they have a lot of risk, and their adverts. to keep going. The only way to mend things, in my opinion, is some form of co-operation amongst breeders both for buying and selling stock, also foods. Then some societies who run open shows could help a little if they would open their selling classes to any variety of bird. I think they would pay better and be more interesting to visitors. Take the Bradford district shows; nearly all selling classes are confined to Yorkshires. I have heard visitors remark at some of the Yorkshire shows that the birds were all alike. What a difference at Manchester and some other shows. Why the selling classes are a show and an education in themselves, besides giving the novice a chance to sell or buy good stock. I quite agree with Mr. Allsopp on the value of "push," but then some people have a conscienee as well as being short of cash. Some peoplo have learnt the value of "push" thoroughly. Take, for instauce, the man who perhaps breeds say 30 or 40 birds, and he is selling them from October to Mareh. all bred from gold cup and medal winning strain, and all fit to win in keenest competition. He has nothing to learn about "push."

Papers Wanted by Fanciers Interned in Holland.

SIR,—As a regular reader of your most valuable paper, CAGE BIRDS, I would be very much obliged if you would forward me a few eopies to distribute among my birdie friends in this unfortunate position, i.e., interned in Holland. I am a noviee fancier and was a member of the Boldon Colliery C.B.S. until it broke up last year, winning a few firsts in members' classes. Address: E. Noble, A.B., Hawke's Batt., Groningen, Holland.

EDWARD NOBLE.

[We have had pleasure in sending a supply of our publieations, and possibly some of our readers would care to send out papers, magazines, etc. Mr. Noble, we presume, was a member of the British Expeditionary Force sent to Antwerp, a portion of whieh had to cross into Dutch Territory and suffer internment.—EDITOR, "C.B."]

Medals Instead of Money.

SIR,—May I suggest that the officials of the Welsh National show follow the practice of the Crystal Palace Show and give medals to value in lieu of prize-money, the choiee to be at the option of the fortunate winning exhibitor. I think this would be weleomed by a large number of exhibitors.

HOPEFUL.

An Offer to Border and Roller Fanciers Enlisting.

SIR,—If any Roller or Border Canary fancier is enlisting, and does not want to get rid of his birds, I will keep three or four pairs for him free of all charge during the time he is away. I can assure anyone that his birds will be as well cared for as my own, and whoever puts them in my eharge ean have first-class references from a dozen fanciers or tradesmen, if he so desires. The only eondition I make is that they must find eages. I have been before the Faney now twenty years. It must be Rollers or Borders, eold room bred, as these are the only varieties I keep.

Mice Killing Birds in an Aviary.

SIR,—I am sorry to say that my Redpoll-Greenfineh Hybrid, of which you gave a very nice picture in CAGE BIRDS of Nov. 28, 1914, has been killed by mice in my outdoor aviary. He was a winner at several shows, besides Tonbridge (at which show he took either 2nd or 3rd, I'm not sure which). He took 1st and special at Maidstone show in 1913, and 1st at Malling show. I am very sorry to have lost him as I did. I have had him stuffed. I have only three Redpoll-Greenfinch Hybrids left now, out of two nests that I bred. I might say that I have had other birds killed the same way. How the mice get them I cannot understand, as the birds all roost on perches hung by wire from the roof of the aviary. Each bird I've found has had a hole knawed under the left wing near the shoulder. I catch some of the mice, which I believe are field mice, as I live in the country. I would like to know if any of your readers have experienced the same trouble.

The Welsh National Cage Bird Society and Its Show.

SIR,—It affords me great pleasure to learn that the above soeiety is finally deeided upon, and I take this opportunity of congratulating Mr. Banks upon his splendid endeavours in satisfying the long felt need of Welsh fanciers, more especially as one of its objectives will be the furthering of so noble a cause as the Prince of Wales' Fund. May I be allowed to issue an appeal to all Welsh fanciers, more especially to those of South and West Wales, to co-operate with Mr. Banks, so that the first exhibition may be an unparalleled suecess, thus establishing the above society as a permanent institution. It is not sufficient to merely forward exhibits, but to attend personally as well. Welsh fanciers have often regretted the fact that the majority of cage-bird shows have been held upon mid-week dates, when business arrangements prevent them attending. With such men as Mr. Banks, and the old war horse, Mr. Sampson, at the helm, I have no hesitation in predicting that the new society will be the greatest success in the annals of the Fancy.

The Alleged "Canker" in the Ardwick and Manchester C.B.A.

SIR,—"A. S. P.'s" letter was discussed at our last meeting, 26 members being present, not one of whom had heard any murmurings of discontent. Thus it is quite evident that the letter comes from someone who has not had the pleasure of attending our meetiugs. If he had, he would certainly know there is not a more social and amieable lot of fanciers in any society. He accuses a certain few of working in an under-handed way for their own benefits. This is entirely a false accusation. The meeting requests me to write asking "A. S. P." to reply. He states he has made investigations, therefore he must eertainly know what is creating this feeling of unrest amongst the members. In relying, we ask him to be a man and sign his own name, otherwiso the members will treat the matter with the eontempt it deserves.

J. SPENCER, Hon. Sec.
Ardwick and Manchester Dist. C.B.A.

SIR,—If there is no truth in my accusations, will Mr. Thorp kindly explain to the members at the next meeting why he, along with other gentlemen, are so keen on their Sunday afternoon meetings? Is it birds they discuss, or what? I always understood the Robby of bird-keeping was a thing apart from anything else. Remember, Mr. Thorp, there are some people who must have the sound of trumpets to everything they do.

Surrey's January Blackcap.

SIR,—Seeing a paragraph in this week's CAGE BIRDS entitled "Surrey's January Blaekcap," I wondered if it could possibly be mine. I lost this bird about the beginning of November, and have not seen him since.

OXFORD C.B.S.

Fifth annual general meeting, Old Masonic Hall, Oxford, Jan. 20. Balance sheet was presented and passed, and considered very satisfactory, showing a balance in hand of £10 5s. 11d., after running the open show, and handing a sum of £1 11s. to the Mayor of Oxford's local Relief Fund. Officers were elected: Pres., Mr. W. F. Cross; vice-pres. Viscount Valentia, C.B., M.P., Major Henderson, M.P., Capt. Williams, Messrs. W. B. George, C. C. Lynam, Misses Driver, West, Johnson; bankers, Old Bank Oxford; hon. solicitor, A. H. Franklin; hon. auctioneer, J. Hastings; hon. auditors, W. B. George and F. Wilsdon; hon. treas., J. A. Lees; hon. sec., C. F. Holliday; hon. assist. sec., A. F. Fifield; committee, Messrs. J. Gough (chairman), A. Lewin, A. Tombs, F. Wilsdon, W. White, C. Pearce and King.—A. F. Fifield, Press Corres.

LONDON AND COUNTIES A.C.B.

Annual general meeting, Jan. 16, 12 members attending; Mr. R. J. Pretty presided. Letter read from W. Shakespeare with great regret that he was giving up all societies. Balance sheet showed a balance in bank £5 17s. 2d., and 8s. 2d. asets, total £6 5s. 4d. The late Cathcart Cup rules being that the winner paid half toward the second cup, and as all subscription cups have been done away with, the society returned the money to Mr. H. Bell. Vote of thanks accorded late officers for services. Officers for the ensuing year were: President, H. Bell; Committee, Messrs. F. Harrison, A. J. Durham, W. Cullers, G. Mortlock, T. G. Stubb, E. Ayris; hon. treas., R. J. Pretty; hon. sec., W. Gilbert; auditors, Messrs. F. G. Williams and F. Harrison. Meeting adjourned until Jan. 23. Adjourned meeting held at 42 Cowcross, with attendance of 11 members; Mr. R. J. Pretty presided. Five new members were elected: Mr. M. A. Bell, junr., Miss A. Bell, Miss L. Bell, Mrs. Gilbert, Mrs. Durham. A good programme for the year was filled up. Decided that the society have a half-page advert. in CAGE BIRDS Annual for 1915, and obtain diplomas from CAGE BIRDS for pair show, young bird show, and autumn show; one each for champion section, novice, British birds, making nine diplomas in all. A hearty vote of thanks was accorded Mr. Gilbert for the use of his room, and to the Chairman, which brought the annual meeting to a close. If any fancier wishes to join this most central society, now is the time; a good programme and competiton in all sections. Nominations 1s., subs. 3s. per year.—W. Gilbert, Hon. Sec.

The Norwich Plainhead and How to Improve it.

Sir,—I am pleased to note that you have deemed it advisable to group Messrs. Barker Clegg, "Sub-Rosa," J. Bastoek, and myself in one "flight cage," rather than keep us divideo into two little lots. Whether harmony is going to prevail, however, seems doubtful. Already Mr. Barker Clegg seems to be settling down to argue with "Sub-Rosa" over just one bird and two or three judges—a mere "nuffink" compared with the broader issues at stake. Then look at Mr. Bastock's attitude. He says he wants none of my "chipping," or medicine, or bottle, or any of the descriptions of Plainheads I furnished. He simply wants some birds with grand, broad heads, well rounded off, full cheeks, extra large bodies, well carried wings, grand colour and good quality. As for poor me, what do I want? Well, as for the Plainheads, let me have Mr. Bastock's sort. I don't want them on the long side, for if we admit anything more lengthy into the breed than a good, long, useful life, I say right out that such are not typical. Also, in this discussion I want to see some set purpose carried out, something useful accomplished.

The discussion of certain living specimens, which all too few fanciers have had the opportunity of inspecting; references to what certain judges have or have not done; the "settling" with one another over merely minor, petty points, will surely not assist to this end, nor will I be a party to such. I am still a seeker after truth and experience, and as indicating how usefully our time may be spent in this diseussion, I ean point out that shortly I shall extend a hearty invitation to that Frimley fancier to join in who, in an article the other week, declared that cinnamon blood was undoubtedly responsible for the exceedingly good quality of feather sometimes found in our Plainheads. His statement has a quality I always appreciate, i.e., it has no ambiguity about it, and I am hoping in due courso to learn more, and I suggest meanwhile that this good fancier should make ready, whilst I endeavour to clear the atmosphere so that we may get a proper start. As for what Mr. H. Evans has to say about me—well, I will try to deserve it!

E. W. ALLSOPP.

Sir,—Now we have something to argue about—something tangible. So long as we know the birds and can examine them without prejudice, and so long as their owners won't get annoyed at us pointing out their birds' "faults," then we are sure to derive some benefit from this argument; and the Fancy may live to thank Mr. Clegg for starting the controversy. Mr. Clegg has mentioned the winning unflighted yellow at Ardwick as being superior to Mr. Crawshaw's champion. I happened also to visit Ardwick, and was surprised to see the champion standing second. I found the winner all Mr. Clegg says he is, exeept that I can't agree he has a deep chest. I thought he failed there. He is a good all round bird, good head points and feather, but fails in depth of chest, and is too upright. He is one of those birds which require the free use of hempseed to get the desired shape on them; but mind you, these faults are only comparative, and wouldn't probably be noticed were not a good deep-ehested bird along-side it. There is a tendeney on the part of some judges to overlook the flat, or shallow, chest if the bird has a good head, neck, feather and eolour; but we must not forget that the Norwich is essentially a bird of substanee—not necessarily in length, but in breadth and depth. When we get a bird of substanee and type with the desired quality of feather, and with all other points in eonjunction, tho bird should get its reward. Now the unflighted winner at Ardwiek had a fine head and neck, but was not deep enough in chest for my taste. In other words, he hadn't enough substance.

Mr. Clegg quite gets into his stride when dispraising Mr. Crawshaw's champion. He says "He has soft silky feather, but too much of it." Why his feather fits him like a lady's glove everywhere. He says "He is too long in wings and tail—with an oscillating carriage." Does he mean his tail is oscillating? The verb to oscillate means to swing—to vibrate, and I absolutely deny that his tail vibrates. He carries his tail less as an appendage than if it were a part of his body. No sir, no fault can be found with his tail—not even in length. He is no longer than the first bird, comparatively, for a larger and deeper bodied bird must have a longer tail than a small bird, or else be out of proportion. And now about his other "fault." Mr. Clegg says "He is sulky looking, and that you have to lift the cage on to a level with your head to see his eye." I think he exaggerates. But, whether or no, the question is: Do we want the narrow-headed Norwich, with an eye that protrudes like a flying Pigeon's, or do we want the broad-headed, thick-neeked bird? Mr. Crawshaw's bird has the sunken eye, but is not browy, and eertainly isn't sulky-looking; on the contrary.

I am not setting up this bird as a possessor of all the virtues; that bird has to be bred yet. But he has a lot of points to commend him, and is not what Mr. Clegg designates as the "great, big, browy, eronehy-looking, long-sided," etc. selected by the judges. Now he is none of these things. When yon handle him, he travels from perch to perch with a rythmic motion beautiful to see, and he has another desirable point—his legs are set well baek, making him look as if he were always just on the point of overbalancing, so much so that Mr. Sam Cook perpetrated quite a joke about it at Ardwick. Mr. Clegg says that this bird should also have been beaten by the fourth prize bird. Now he is finding fault with the judge he has just commended. The fourth bird is also a good one, but too slim. In this I am borne out by CAGE BIRDS' report.

"CAGE BIRDS," 154, Fleet Street, London, E.C.

FALKIRK (Good Intent) C.B.A.

Annual general meeting, Dec. 26, prize-money was paid over to the successful competitors. A very valuable cup and gold medal kindly given by J. C. Davidson, Esq., was won for the first year by Mr. James Marshall in the Norwich section. After a neat speech by Mr. James Muir, president, the cup was handed over by Mr. Joseph Hunter, who hoped the winner would join in the struggle in future years; Mr. Marshall suitably replied. Decided owing to the unsettled state of the country not to hold any meetings till the last Saturday in April.—W. Clarkson, sec.

OPENSHAW, GORTON & DIS. C.B.S

Meeting, Jan. 13. Mr. Green chair, before a poor attendance. Balance sheet was read and passed as very satisfactory, leaving a nice sum in hand. The following were elected officers for this year: Pres., Mr. A. S. Evanson; Vice-pres., Mr. T. Garbutt; Chair, Mr. Green; Treas., A. Gilbert; Sec., A. Newton; Auditors, J. Dewar and W. Giles; Trustees, T. Richards and J. Langfield. Committee, Messrs. Beddall, Painter, Johnson. A few comments on running the society resulted in a decision to run two N.F. shows and to strike out table show; the 2nd N.F. show to take the place of table show; 1st N.F. either first or second Sat. in June, 2nd, third or fourth Sat. in July. The matter of trophies to be competed for was left over till next meeting on account of such a poor attendance, so will the members please make a special effort to attend? Next meeting, Wednesday, Jan. 27.—A. W. Newton, Hon. Sec.

SOUTH LONDON COL. AND F.A.

Annual general meeting, headquarters, Jan. 14, a large number present. Our new president, Mr. John Clark, took the chair, and met with an enthusiastic reception. In a witty little speech Mr. Clark thanked the members for the honour they had done him in electing him president, and wished all present a prosperous New Year. Three new members were elected and five nominated. Sec. presented balance sheet showing total income of £111, with cash in hand of £8 13s. 7d. free of all liabilities. This was considered very satisfactory, and the sec. and officials were given a hearty vote of thanks. Time getting on, the President commenced the prize distribution, a large number of cups and special prizes being presented to the winners present, and the company was kept in constant merriment by the President's remarks. Next meeting, Feb. 11.—Geo. Burton, Hon. Sec.

CARDIFF C.B.S.

Meeting held Jan. 17, Maskell's Hotel; all officers present. Mr. Allsopp presided. Sec. was unable to give a report of the Radwen show, as a few members had not sent in unsold tickets. A discussion took place on the Welsh National show, and Messrs. Wiseman, Pearce, Dene, Merritt, and Dallimore volunteered to act as night-stewards. Mr. P. Braille offered to present a cruet to the member gaining most points at the Welsh National show, any variety to compete. Decided to hold the members' annual pair show Feb. 17, Mr. Castree, Mountain Ash, judge. Entries close positively Feb. 15. Stewards, Messrs. Wiseman and Pearce; fee, threepence per cage; no prize money, cards only; birds staged at 7, no birds to be removed until 9.30. The Rev. C. B. Jolliffe promised 2s. 6d. cash for best pair in Nov. Nor. classes, donor not competing. Messrs. Escott, James and Howard elected members. Members who are in arrears with subs. will not be able to compete for specials, etc., at the Welsh National and pair show (see rule 7); please pay arrears by next meeting to enable me to prepare balance sheets. Next meeting, nomination of officers and committee; members unable to attend can send on nominations by post.—E. Thomas, Sec.

BURNLEY O.S.

Annual meeting, Star Inn, Church Street, Jan. 6; Mr. Moorhouse chair, with a good turn-up of members, and we accepted another one in E. Tapper. In connection with the amalgamation, we decided to remain as we are at present, as the majority did not see how they could be benefited by amalgamating until a more definite scheme was drawn up. A vote of thanks was accorded Mr. Broxup for his kindness in supplying us with new rule cards, which we very thankfully received from him, as "every little helps." Passed that we make Mr. Whittaker, late sec., hon. member until he returns from active service. Officers elected for 1915: Pres., Mr. Pattison; vice-pres., A. Hargreaves; treas., W. Broxup; sec., T. Chadwick; assist. sec., R. Hines; sub-committee, Messrs. West, Broxup, Hines, Catlow, Spencer, Hargreaves. Balance-sheet was read and passed, and considering the trade in the district, which has been the worst in Lancashire, we are glad to state that we have a balance on the right side. Seeing that we are starting a new year we should like to make a special appeal to fanciers residing within 14 miles of Burnley to become members. There are plenty of fanciers around Burnley who might join, and we all would welcome them as fanciers should. Anyone wishing to join can get all particulars from the sec., who would very gladly reply; our terms are 4s. per year, or by a quarterly payment of 1s. in advance, and no entrance fees. Next meeting, Feb. 3, at 7.30.—T. Chadwick, Sec., 42, Shale Street, Burnley.

HALTWHISTLE C.B.S.

Meeting, Jan. 21; Mr. Bowerbank presided over a fair attendance. Decided to have 31 open classes at open show, Feb. 3. Sec. announced we had been granted patronage of B.F.C.C. (medal for champion and for novice), and patronage of N.N.P.C. Having secured the services of Mr. W. C. Duncan and Mr. A. Holden, specialist judges, we hope that fanciers will give us a bumping entry; 14s. prize money for 1s. fee, and members intend to do their best to make this the best show we have had, so don't be afraid to send your best exhibits, they will receive every attention; if any exhibitor wishes his birds sent direct to the Welsh National, and will write to the sec., he will be pleased to see that they are given a supply of seed and carefully packed for their journey. Open membership fee 2s. 6d. Members please note subs. are overdue.—Wm. Tallantyre, Sec.

ARDWICK & MANCHESTER C.B.A.

Annual meeting Jan. 19, a good attendance of members. The president, Rev. C. E. Gaul, presided. Correspondence in respect of open show was dealt with, there being few complaints as to the management of same. The meeting decided that before the election of officers for the ensuing year was taken they would discuss the letter which appeared in CAGE BIRDS of the 16th of Jan., over the nom-de-plume "A.S.P." This was of a very friendly character, and resulted in a motion being carried unanimously "that we place our confidence in the officers whom we have elected." It was also decided that a letter be sent to the Press, and the same will be found in another column. The officers for 1915 were then elected, there being few changes as compared with the previous year. Votes of thanks were accorded secretary, show committee, and all who helped to make the first annual open show the success it proved to be. Three new members were nominated; we hope only the beginning of a big increase in our numbers. Decided to hold table shows, for Norwich pairs on the 2nd Feb.; Yorkshire pairs, 16th Feb.; and muling pairs and British birds, 2nd March. Members please note table show 2nd Feb.—T. Hall (Press Corresp.).

NEW CROSS C.B.S.

Annual general meeting, Jan. 7, Mr. H. C. Humphries chair. Balance sheet for 1914 was presented, showing a balance on the right side of £1 1s., which was considered satisfactory, and a vote of thanks given the secretaries. Officers for 1915 elected: Mr. H. C. Humphries, chair; Mr. J. S. Fairman, vice, Mr. G. Burton, treas.; Messrs. J. Fuller and W. G. Martin, auditors; committee: Mrs. W. G. Martin, Miss Sims, W. A. Hall, W. H. Gardner, A. W. Culham, F. Childers, T. Kay, A. J. Clarke, and P. Cooper; secs., Burton Bros., 126, Lee Road, Lee Green, S.E. Programme for 1915: Feb. 4, Pair and British show, Mar. 4, Lecture on Canary Breeding, by Mr. F. Cole. April 1, Egg Food making competition. May 6, Papers by members. June 3, F.F. show. July 1, F.F. show, Judge, Mr. J. Robson. August, no meeting. Sept 2 Arrangements for Annual Show, and Question Night. Oct. 7, Judging Competition. Nov. 4, Annual Show, Judge, Mr. J. Robson. Dec. 2, Nomination of officers for 1916. The Society will give numerous spoons for competition, and there are six cups to be competed for, the Society having decided to purchase by subscription a challenge cup for Norwich, and we hope this will be the means of inducing Norwich breeders to join us. Rule books will soon be ready. Will those members desiring to advertise in them let us know? —Burton Bros., Hon. Secs.

Answered by CLAUDE ST. JOHN.

BALD CANARY (J. A. W.).—In addition to the staple diet of canary and rape, give a piece of bread the size of a hazel nut, soaked in cold milk, drained, then lightly dusted with flour of sulphur, and finally with soft sugar, every third day for a month, and on the intervening days give first a morsel of banana or a spray of green salad, and next half a teaspoonful of a mixture of equal parts hemp, millet niger, teazle, and broken groats, and on these days give also in the drinking water ten drops of lemon juice and as much chlorate of potash as will cover a sixpence. Keep in a fairly warm place, but do not overheat it, and especially see that it is not exposed to cold draughts or sudden extremes of temperature. Allow it to bathe freely whenever the weather is at all mild.

NOISY BREATHING (Constant Reader).—You must first of all see that the bird is not exposed to cold draughts or extremes of heat and cold. In addition to the staple diet give every second day half a teaspoonful of crushed sponge cake with four drops of sherry and two of cod liver oil emulsion well mixed in it, and on the alternate days add to the drinking water twenty drops of whisky, five each of oxymel of squills and ipecacuanha wine, and two of eucalyptus oil, and shake well together. Twice a week give also a small teaspoonful of a mixture of equal parts hemp, niger, millet and teazle. Continue this treatment for a fortnight, if necessary.

LYING ON PERCH (F. J. S.).—Keeping the bird in a comfortable temperature for a week or two would help it to pull itself together, but do not overheat it; just keep it off the chilly side. Give a morsel of bread and milk sprinkled with soft sugar every second day for a week or so, and on the alternate days a pinch of the mixed packet seed and a morsel of watercress or some other green salad, but be careful that it is not frosted or decayed. In the water add six drops of syrup of rhubarb and a crystal of sulphate of soda the size of a small pea every second day for a week, and in the following week give instead six drops of tincture of gentian and four of aromatic sulphuric acid every second day.

WET BLANKETS (A. Laurie).—Do not pay too much heed to your discouraging friends who try to deter you from starting in the hobby of breeding Canaries, because, as they say, the hens will not feed the young. Such unnatural hens are certainly to be met with, but to tar all with the same brush on that account is silly and unjust. Besides, when they do crop up, the fault is not infrequently more the owner's than the bird's. It is impossible to give details about breeding in this column, but if you follow strictly the advice in "Canary Breeding for Beginners," which has been sent you, given normally healthy birds to begin with, you should not, and probably will not, meet with any difficulty in breeding and rearing young. The Hartz cock is probably a little down in condition, and may be quite all right before this reply reaches you. If not, give half a teaspoonful of crushed sponge cake with four drops of sherry and two of cod liver oil emulsion well mixed in it and sprinkled with maw seed every second day for a fortnight or so, and on the alternate days add to the water six drops of tincture of gentian and four of aromatic sulphuric acid. A Hartz Canary should be just as active as any other.

STILL MOULTING (Feather-eater).—See that the bird is not exposed to cold draughts or sudden extremes of heat and cold. One or other of these causes is probably the cause of the bird's condition. Having attended to these points, give in addition to the staple diet half a teaspoonful of crushed sponge cake wih four drops of sherry and two of cod liver oil emulsion well mixed in it, and sprinkled with maw seed every third day, and on the intervening days give first a morsel of banana, and next half a teaspoonful of a mixture of equal parts hemp, niger, millet, teazle and broken groats. Dissolve half a drachm of ammoniated citrate of iron and quinine in an ounce of sherry, add a teaspoonful of glycerine, and give twenty drops of this in the water every second day until the feathers cease dropping.

SOFT MOULT (Anson).—Do not allow the bird to hang too near the fireplace or a window, as it is practically impossible to maintain a fairly equable temperature in such positions. Give a staple diet of a mixture of three parts canary to one part summer rape, and otherwise treat it the same as advised to "Anson" in this issue until the moulting has ceased.

NOT SINGING (E. W. C.).—I am not clear whether you mean the cock was kept in a room lit by electric light before or since he came into your possession, but in either case, if he is in a good healthy condition, he will probably resume singing as soon as he has got a little accustomed to the altered conditions. At the same time, if it is now kept in the artificial light constantly, I would advise you to try to find some other place in which to breed the birds and carry on the hobby. You may give him a morsel of bread and milk sprinkled with soft sugar every second day for a week or so, and on the alternate days add to the water six drops of glycerine and ten of lemon juice, and also give a morsel of banana. As regards details for breeding, you cannot do better than follow implicitly the instructions given in the book sent you. The hen, which you term a white, is doubtless a buff.

DIET FOR YORKSHIRE (D. M. A.).—Vocal powers certainly depend to some extent upon a proper dietary, but no amount of dieting will turn a naturally poor singing individual into a "feathered Caruso." Besides, you cannot expect anything like the same quality of song from a Yorkshire as you would from a Roller. The following dietary will enable you to get the best out of the bird that is in it. As staple give a mixture of three parts canary to one part summer rape. In addition, give separately twice a week half a teaspoonful of egg food, or any of the usual substitutes, and on two other days a similar quantity of seed mixture—equal parts hemp, niger, millet, teazle and broken groats will answer the purpose quite well, or you may use one of the packet mixtures, if desired, for the sake of convenience.

CLAPHAM C.B.A.

Adjourned annual general meeting, Jan. 19. The time was mainly spent in rearranging the rule book, and by other business of a purely domestic nature. Resolved to hold a pair show, Feb. 17, and sec. was instructed to write to Mr. Robson regarding judging.—A. R. Coe.

CITY OF BIRMINGHAM C.B.S.

Omitted from our monthly report, Mr. J. A. Eckersley, Esq., was re-elected as president for the ensuing year. On Feb. 3, at 8.45, lecture will be given by Mr. Weaver, of Wolverhampton, on the "Management, Breeding and Exhibition of the Norwich Plainhead." Will members do their best to be present to hear what our well-known Midland fancier has to say, any fancier who is not a member is cordially invited.—A. C. Shirley.

CHELTENHAM C.B.S.

Annual general meeting, Jan. 20. In presenting the annual report and balance sheet, the Hon. Sec. said that owing to the war it had been deemed advisable to cancel the open show, but that all the members' shows had been held and proved most successful; in most cases a distinct advance on the previous year. The balance sheet was also better, showing that the adverse balance of nearly £18 from the previous year had been got rid of, leaving a small balance in hand. Officers were all re-elected, except vice-chairman. Pres., Mr. W. W. Theobald; chair, Mr. J. Madagan; vice, Mr. A. Hayling; hon. sec. and treas., Mr. A. S. Treasure; hon. asst. sec. and show manager, Mr. W. Pounsett; hon auditors, Messrs. G. Stevens and J. Houghton (Gloucester).—A. S. Treasure Hon. Sec.

MIDDLESBRO' AND TEES-SIDE.

Annual meeting, Jan. 2. Balance sheet was put before the members and considered satisfactory, the society being in a very healthy condition. Officers were elected: Chair, Mr. J. Carr; Vice, Mr. T. Taylor; Treas. to be appointed at next monthly meeting; auditors, Deans and Smurthwaite. Owing to the Sec., Mr. Swinsco, removing to the Sunderland district, his resignation was accepted with regret of all members. T. C. Deans was elected hon. sec. Monthly meeting and pair show at headquarters, Crown Hotel, at 2; Mr. T. Wright judge. The Sec. would be obliged for as many entries as possible to be sent to his address on the Friday night, which will facilitate the judge. Monthly meeting at conclusion of show. Note Sec's address—T. C. Deans, 49, Stowe-st., Middlesbro'.

HUDDERSFIELD O.S.

Annual tea and prize distribution, Jan. 9, headquarters, White Hart Hotel. A good number of members and friends sat down to a splendid tea, after which a very enjoyable evening was spent. Mr. Cawtheray, jun., was pianist, and did excellently. Songs were rendered in fine form by Mr. Cawtheray, sen., and his two daughters, and by Messrs. A. Matheson, J. W. Coupland, and A. R. Booth. Mr. G. Wood and Miss Ellam rendered splendid recitations. Mr. W. Gledhill presented the prizes to the winners. Hearty votes of thanks having been accorded to the hostess, Mrs. Moffat, for the excellent manner in which she provided the tea, and to the artistes, the singing of the National Anthem brought a very enjoyable evening to a close. A. Lawford, Sec.

Give a spray of green food—any kind that is in season, and can be procured quite free from frost and wet—about three times a week in winter and daily in summer. When greenstuff is not seasonable, substitute a morsel of sweet fruit of some kind—banana and apple are the best. Keep cage floor strewn with clean gritty sand, and allow the bird to bathe as often as it likes in mild weather.

A TRIO (Oakleigh).—(1) I take it you mean with the birds flying loose. If so, you could allow from fifteen to twenty birds—say, five cocks and twelve to fifteen hens for breeding. This will be quite sufficient to start the season with. (2) For birds flying loose one square foot of floor space is a reasonable allowance. Height is of little moment, and should not be taken into consideration in aviaries of any ordinary size. When you want the birds to breed with any chance of success you should not start the season with more than two-thirds the full complement of stock. (3) The birds flying loose will not necessarily reduce your chances of breeding successfully with pairs confined in the breeding cage. It will depend entirely upon the temperament and condition of the caged individuals.

Mrs. Hamilton and Mrs. Poland.—Replied to by post.

Answered by H. NORMAN.

FEEDING A ROBIN (H.W.).—The Robin is an insect eater although occasionally partaking of a little seed, canary for preference. If you mix your own food for him the following will be suitable. Powdered Osborne biscuits, 6 parts, best ants' eggs and dried flies 2 parts, powdered silkworm pupae 1 part, meat meal ½ part, by measure. Take enough of this mixture for the day, and make crumbly moist with grated raw carrot, or cold boiled potato, or in the spring and summer some finely chopped lettuce, chickweed or water cress. Vary it frequently, adding occasionally a spot or two of new milk. Or you can purchase a good insectile mixture suitable for small insectivorous birds from some of our advertisers or possibly from a bird dealer's shop in your neighbourhood. This should be made moist in the same manner. You must also supply him occasionally with a few mealworms, beetles, or any other live food you can obtain. A small quantity of hard boiled eggs, chopped fine and mixed with the soft food will make a nice change, also a little fruit.

LINNET DOING BADLY (Novice, Oxford).—However did you manage to allow your Linnet to feed on nothing but hemp? You must have treated him wrongly at first. Hemp seed alone is not a suitable food for a Linnet, and you must certainly get him to eat something else or you will lose him. Give him first of all as much glauber salts as will cover a sixpence dissolved in two tablespoonfuls of water, then purchase an ounce of tincture of gentian and give five drops in two tablespoonfuls of water. This tonic will make him feed, and you must supply him with the mixed seed advised in the "Nutshell" book with only a very little hemp, reducing the quantity daily until he can do without it. You could also supply him with a spoonful of soaked teazel and rape. Linnets bathe freely, and if yours refuses to do so you must run him into a spare cage and spray him. Do it in the early part of the day in fine weather.

HYBRID BREEDING WITH REDPOLL (Dee Bee).—As a rule the Lesser Redpoll is a better breeder than the Mealy, although the majority of the Mealies I have tried have been breeders. As you possess both I would advise you to pair the house-moulted Lesser with the Goldfinch, and try the field-moulted Mealy with a hen Canary, then if he breeds you could possibly use him some other way another season. It is not an easy matter to sex house-moulted Redpolls. If your bird is a free singer you should feel pretty safe, but beyond this there is not much to work on, and as you have only the one specimen it makes it all the more difficult, as you cannot sex it by comparison. As a rule the cock bird is a little deeper colour than the hen, and the pencilling more dense (blacker), this also holds good round the base of the beak and bib. When you have decided about pairing your birds, let them occasionally fly together and put them in a position where they can see each other. At the end of March you can put them in their breeding quarters, and a little later supply them with suitable nest boxes, or in the case of the Goldfinch an old wicker cage or even the foundation of a Finch nest pushed in amongst a few twigs or a bunch of heather. Give them plenty of building material, moss, cow-hair, vegetable down, wool, etc. If the Finch lays you will have to remove the eggs and put them under a Canary to hatch, as British hens cannot be depended upon to incubate. Keep the perches low in your breeding cage and the bottom of the floor well covered with moss, as they frequently drop their eggs from the perches, refusing to lay in the nest, although they may have built one. The young are reared on soft food (egg and biscuit) soaked seed, and an abundance of wild food such as seeding chickweed, grass, etc.

MEATING OFF WRENS (R.).—The Wren is purely an insectivorous bird, consequently one of the most difficult to meat off. You must commence with a good supply of insects, small mealworms, maggots, or such other grubs as you can obtain. Give a few of these right away, cutting in two a few of the mealworms. Mix a little insectile mixture, with a generous supply of chopped hard boiled egg with it. Put a few of the insects on the top and press some well into the food, so that in taking these he gets a taste of the food. This you must continue until he is well on to food, when gradually decrease the supply of insects, but do not discontinue entirely. It takes some time to get these small softbills well on to food, but in this individuals differ; as an instance, I meated off a Spotted Flycatcher quite easily, he appeared to take to the food almost from the first, whereas a Whitethroat was given his liberty, as he exhausted my patience and nearly cleared me out of insects. You will not have quite so much trouble with the Tits, as most of them feed more freely on soft food, nuts, fruit, etc.

FOREIGN BIRDS.

Answered by WESLEY T. PAGE, F.Z.S.

YELLOW-RUMPED SEEDEATER (Miss Topping).—The reply sent still holds good, with simply this modification, mate it with a Canary as near its own size as possible; this may be taken as a general rule when mating Serins for cross-breeding; of course, if you wish to breed large or small crosses, then mate a small Serin with a large Canary, or a large Serin with a small Canary, but, generally speaking, if birds much of a size are mated together success is the more probable. I have not your first letter by me, but from such details as you now give, I think your bird is the Streaky-headed Seedeater—you made no mention of size in your last.

AMAZON PARROT (Orme).—The diet should be seed mixture and ripe fruit, with such extras as nuts, biscuit, stale crusts, and a little plain cake. Cuttlebone, water and grit must be continually in the cage. Do not give tea, coffee, or milk slops, table scraps, or any kind of animal food whatever. Spray it with a tepid quassia solution once a week, and dust under the wings and the lower back with insect powder. So long as the voidings are not watery-loose, put one tea-spoonful of Dunneford's Magnesia in the drinking water every fourth day; when undue looseness occurs only give the magnesia once a week; twice a week put half-a-teaspoonful of syrup of phosphates in the drinking water, but not on the same day as you supply the magnesia. Paint the cage over with paraffin, then, after the lapse of a couple of hours, thoroughly swill the oil off with water, boiling to begin with, finishing off with cold. Treat the perch or perches similarly, and boil the food vessels.

ALARIO FINCH, ETC. (S. A. R.).—The value of either bird is about 7s. 6d. Both species are hardy, and the Cape Canary, or Grey-necked Serin, is olive green and green strongly suffused with yellow on top of head, sides of face, breast and abdomen. Both species are excellent songsters.

AMAZONS, ETC. (F. S.).—(1) I really cannot state definitely whether Chrysotis inornata has been exhibited or not, but I do not think so; however, it so closely resembles the Mealy Amazon (C. farinosa), that most would pass it as that species. Approx. 30s. to 50s. (2) Yes, it was undoubtedly a Naked-throated Bell-bird (G. nudicollis) in immature plumage. (3) I think your two Parrakeets are Tovi Parrakeets (Brotogerys jugularis), but it is not possible to give you a definite reply without a minutely detailed description of their colouration; however, I think they are Tovis.

TO KEEP WITH FOREIGNERS (C. E. B.).—Yes, you can put with your Foreign Finches a Canary and a Linnet, and if you get a little of some good brand of Linnet mixture this will be all the addition necessary to the dietary you now supply, as the Canary will be able to pick out all it requires from the respective mixtures. I assume you are supplying green food. At this season of the year, when safe green food is not plentiful, a small piece of sweet apple, and a grape placed in a easy position for the birds to get at, make good substitutes for green food and are appreciated by the birds.

CORDON BLEU, ETC. (E. Maltby).—I must ask you to give me a few more details about the bird you wish me to name, as I must confess I am at fault as to what you mean. Are you describing a hard or softbill? Repeat query as to this part and give me all the details you can. Re Cordon Bleu, not "Gorton Blue"—they are small birds, dove-grey above and blue beneath, this applies to both sexes, but the cock has a crescentic crimson patch across the ear coverts. In many parts of England these birds live in aviaries out of doors all the year round, though a wet, raw, cold winter tries them rather severely. However, providing your county is not a northern one they should succeed well with you, providing they have room to take plenty of wing exercise and a warm weather-proof shelter to retire to at will. A few of this species are bred annually in English aviaries.

GREEN AMAZON (Mrs. D.). — Dissolve three grains of bromide of potassium in a little syrup and stir this into the drinking water (two tablespoonfuls will suffice for the day). Give three doses on successive days. Any chemist will weigh you three grain powders of the above, you had better get at least six, and whenever the bird shows any signs of an attack repeat the treatment. Give it at once six drops of tasteless castor oil, either soaked into a piece of plain cake or biscuit or anything similar, or it can be given direct to the beak from a quill. During such periods as you are not giving the bromide powders, give at least one dose (one teaspoonful in the drinking water) of Dinneford's Magnesia. If the bird is at all weak or thin give a little (half teaspoonful) of cod-liver oil emulsion on anything absorptive which the bird will eat—see other replies as to this. Do not omit to keep grit (not sand) and cuttlebone continually in the cage. Report progress about a month hence.

SUGAR BIRD (Yellow Wings).—As regards the sop, prepare this as follows: Take an ordinary tea-cup and in this mix one teaspoonful of Mellin's Food into a stiff paste with a little water, add three pieces of sponge cake about the size of a walnut, and a teaspoonful each of condensed milk and honey, pour in sufficient boiling water to half fill the cup and thoroughly stir together with a spoon—every other day for a week stir in half a teaspoonful of Dinneford's fluid magnesia before supplying to the bird. You can, of course, easily mix half the quantity if that is sufficient for you, but the sop keeps quite fresh for 24 hours. Keep this bird in your warmest room till it is fit again, yet it must have air and light without draught, and the temperature should be as even as possible. Whenever you can capture a small or medium-sized spider offer it to the bird. Also supply regularly ripe fruit, such as banana, grapes, etc., according to the season. Once acclimatised Yellow-wing Sugar-birds are quite easy to keep fit, providing you do not allow them to become over-fat; but newly imported birds need warmth and care at first.

GENERAL.

Answered by THE EDITOR.

T. J. Furbur.—We do not know the address. Send a letter to him, care of the secretary of the club, at the Woodman Inn, Pontefract.

In Doubt.—The standard size of the Norwich show cage is 12in. long, 11½ high, and 4½ wide. The Crest cage is generally the same, though some exhibitors have them one inch longer and five inches wide; this has a bow top. The wire-front of a show cage for British Birds should be the same colour as the interior.

R. Graham.—Thanks for the cuttings, which we will utilise if space permits.

W. Stevens.—Your letter is much too pessimistic for publication in these times. If you buy unflighted birds, these cannot possibly have been "tested." There are hundreds of novices with splendid birds from the show point of view. How did they become possessed of them? They could not possess them if your statements had any wide application.

C. Bingham.—We are unable to deal with your communication, as you do not give your address.

Mist.—We cannot publish your letter until you give us proof that there are grounds for making the allegation therein. Whose entries were sent before the advertised date of closing and not accepted?

E. B. Drew.—Thanks for the photograph, for which we will try to find a corner in the near future.

POST MORTEMS.

Mr. G. Yates, M.R.C.V.S., 1, College Road, Harrow, Middlesex, will examine and report upon dead cage birds for a fee of 1s. 6d. each bird; for reply direct, 2s. 6d.; analysis, 21s. Subjects for post mortem examination must be sent packed in a box direct to Mr. Yates, with the fee, this and any accompanying letter being kept from contact with the dead bird. Send by letter-post; it is cheaper and quicker than parcel post. Any bodies sent to the office of this paper will be thrown away, and if a fee is enclosed the loss will be the sender's.

Mrs. Speakes.—Cock Tanager, death resulted from pneumonia arising from adverse weather conditions.

I WILL GIVE £50

if I cannot prove any of following statements: That I have bred and exhibited more winners this season, and for years past, than any other exhibitor of Yorkshires; during the last five seasons I have won nearly 400 first prizes (almost double the number of any others) at all the largest shows ever held. Now, you Yorkshire Kings, this is a splendid opportunity. I have again won the Yorkshire Cup, the Green-marked Trophy, the Yorkshire Canary Trophy, the Yorkshire Union Competition, and "Cage Birds" Competition; also cup best in show, Bradford National, and several other cups and spls. too numerous to mention. I have the largest collection of high-class Yorkshires ever seen in one room, not all for sale (as I am the largest breeder of the variety in Bradford), and I have hundreds of testimonials from leading exhibitors, whom I have sold winners, and stock birds to breed them. The above record speaks for itself. Some grand birds for sale, bred from my noted winners, and for length, type, and quality, cannot be equalled, and matched to perfection, all cold room bred and kept; pairs 10/6, 15/-, 20/-, 25/-, 30/-, 40/-, 50/-, 60/-, 80/- per pair; odd birds in proportion: inspection invited, or kindly state wants; all birds sent on a full week's approval; cash or deposit: L. Dykes, Reliable Aviaries, 16, Shann-st. Bolton Woods, Bradford. (33)

THERE is no more lovely seed-eater than the popular Gouldian Finch, which, however, is very difficult to establish. This trouble can be overcome, and the variety kept successfully. But you must follow the hints given in "Nutshell No. 14," from "Cage Birds," 154, Fleet-st., London, E.C., post free for 2½d. From agents (see list frequently published).

PARROT, long-tailed Indian Green, acclimatised, perfect plumage, good whistler, and commencing to talk, with new cage, 21/-. The following outdoor aviary bred: 1 pair Yellow Budgerigars, 6/6; 1 cock Zebra Dove, 3/6; 1 Seifert Roller Canary, full song, 10/6; 3 hens, ditto, 3/6 each; 1 cock Cockatiel, fine specimen, 10/6; cock Twite, 3/6; exchange outdoor foreign; mutual approval: Reynolds, High-st., Stourbridge. (23)

THOUGH they can often be purchased for the modest half-crown, Pekin Nightingales are very beautiful in plumage, have a fine song, and make ideal cage or aviary birds. Some very helpful information on this variety will be found in "Nutshell No. 19," the author of which is Wesley T. Page, F.Z.S. Get it at once. 2½d. post free from "Cage Birds," 154, Fleet-st., London, E.C. 2d. from our agents (list published frequently).

WAXBILLS (Golden-breasted, Orange-cheeked, Grey, and St. Helena). Than this interesting quartette, which can be purchased as from 2/6 to 7/6 a pair, there are few more charming foreigners. They can be successfully kept, too, with little difficulty if you will follow the hints given by Wesley T. Page, F.Z.S., in "Nutshell No. 20," 2½d. post free from "Cage Birds," 154, Fleet-st., London, E.C. Call at any of our agents and get it for 2d. (list of agents published).

ADVERTISEMENT CHARGES.

6d. for the first eighteen words. One Halfpenny for each word over eighteen.
Name and address to be reckoned. MINIMUM, 18 words 6d.

IMPORTANT NOTE.—Two or more Advertisements coming from the same advertiser, even if sent in different names, are reckoned together, and, after the first Eighteen words, are charged at two words a penny. No single advertisement, even if accompanied by others, will be charged at less than the minimum price, viz., Sixpence.

Headlines or Footlines, 1/-, 1/6 2/-, 2/6, according to size.

ADVERTISEMENTS UNACCOMPANIED BY CORRECT REMITTANCE WILL NOT BE INSERTED.

Postal Orders must be sent as far as possible. All moneys should be made payable to F. CARL.

The Proprietor reserves the right to refuse any advertisement, or to cancel any advertisement ordered for a series, at any time, without assigning any reason for so doing.

Advertisements must in all cases bear the bona-fide name and address of the advertiser, and no advertisement will be inserted if addressed to a receiving office, or similar place of call.

Small prepaid advertisements of a general nature and not connected in any way with the Cage Bird Trade are inserted at the rate of ½d. per word throughout. Minimum 12 words 6d.

Advertisements close Tuesdays first post in each week, and should be sent to the advertisement Manager, CAGE BIRDS, 154, Fleet Street, London. Terms for Display Advertisements on application.

REPEATING ADVERTISEMENTS.

ALWAYS USE "CAGE BIRDS" DEPOSIT SYSTEM.

We are not responsible for the statements made in advertisements, nor of the bona-fides of either buyers or sellers In all transactions the adoption of our Deposit System should be insisted upon

RULES.

1.—PROCEDURE.—The intending purchaser should send to this office the amount of the purchase (our deposit fee included), and at the same time he should communicate with the seller, stating what it is he requires sent on approval. We acknowledge receipt of the deposit to both parties. In all cases the depositor should give his name and address, and also that of the vendor, and must write same clearly and distinctly.

2.—END OF TRANSACTION.—The deposit is retained by us until we hear from both parties that the transaction has been completed. If a sale has been effected, we hand the amount deposited to the seller. If a sale has not been effected, we return the amount to the depositor. The transaction must be conducted by the parties themselves. We merely hold the deposit.

3.—AMOUNT OF COMMISSION.—The fee is 6d. for each £1, or fraction of £1, and it must be sent at same time as the deposit.

4.—IMPORTANT POINTS.—The depositor must decide within forty-eight hours of the receipt of the goods whether he will keep or return the same, unless, that is, some other period of approval (of which we must be advised) is agreed upon by both parties. The depositor must at the same time notify us of the fact that he has returned the goods. If the goods are not returned within the said forty-eight hours, we reserve the right to send the deposit to the seller after the expiration of that period. And should the seller fail within three days to notify us of the receipt of his goods back again, the transaction will be treated as ended, and the deposit will be returned to the depositor.

5.—A SATISFACTORY PURCHASE.—When a transaction has been completed to the satisfaction of both depositor and seller, both parties must at once return the deposit receipts as a guarantee of its completion. The depositor must at the same time instruct us to pay over the deposit to the seller.

6.—GOODS ALREADY SOLD.—If the goods are sold before our deposit note reaches the seller, or if for any other reason he declines to do business, he must at once return the deposit note to us. Failing its receipt, we reserve the right to return the deposit to the sender after the expiration of three days.

7.—FRESH TRANSACTION.—In case no sale be effected, a deposit is available for purposes of a fresh transaction, provided another deposit fee be paid.

8.—GOODS IN TRANSIT.—Goods in transit are at the seller's risk, and any damage or loss sustained on the journey must be borne by the seller. But goods not approved of must be properly packed and returned by the same means as were used in sending the same.

9.—PAYMENT OF CARRIAGE.—The payment of carriage must be a matter for arrangement between the vendor and depositor. We do not undertake to settle disputes affecting questions of carriage. But in the absence of other arrangements the purchaser is liable for the carriage of the goods, and if the goods are sent on approval and returned, each party pays the carriage one way.

IMPORTANT.

SEND THE FULL COMMISSION.—If the full commission does not accompany the deposit, the vendor will not be notified of its receipt until the amount deficient plus the extra postage incurred has been paid to us.

HOW TO REMIT.—Under no circumstances will Cheques or Post-dated Money Orders be accepted as deposits. Uncrossed Postal Orders must be sent and the numbers taken for safety.

NOTICE TO BIRD PURCHASERS.

It is advisable that all newly-purchased birds, especially foreign birds, be kept isolated from established stock for a week or ten days, until by their condition they establish the fact that they are thoroughly healthy.

Will Your Young Cage Birds Get Expert Attention?

If you keep Canaries it pays to keep them keyed up to efficiency pitch. If you breed Canaries or Cage Birds or Hybrids, it pays to study scientific breeding and to try to better the strain. It pays to learn from the Experts, instead of blundering along by yourself, wasting time, temper, and money.

It pays to get the Waverley Standard Book, "Canaries, Hybrids and British Birds," supplied with an Anatomical Model of the Canary, in which every section is written by an expert, and in which the Fine Coloured Plates show you exactly what to breed to, while the black and white pictures are helpful and informing. Get it now and profit by the Experts' teaching when your young cage birds arrive.

It is the Best Book on Expert Cage Bird Breeding ever printed.

A Pointer on the Time for Breeding.

(Much Abridged.)

A warm temperature annihilates egg-binding, and there is nothing gained by being too anxious to pair up the birds early in the year; even if the hens are got to lay and the eggs prove fertile there are odds against rearing the young. . . . Although the young birds are covered with a fine, silky, down-like feather, quite sufficient for the first few days, while the mother keeps them covered . . . . this down becomes thinner each day, and just before the feathers appear the young birds are practically bare . . . . if the weather be cold the featherless things get cold, inflammation sets in, and . . . . . We have known breeders lose half their hens by disregarding this . . . . egg-binding is the penalty for rousing the birds into action before winter is past. . . . Our rule is never to pair our birds up till they can see to feed at six o'clock in the morning. . . . A safe rule, therefore, is to wait at least till the middle of March in southern and south-western districts, and until the beginning of April in Midland and Northern districts. . . . When a number of birds have been living together during the wnter, . . . those intended for breeding should be set apart and kept as quiet as possible. They should be fed on . . . . with this treatment the birds will soon show a desire to pair. . . . Many fanciers make the mistake of thinking that because the cocks are in full song they do not require any feeding up; and unfertile eggs are a result. Our experience is that hens are in breeding condition before the cocks . . . . allow half a teaspoonful of egg food twice a week to the cocks, and the same once a week to hens. A pinch of maw seed may be added to the egg food of the cocks, and a pinch of niger seed to the hens' seed diet on days other than that on which rape seed is given. A pinch of niger will do the cocks no harm. . . . When the birds are ready the nest-pan or box should be hung at the back of each single breeding cage.

Mr. H. Hancock, Burslem:

Mr. Ralph Harrison, Whitley Bay:

A Pointer on Treatment of the Young.

(Much Abridged.)

When the young are two or three days old, a little powdered biscuit should be added to the yolk of egg, but the creamy consistency should be maintained; and when they are four or five days old a little canary seed, rape and hemp seed should be added. . . . These seeds should be first prepared by passing a rollingpin over them to crack the husks. . . . The exceptions in our experience have been when cocks are too nervous to carry out their instinct of attention . . . .the cock where he has been allowed to be with the hen can usually be depended on as a feeder. . . . As regards the composition of egg food there are many recipes, as there are breeding rooms. . . . We have tried all the kinds. Our best results have been obtained from either home-made bread-loaves four or five days old—crumbled up fine; or Osborne or thin lunch biscuit powdered fine and mixed with the egg. . . . The late Mr. Blakeston got the best results from feeding largely with egg and crushed hempseed. The way should be felt when trying a new food; all the stock should not be fed on it. . . . To the egg food should be added a pinch of mawseed (poppy) or a little rape in its raw state. If the hen is troublesome and not attending to her brood scald the rape seed well or boil it for five minutes, then strain it off as dry as possible, and give it cold. (The valuable section on "HATCHING & REARING" covers subsections on preparation of Seed, Dangers of unsuitable diet, "Sweating," How sweating may be confounded with diarrhœa, Remedies, Feeders, Feathering Time, Nest Accidents, Mutilations by the Cock, Treatment of the Unfit, How the feathers grow, Insect pests, Leaving the Nest, Hens and second laying, The Nursery Cage, Plucking by Hens, Remedies, Removing the First Brood, Useful Cocks, Cocks as Pluckers, Young Birds and Plucking, Evils of Plucking, The Second Brood, Cocks and Young Birds, One Cock—Two Hens, Arrangements for a Double Brood, Nursery Feeding, The Hunger Cry, A variable Rule, Preparation of Seed, Marking the Broods, Necessity for Marking, Flight Cages, Overcrowding, Feeding in Flights or Aviaries, Ills of Young Birds, Further Treatment.) The next great event in the life of a young bird is its first moult, indications of which present themselves at the age of two months. The first moult of a young bird determines its future life, it is an important period. . . . A keen oversight must be maintained. . . .

Kremner, 101, Tib-st., Manchester.

You Can Try All the Way

and then you cannot obtain such quality, at the price anywhere else in England. I hear every bird go through its song personally, hence each is tested before being sent out, and having been in my time an amateur instrumentalist and vocalist, I deem myself competent to know their value, so no bird is sold by guess work. Have on approval; it is the only safeguard against receiving unsound specimens dear at any price. Amongst the following are some very highly trained birds, which include water Glucke, pure Seifert, British-bred Rollers, Randall's etc.; cocks, 6/6, 7/6, 10/6, 15/-, 20/-; hens, 1/9, 2/-, 2/6; a graud lot of pedigree hens, 3/6 and 5/-, in finest breeding condition; if you pay 10/- each, you can get none better than these. I can strongly and honestly recommend them. Buy now, and save disappointment later; pair matched for breeding, 7/6, 8/6, 10/6, to 25/-; cages 3d.: W. RUDD, The Bird Specialist, Norwich.

STOREY'S ROLLERS

There is a lot of shunt about strains and breeds. Some there is, and some there is not. What you want is a real good German trained songster, one that you can rely upon, a breed that has stood the test against all comers for the last twenty years, a class of Rollers that has merited the praise of every purchaser, and all hearers. I have only a limited number for disposal. The quality and prices are right. Just have one of my Rollers on approval and compare the quality of its song with some of the supposed champions, and keep the bird that gives you the most satisfaction. Storey's genuine trained St. Andreasburg or Hartz Rollers, cocks with full change of song by day and artificial light, price according to quality of song, cocks 6/6, 7/6, 8/6, 10/6, a few extra good songsters 12/6 each. I have none of the common half-bred rubbish, but have a few classic hens, 1/9, 2/-, 2/6, 3/- each. All birds on seven days' approval; neat travelling cages, 3d. each, 2/3 dozen. The old reliable firm and address: E. L. Storey, Crowle, Doncaster.

VOOGT'S CANARIES.

Having just returned from Holland, where I spent three days collecting Hartz birds from the various breeders, and have perfected arrangements for a weekly supply, I can now offer as follows:—

Hens, 2 in cage, 3/-, 14 in 7 cages 14/-. Unless 14 birds taken, the price is 1/6 each.

Cocks, No. I., 10/- each, 7 in 7 cages 50/-. These are highly marked, splendid songsters.

Cocks, No. II., 7/6 each, 7 in 7 cages 42/-. These are the birds usually advertised having the Nightingale and Woodlark note, with sundry other qualifications.

Cocks, No. III., 6/- each, 7 in 7 cages 35/-. There is a great demand for this class of bird. Early application requested.

Kindly Note Terms.

Cash with order only. No birds have been sent away to anyone in Great Britain without cash in advance. The respective Classes, I., II., III., have private distinctive markings. This ensures every buyer receiving whatever he pays for. Every order is numbered and sent away in rotation—first come first served, irrespective of cash buyers here in London. Telephone, 6341 Avenue.

PELTON FELL C.B.S.

As the amalgamation of the three shows Birtley, Chester-le-Street, and Pelton Fell—is done with, I wish to let members know that we intend having a meeting on Feb. 11 to set about the dates of our N.E. and annual shows, and further to see about having a supper. Will old members who would not join last year through being amalgamated send their names in to the sec. or attend the meeting, and see if we can make this meeting as strong as every Sub. will be the same as before the amalgamation, 5s.; new members, 1s. old ones 1s. 6d. If we can get all the old members back again we might run a few open classes at our annual show. Meeting to be held at Mr. A. Garland's Colliery Inn, Pelton Fell, at 6.30.—John Robinson, Sec.

KENDAL C.B.S.

Seventh annual show, Town Hall, Dec. 26, with an entry of 220 birds. Norwich were a nice lot, and some first-class exhibits were staged by Messrs. Alexander, Heywood, Hoyle, and Dickenson. Yorkshires were not quite so numerous, Mr. Harrison, of Morecambe, taking the cream with some good stylish birds. Borders were good in numbers, but not quite the class of birds usually seen. British were not strong, but the two Goldies shown by the sec. were very good; the winner is now eight years old but still in the pink of condition. The committee all worked well, headed by the veteran, J. C. Parker, who acted in his usual capacity as judge's steward. The sec., Mr. Heywood, had all in good order. Judging was a somewhat difficult task, as the light was very bad indeed, but improved towards noon. Mr. E. Brunskill, Southport, judged.

Twitterings.

The annual show of the Sheffield O.S. has been fixed for Nov. 5, 6. Judges, Messrs. J. Robson, J. C. Barnes, and W. Battye.

We have appointed Mr. Peter McQuiston (Ayr) and Mr. J. Maddison (Newcastle-on-Tyne) as judges for Bathgate show, Feb. 27, writes Mr. A. Nicol, hon. sec.

Warrington C.B.S. is holding its annual show Oct. 15 and 16, writes Mr. H. Warburton, sec. Would other secs. please make a note of the date, to avoid clashing.

The annual show of the Bournemouth C.B.A. is fixed for Nov. 9-10, judge Mr. H. Norman, writes Mr. L. Bonsfield, hon. treas. Will secs. please note date to avoid clashing?

At Llanelly show your reporter states that 1st in yellow Yorkshire cocks was Thompson, writes Mr. L. Dykes. Same should read: 1st L. Dykes, 2nd Thompson. Also at Scottish National I won 3rd in unflighted Yorks hens, not Binns, as stated in report.

We are pleased to hear from Mr. W. Erskine, the new hon. sec. of the Dumfries and S. of Scotland C.B.A., that as a result of the show held for the benefit of various War funds, the very nice total of £11 18s. 6d. was available for distribution. This was apportioned as stated in the club report published in this issue.

Owing to the inability of the judge to be with us for the pair and Finch show, writes Mr. F. H. Marhoff, hon. sec. Poplar C.B.S., we found that it was necessary to postpone it until Feb. 11, when we hope to have a very nice show at the headquarters, East India Dock Road, Poplar, at 6.30; no entrance fees. Friends and fanciers welcome.

Members of the Chester C.B.S. please note that Mr. A. Hibbert, 35, St. Mark's Terrace, Saltney, Chester, has undertaken to carry on the secretary's duties during absence through illness of Mr. L. Cavanagh. It is hoped that members will give him a little encouragement, and endeavour to make the pair show, Feb. 10, a record one for the society.

Owing to being up with the Reserve, I am compelled to part with my remaining stock and cages. I am advertising them in another column of CAGE BIRDS. I am sorry, as I have spent many happy hours with them. At present I am guarding German prisoners of war, and have plenty of chances of watching the wild birds, some of which I have never seen before. After the war I intend to start again as a British birdman. Every good wish to you and the paper I have often had to thank for my success.—Pte. W. E. Wilson (King's Own Lancasters).

We are asked to notify the following secretarial changes:—Glasgow Queen's Park C.B.S., Mr. E. Holliday, 76, Coplaw St., Govanhill, Glasgow (replacing Mr. R. Heggie); Walkden Roller, Mr. E. Hibbert, 27, Pendlebury Rd., Swinton, Manchester (replacing Mr. H. Howard); Midland Roller, Mr. J. W. Thomson, 9, Gorsebrook Rd., Wolverhampton (replacing Mr. T. J. Smith).

Noticing the appeal in last week's "Twitterings," writes Mr. O. Millsum (Margate) re occupation for Mr. Best, formerly of Antwerp, I venture to make a few remarks in Mr. Best's favour (quite unknown to him at time of writing) as being fully qualified to have charge of any live stock. I have had the pleasure of seeing Mr. Best at home with his birds at Antwerp, and I can say that he not only traded in birds and animals, but has a fancier's love for them. Anyone in a position to find Mr. Best occupation during this trying time of War will have great satisfaction. There will be no language difficulty, as Mr. Best both speaks and writes English.

The Welsh National show, held in the Hall of the Carlton Hotel, Cardiff, this week-end (Fri., Sat. and Monday) has closed with the grand total of over 1,100 birds, writes Mr. W. Sampson, the manager. Several classes have had to be cancelled, notably in the Foreign section, where the entry is under twenty. The Canary section is great, as also are the Hybrids and British. Many famous birds will be on view, including Mr. Crawshaw's unflighted yellow Norwich, Dr. Wilson's team, Mr. Dykes' ticked yellow "Dreadnought," and many big winners of Messrs. Ogden, Towers, Crawhall, etc. Messrs. Martin and Archer's "Perfection" and teams by Messrs. Crone, Lamb, etc., are in the Hybrid section. Mr. E. Taylor sends "Dusky Monarch," and the Crests are represented by Messrs. Bale, Colledge, the Rev. Joyce, etc. Our Scotch friends have been very good to us, and are well represented by Messrs. Heggie, Crone, Conkie and Louden, Arnott, Wilson, etc.

OBITUARY.

MR. W. LOWNE (Yarmouth).

We deeply regret to learn of the death of that sterling fancier, Mr. W. Lowne. His genial personality made him a wide circle of friends. Mr. Lowne, in business as a taxidermist, was a naturalist of considerable repute, also a good judge of British birds, having officiated in this capacity at the Crystal Palace show, while CAGE BIRDS has published several valuable articles from his pen. The hon. sec. of the Lowestoft F.S., Mr. E. L. A. Crow, writes that Mr. Lowne had been in failing health for some time, and after a painful illness of about six weeks passed away on Jan. 27. Much sympathy is felt for the widow and relatives, and all fanciers will join us in an expression of regret at their irreparable loss.

MR. GEO. MACKIE (Aberdeen).

I am sorry, writes Mr. John Hector, to have to report the death of one of Aberdeen's oldest fanciers, Mr. Geo. Mackie. We have lost a true friend, and many at a distance will read with regret of his demise. He was for twenty-two years the trusted and loyal servant of one of the largest firms in the city. George was a true fancier, and we all felt that he never was fortunate in the breeding room in obtaining the success he deserved, both with Crests and Norwich Plainheads, birds near his heart, more especially the former. He loved his birds. George was a man of few words. At our Society meetings he was ever quiet and thoughtful, and when he did speak the words he uttered were full of weight; wrangling and unnecessary delay annoyed him, and he fidgeted as if he would leave the room. To many a young fancier Mr. Mackie was helpful; many bought birds from him every year, proving that they were treated well. Death only makes such a life shine with a more attractive lustre; to meditate on such a simple, kindly, quiet, useful life leaves us better men. Our sympathy goes out to his widow and family in their sore bereavement.

And Very Nice Too!

On the morning of Sunday, Jan. 10, a brace of Partridges entered the house of Mr. Fosbrooke, by a side door, and were found flying about the passages by the servants.

Eggs for our Wounded.

Poultry keepers throughout the United Kingdom are responding most generously to the appeal for new-laid eggs for our Wounded Soldiers and Sailors. The National Egg Collection has only been organised a short time, but already over 117,000 eggs have been collected for the Wounded. Egg-collecting Depôts now numbering over 380 have been established throughout the country, a full list being obtainable from the Secretary, National Egg Collection, 154, Fleet Street, London, E.C. Eggs may be handed in at any of the Depôts or sent direct to the Central Depôt, c/o Messrs. Harrods, Trevor Square, London.

THE LADY IN THE CASE.

By H. NORMAN (Carshalton).

An article written round the drawing on page 14 of our recent Birthday Number, a limited number of copies of which, including the coloured plate, can be had post free for three penny stamps.

A LITTLE more depth of chest in the hen in the top left hand corner of the sketch would be an improvement, but she has other good points that go to make her a desirable bird to breed from—a neat head, short wings, and exceptional quality of feather. The owner of this bird assures me he can trace her parentage on the hen's side back two generations, and each of her ancestors possessed the depth of chest she lacks. Therefore one feels there is more than a sporting chance of her turning out something up to the mark.

The fact that she is an unflighted bird is rather in her favour; like certain other females she may "put on weight" with advancing years. That, unfortunately, is just one point in the Norwich Canary that we cannot always rely upon. Many birds that are almost ideal in type as unflighted specimens, lengthen between the moults, and those nice short wings appear to have grown out of all proportion.

In making up our standards we have, of course, gone to extremes in the two popular varieties, the Norwich and the Yorkshire, and in breeding both there seems to be a striving by Dame Nature to turn out something almost the opposite to what we want. We are always afraid of our Norwich putting on length, and our Yorkshire increasing in bulk. Of course these little peculiarities are only part of the game, and make the breeding of ideal specimens a difficult task, requiring a good deal of time and patience. I advise young fanciers to put in plenty of both.

The Road to Travel.

There is no royal road to success in bird breeding, and it is a long road for the ordinary fancier to travel—that is, from a beginner in the novice stage, to a successful breeder and exhibitor at, say, the Palace in the champion section. But many have successfully travelled the road, and many will do so again. Looking forward to, and hoping to do better at the next season, is one of the charms of our fascinating hobby. Whatever is done in the breeding room, there should always be an advance in the merits of one's stock, year after year. In some seasons the improvement will possibly not be great; for one reason, there may not be a tremendous advance to be made, or it may be we are striving for some particular points that do not make a big show or admit of much progress.

The two bottom hens in the sketch are mother and daughter, and these are both as true to life in outline as I am able to get them, and I think the novice will be able to see at a glance that considerable progress has been made. The mother is rather chubbily built, but shows quite enough neck, and is cut off rather square behind, besides showing a certain roughness in feather on the back, which I find can be traced back a couple of generations. She was mated with a tight feathered buff cock with a particularly smart tail carriage, clean cut, and with what some fanciers term a good shoot away, which is really the opposite to a tendency to drop the tail (an objectionable feature that, I am glad to say, appears to be decreasing in the best bred stock).

From this pair the wing marked hen was bred. She is not a big one, but very typical, with nice width of shoulders and back skull. In this respect she is an improvement on her grandmother who, although possessing a fairly wide entrance, was practically no wider at the base of the skull; otherwise she was very typical. Her daughter was an only child, and perhaps for that reason was retained; as the Irishman says "there is no selection in one." Anyway she must have inherited some of her mother's good qualities or she could not be the parent of the wing-marked bird.

Now, although this latter hen is somewhat small, she will not be despised in the breeding room. Hens of her build and quality are just the birds to make use of to prevent too much coarseness creeping into one's stock when striving for size. If we bred from all big birds we should soon get coarse ones with an abundance of undesirable feathers; so these smallish, short winged hens are most desirable birds for those who know how to make the best use of them.

An Undesirable Hen.

There is another type of hen that personally I have no liking for; it is the big bird with narrow shoulders. Such hens are in a sense flat-sided, and generally fairly long. They require very careful mating, and seldom throw anything exceptionally good. Their great size frequently tempts a breeder to make use of them, but if he does, he should be particularly careful in his selection of the young ones for the following season.

And I might here point out once again the value of a properly kept stock book, so that these little points can be traced. Some fanciers are simply content to enter the bird's number with its parentage. But I think one should go much further than this. The bird's good and bad points should be noted for future reference, so that one is able to trace any particular point that may crop up. Further, if for some reason we are obliged to breed from one weak in a certain way, we can look up its pedigree and see how far back it is since one of its ancestors possessed the same failing. We can then judge fairly well if it is likely to be reproduced in the young.

In conclusion I would ask all beginners and novices to be very careful in their selection of hens. See that you have birds as typical as possible, even if they are a shade small. And do not forget quality of feather. This appears to me to be a point that is entirely overlooked by the majority of young fanciers, yet if they attend the shows they will notice that the winning birds are mostly conspicuous for their good quality of feather, whatever their other points may be.

LONDON AND PROVINCIAL O.S. ANNUAL DINNER.

A Merry and Enjoyable Evening.

Though by force of circumstances denied this year the pleasure of holding the National show at the Crystal Palace, the members of the L. and P.O.S. decided to proceed with the annual dinner, and this event took place on Jan. 21 in the Crown Room of the Holborn Restaurant. The gathering of members and friends was not a large one, but, as one of the speakers happily said, the company reminded him of a phrase he had often noticed employed in show reports—the entry was on the small side, but the quality was quite first-rate!

And it can truly be said that everything was first-rate—a magnificent dinner was followed by quite the most enjoyable and distinguished musical programme if has been our good fortune to listen to at a function of this kind. The genial hon. sec., Mr. C. W. Law, certainly fully merited the kind things said about him by the various speakers, and his able assistant, Mr. Huggins, deservedly shared in these encomiums, for nothing was left undone that could add to the comfort and enjoyment of the diners.

Those present included Mr. and Mrs. Huggins, Mr. and Mrs. Law, Mr. and Mrs. Oldacre, Mr. and Mrs. Gill, Mr. and Mrs. Trower, Mr. and Mrs. Davey, Mr. and Mrs. Harris, Mr. and Mrs. Montgomery, M. and Madame Feist-Madewell, Mrs. James, the Misses and Madame Feist-Madewell, Mrs. James, the Misses L. and W. James, and Messrs. G. Mortlock, Mortlock, junr., G. Crabb, W. Gilbert, L. A. Bigg, L. Montgomery, and G. E. Weston.

The excellent menu was:

Side Dishes.
Clear Bourgeoise.
St. Germain.
Poached Turbot Cubat.
Saddle of Mutton with Red Currant Jelly.
New Potatoes Rissolés. Brussels Sprouts.
Roast Pheasant with Watercress. Salad.
Orange Pudding. Plombiere Ice.
Wafers. Dessert.

The toasts were commendably few and the speakers commendably brief. After "The King and Royal Family" had been honoured, Mr. Geo. Crabb, who presided in his usual excellent style, proposed "Success to the L. and P.O.S." His remarks evidenced the continued prosperity of the society, and the good work in the Fancy it had done during the past year and was planning for the future. The cash in hand, despite a loss on the autumn show, had slightly increased. They had arranged an attractive programme of events for the coming season and hoped to have their meeting, largely attended by members and friends.

Mr. Harris, in the course of an able response, said that the L. and P.O.S. had decided to go through with its business, war or no war, and looked forward to a highly successful year.

Mr. Mortlock proposed the toast of "The Ladies" in happy terms, paying them many fitting compliments. Madame Madewell, in replying, made an excellent speech which was quite the "hit" of the evening, keeping her hearers convulsed with laughter with her humorous recital of her doings in the Fancy generally and the L. and P.O.S. in particular. Mr. Weston was also called upon to respond.

The superlatively good musical programme has already been referred to. This was provided by Mr. Fred Gibson, who is himself a humorist of a very high order, his songs, and the duets with Miss Nancy Haines (a talented soubrette) being responsible for many aching sides. Miss Alice Lilley proved the possessor of a lovely soprano voice, and Mr. F. Gregory a splendid baritone, while as for the monologues and character songs of Mr. G. Ellis, nothing could be better. Miss Hilda Bertram's pianoforte solos aroused great enthusiasm, and she proved a perfect accompanist. Mr. Gibson is to be congratulated alike on the excellence of his artistes and the excellence of his programme.

ROTHESAY.

Bute U.F.S. 14th annual show, Empire Theatre, Rothesay, Dec. 9, under the distinguished patronage of Lord Bute, Captain Colin Macrae, Mr. Harry Hope, M.P., Col. D. F. D. Neill, Sheriff Martin, R. D. Whyte, Esq., Lord Provost, Magistrates, and Town Council of Rothesay. During judging there was a good attendance of the nobility, including Lady Mary Bute, the Earl of Dumfries, and several members of the Bute family, who were shown round by Bailie Hill. The proceeds are to be handed over to the Red Cross Society. The gift and other classes were heartily supported, and a nice little sum will go to swell a deserving cause. The efforts of the committee met with a record entry despite that several members have volunteered for active service. Scotch Fancy topped the list, several capable of holding their own in open competition, Messrs. Brown and David winning three specials with a good all-round bird. Special best Brit. was won by R. Jeffrey, best Bord. A. H. Lister, best Nor. ck. T. Napier, hen J. W. Dobbie. The management was all that could be wished for, and none did better than sec., J. W. Dobbie, and treas. John McCrone, who were ably assisted by the Rev. C. T. Beale, Bailie Hill, Messrs. Napier, Brown, Leckie, McFarlane, Espin, Weir, Lister, Holmes, Cunningham, Jeffrey, Miller, Clark, and Mitchell, and the tidy little sum of £15 was realised to hand over to the Red Cross Society. Mr. W. Connelly (Glasgow) judged, and his awards were well received.

HALIFAX C.B.S.

First annual members', Jan. 16, King Cross Band Room. There was a splendid entry of 110 birds and the show proved a bumping success considering the society is in the first year of its existence. Many of the big winners at the Yorkshire Union shows were on view, and the birds altogether were a fine lot. Mr. T. Ogden, Bradford, judged, and his awards gave general satisfaction. Mr. Owen Wade and James C. Sutcliffe filled the capacity of stewards in excellent fashion, and Mr. E. Stobart, chairman, very ably helped with the secretarial duties. A nice lot of specials were offered for competition, and were won by the following: Messrs. J. T. Sharpe, G. Mitchell, J. E. Priestley, J. Gelder, E. Stobart, J. Corney, L. Stansfield, H. Johnson, C. Wilson, E. Savile, E. Benson, F. P. Sunderland, C. Senior, Sladdin and Baldwin, A. Crabtree, and A. Sutcliffe. Mr. A. Sutcliffe had the secretarial duties in hand.

EMPIRE C.B.A. (New York).

Second annual show, Grand Central Palace, New York, Dec. 1 to 5, in conjunction with the Empire Poultry Association, and the Yorkville Canary Society. There were some 420 entries, the highest honours falling to the Yorkshires. In For., Mr. Frank Gambo, the worthy sec., carried off highest honours with his red-faced Gouldian, a grand bird, in the pink of condition, and our new member, Mr. W. F. Vollmer, had a lovely pair of Shama Thrushes, which have bred and reared young in a cage. Mr. J. Mebus carried off the silver cup for best collection of Rollers. Mr. W. Toasland, silver cup best hybrid, with his Goldie, a very fine fellow, showing his sire to perfection. Mr. A. C. Ibbeken made a grand display with his two large aviaries, in one of them being 125 birds of different varieties. There was only one American bird shown by a member, he having a permit to trap and keep same. Anyone can apply for a permit to keep an American bird from the Conservation Commission, Albany, N.Y., but everyone is not fortunate enough to get one. The exhibition was the biggest ever held in New York City. The Association is the only one of its kind in New York. Next year we hope to get twice as many entries, and in the course of time to rival the Crystal Palace show. The judges were: Canaries, Mr. F. Grey: For., Mr. G. Crandall.

ROCHDALE AMALGAMATION.

To keep the flag of the Fancy flying in the district, the members of the Rochdale O.C., Rochdale Good Intent, Smallbridge, Littleborough, Bury, and North Manchester, decided to run combined show, and it came off on Jan. 23 in the Club House of the Rochdale O.C. Entries did not come up so well as had been expected. Quality though was good, and some remarkably fine birds were shown, especially in the Lancashires. Sp. best bird fell to a magnificent yellow coppy shown by Mr. Hordern, which was closely pressed by the yellow Yorks. of Mr. Blackburn's, which took second sp. Mr. Jameson's noted ticked buff coppy continued its victorious career, and was fancied by many for the best bird special. Amongst the young birds the ticked buff coppy shown by the veteran Robert Barrass stood out. It was admired by all, and only needs a good adult moult to make one of the best Lancashires ever seen. Yorks. were particularly nice, birds of grand type and style, being well to the front. Norwich also were a good typical lot, but several of them carried just a trifle too much feather. In British were some very handsome birds, about the pick of the bunch were Mr. Francis's grandly mkd. rich coloured Goldfinch, and Mr. Blincoe's Bullfinch. It was a pity they had to meet in the same class. Mr. Adams made a most excellent secretary, and he was well assisted by the committee. Mr. C. A. House judged.

SHEFFIELD C.B.S.

Annual members' show, Foresters' Hall, Nov. 28. One of the best the society has ever had both in regard to number (which was a record) and quality. Yorkshires particularly were a grand lot, and the splendid team of birds shown by Messrs. Bingham and Furniss came in for much admiration; they almost cleared the deck, taking five firsts in the six classes, as well as special for best young Yorks., with a slashing cl. yell. The bulk of the prizes in champ. Norwich went to Mr. A. H. Waters, who showed a grand team, and got special for best young Nor. The novice exhibitors are to be complimented on the advance made. Altogether the show was one of which the members had reason to be proud, and the object for which it was held was one of the best, viz., the Lord Mayor's Relief Fund. The show was officially opened by Councillor J. W. Crowther. Mr. P. Mason judged, and gave every satisfaction. Cup winners were: Champ. Yorks., Bingham and Furniss; novice, D. Pickering; champ. Nor., A. H. Waters; nov., A. W. Sparkes; Crest, J. Evans; Brit., L. Talding; F.M. Brit., S. Richards; best young Yorks., Bingham and Furniss; nov. bird, A. Bagshaw; young Nor., A. H. Waters; hottest bird, T. Dunford. Ring specials: champ. Yorks., 1st Bingham and Furniss; 2, Champion; 3, Jones. Nov., 1, Pickering; 2, Bagshaw. Champ. Nor., 1, Woolhouse; 2, Dunford. LEYTON C.B.A.

Members' exhibition, Nov. 12, in place of the Open Show, Grange Park Hall; entries numbered about 60 above last year's entry in the members' section. The special feature was the fine gathering of Crest and C.B., Messrs. Wallace, Franz, Rhodes, Wheller, etc., all putting down some excellent specimens, Mr. Franz winning Champion, Wilson and Crested cups with a real beauty. The amateur cup went to Mr. Parker with a stylish Yorkie. Mr. Tuck with a capital young buff Nor. won Novice Trophy. Merit all through was quite high-class, amateurs and novices running the champions hard for many of the numerous spls. The show was once more in the capable hands of Messrs. Forse and Son, who have nothing to learn in the management, consequently everything was quite up to date. In their efforts they were ably assisted by Messrs. Farmer (Assist. Sec.), Wallace, Dalton, W. East, Taylor, etc. The show was well attended, Messrs. Robson and Norman judged.

LEIGH C.B.S.

Annual show, Nov. 28, Railway Hotel, Assembly Room. About 120 exhibits faced Mr. Chas. Boult n, who judged. Nor. and Yorks. came up very strong, and competition ruled very keen. The birds right through were of high class, and quite fit for any open competition. Best bird cup went to a remarkable buff Yorkshire ck. shown by Mr. Spiby, who won the cup as well. Other specials: Messrs. Marginson, Ordish, and Collier. Mr. Charleson, the hon. sec., always has matters in good order, and gets well supported in every way by his members. An open Linnet class was well supported by the contest singing Linnet fanciers, and some of these in their hop cages looked really up to the mark. Altogether it was a real good members' show.

AIDS TO SUCCESS.

Our Books and a Commonsense Application of the Advice therein MUST bring you Profit as well as Pleasure

All the experience of years of careful study by experts is at the disposal of readers.

AVIARIES, BIRD-ROOMS, AND CAGES, 2/3 (cloth gilt).—By H. Norman. Contains ten lovely full-page photographic plates. A practical guide which deals thoroughly with the proper Building, Fitting, and Management of Aviaries and Bird-rooms, and the making of Cages.

YORKSHIRE CANARIES, 1/1½.—By H. W. Battye (Past President of the Yorkshire Union). Absolutely the very best Handbook dealing with the Yorkshire and its sub-varieties. Contains complete instructions upon Pairing, Breeding, Moulting, and successful Exhibiting, also how to treat in both health and disease.

NORWICH CANARIES, 1/1.—By C. A. House. Tells the fancier all that he needs to know to enable him to become successful as a breeder, and exhibitor of the Norwich Plainhead. The chapters on "Forming a Stud," and "How to Produce the Ideal" are worth the cost of the whole book.

THE SECRETS OF HYBRID BREEDING REVEALED AND EXPLAINED.—By many notable Mule and Hybrid Breeders. Among the contributors are such well-known breeders as Messrs. R. Colton, W. H. Vale, C. Houlton, C. J. Ward, J. Beswick, G. Lander, T. H. Kinch, T. Smith, etc. This Handbook, which contains 212 pages, 7 inches by 5, is brimful of the most practical information on the highly interesting subject of Hybrid Breeding. Price 1/-, post free 1/2.

PARROTS FOR PLEASURE AND PROFIT, 7d.—By C. P. Arthur. A practical handbook, dealing with the keeping, feeding, and general treatment of the Grey, the Amazon, etc. It explains how to sex these birds, the treatment of newly imported specimens, and cures for their various ills.

SEEDS, FOODS, AND WILD PLANTS FOR CAGE BIRDS, 1/2. — By various leading authors. Full information on the seeds suitable for all cage birds, their food values, uses, etc., with descriptions and illustrations of the wild plants indispensable to the successful keeping of British and other birds.

HOUSE'S CANARY MANUAL, 1/2.—By C. A. House. A thorough, practical guide to the general management and breeding of Canaries, dealing fully with the breeding, etc., of every member of the Canary family, including the Roller (or Singing) Canary. An illustration of each bird, by the master Canary artist, Mr. H. Norman; exhaustive chapters on aviaries and cages, breeding procedure, moulting, exhibiting, diseases, and seeds—a compendium of knowledge.

BUDGERIGARS AND COCKATEELS, 6d.—By C. P. Arthur. The breeding of Budgerigars and Cockatiels is recognised as one of the most profitable and pleasure-giving sides of foreign bird keeping. This eminent authority gives full details on how to keep, feed, breed, tame, and teach them to talk.

FOREIGN BIRDS FOR BEGINNERS, 1/1½.—By W. T. Page, F.Z.S., etc., Foreign Bird Expert to "Cage Birds." A highly instructive Manual. It contains a magnificent coloured plate and a number of black and white illustrations. Indispensable to all keepers of Foreign Birds.

BRITISH BIRD MANUAL, 2/3 (cloth bound).—By H. Norman; or may be had in two parts. Part 1: "Hardbills," and Part 2: "Softbills." Either Part, price 1/1, post free. Each part contains a beautiful and life-like coloured plate and numerous illustrations of birds and cages. Up-to-date information on the keeping of British Birds.

THE STOCK BOOK, 7d.—By G. E. Weston. Of our invaluable "Breeding Room Register" a well-known fancier has said:—"It makes bird-breeding easy" No breeder of birds can possibly afford to be without it. It simplifies the operations in the bird-room and makes it possible for everyone, even the veriest novice, to breed his birds as they should be bred. Contains both Pedigree, Breeding, Young Bird, and Show Registers of simple and unique character, in addition to useful account pages.

CANARY BREEDING FOR BEGINNERS, 7d.—By Claude St. John. A Practical, up-to-date guide to Canary breeding, designed specially for the use of the beginner. Deals very fully with the choice, sexing, and mating of the birds, feeding for condition, the cages and their fittings, the bird-room, egg-food, nest-building, rearing and moulting the young, colour-feeding, training for show, and all the difficulties likely to confront the breeder.

CAGE-BIRD HYBRIDS.—Complete bound in cloth, 7/6 carriage paid. This great work is written by Charles Houlton, an authority with a reputation extending over 25 years as a leading exhibitor and a leading expert and judge; (associate editors, G. E. Weston and C. A. House). Magnificently illustrated by that great bird artist, H. Normar. There are no less than sixteen coloured and sixteen art plates in this work. Each plate is a perfect study of an individual Hybrid.

FANCIERS' PRINTING.—Fanciers requiring business notepaper, postcards, trade envelopes, etc., should write us for a quotation. We are now in a position to supply these at specially low rates combined with first-class work. Artistic memos., with block of any desired bird, and fancier's name, address, and words of description as desired, 250 5/-, 500 7/6, carriage paid.

SOME HINTS ON PARROT KEEPING.

THE plan of keeping a number of Parrots at liberty is one which not many aviculturists will care to attempt, since the conditions indispensable to success are not to be found everywhere, and heavy losses are likely to be sustained, especially at the outset of the experiment. Nevertheless there is a charm about it which atones for many disappointments; and successes, when they do come, are perhaps all the better appreciated for the failures which may have gone before.

The beauty of the birds' plumage is certainly most apparent when they are living in complete freedom, partly because they attain a depth and brilliance of colour seldom seen among the inhabitants of even the largest and best-kept aviaries. There is, too, the satisfactory knowledge that if a true pair can only be induced to stay they are practically certain to make an attempt at breeding, and the results are likely to be satisfactory; for, while bad weather and accidents do, often enough, spoil one's hopes, infertile eggs and neglected young are almost unknown where birds are nesting under more or less natural conditions. Lastly, there are many interesting facts brought to light about the wild life of both rare and common species which can never be discovered as long as the birds are in any degree confined.

Three Essential Conditions.

The three conditions most necessary to success are:—(1) Good winter cover. (2) Good natural nesting accommodation. (3) Trustworthy neighbours who can see an unfamiliar bird without instantly trying to shoot it.

A really thick spruce wood provides about the best form of winter cover, but any kind of tall, dense evergreen will answer the purpose well enough. Abies orientalis gives even better shelter than Abies excelsa, but is seldom found planted in any other way than as a single specimen tree. For nesting purposes English trees unfortunately appear to furnish very indifferent accommodation, especially for Long-tailed Parrakeets, which will sometimes spend many weeks in an unsuccessful search after a home to suit their taste, and finally leave the neighbourhood in disgust never to return.

Very old oaks, elms, beeches and poplars are most likely to provide Parrots with habitable quarters, and where these are absent some good may be done by fixing up artificial nest barrels. These should always be placed as far from the ground as possible, and where small or medium-sized birds are kept they should have entrance holes narrow enough to keep out Brown and White Owls, which are apt to play havoc among the nestlings and sitting hens. To exclude a Barn Owl the hole should not be more than 2 5-8th inches in diameter; to exclude a Brown Owl 3 1-8th inches; 2 3-8th inches will keep out a Jackdaw, and 2 1-8th inches a Little Owl.

Cockatoos, the larger Parrakeets, and, in fact, most members of the Parrot family are usually, in the first instance, best turned with cut wings into a roomy grass enclosure out of which they cannot climb. If released full-winged they are more than likely to be lost at once, but where the other plan is adopted their powers of flight are restored gradually during the course of the moult, and they are for a long time only capable of going short distances in the neighbourhood of their home.

Mind Your Valuable Trees.

The enclosure, which should contain no valuable trees or shrubs (since cut winged Parrots are ten times more destructive than those which are able to fly) must be provided with plenty of branches for the birds to perch on, good temporary shelter from rain and wind, and a feeding tray of the same pattern as those on which the birds will find their seed after they have scattered about the wood or garden in which it is hoped that they will make their home.

A certain amount of trouble is often caused by fighting, and it is an unfortunate fact that where both assailant and victim are unable to fly, the latter for some reason has usually great difficulty in making its escape. The only plan is to shut up the worst offenders—usually old cocks in breeding condition—until such time as their mates, if they have any, are able to fly, when they may be allowed to join them without much risk of straying.

Very tame Amazon Parrots and Macaws can generally be allowed the full use of their wings from the first; but it is desirable that they should become thoroughly familiar with their surroundings before being released, and it is also well to allow them a little preliminary flying practice in an aviary or large room. It sometimes happens that Parrots which have been long confined in cages are very clumsy and erratic in their flight during the first few days of their unaccustomed liberty, and having settled in a tall tree they will starve for many hours before they can summon up courage to attempt a descent to the ground.

Lovebirds should also be released full-winged after having been kept for some weeks in an aviary containing a feeding tray of the same appearance as those they will find outside. They behave like small Finches similarly treated, and seldom give trouble by straying on the day they receive full liberty.

In dealing with Cockatoos, Lorikeets, and certain Parrakeets, it is sometimes safe in the case of mated pairs more or less in breeding condition to allow the male bird to fly, and some weeks later, when he has become thoroughly familiar with his surroundings, to permit his wife to join him. In following this plan it is of vital importance that the hen should remain in full view of her mate when he first goes out, and it is most risky to attempt it unless the mutual affection of the two birds is obviously very great indeed.

How Circumstances Count.

When new arrivals will find other individuals of their own species already at liberty the necessity for wing-cutting may or may not exist, and will depend on circumstances. In the case of sociable and highly gregarious kinds the strangers may usually be expected to join their companions at liberty and give no trouble, especially if they are released one at a time. On the other hand, in dealing with birds not particularly sociable and gregarious, considerable care must be taken, or losses will be sure to follow. Let us take the Platycercinæ as an illustration.

If you have three adult pairs of Rosellas flying at large and desire to add to your stock by importation, it is perfectly useless to turn the new birds out full-winged in the hope that the others will induce them to stay; they will do no such thing, and will only bully them and accelerate their departure. If you have a small flock of young Rosellas which have not yet paired, the case is rather different, and it is usually safe to allow other young birds and even adults cocks to join them full-winged. Adult hens, on the other hand, are intolerant of the presence of young birds which do not belong to them, and are apt to resent rather than welcome their company.

Six Bullfinch Hens in One Nest.

SIR,—I had a curious experience with a nest of Bullies last season. I took the nest, which contained young, when they were three days old, and successfully hand-reared them. After the autumn moult they all proved to be hens, and should be invaluable as hybrid breeders. I wonder if any of your readers has heard of such a case, and would give their opinion of the cause.

D. ROBERTSON.

Home Grown Bird Seed.

SIR,—There is no difficulty in growing some of our bird seeds in England. A considerable quantity of canary seed was at one time grown in Kent. The seed was somewhat smaller than the so-called Spanish, but was nice and full, and readily eaten by the birds. It does best in a light soil, and should be sown in rows about eight inches apart. In an ordinary summer it ripens easily. Unfortunately wild birds are also partial to it, and it needs watching just as it ripens. The same remark applies to rape, for if there should happen to be a decent crop, all the Linnets for miles around find it out and flock to the feast—a beautiful study in bird life, but bad for the cultivator.

How to Make Members Attend Meetings.

SIR,—"Anxious" in his last letter touches upon a matter which is vitally associated with the future well-being of the Fancy. As the majority of the cage-bird societies are established "to promote the proper keeping of cage birds"—which is an essentially unselfish object—it would appear that fanciers should need no inducement to attend meetings if they are genuinely in sympathy with the aims of their association. I can only deplore, however, that not only are fanciers lackadaisical in supporting their societies, but even the societies themselves seem to be too insular and jealous of each other. Many big towns have several societies. Here in London I suppose we have at least a dozen first-class clubs, and I am of opinion that if all these clubs made a practice of throwing all their club shows open to all fanciers who undertook the delivery and collection of their birds, the advantages to the Fancy would be enormous. So far, at any rate, as London is concerned, the exhibition "season" would be practically the whole year round, and Canary fanciers could get a variety of expert opinions on their pairs at the various pair shows. Furthermore, there would be a tendency for fanciers to belong to several societies, which latter would benefit by a larger subscription list. In order to induce or compel backward fanciers to attend meetings, a rule could be passed that no member could exhibit at a lower entry fee than outsiders unless he attended at least, say, three meetings a year.

Morley and District C.B.S. is Revived.

SIR,—On Jan. 26, at the "Shoulder of Mutton," a few of the old members, together with some two or three new members, met and reformed the Morley and District C.B.S. We elected all the officials for the year, and passed the rules used by the old society, with an exception, that the subscription is 3s. a year, 1s. on admission, and the other 2s. to be paid before the 31st of Dec. Next meeting at the above place, first Tuesday in March. We welcome any fanciers in the district. Why we in Morley should not have a really good society I am at a loss to see. Now Morley fanciers, please wake up and rally round. I was elected secretary with Mr. Bywater as assistant, and shall be pleased to give any information to any one.

The Cause and Cure of Sweating Hens.

SIR,—All my life I have been keenly interested in anything alive, especially birds. Re sweating hens: Doubtless these have been the ruin of some of my brightest hopes, and after a lot of research I have come to the conclusion that it is not owing to one, or two, causes, but to many. Now sweating is only the effect of looseness of the bowels in the chicks, generally caused by debility and a breakdown in the constitution of the parent stock. When sweating appears to any extent in a breeding room, it is not a matter to be patched up. The fancier will know that it is Nature's warning that she has reached the limit, and that it is time for him to apply the brake. Let him ask himself such questions as these: Have I been overshowing; using too much heat; feeding up too much; forcing into breeding condition; inbreeding; mating delicate stock; allowing insufficient exercise; keeping the stock in damp or a draught; giving too much pepper, etc? Should a fancier have a valuable hen and her first nest of chicks "sweat," I should advise him to turn her into the flight for the rest of the season. In fact it would be a good thing for the Fancy if all fanciers would run a percentage of their young hens over the first season. Should be pleased to discuss above causes and remedies with any fancier.

By E. W. ALLSOPP (Cardiff).

WITH great astonishment I have on occasions noted the opinions of some writers, who declare how very inferior to, and what shockingly poor substitutes for, nature's items of diet are the seeds of commerce, and other foodstuffs we offer our birds when in captivity. I agree with this until the tale is told how deficient in feeding value are they compared with nature's bill of fare. If such writers are agreed that in those plump grubs and insects, their eggs and seeds and greenstuffs in various stages of development, there is some nourishment, I will say there is more in them that is not nourishment. Nature, I really think, has seen to the nourishment in these things being reduced to an almost irreducible minimum.

Every time I watch a Spotted Flycatcher launch itself into the air and catch an insect, I realise its effort, though so natural, has drawn some little toll upon its energy which that captured insect will no more than replace; and so, practically, from daylight to dark, the bird simply has to keep on catching insects to live. In the same way have I noted a flock of Linnets or Greenfinches foraging during the winter. Acres of land are covered each day, merely to clear perhaps a few obnoxious weed seeds, which I agree are better suited to them than the seeds we supply during captivity, but only so because our seeds are much too nourishing under the changed environments.

Just reflect upon the life of a Canary in a twenty-four inch cage; is it not almost a life of eating merely to live? What amount of energy has been put forth, for example, to hop from the perch to seed box, in a few moments to be comfortably outside a dozen or twenty grains of canary seed? Such a feed in nature during winter would have cost a Greenfinch a whole morning's work, perhaps. And it is because of all this my feeding tends to bulk and not nourishment.

If there is not more actual nourishment in a teaspoonful of hemp, rape, niger, or maw seed, than any of our seed-eaters could procure outside during a winter's day, then I am deceived. But I think I am not, and so see to it that none of my birds get the opportunity of more than a quarter of a teaspoonful per day of any of those seeds mentioned, because I fail to reason why they require more. I am quite sure the liberal manner in which our birds are sometimes treated in this respect does no more than defeat the very object we seek, viz., good health and condition.

Canary seed is undoubtedly a splendid staple diet in every way, and additional seed diet should be more in the nature of a little with a big promise of more. A dozen hemp seeds per bird per day during bitterly cold weather constitutes a real feed, and beneficial, and which may be varied upon other days by a pinch of niger, maw, or rape. And when I say a "pinch," don't compare it with the liberal pinches of snuff some old folks take, which fetch neither a sneeze nor a tear, but just a pinch, sufficient, perhaps, for a threepenny bit to carry. In the event of a prolonged spell of cold weather, a small helping of crushed oats is good; also just one per bird, nicely boiled haricot or butter bean, or blue pea. Another nice change is boiled rape, and if steadily boiled for ten minutes or so, you may dish out quite a quarter of a teaspoonful per bird. It is rather relaxing, and after so boiling I regard it more in the light of a filling, bulky ration, rather than sustaining.

For distinctly milder weather, apples, pears, bananas, boiled carrot, beetroot and potato are capital, bulky, and filling, daily auxiliary items to canary seed, and as we have rather long spells of mild weather in Cardiff, I find it necessary to practically confine the rations of seeds, other than canary, to merely promises, and rely upon the "spoon vittals," as someone described anything that was not meat. Occasionally I offer a small cube per bird of milk sop, made either with bread, or plain granulated biscuit, with a little sugar added in each instance. But eggs in any form I strictly taboo from the end of the breeding season until the first family arrives in the next season.

Each day it is the rule to add something to the daily diet of canary seed, and it varies in character according to the weather and the individual bird. But strict moderation is the key-note, and although I do not wish to emulate the Frenchman, who persuaded his donkey to live upon one straw a day, in the feeding management of my stock, I must admit the tighter my grip becomes upon the various oil seeds we generally use in conjunction with canary seed, the more firm becomes my grip upon the good health of the stock.

Prudence forbids me going so fully into this as I might, as I am mindful I am writing of my own stock and methods. Nevertheless I trust I have furnished ample reasons to support my views that under the environment of cage life much of our troubles in the bird-room may be eliminated either with a greater opportunity for exercise being afforded our stock or by considerably modifying the rations of rich, stimulating seeds. It is worth a trial, and for the birds' sakes I hope it will be tried where not yet adopted. Don't tend your stock as an automatic machine, but sometimes pause and ask: "Why do I do these things?" This will spell progress.

Medals in Lieu of Money.

Sir,—I am glad to notice the suggestion of "Hopeful" that the Welsh National Show should give successful competitors the option of selecting a medal in place of prize-money. I observe from the balance-sheet just to hand that the Scottish National Show does so as well as the Crystal Palace. I feel that the option would be much appreciated by those who do not hunger after prize-money, but follow out the Fancy as a recreative hobby.

James Hay.

The Value of "Push."

Sir,—I hasten to assure Mr. H. Coker that my reference to "truthful language" has no bearing in the manner he perhaps has accepted it. Many advertisers "truthfully tell untruths" by under or over-rating the excellence of the birds, due to their inability to grasp or retain in their minds the average standard of excellence as drawn up for each particular breed. Apart from this point I gathered from Mr. Coker's letter that sales failed to materialise because of lack of enquiries, and as he seems very certain his birds were the full value of prices asked, I can only regret he has not submitted examples of his advertisements that we may judge whether he has, or not, done himself and birds full credit. On every hand I hear of this season, with Plainhead fanciers, being one of the best on record, one breeder already having booked nearly twenty pounds' worth of stock to breed and deliver next season, and I do hope if Mr. Coker happens to be a Plainhead man and still has good stock on offer, that he will not fail to proclaim the good news with an advt., resulting in mutual satisfaction to seller and buyer, which is really the soul of business even when selling our surplus birds.

Mice and Rats in Aviaries.

Sir.—I can heartily sympathise with Mr. W. Bennett as I have suffered greatly from rats. Though none of my birds were very valuable, they were pets, and their loss was keenly felt. Out of a total of twelve, eight birds were taken within a week until I stopped the rats' entrance holes by cementing the floor. The brutes did not even leave so much as a feather; the only trace of violence being stains of blood. One of the slaughtered birds was a hen Cutthroat which used fearlessly to perch on my hand and eat mealworms out of it while I stood in the aviary. I have not given up, however, in spite of the fact that my foreign bird experiences only started in June, and am waiting to restock the aviary.

R. Maxwell Savage.

Sir.—Cementing up all holes is a good plan. Many well-baited traps will keep the number down. This is better, however:—Cage wire fronts made with small mesh of ⅜in., with hooded seed and water vessels, or food and water inside cage. I have not known a mouse get through a ⅜-in. mesh.

J. Kay.

Sir,—I notice Mr. Bennett's letter, and should be much surprised if the cause of death was really mice. These vermin do give a deal of trouble in fouling the seed trough, but I can scarcely think they have attacked the birds; though they may scare them to flutter to death in the dark. My idea is that rats have done the mischief, by hypnotising them as they roost, and seizing them when they fall.

When Judges Disagree.

The Case of "White Rose."

Sir,—In reply to the editorial remarks at the bottom of my letter of last week, I never mentioned that Mr. Maddison had anything to do with starting the present discussion, but I did state near enough that he, Mr. M., sent the letter signed "Scotch Thistle."

R. D. Parlett.

[Whatever Mr. Parlett's intentions may have been, his letter certainly seemed to us to assert that Mr. Maddison was responsible for the present discussion.—Editor.]

Sir,—I hasten to thank Mr. Parlett for his courteous letter in last week's Cage Birds. This is the second time he has given me a free and valuable advertisement in connection with his Hybrid. I hope Mr. Parlett will forgive me for having an opinion of my own, and for daring to back up that opinion. He accuses me of being afraid to sign my name, and yet previously he complained of three occasions where I did sign my name, and I rather suspect it is the remembrance of the same that is still rankling in his mind. No, sir, it was neither shame nor cowardice that caused me to use a nom de plume to the few lines I sent you. I was under the impression that the sensational Hybrid was the subject under discussion. Evidently Mr. Parlett is using the proverbial red herring to try and divert your readers' attention. Mr. Parlett is a good guesser—as anyone would be, after requesting, and receiving, a few lines of poetry and afterwards seeing a copy of it in your paper. Had I imagined that its appearance in Cage Birds would have intensified his soreness I would not have sent it to you.

That grand Hybrid, "White Rose," may now dance, sing, or whistle.
And laugh at his critics, "Red Rose," and
"Scotch Thistle";
They've got what is vulgarly termed a
"knockout."
It's been finally settled beyond any doubt,
That instead of one father, "White Rose"
has had two,
He proves it as clearly as birdie can do.
This fact should be duly recorded in history,
While we're all jolly glad we have solved
the great mystery.

Affairs of the Yorkshire C.C. of Scotland.

Sir,—"One Less" calls attention to a note in the catalogue of the recent Glasgow open show which states that the above club is doing everything in its power to strengthen the hold of the Yorkshire in Scotland. The same note goes on to say that those interested or wanting information will be furnished with all particulars by the secretary (whose name and address is given). Therefore had "One Less" only been wanting information he could have written, and the same would have been supplied. We therefore conclude that, although his letter consists of questions, information was not the object.

Taking questions 1 and 2 together, there were no novice classes in the schedules of the patronage shows, for although the proportion of novices in the membership is considerable, they could scarcely expect that open shows would take the risk of novice classes when it is known what has been done for the novice, and what the result has been. There is a valuable cup confined to novices. This year that cup was won with 8 points; last year it was won with 7 points; a good special for runner-up was not won at all—showing what good triers the novice members are. Other specials in the classes were confined to novices. I am not aware that any "official" of the S.Y.C.C. exhibited birds in another fancier's name; but if "One Less" knew this to be the case, or that any rule was broken, the proper course was open to him to protest, and the committee of any of the Glasgow societies would have given the matter careful attention; but it is perhaps easier for "One Less" to make insinuations than to risk a few shillings for a protest. Re the statement that a judge officiated on birds which he had sold during the previous fortnight, if "One Less" will say which judge he refers to, the party accused will be the best one to explain for himself. As genuine sales are not uncommon among good fanciers (not of the class of "One Less") it would be foolish of any judge to think that "One Less" referred to him, unless he has the courage to make a direct statement.

Re the election of office-bearers: A more modern method is not (to my knowledge) in vogue in any society. It is fair and honourable, as it puts into office the men whom the majority of the members want. The judges for the patronage shows are not elected by the S.Y.C.C., but by the society holding the show, and if they are not considered suitable (their names being given when patronage is applied for) then the patronage can be withheld, while no judge can under the rules officiate at two patronage shows. If "One Less" was at the meeting, he would have had his say with the others. It is very evident he was not or, at least, has not had the courage to state his grievances there (although he says he is deeply interested), as this is the first we have heard of these complaints. In the interests of the Yorkshire C.C. of Scotland, I am glad to hear he is to be "One Less," as one or two less of that kind of member would be for the good of the club, when, I have no doubt, their places will be taken up by one or two more of the desirable exhibitors who work in harmony for the real advancement of the Yorkshire.

A Member.

Sir.—With reference to the letter on the above which appeared in your last issue, I have heard my name freely mentioned on several occasions as its author. Possibly the fact that I have been at no pains to conceal my opinion on the third point raised by "One Less" is responsible for this; nevertheless, I did not write the letter, nor have I the remotest idea who did. I shall therefore be glad if you will give this disclaimer the same publicity as the letter in question.

R. B. Gibb.

The Norwich Plainhead and How to Improve it.

Sir,—If your correspondents will keep to the point, and not wander into the wilds, harmony will prevail and good come of the discussion. What is the principal point in the modern Plainhead Norwich? Personally I think head, for when you have produced the wide and full cheeked head, the short neck is sure to accompany it. Which is the best cross to use? I think a yellow Crest-bred hen, short and thick, with good cushion head; if it has a dash of Cinnamon blood in it, so much the better. The young from this cross in the first season will be feathery, but if you have succeeded in getting more size, and an increase in size of head, you will have done well. I think by using the Crest-bred hen in preference to a Crest-bred cock you will be able to get shorter specimens, and better quality. If any of this Cross show too much feather, here is a chance to use double yellows the next season. I should like to hear from any fancier who has adopted this course, and learn the result.

J. Bastock.

A letter from Mr. Clegg will appear next week.—Ed.

The Alleged "Canker" in the Ardwick and Manchester C.B.A.

Sir,—Will "A. S. P." kindly read the following, put before the members at our meeting of the 2nd inst. To fellow members: The writer, in taking up the challenge of "A. S. P.," will be glad to give £5 to any charitable institution the society likes to name if any officer or member of this or any other society, or any bird fancier not connected with a society, can prove that I at any time have met other gentlemen on Sunday morning, afternoon or evening to discuss or enter into conversation concerning any business in connection with this or other societies.

A. E. Thorpe.

Sir,—The statement of "A. S. P." respecting a "canker" is perfectly true if he himself is a member of our society (which I seriously doubt). But presuming that "A. S. P." is a member, then I would advise you to be a man, attend the next meeting, and explain yourself. Leave the asp sting at home, and bring an oiled feather instead. Use it gently and freely, and you will be surprised at the result—why, that "canker" will clear out of your system and you will find yourself in your right mind, enjoying taking part in the discussions as a man free from bias. Those gentlemen who you have called machinators and schemers, I call the roof and the sides of our organisation. I have been a member and have watched the growth of our society from its infancy up to the day when it volunteered for the front (with its open show), was accepted, and succeeded in what many older societies were afraid to touch at all this season, owing to the trying time we are passing through. What has been the cause of our success? Simply, that we have always had good men in office, who have brought their business acumen with them to our meetings, also their good fellowship. At our open show on the Friday night, who do you think acted as watchmen through the silent hours of the night, so that our feathered pets should come to no harm? Why, four of these "schemers," one of them a professional man (more honour to his cloth), two others travellers, and the last, our worthy secretary, more power to him, though he ought to have been in bed (where I suppose "A. S. P." was keeping his canker warm) Shame on you, for trying to belittle men who found us a home, and a good one at that, when we were in great danger of being without a shelter.

W. Bowning.

Sir,—"A.S.P." cannot be a member of the society or he would not make such an accusation. Having myself been a member almost from the beginning, and also an active worker as far as the time at my disposal would allow, thus coming in contact with almost all the members, I must say I have always found them a most social lot of fellows and I think a more base and false accusation has never been made—not even by those experts, the Germans. Bear in mind "A.S.P." that good old motto: If you cannot do anyone any good don't do them any harm.

Matthews, E. Bousfield, H. Goodland, A. Tuck. Annual show takes place Nov. 9 and 10, Mr. H. Norman judge, and a N.F. show in July. Hon. sec. will be glad to hear from fanciers in Hampshire and Dorset who wish to join the Association. —G. W. Jones, 156, Holdenhurst Road.

METROPOLITAN C.B.A.

General meeting, Kelvedon Hall, Walham Green, Jan. 21, Mr. G. Harrison, chair. Balance sheet was put back for next meeting, and the office of president was left open. Mr. Harrison was elected chair; Mr. Larking, treas.; Mr. Bowring, hon. sec.; Mr. Piggens, assist. sec.; Messrs. Slade, B. Green, Garrod, Raine, Newbury, Jeffries. Decided that Messrs. Robson, Norman, and G. Gardner be asked to judge the shows; arranged that Mr. Norman judge pair show, Feb. 18, Mr. Robson, young birds, June 12, and Mr. Norman, annual, Nov. 27. A hearty vote of thanks was given the officers for their work. New members were elected. Anyone wishing to become a member, now is the time. Send along to the sec.; nomination, 1s.; subs., fee, 2s. 6d.—H. F. Bowring, Hon. Sec., 67, Everington Street, Fulham.

QUEEN'S PARK (Glasgow) C.B.S.

Annual general meeting, headquarters, Marie Stuart Halls, Crosshill, Jan. 27. There was a good attendance, and a large agenda was got through in good time. Seven new members were balloted for and admitted. Financial statements read, showing a balance of £7 6s., and carried unanimously; prize-money won at annual show was handed out. Election of office-bearers for 1915: Pres., Mr. R. Heggie; vice-pres., Messrs. Foreman and Cairns; sec., Mr. Edward Holliday; committee, Messrs. Jeffrey, Hamilton, Fulton, J. R. Steel, McClymont, Wm. Steel, Alex. Steel, Connelly, Galbraith; auditors, Messrs. Naismith and Stewart. The committee to report any suggested alterations in rules a next meeting. Members having any suggestion to make regarding any rule or rules might forward same to sec. before Feb. 13. Next meeting and pair show, Feb. 24, 8 p.m. Vote of thanks chair brought a pleasant meeting to a close. —E. Holliday, Sec.

HORNSEY, WOOD GREEN C.B.S.

Annual general meeting, Headquarters, Nightingale Hotel, High Road, Wood Green, Jan. 6, with a very good attendance of members and visitors, Mr. S. T. Willis presiding. Balance-sheet for 1914 was read and passed, showing a balance in hand of £4 5s. 5d., and staging and cups on hand value £8 8s. 6d. Officers elected for the year:—Chair, Mr. S. T. Willis; vice, Mr. E. Stephens; hon. sec. and treas., Mr. P. Brooks, 3, Triuity Road, Wood Green; assist. sec., Mr. Bates; committee, Messrs. Huggins, Hawie, Everett, F. E. Pledger, Surridge, Titchener, Martin, and Pettit. A good programme for the year has been arranged, including table shows and lectures. Young stock show, June 25. Judge, Mr. H. Norman. Annual show, Nov. 20. Judge, Mr. J. Robson. Anyone wishing to become a member of this ever-increasing society should communicate with sec. as above, when a book of fixtures will be forwarded.—P. Brooks, Hon. Sec.

RICHMOND (Surrey) C.B.S.

Meeting Jan. 25, Mr. W. Phipps chair. A very fair number present to see Mr. T. Harris give a washing exhibition. The lecturer commenced by showing us how to tell temperature of waters by dipping the elbow into each. He then explained the use of different brushes and sponge and cloths, and showed us how to handle the bird and his method of washing and drying. Whilst birds were drying sec. read a report of show held on Dec. 10. This show helped the club funds a great deal, as members took no prize-money. It brought the sum of £1 into the club. Ten new members were elected, including Mr. R. Clouting, who becomes a vice-pres. The meeting approved of sec.'s action in paying £2 for use of room. Decided to hold a pair show early in March, schedule as last year with an additional class for Borders. A hearty vote of thanks to Mr. Harris brought the meeting to a close. Mr. Robert Clouting is presenting the society with a cup and medal for most points throughout year.—Geo. Birch, Hon. Sec.

BARROW C.B.S.

Meeting, Gardner's Restaurant, Jan. 27, with a very large turn-out of members; a most interesting meeting gone through, and much business of a sound character was done. Sec. intimated that he had secured the Mayor of the town to act as president, which was received by the members with much delight; also that there was every prospect of securing some of the most popular gentlemen of the town to further the Fancy and make it of deeper interest and more value. We are specially interesting ourselves in novices, and give an invitation to all bird lovers to become members. Table show for muling pairs, some keen competition was shown. 1, Neil, a beautiful Goldie and Yellow Norwich hen; 2, McFarlane, a fine Linnet pair; 3, C. Shackley, good Linnet pair; vhc, Panting; vhc, Mr. Armstrong. The most interesting part of the meeting was the judging competition, and this event caused a great amount of amusement and instruction, especially to novices. Mr. G. Large won the prize in being nearest to the judge's decision. Mr. J. Hudson judged, and his awards were well received. Decided to hold a table show and judging competition Feb. 10, next meeting night, of Yorks. and Nor. pairs. Mr. Saul judge. We trust that bird lovers will accept our special invitation to become members. After giving high tribute to our late sec., Mr. Hudson, the Chairman brought a most enjoyable and instructive meeting to a close.—D. McFarlane, Hon. Sec.

CRYSTAL PALACE & PENGE C.B.S

Meeting, Alexander Hotel, Mr. C. Stone, Pres., being present. Mr. Foxen chair, and a fair attendance. Balance sheet read and passed; cash in hand £2 13s. 4d. Vote of thanks to the late sec. for past services. Winners of gold medals, Mr. Britten, Brit.; Mr. Last, Canary; silver cup, presented by the President at annual show for most points, 4 nominated birds, tie. Mr. Fairman, Mr. Last, Mr. Hutton only losing by 1 point. We are in a fair way to have 3 cups this year. New members wanted, sub., 1s. per quarter.—Hon. Sec., W. Fryett, 25, Gowland Place, Beckenham.

PORTH AND RHONDDA VALLEY.

Annual meeting, Jan. 27, at Porth Hotel, with a good attendance; Mr. Legg chair. Election of officers for 1915: Mr. J. H. Bevan, chair.; Mr. Legg, vice-chair.; Mr. J. S. Jones, re-elected sec. Election of treas. next meeting. Will all members please note that our matched pair show will be held at the Porth Hotel, Feb. 24; entries close Feb. 22; W. Castree judge. Some subs. are over-due; please attend next meeting, Wed. 10th, at 7 sharp, as some very important matters are to be gone through. Mr. T. Emanuel was elected a member. Hoping each member will bring a new member next meeting.—J. S. Jones, hon. sec.

EDINBURGH C.B.S.

Meeting, Cairn's Memorial Hall, Gorgie Road, Jan. 19, a fair turn-out of members being present, Pres., Mr. G. Staines, chair. New members elected: Messrs. C. Duncan, J. Mills, H. Norton, A. Stewart. It was left in hands of sec. to try and arrange for lecture and washing exhibition, in addition to table shows, for the season, also to get syllabuses printed. A post-card was read, and after considerable discussion, it was decided that the matter be dropped altogether, as no conviction could be proved. Sec. was instructed to write to members who had not settled up for tickets for annual show. Next meeting, election of judges and classification for annual show. Meeting closed with a vote of thanks to the chair.—J. C. Charlton, Sec.

EASTLEIGH C.B.S.

First annual general meeting, headquarters, Boy Scout Room, Station Hill, Jan. 25. There was a good muster present, and officers for season were elected. Mr. H. Johnson was voted in the chair (vice Mr. T. Lees, who is serving the Colours), F. Thornback, vice-chair. Mr. J. Alderslade, Hon. Sec., Mr. W. G. Clark, Assist. Sec. Some very good suggestions were put forward for building up the society, and the Chairman wished all members (present and absent) to bring forward any suggestions that may benefit the society. Sec. promised that he would do all in his power to make the year another successful one; at present four medals had been presented to him for competition, and he hoped that it would be another good fight for the shield. Subs. are now due; and there will be no alteration in the fee, 1s. 7d.; membership open to all.—J. Alderslade.

WOOD GREEN F.F.A.

Annual meeting. Officers elected:—Pres., C. T. Willson; chair, A. W. H. Brand; vice, H. Befts; vice-pres., T. J. Hudson, A. Groom, W. Dean, P. L. Frost, — Woodin, and T. Callegari; hon. sec., G. T. Harris; treas., W. Shillito; show sec., C. Tolfree; auditors, Messrs. Tilley and Fellowes, and a capable committee. Balance-sheet was presented showing a balance in hand; the society is in a healthy condition financially. Young stock show will be held June 19, annual show Nov. 13. Arrangements have been made for eight monthly evening shows, two for each section. Silver spoons, two for each show, will be given, and as the expense is rather heavy members are asked to enter as freely as possible, fee 2d. The committee hope that in 1915 the members will attend the meetings in large numbers and show their appreciation of our efforts to cater for them. A hearty vote of thanks was accorded to the Fancy Press for the many favours received during the past year. Subs. are due.—T. Callegari, Assist.-Sec.

CAMBRIDGE & COUNTY C.B.A.

Annual general meeting, Prince of Wales' Hotel, Sidney Street, January 25th. There was a fair attendance, presided over by Mr. G. W. Bishop. Balance-sheet was presented by the Hon. Sec. and Treas., Mr. W. Ridgeon, and showed that the Association had had a successful season, there being a balance in hand of £6 11s. 8d. The members' show in November had attracted a very satisfactory entry. Officers were elected for ensuing year:—Pres., Mr. E. Moore; chair, Mr. G. W. Bishop; vice, Mr. W. R. P. Stiles; hon. sec. and treas., Mr. W. Ridgeon; assist. sec., Mr. C. G. Taylor; committee, Messrs. A. Bye, G. Langley, F. Ridgewell, G. Moore, A. Hills, E. Nichols, C. G. Williams, F. Papworth, and J. H. Pope. It was announced that two medals had been presented for competition during the coming season. These would be devoted to the Canary and British sections respectively. Last year's winners in these sections were Mr. G. Bishop and Mr. H. P. Hart. Following a discussion of the rules, it was decided to hold a members' show Feb. 18, for pairs matched for breeding, etc. —C. G. Taylor, Assist. Hon. Sec.

SOUTH BIRMINGHAM O.S.

Fourth annual meeting, Jan. 13, before a splendid gathering, over 30 being present. Mr. Willmott (chair), with Vice Chairman Hughes and full officers. Also special meeting, Jan. 27. Chairman presented the annual report and spoke of the splendid progress of the society. Although the increase in membership last year had not been so rapid as in previous years, it was encouraging to find such a grand list of names on the books. As to the laggards in subscriptions, many of whom had paid only for the half year, he thought at least these members should write to the Sec. and state if they intended to go on or had withdrawn from the Society. The balance-sheet, he continued, was a source of pleasure. The total cash in hand was close on £10, a sign that things were progressing well. He had pleasure in proposing on behalf of members a hearty vote of thanks to stewards, show manager, and sec. for the excellent way it had been conducted. A hearty vote of thanks was passed to the past chairman, vice-chair, and committee, treas., and the popular sec. Elected for 1915: Pres., Dr. A. H. C. Taylor; Chair., E. T. Willmott; Vice, J. Hughes; Committee, Messrs. Swindon, Burke, Hickling, Yardley; Treas., W. Harding; Show Manager, G. Bayliss; Auditors, Messrs. Buckman and Rees; Sec., J. Sheppard. On the proposition of Mr. Hughes, a cash present was made to the Sec. for past services. The Sec. responded with his best thanks. Speaking of the work of the S.B.O.S., he said that what gave him the greatest satisfaction was the whole-hearted support all the members had given him. The shows had been a success, the meetings and exhibitions the same. Heartiest congratulations to Messrs. Cowley and Thompson on securing the cups for 1914; also to our British man, Mr. Raby, on winning the cup outright. Another had been purchased, and he hoped better competition would make this year's British section stronger and give better satisfaction to Mr. Raby. He thanked all again, and his great wish was greater success than ever to the well-established South Birmingham O.S. It is hoped that members will make an effort to again be present at the Feb. meeting, when some important items will be dealt with. Committee meeting Feb. 3.—J. Sheppard, Sec.

CHESTER C.B.S.

General meeting Boot Inn, Jan. 26. Balance sheet for 1914 showing balance £3 1s. 9½d. carried forward, passed and read. Decided to hold pair show Feb. 10, 1915, at 7. Officers for 1915 appointed. Mr. A. Hibbert, 35, St. Mark's Terrace, Saltney, Chester, has kindly undertaken to act as sec. pro. tem., and all communications should be addressed to him.—L. Cavanagh, Hon. Sec.

YORKSHIRE AMAL. SOCIETIES.

(Committee met) Jan. 30, at Market Tavern, Bradford, to consider the advisability of holding an annual dinner and prize distribution. Unanimously passed that each specialist club should present its own prizes at its annual general meeting, and that the annual general gathering be dispensed with for the present year. Statement of accounts for last annual prize distribution was passed as read.—H. Hill, Sec.

CINNAMON-MARKED Y.C.C.

Result of novices' competitions:—1, Baker Bros., 53 points and Ramsden's special for nov. or amat.; 2, J. Harney, 51; 4, J. W. Bushby, 40; 4, J. T. Sharp, 36. 5th not won, but if I have overlooked any novice member who has competed at five shows with cinn. mkd. or cinn. tkd. birds they must write me as early as possible stating at what shows and in what classes they entered their birds. Open competition:—1, H. H. Towers, 148, and Ramsden's; 2, C. Morrison, 137; 3, Atkiyen and Firth, 84; 4, J. Thomas, 57.—R. Garnett, Sec.

GLASGOW & W. OF SCOTLAND B.C

Annual general meeting, Masonic Halls, 100, West Regent Street, Glasgow; Mr. M. Craig chair. Office-bearers for 1915 elected:—Pres., Mr. F. Taylor; vice-pres., Mr. A. Maxwell; sec. and treas., A. K. Chalmers; committee, Messrs. E. Barren, J. Brown, P. Braid, John Campbell, Allan Chalmers, John Chalmers, R. B. Clubbs, D. Cunninghame, T. C. Dowell, W. Dunlop, E. Hadley, D. Hannay, J. McLay, R. Martin, J. F. Park, R. V. Rain, A. Sloan, A. Smith, and J. Swan; auditors, Messrs. M. Craig and D. F. Webster. Pair show, Masonic Halls, Feb. 23.: Nor. Yell. Cock and Buff Hen, Buff Cock and Yell. Hen, Crests, Bord., Yorks., A.O.V. Can., Muling, Bullf. Hyb., and A.O.V. Hyb., Pairs. Prizes on sliding scale. A good turnout earnestly requested. Annual subs. 5s. Particulars from A. K. Chalmers, 39, Causeyside Street, Paisley.

NORTH-WEST GLASGOW C.B.C.

Annual general meeting, Blythswood Halls, Jan. 20th, Mr. Gibb presiding over a good attendance. This meeting ended a very successful year, enabling us to carry forward a substantial balance. Office-bearers for ensuing year elected: Pres., Mr. R. B. Gibb; vice-pres., Mr. Thom and Mr. J. Stewart; sec. and treas., Mr. J. Houston; committee, Messrs. Phillips, Findlay, senr., R. Brown, Paterson, P. Houston, Loan and Taylor; auditors, Messrs. A. Crawford, M. Stewart. Fanciers in the surrounding district are given a hearty welcome to join us. Full particulars from Mr. John Houston, sec., 51, Willowbank Crescent, Glasgow.

Special monthly meeting, Wilton Halls, 106, Napiershall Street, Jan. 26, Mr. Gibb presiding over a good attendance. An attractive syllabus for the ensuing year was drawn up. Three new members were admitted: A. McNicol, J. Gallacher, and A. Burt.

YORKS UNION OF C.B.S.

Meeting of the Council, Jan. 30th, Market Tavern, Bradford, Mr. W. Cruise (President), chair. Sandy Lane and Dis. tendered their resignation from the Union, and this was accepted with regret. The case of a defaulting member was allowed to drop for lack of sufficient evidence. A complaint from a Union member in respect to his entries at one of the Union shows was allowed to lie on the table. The case of a disqualification made at Windhill Show was gone into by the Council, and the Council decided that he was not a qualified member of the Union at the time, for although he had joined a Union Society previous to the show, his name and entry fee had not been sent to the Union sec. and the disqualification was allowed to stand. Letter from Bradford National Show read, inviting workers from the Union to attend their meetings. Decided to lay same before the members of each society. Decided to give the order for supply of Union gold medals to the same firm as for the past three years, providing they will guarantee same specification as before, failing this, that tenders be applied for. Pres. and sec. were elected as representatives on the annual Prize Distribution Committee. In the novice section there was a mistake in one of the catalogues; rectification by the judges' slips makes Mr. J. T. Sharpe and Messrs. Fisher and Dyson tie for first place, with 172 points each.—H. Hill, Sec.

BARRY F. AND F.S.

Annual meeting, headquarters, January 20, Mr. W. Marshall chair. Decided to hold a series of young stock shows at monthly meetings in connection with which we shall hold amateur judging competition for members. Officials for 1915 elected: Pres., Mr. R. R. Cory; vice-pres., Messrs. A. D. Mein; S. R. Jones, J.P.; H. G. Lewis; R. A. Sprent, J.P., and J. Webb; chair, W. W. Marshall; vice, J. Chaunings; treas., F. W. Edmonds; committee, W. Shead, W. Mote, H. Olney, W. P. Greenham, E. J. Tembett, A. Nicholson, Geo. Chick, J. Murby, and F. Mathravers; sec., H. P. Thomas; assist. sec., W. E. Davies.—H. P. Thomas.

DUMFRIES S. OF SCOTLAND.

Second annual general meeting, Fountain Cafe, Mr. William Crosbie presiding. Sec. read a report of the work throughout the year, and it was highly satisfactory. The Treasurer gave a statement of the finance, showing a balance from proceeds of show, after all expenses are paid, of £9 1s. 6d., which the society agreed to divide among the following war funds: Local Wounded Soldiers' Fund, £4 10s.; Soldiers' and Sailors' Families, Dumfriesshire Branch, £2 11s. 6d.; Kirkcudbright Branch, £1; Wigtownshire Branch, £1. The Belgian Relief Fund had already received the sum of £2 17s., the proceeds from special decorated cage presented by Mr. Erskine. The meeting congratulated Mr. M'Holm, Secretary, and J. Crosbie, Treasurer, on the excellent manner in which the arrangements for the show were carried through. The following office-bearers were elected: Hon. Pres., Mr. R. Pattie; Pres., Mr. W. Crosbie; Vice-Pres., Mr. F. Paling; Committee, Messrs. T. Hannay, T. M'Creadie, J. B. Richardson; W. Edgar; J. Dickson, A. M'Holm, Wm. Toppin; Hon. Treas., Mr. A. Doyle; Hon. Sec., Mr. Wm. Erskine, 6, Lorchburnest., Dumfries.

NEWCASTLE (East End) C.B.S.

Annual general meeting, Hall's Cafe, Heaton Assembly Rooms, Jan. 27, Mr. McPartling presiding over a good attendance. Balance-sheet for 1914 was presented, showing a balance of £15 10s. on the year's working, which was considered very satisfactory and favourably commented upon. A hearty vote of thanks was given to the auditors, Messrs. Harrison and McPartling, also to Mr. Hutchinson, to the secretary, and other members who had taken an active part in making the society a success. Officers for ensuing year elected:—Chair, Mr. G. McPartling; vice, Mr. Hutchinson; committee, Messrs. J. Morrison, R. Young, C. McKay, W. Harvey, Mr. Matthewson, J. Roy, E. Coltman, G. Wilson, J. Rushton, J. Harrison, W. Scott, R. H. Newton, J. Miller, T. Reader, A. Elder, J. Harbottle, T. Robson, T. Doughty; auditors, Messrs. J. Harrison and W. Scott; sec. and treas., J. W. Coutts, 122, Brinkburn Street, Newcastle-on-Tyne. A vote of thanks being given to the chairman, other business was left over until our next meeting, usual date, at Hall's Cafe.—J. W. Coutts.

LANCASHIRE AND LIZARD F.A.

Meeting, Newmarket Hotel, Manchester, Jan. 30, Mr. Hampshire chair. Decided to leave over the question of having a tea and social, also distribution of prizes, until general meeting at Newmarket Hotel, Manchester, March 6. We hope that members will keep this date open, as a good muster is particularly wanted to decide this question. Mr. Bradley raised the question as to whether our society has made any progress. In regard to the Lizards, it was generally considered we had made some progress, as classes had been better filled than was generally the case. In Lancashires there was no progress claimed, as the bulk of showing has once again fallen on the shoulders of two or three exhibitors. Winners of trophies for most points in Lancs. and Liz. classes: Lancs. champ., G. Fitton, 79 points; W. Ridgard, 30; A. Hordern, 28; J. Swalwell, 23; T. H. Collinge, 14. Liz.: F. Hamer, 131 points; J. Rukin, 124; W. P. Barnes, 98; J. Hampshire, 84; A. Bradley, 55; E. Ollerenshaw, 24; B. Clegg, 11; N. Stansfield, 1. Liz., Nov.; F. Millington, 41; C. F. Bosworth, 40; W. Moorbey, 14; W. Hambleton, 10.—John Rukin, Hon. Sec.

GRIMSBY O.S.

Eighth annual meeting, Jan. 27, Slatter's Rooms, Freeman Street, Mr. A. Oliver, chair. Balance sheet 1914 presented, showing a balance in hand of over £10, which was considered very satisfactory. Elected for ensuing year: Pres., A. Sutcliffe; vice, T. W. G. Hewitt; patrons, His Worship the Mayor (Coun. J. W. Eason), Lady Doughty, Ald. R. W. Roberts, Couns. W. H. Thickett and W. Womersley, Messrs. R. Johnson, H. Surfleet, J. Reinecke, J. W. Harness, and A. F. Slatter; chair, Mr. A. Oliver; vice, Mr. W. King; committee, Messrs. D. Sadler, A. Towl, H. Harding, W. Watson, E. Lawson, W. Kirman, and A. Cartwright; hon. treas., J. T. Cotterill; hon. auditors, Messrs. Harding and King; hon. auctioneer, J. W. Harness; Press corres., J. T. Cotterill; hon. sec., Mr. H. Towl, 205, Welholme Road, Grimsby. Decided to hold the following table shows during the year: Feb., matched pairs, Nov.; March, Hyb. pairs; May, June, July, August, and half-day show at end of year, including classes for British each month. There is to be a lecture by Mr. Harding, and a wild seed competition. The question of having an open show this year was left over for further consideration. We have added a Roller section to the classes, and there will be a singing contest each month; a cup is to be won outright this year, and Roller fanciers in the district who would like to join us would be made welcome; all information can be obtained any meeting night (last Thursday each month), at headquarters, or of sec., as above.—J. T. Cotterill, Press Corresp.

GLASGOW (West End) C.B.C.

Fifth annual general meeting, Co.-op. Hall, St. George's Cross, Jan. 29, Mr. A. Hendry presiding over a good attendance. Balance sheet for 1914 was gone over. The auditors reported that they had found the books, papers, etc., highly satisfactory. The handsome balance of £16 5s. 8d. was left on hand, and this was considered excellent, especially taking into consideration that our club has been depleted of several members, who have answered the call of King and country. We are still forging ahead, and are all working harder than ever. Our social interest in new and young members will always be a pleasure in the future as in the past. After granting sec. an honorarium for his services for the past year, it was decided to keep part of the money in the bank, the remainder to be divided in prize-money among the members. Office-bearers, etc., for ensuing year elected: Hon. Pres., Mr. W. Gibb Macra[illegible] Hendry; vice-pres., P. Allan, and [illegible] sec. and treas., W. S. Pro[illegible] C. Campbell, Geo. [illegible] Lunn, J. Campbell, A. Gillespie, Geo. Robertson, and C. Sellar; auditors, Messrs. G. G. Henderson and P. Allan. Rules were now gone over, and after some minute revising, were passed. New members enrolled: E. Docherty, McArdle, Hutchison, Lang, J. Young, J. McBride, W. McManus, D. Devane, T. Black, J. Braid, T. Murray. Monthly meetings as before, second Friday each month, Co-op Hall, St. George's Cross, at 8. Monthly table shows, Feb. 12th, March 12th, April 9th; F.F. show, July 16th. Annual, Nov. 20. The Co-op Hall has again been booked for meetings and shows. Post-cards will continue to be used for notifying meetings (but only for the four show months, or for any special meeting). Intending members, please note that the club caters for all varieties of Canaries, Mules, Hybrids, British and foreign. Annual subs., 4s., in two instalments if desired. All information from W. S. Proudfoot, Sec. and Treas., 145, Henderson Street, Glasgow.

PROVINCIAL ROLLER C.C.

Annual gen. meeting, Old Boar's Head Hotel, Manchester, January 30. A good attendance of members, over two dozen present. Four new members were enrolled. Messrs. Kilshaw and Leach were appointed auditors. Balance sheet was passed. Officers elected were practically the same as last year. Mr. G. Wareing, Pres.; Messrs. Massey, Leach, Foulds, Kilshaw, and Brooks, vice-pres.; Mr. A. Percival, sec. and treas.; Mr. W. Johnson, Manchester, assist. sec. A discussion, re rings, was deferred until next meeting.—Andrew Percival, Hon. Sec.

QUEEN'S PARK C.B.S.

Adjourned annual general meeting, Emmanuel Hall, Harrow-road, Jan. 21, a fair muster present, Mr. Clark chair. Mr. Lowe, late sec., presented the annual report and balance-sheet, and stated that the society was in a sound financial position with £7 standing to credit. It was his wish not to accept his salary, and in leaving same over he hoped the society would purchase another cup. Mr. Hannaford congratulated Mr. Lowe on his past work, and for leaving society in such a sound state, and wished him the best of luck, he having enlisted; in this all the members joined. Officers elected for the year:—Pres., Mr. Morris; chair, Mr. Clark; vice, Mr. Lawrence; treas., Mr. Burch; sec., Mr. Barton; assist. sec., Mr. Ratcliffe; and Messrs. Hannaford and Lloyd. All old rules are to stand as before. New members elected: Messrs. Hunt and Beasant. Decided to hold a match pair show Feb. 13, Mr. J. Robson judge; schedules will be sent members in a few days. It is hoped members will send a large entry and to time, and so help our new sec. to make his first show a success.—W. J. Ratcliffe, Assist.-Sec.

(Will Mr. Barton please forward his address for 1915 Annual?—Editor.)

Answered by CLAUDE ST. JOHN.

ROLLER COCK ILL (Miss M. Menee).—Keep bird in a fairly warm place, but not overheated, and see that it is free from cold draughts, extremes of temperature, or fumes of burning lights in the evenings. As staple diet give a mixture of three parts canary to one part summer rape, and in addition give separately every second day half a teaspoonful of scalded rape and a morsel of banana, and on the alternate days a similar quantity of mixture of equal parts hemp, niger, millet, teazle and broken groats, and a piece of bread and milk the size of a hazel nut with two drops of cod liver oil emulsion on it, and sprinkled with maw seed. Give a small spray of watercress four times a week. In the water add six drops of syrup of rhubarb and a crystal of sulphate of soda the size of a small pea every second day for a week, and after this give instead four drops each of tincture of gentian, tincture of calumba, and dilute sulphuric acid every second day for a fortnight.

LOSING FEATHERS (P. Bentham). I suspect the bird is subject to extremes of temperature, which is the cause of the continual loss of feathers, and it is practically certain that a removal to the cold room upstairs will bring on a rapid moult. As this will occur almost to a certainty even if you wait a month or more, my advice is to make the removal at once, and get it over well before the breeding season commences. Place it in a cosy corner of the room, quite out of draughts. Give a morsel of bread and milk every third day, and on the intervening days give first half a teaspoonful of a mixture of equal parts hemp, niger, millet, teazle, and broken groats, and next a morsel of banana, or a spray of watercress. After it has been in the cold room a week or so dissolve half a drachm of ammoniated citrate of iron and quinine in an ounce of sherry, add a teaspoonful of glycerine, and give 20 drops of this mixture in the water every second day until the feathers cease dropping. This should be all that is necessary. The song will come naturally when the bird is quite got over the moulting.

HEN CANARY MOULTING (L. H.).—Your treatment is not calculated to improve matters, and I am afraid you are keeping the bird either in a draughty place or exposed to extremes of temperature. See that these exciting causes are quite removed. Give a staple diet of a mixture of three parts canary to one part summer rape, and in addition give separately every second day a morsel of bread and milk slightly dusted with flowers of sulphur, and then sprinkled with soft sugar, and on the alternate days half a teaspoonful of a mixture of equal parts niger, millet, and teazle. In the water add ten drops of syrup of buckthorn for three consecutive days. At the end of a week remove the bird to a colder room, but see that it is not exposed to draughts or extreme fluctuations, and treat it for the next month as advised to "P. Bentham" in this issue.

MATE FOR CREST-BRED (W. H.).—One cannot be quite definite in recommending a suitable mate for any given bird without seeing it, and also knowing something of its pedigree, because in the ideal mating one partner should as far as possible counteract the failings of the other, so that the pair possess between them as nearly as can be got the good features of an ideal bird. You do not even say whether your bird is a buff or a yellow. If a buff you should mate it with a yellow, and vice-versa, and as your bird is variegated, its mate should be clear, or a clear with a dark crest. You will require a crested bird in any case, and should get as much size and substance as possible: a short, stout beak, with a good breadth at the base; a well-formed crest, with a small neat centre, and no bare space at the back; and otherwise possessing features that as far as possible compensate any faults in the cock.

MOULTING, AND SINGING HEN (W. L.).—(1) See reply to "L. H." in this issue as to the exciting causes of this trouble, and see they are removed in your case. Then treat the bird the same as advised to "Feather-eater" in last week's issue. There is no reason why the bird should not soon get all right if in a healthy and normal condition apart from the moulting. (2) Singing hens are by no means rare, though not quite common, and some of them make quite tolerable performers. No reason can generally be assigned for the behaviour of these musical biddies.

VARIED (A. R. S.).—(1) You should not remove the eggs of Canaries that are breeding flying loose in an aviary, as you do in a breeding cage. Possibly your lack of success last season was due to having an equal number of each sex, or, perhaps, an insufficient supply of nesting sites. In your aviary, if the height is proportionate to the width and length, four cocks and about a dozen hens would be ample to stock it for breeding. About 20 nesting sites should be put up for this number of hens. (2) As regards cheap substitutes for eggs for rearing young, get a copy of our forthcoming "Annual," wherein you will find just the information you want. (3) To prevent young falling out of the nest when getting fully fledged, you should interfere with them as little as possible, and avoid all sudden noises or alarming movements about the aviary. You may also fix the nesting receptacles on a small platform which extends a little beyond the rim of the nest-box, or pan, all round, and provide roomy receptacles. The old-fashioned wooden boxes are best for this purpose.

BRITISH BIRDS, MULES AND HYBRIDS.

GREENFINCH FOR EXHIBITION (Saucey).—In choosing a Greenfinch for show purposes you require a large bird, nicely proportioned, that is, having a bold head in keeping with a full body. If a bird has a big full head and a small skimpy body, he is out of proportion, and consequently has to stand down. As regards colour, you do not want a bird too dark, nor the opposite. The dark birds as a rule do not show sufficient variation in plumage. If you examine a Greenfinch carefully you will see a good deal of variety in his colouring extending from bright yellow through green to grey. The yellow should predominate as much as possible, and be vivid in hue. The yellows are the darker and richer coloured birds, they are also a bit shorter in feather than the bulls. These latter are lighter with a mealy surface. They seldom do quite so well with the judges as the yellows, unless particularly large and extra good in quality.

LINNET OR GOLDFINCH (Harold Johnson). — Although you say you are a great reader of CAGE BIRDS I am afraid you miss a good deal of information that is given in the paper. For instance, you ask me the difference between a Linnet and a Goldfinch, and say you have what you think is a Goldfinch, although a fancier calls it a Linnet. Now, in our Birthday Number we published a coloured plate of Goldfinches. You should therefore know if your bird is a Goldfinch or not. The Linnet is an entirely different bird, he is nearly all brown in plumage, with darker markings, called pencilling, down his breast and flanks. His wing bars are white, the Goldfinch's bars are pure yellow, and the face or blaze rich crimson. As regards the value of the Linnet, it is impossible to say without seeing the bird, the majority are sold at about 1/- each, while some good show specimens have fetched as much as £4 or £5. If your fancier friend says yours is a good bird, why not show it at your nearest local show?

CANARY AND HEN BULLFINCH (Candid).—It is not so much the question of which Canary you shall run with the Bullfinch, as it is which Canary she will accept. I would advise you to try the larger one of the two first. Introduce them gently, and let them fly in a big flight until March, when separate them for a few days before putting them up finally for breeding. Size is such an important consideration that you cannot do better than attempt to breed good big ones.

BREEDING WITH LINNETS (Prestonian).—For a beginner you cannot do better than try for the cross with the Canary. These will rear their own young, whereas British hens are not to be relied upon to do so. What you must do is to procure three yellow Norwich hens; you may have some difficulty in getting young yellow hens, and, of course, if you are unable to do so, you will have to use buffs, but anyway I think if possible one or two of the hens should be yellows, as the young ones bred from yellow hens are more valuable for show purposes, but those bred from buffs are equally as good as songsters, for which purpose you may be breeding them. When you have secured your hens, turn them into a large cage or flight with the Linnets, and let them fly together until the middle of March. Then catch them up and put each pair in a breeding cage by themselves. If you see a Linnet taking particular notice of a certain hen or following her about the flight, be sure to mate those two together. You will have to supply them with nest-pans and plenty of nesting materials. If you require any further information later on you had better write again, or procure our book on Hybrid Breeding, post free 1s. 2d., from this office.

BREEDING WITH CHAFFINCH (A. Deeming).—The Chaffinch and Canary cross has not yet been produced, and as you are quite a novice I do not think it would be wise for you to make the attempt. Keep your Chaffinch for song, and if you have any inclination towards Mule breeding follow the advice given to Prestonian in this issue.

FOREIGN BIRDS.

Answered by WESLEY T. PAGE, F.Z.S.

NAPOLEON WEAVER (Napoleon).—The Napoleon Weaver is a seed-eater, and should have as a staple diet a mixture of one part canary seed and two parts white millet seeds, well mix and keep constant supply in cage. Also give an occasional millet spray as variety. In addition, you must supply the usual essentials for every seed-eater, viz., water for drinking and bathing, grit, cuttle-

"Colour-feeding" (3½d.); or the "Nutshell" booklets (2½d. each); No. 6 "Ailing Birds and How to Cure Them," No. 9 "The Disinfection of Cages, Bird-rooms, etc.," No. 14 "Gouldian Finches," No. 16 "Avadavats," No. 17 "The Grey Parrot," No. 18 "Budgerigars," No. 19 "The Pekin Robin," No. 20 "Warbills." bone and greenfood (during the winter months a slice of sweet apple or a little frame-lettuce is the best greenfood). The Weavers all have an eclipse plumage, and your bird, now in the moult, will lose all the rich yellow and black, and be little brighter than our Corn Bunting when the moult is complete, but will resume his brilliant plumage during the nesting season. As it is only just passing into the eclipse plumage, it will probably not don the nuptial splendour again before June or July. During the moult, and also during the change from eclipse to nuptial plumage, two or three mealworms or other insects per diem will be a great help to the bird.

YOUNG GREY PARROT (Reader of "Cage Birds," W. W.).—I should not be surprised from what you state, if your bird was dead before you receive this reply, and as you did not include your address, it was not possible to send you a post-card; moreover, you do not state a word as to how you are feeding it, etc., so I cannot give you a very helpful reply. If the bird still lives when you see this, give it three drops of tasteless castor oil, either direct to its beak or on anything absorptive it will eat. Give it a little boiled maize—boil till soft, drain off all water, then allow ten drops of cod liver oil emulsion to soak into it before supplying to the bird. You had better also give it a few sips of chilled brandy and water (very weak), about 3 times a day. Then write again, giving full details, and I will try and help you further. You had better also send to our Manager for the Nutshell, "The Grey Parrot," which will give you more details than is possible in this column as to how to treat and keep; it is 2½d. post free.

BREEDING ZEBRA FINCHES IN A CAGE (C. H. M.).—You cannot treat either British or foreign Finches as you would domesticated Canaries. You will do better to have only the one pair in the cage. Zebra Finches are almost sure to breed with you, though it is possible it may be quite late in the summer before they make the attempt. As soon as young are hatched you should give a little soft food, crumbled sponge-cake, and ants' eggs in equal parts, slightly moistened with a little boiling milk; about a tablespoonful per diem will be as much as they will eat. Yes, the parents will take small mealworms and pass them on. You will, of course, supply the usual seeds, and while they are feeding young, keep a millet spray in the cage. When obtainable, seeding and flowering grass is the best greenfood. Hay and fresh grass will suffice for building material.

The BULL-DOG STRAIN

The above strain needs no bounce. All I need do is to refer you to the reports of leading shows. My birds are winning consistently. For years they have been in the front rank, winning numerous champion trophies of the Specialist Clubs. I have also bred and sold birds that have won for my clients all over the country. Testimonials in proof of this are always open for the inspection of my visitors. There is no better blood in the Fancy. I am now offering a few pairs bred from these noted winners at above prices. Single birds, cocks or hens, at proportionate prices. Every bird is worth double. I have also a number of good birds from other well-known strains as follows: Smart Thick-set Cocks, 6/-, 7/6, 8/6, 10/- each. Good Cobby Hens, 4/-, 5/-, 6/-, 7/6, 10/- each. JAN., 1915. UNSOLICITED TESTIMONY. JAN., 1915.

The following testimonials, in addition to hundreds of others (which are always open for the inspection of my visitors), have been received during January, 1015.

Montreal, Canada.—The 4 birds you sent me did well at our show. I got 4 Firsts and 4 Specials with them. The buff Crest hen won 1st and spl. for best Crest hen in show; the yellow Crest hen, 1st and 2 specials. These two were also entered for the C. and C.B. Cup, which I won. The Yellow Green Yorkshire won 1st and Silver Medal for best green in show. There were 15 birds in his class. The Clear Buff Yorkshire Hen also won 1st. Your birds have opened the eyes of a few fanciers out here.—P. J. Thomas to Joe Thomas. 237, Chapel Street, Leigh, Lancs.—I am pleased to say the Buff Norwich Cock won First at our show. I am very proud of him. J. Dawson to Joe Thomas. Mount Grace, Potter's Bar, Middlesex.—Many thanks for the 2 Yorkshire Cocks you sent me. I got 1st and 2nd with the 2 birds in a class of 13. The birds deserve more than you claim for them. They are real beauties.—G. Ogleton to Joe Thomas. Rotherby, Leicester.—I am very pleased with the Roller Cock. He sings beautifully.—J. M. Snodin to J. Thomas. 13, Broughty St., Leigh.—Thanks for the bird you sent. I have had more than double offered for it. I have had birds from all over the country, but none to equal it.—J. Cowburn to Joe Thomas. 29, Sydney Road, Tilbury.—The pair of Norwich arrived safely in good condition and very comfortable. They are a very nice pair, and I shall be sending for more at an early date.—J. E. Petty to Joe Thomas.

Considerations of space only prevent me from publishing scores similar to above, but please remember this: I guarantee the same absolute satisfaction to all customers.

ROLLERS, MULES, CRESTS, ETC.

British Rollers, in full rolling song, will please anyone, 8/6, 10/6, 12/6, 15/-, 20/- each. Hens, same pure strain, 3/-, 3/6, 4/-, 5/-. Matched Pairs, 10/6, 12/6, 15/-, 20/-.

Mules.—Over 150 Goldfinch and Linnet Mule cocks in full song, 7/6, 8/6, 10/6 each. Few extra large Dark Mules, fit for exhibition, 12/6, 15/-, 17/6, 20/- each.

Crests and Crestbreds.—I have an exceptionally large and choice selection of this variety, including some very large, massive birds, with plenty of feather. Cocks, 8/6, 10/-, 12/6, 15/-, 20/- each upwards. Hens, 5/-, 7/6, 8/6, 10/-, 12/6 upwards. Splendid Matched Pairs, 15-, 17/6, 20/-, 30/-, 40/- per pair.

I have also a grand selection of Border Fancies, Scotch Fancies, Songsters, Muling Hens, etc., etc. Travelling Cages, 3d. extra in all cases.

Remember This Please.—I invite you to come on any day but Sunday and inspect my stock, and make your own selection. If unable to come, I am prepared to send any number of birds to any address in the Kingdom on 10 days' approval at my sole risk. I guarantee absolute satisfaction to every customer, or cash returned in full. Send a P.C. for my Free Illustrated Catalogue.

Keighley.

CLEARANCE SALE

I am disposing of my entire stock of high-class Yorkshires, including many noted winners; all are for sale at very low prices; winner of over 1,500 prizes, including several cups and bowls; great chance to improve your stock; also stock of utensils, show cases and cages, stock and breeding cages, feeders and water glasses, very cheap to clear: G. W. Cuthbertson, Heighington, via Darlington.

T. BENNETT

the Yorkshire Canary King, is now offering a few choice birds, exhibition or stock, at less than traders' prices; every bird warranted his own breeding, from his noted strain of 30 years' standing, winner of more first prizes than any Yorkshire fancier (with own bred birds). Note following, the same old story for 30 years:—Dear Sir,—I received birds all right; I'm very well pleased. Thanking you for your honesty and kindness.—Yours truly, G. Kinnear, Buckhaven, Fife, Jan. 29th, 1915. Hundreds similar to above filed for your inspection. Remember, no bought or claimed winners here, so send direct to the fountain head for your Yorkshires, thus saving the middleman's profit. Inspection invited or birds on approval: T. Bennett, 14, Cumberland-rd., Lidget Green, Bradford.

J. C. BARNES

well-known winning strain; 25 years' study, Sheffield Challenge Cup winner outright; few very nice slim, lengthy and correct positioned birds to spare, cocks, 20/- up; hens ditto; specially matched pairs, £3 to £5; approval; inspection invited. 113, Northfield-rd., Walkley, Sheffield.

SUTCLIFFE & SONS FOR VALUE

If you want to breed winners buy direct from the breeder; same strain as our National winners; state wants; approval; stamp for reply: 1, Back Kitson-st., and 21, Valley-rd., Windhill, Shipley, Yorks.

I WILL GIVE £50

if I cannot prove any of following statements: That I have bred and exhibited more winners this season, and for years past, than any other exhibitor of Yorkshires; during the last five seasons I have won nearly 400 first prizes (almost double the number of any others) at all the largest shows ever held. Now, you Yorkshire Kings, this is a splendid opportunity. I have again won the Yorkshire Cup, the Green-marked Trophy, the Yorkshire Canary Trophy, the Yorkshire Union Competition, and "Cage Birds" Competition; also cup best in show, Bradford National, and several other cups and spls. too numerous to mention. I have the largest collection of high-class Yorkshires ever seen in one room, not all for sale (as I am the largest breeder of the variety in Bradford), and I have hundreds of testimonials from leading exhibitors, whom I have sold winners, and stock birds to breed them. The above record speaks for itself. Some grand birds for sale, bred from my noted winners, and for length, type, and quality, cannot be equalled, and matched to perfection, all cold room bred and kept; pairs 10/6, 15/-, 20/-, 25/-, 30/-, 40/-, 50/-, 60/-, 80/- per pair; odd birds in proportion; inspection invited, or kindly state wants; all birds sent on a full week's approval; cash or deposit: L. Dykes, Reliable Aviaries, 16, Shann-st., Bolton Woods, Bradford. (33)

USE DITCHFIELD'S FAMOUS BIRD MEDICINES AS SUPPLIED TO THE LONDON ZOO

They are genuine remedies that will appeal to breeders and exhibitors of rare or valuable birds; Ditchfield's bird medicines are used in nearly every country in the world, and are giving unbounded satisfaction; they can be given in the drinking water, and the birds take them freely with marvellous results; a trial order we feel sure will convince you of the wonderful healing properties of our medicines. W. H. Harris, Halberton, writes:—"I find your medicines very excellent." Major B. Horsbrough: "Your medicine is magnificent stuff." W. Reid, Greenock: "Your medicine has been a great success, for both my birds are now singing." G. Chappell, New Mills: "The tonic drops have worked wonders. I was astonished at the quick result." C. J. Roberts, Bayswater: "Your medicine for eggbinding is marvellous." A. Ezra, London: "I find your Tonic Drops excellent." Mrs. E. Warren Vernon, Lamancha: "I have reared many birds this season through having your Tonic Drops at hand." Special Offer: If you have any birds you are relying upon for the coming breeding season that are not singing, or have gone into the soft moult, we guarantee you a perfect cure; Ditchfield's Tonic Drops are undoubtedly the grandest medicine ever introduced for bringing birds into breeding condition. They are a guaranteed cure for soft moult, not singing, going light, egg-binding, dullness, feather-plucking, and inflammation of the bowels, sold in 7d., 1/1, and 2/- bottles. For bronchitis, wheezing, and hoarseness, get Ditchfield's Special Lung Tonic, the grandest medicine ever introduced for chest and lung affections in cage birds; also in 7d., 1/1, and 2/- bottles. For constitutional weakness and debility, and for birds that are run down, or in slack feather, get Ditchfield's famous Revivo, in 7d., 1/1, and 2/- bottles. This medicine is undoubtedly unequalled for giving new life and vigour to the birds, and for producing that smart tight appearance of the plumage so much desired by all fanciers. As an advertisement, we will send two 7d. bottles of any of the above medicines for 1/-, three for 1/6, or two 1/1 bottles for 1/9, three for 2/6; the 1/1 bottles are treble the 7d. size. All medicines are post paid, per return at our risk. Also four valuable food recipes, how to feed the Lark, Linnet, Roller, Thrush, and Blackbird for health and song given free to all purchasers of our medicines.

Mr. H. Hancock, Burslem :—

Mr. Lenyon, Clydach, Rhondda Valley :—
"I have no hesitation in recommending it to young breeders as essential. Without doubt the most complete work of its kind."

Mr. McLinden, Dublin :—
"It commends itself to the past master in bird keeping, and is invaluable to the amateur, for it is written in such simple language. The chapters on Rearing and Pairing are very explicit, and the coloured plates are, to my mind, simply superb."

Mrs. Bertram, Christchurch, Hants :—
"I have found it of the greatest use, while the illustrations are of value to the novice and the expert alike. The sections dealing with Hybrids is especially commendable, and should prove of service to fanciers."

Don't be Deluded

By absurd exaggerations and empty bounce, but have a genuine and reliable Bird on approval, and let your own ear be the judge. Note following prices. I hear every bird go through its song personally, hence each is tested before being sent out, and having been in my time an amateur instrumentalist and vocalist, I deem myself competent to know their value, so no bird is sold by guess work. Some very highly trained birds of best strains known; cocks, 10/6, 15/-, 20/-; hens, 2/6, 3/6, and 5/-, in finest breeding condition. Other cocks, 5/6, 6/6, 7/6, 8/6; Hens, 1/3, 1/6, 2/-; cages, 3d.—W. RUDD, The Bird Specialist, Norwich.

ONLY a few of my famous Glucke and Water-Glucke Rollers left to clear at 10/-, 12/6, 15/-, 20/- each. These are the best in Preston, as they have scored the highest number of points at singing contests. Hens of this noted strain 4/- each, 7/6 a couple; none better; every bird B.R.C.C. rung, 1914, and sent carriage paid on seven days' approval, deposit Editor: Etherington, 226, Fletcher-rd., Preston. M.B.R.C.C. (68)

BRITISH bred Rollers, Fisher's strain direct, fourteen cocks, including prize winners, numerous medals, and diplomas, 10/6 upwards each; twenty splendid hens, 4/- each, all B.R.C.C. rung; also twelve well-made breeding cages, twenty-four wire training cages, cabinet to hold ten cages, four show cages, one travelling basket to hold three cages, two travelling boxes to hold two cages, thirty nest pans, and all other sundries too numerous to mention, cheap: Andrew M. Firth, Highfield House, The Lanes, Pudsey.

REAL ROLLERS

Highly trained under real schoolmasters, imported direct from Belgium to London shop, good as any that ever came in England; fit for any Palace; price 6/6, 7/6, 8/6, 10/-; hens, 1/6, two 2/6; Roller cages, 2/-, 2/6 each, beauties. Wholesalers, write for terms; thousands testimonials; estab. 50 years; the old firm: Sandiford, 89, Selater-st., Shoreditch, London; and 296, North-rd., Preston.

BRITISH BRED ROLLERS

Having purchased the whole stock of Mr. Wirth, of Liverpool, including his winners, etc., I am offering cocks, in full song, at 12/6, 15/-, 20/-, and 25/- each; hens, 5/- each; all B.R.C.C. rung; also cabinets and training cages, to be cleared cheap; one Buhl's training organ, in perfect condition; first P.O. £2 secures it; originally cost £3 10/-; 1 Queck's organ, 30/-: R. Kremner, 164, Tib-st., Manchester.

14 DAYS' TRIAL—OUR RISK

Preston Contest Rollers, all guaranteed English bred, same champion strain that we supplied the winners at the principal contests for years and have received thousands of testimonials. Here are a few:—Mr. A. E. Jeffries, Hartforth, Richmond, Yorks., Breeder and Exhibitor, writes, Jan. 27, 1915: "Roller started one hour after arrival. I don't know how you can turn such grand birds out at the price. I am certain the two I have are good enough for any contest." Mr. W. Taylor, 9, Salisbury Road, Cathays, Cardiff, writes, Jan. 30 1915: "Roller Canary purchased from you gives entire satisfaction." Mr. Wm. Sainsbury, 35, Rifle Green, Blaenavon, Mon., writes, Jan. 30, 1915, "Bird received safe, and I am quite satisfied with it." Mr. J. E. Smith, Monk Hill, Pontefract, writes, Feb. 3, 1915: "I am highly satisfied with bird." Mr. I. G. Baker, 17, Glebe Street, Penarth, writes, Jan. 28, 1915. "Roller cock started to sing as soon as he was put in his cage." These wonderful songsters only 15/- each, on 14 days' trial at our risk; special terms, send 10/- deposit to us and promise balance in two weeks and we will send one of these non-such Rollers on 14 days' trial at our risk. Try one against any other strain advertised and be your own judge. Hens, same strain, 3/6 and 4/6 each. Belgian Roller cocks, in full rolling song, 6/6, 7/6, 8/6 and 10/6 each; hens 1/6 and 2/- each; also Yorkshires and Norwich Canaries, all on trial at our risk; lists free: Bairstow's, Ormskirk-rd., Preston. (78)

HARTZ CANARIES.

VOOGT'S STRAIN.

The only importer of the Hartz breed in Great Britain. The birds are named after Mr. Voogt, my collector in Holland. Last Friday night, 5th Feb., I received, ex steamship "Brussels," the following:—

840 FIRST-CLASS HENS,
420 THIRD CLASS COCKS.
Nothing More—Nothing Less.

800 Hens and 300 Cocks were sold in one hour last Friday. My entrance to the Canary World has caused some misgivings and jealousies amongst other dealers. I now wish it to be distinctly understood that the entrance is for all time. I have arranged for weekly consignments throughout the entire season. Dealers may rest assured of their orders receiving every attention. Should any customer consider he has been unfairly treated I invite him to lodge his complaint with the Editor of CAGE BIRDS. I shall abide loyally by his decision. General satisfaction has been given to all customers. Only three small complaints have been made during the last six weeks, during which time 4,950 Canaries have been sold, constituting a record sale.

Hens, 2 in cage, 3/-, 14 in 7 cages 14/-. Unless 14 birds taken, the price is 1/6 each.

Cocks, No. I., 10/- each, 7 in 7 cages 50/-. These are highly marked, splendid songsters.

Cocks, No. II., 7/6 each, 7 in 7 cages 42/-. These are the birds usually advertised having the Nightingale and Woodlark note, with sundry other qualifications.

Cocks, No. III., 6/- each, 7 in 7 cages 35/-. There is a great demand for this class of bird. Early application requested.

KINDLY NOTE TERMS.

Cash with order only. No birds have been sent away to anyone in Great Britain without cash in advance. The respective Classes, I, II., III., have private distinctive markings. This ensures every buyer receiving whatever he pays for. Every order is numbered and sent away in rotation—first come first served, irrespective of cash buyers here in London. Telephone, 6341 Avenue.

JOHN HAMLYN,
221, St. George's Street, London Docks, East.

OBITUARY.

Mr. GEO. GARLAND (Bristol).

The Fancy has sustained a real and severe loss by the death of Mr. George Garland, who passed away at his residence, "Eastview," Soundwell Road, Bristol, on Sunday, Jan. 31, after an illness of nine weeks' duration, writes Mr. J. A. Greenslade, hon. sec., Eastville Open F.S. Mr. and Mrs. Garland were familiar visitors and supporters of the shows and meetings of every Society in the district, both being true and ardent fanciers, and successful breeders and exhibitors of the Yorkshire Canary for many years. He was one of nature's gentlemen, quiet and unassuming, and ever ready to help and instruct novices in the cult of their favourite variety, of which he had a profound and practical knowledge. Mrs. Garland has lost in him a loving comrade, and her sons a generous father. Our heartfelt sympathy is extended to them in their great and sad bereavement. The funeral took place on Feb. 7, at Downend Church.

Mr. W. J. Norman, sec. Bristol East C.B.S., also sends a sympathetic letter announcing Mr. Garland's death, and says that Mrs. Garland, being a member of the society, is retaining a few of her late husband's birds. At the funeral many of the members of the Bristol East, Eastville, and Kingswood societies, and other Bristol fanciers, paid their last respects to their deceased friend.

MR. W. AUCHTERLONY (Dundee).

I regret to inform you that one of our old Dundee fanciers, Mr. W. Auchterlony (better known as "Willie Loney) has passed away at a good old age, writes Mr. R. Whitton. He was a genuine honest fancier. Scotch Fancies were his favourites, although he was successful at times with other varieties, viz., Mules, he being among the first to breed the Canary-Bullfinch cross. A specimen of this cross bred by him changed hands at the Crystal Palace for a large sum. He was a master hand at cage making, and "Loney's" cages became a household word in and around this district. Auld Willie will be missed in the circle of old Scotch Fancy breeders, and many friends mourn his passing away.

I am very pleased to inform the members of the B.F.C.C., writes Mr. W. B. Smart, Sec., that Mr. Thos. Arnot, of Hawick, is now making very good progress after his operation in Edinburgh Royal Infirmary, and thinks he will be allowed to go home in a very short time. I am sure fanciers will join me in wishing him many years of good health.

Mr. A. G. Cant (late sec. of Dulwich and Peckham C.B.S.) writes asking members and friends to carefully watch the Club and Society Notices Column for announcements of the various meetings of the society. This column, he adds, is most useful to secretaries, and should always be consulted by readers, as valuable meetings and lectures may be thus missed.

Warrington C.B.S. is holding its members' show Feb. 13 at the Blue Bell Sale Rooms, and Portsmouth and S. Counties O.S. Feb. 17 at the usual place.

Glasgow and district fanciers are to hold a grand smoking concert in the "Bank" Restaurant, Queen Street, Glasgow, on the 19th, writes Mr. J. F. Park, President Glasgow C.B.A. A splendid musical programme is being arranged. A presentation is to be made to that popular fancier, Mr. Wm. Hutchison. The management hope to see a large gathering of fanciers and friends.

Mr. A. W. Newton, Sec., writes that Openshaw Gorton C.B.S. is putting up for competition to be won outright, a splendid trophy, with a good prize for the runner up, to be competed for by either amateur or novice members, with four starred birds at all shows during the coming season. Besides this there will be the usual medals and prizes. Anyone wishing to join the society can get particulars from the Sec., whose address is 165, Ashton Old Road, Ardwick, Manchester.

Roller Canary Items.

I enclose schedule of the British Roller C.C. show, writes Mr. J. W. Norris, the sec.; in the six classes there are 58 specials, and more to follow in the catalogue. I have received a letter from one of our members, Mr. J. Aspinall (Balham), written at Boulogne, which states that he has been doing Red Cross work in France since Aug. 16, and has seen some very grievous sights. He has seen in CAGE BIRDS that the International show will take place, and though he will not be able to be present, much to his regret, he will enter his birds, 7 in number, so as to help the show along. I think you will agree that such pluck deserves to be rewarded, and all Roller fanciers will join with me in wishing that his birds may catch the judges ear and score a 1st prize for him.

WHERE BUSINESS IS AS USUAL.

"I have had so many replies for my Lancashire Coppy hen I advertised that I do not think I can answer them all."—G. BROOKS (Dorchester).

"Owing to the great success attending my advt. re Rollers in your valuable paper, CAGE BIRDS, I am unable to reply to all the answers I have received. Will you kindly state that I have completed the business?"—A. RICHARDSON (Coventry).

"It may interest you to know I got upwards of 20 replies to previous small advertisement re Mule and Cock Goldfinch. I had a reply from a gentleman at Brighton on the Saturday morning, and had made the exchange the following Tuesday."—HOOD (East Harling, Norfolk).

"I received 30 letters for the Goldfinch Bullfinch Hybrid I advertised in your valuable paper, CAGE BIRDS, and 24 for the gun I cannot answer them all."—JOSEPH POTTER (Bideford).

"Kindly allow me to thank all who answered my adverts. re Goldies, Bullies and Norwich in CAGE BIRDS. I answered all those who sent a stamp for reply. Others were too numerous to answer: it would have cost me 5s. for stamps had I answered them all. I wish CAGE BIRDS all the success it richly deserves."—W. WREN (Oxford).

"Glad to say that my small advert. in your paper CAGE BIRDS brought me lots of customers for my Yorkshire Hens. I could have sold 36 instead of 6."—W. EVERETT (Huddersfield).

"The enquiries from my advert. were a great deal larger than the stock for sale, which shows the value of CAGE BIRDS as an advertising medium."—H. HATHAWAY (Burton-on-Trent).

IMPRESSIONS OF THE WELSH NATIONAL SHOW.

BY H. NORMAN.

One hardly knows how to express in words one's admiration for the excellent arrangement of the First Annual show of the Welsh National, C.B.S. In a spacious oak-panelled hall, lighted by windows down one side and a glass dome in the roof, are gathered together over a thousand birds, and arranged in a truly artistic manner. Bare long lines of staging were missing, and in their place, at intervals, were cross sections, and on all these were tastefully arranged flowers and plants, so that one was unable to take in the full extent of the show at a glance and came upon surprises at every corner, reminding one of a well arranged garden where fresh beauties await one at every turn. The Welsh National was a distinct advance in the effort to make our shows more attractive to the outside public, a feature that should not be lost sight of by other societies.

He Could Not Keep Away!

It is several years now since we visited a bird show at Cardiff, and at that time the chairman, Mr. E. J. Banks, was a keen exhibitor in the Yorkshire section. He has not altered much in the interval, and is just as bright as smiling and happy looking as ever; his waistcoat is possibly a little more expansive, but that comes to most of us in time. Although he was quite alive to the advantages of personal supervision in all parts of the hall, we noticed in slack moments his interest was still centred in the birds of position, and we heard it hinted that in the near future he will once more enter the lists as a competitor.

The Committee were not disappointed at the entry, although they did think the London men might have assisted them more; they received birds from Ayr, Midlothian, and other places in Scotland, Newcastle-on-Tyne, Harrogate, and other far away places where the journey must have been far more trying to the birds than a straight three hours run from London.

Undoubtedly the excellent innovation of giving the times of train service from all parts assisted the entry, another idea that might with advantage be copied. We were quite pleased with the fine gate, the hall at times being well-filled with visitors from all parts. Among them we met Mr. Greenwood, of Greenwood and Burson, from Swindon, who ran down to see what sort of Crests and Crest-breds the West Country had to show. It was his first visit to a show this season, his time being fully occupied in the making of materials for the War Office. In chat with him we learnt that he and his partner had had an excellent season, but unlike the generality of breeders had bred far more cocks than hens, and although the stock was of all-round excellence, we could not hear of anything to equal their old Palace champion.

The Lure of the Fancy.

It is strange how the Fancy clings to people after they have not a feather of any kind in the house. We ran against several who at one time were keen exhibitors; these members of the old school still attend the shows and disenss the merits of the birds with their old enthusiasm; among these one-time devotees was Mr. Harber, of Merthyr, scarcely changed since we last met; the only difference we saw in him was when he removed his hat, then we noticed the "place where it used to grow." Dogs claimed his attention for a time, but now the old love is once more to the fore, and he is on the look out for suitable stock to re-commence with, and, like a wise man, is determined to have the right material, if procurable.

It is astonishing what a lot of people one meets on the look out for birds of a certain class, but unfortunately these are just the ones the breeders cannot afford to part with. During the show we heard several offers for excellent birds and some without a card, but no business was done; the owners failed to rise to the tempting bait. These offers were mostly in the Norwich sections, and good birds of this variety appear to us to be more in demand than ever.

Writing of birds changing hands we noticed Mr. Houghton's L.C.B.A. winner on show in another name, and we heard it had been secured at a good figure, but "mum's the word." The bird looked well, but scarcely so bulky as formerly. Possibly he is coming into condition and is a bit too forward for exhibition purposes; we sincerely hope his plucky purchaser will do well with him.

During the Saturday of the show the discussion waxed hot and strong over the exhibits in the heavily marked class; this is one that generally affords matter for discussion; someone is sure not to see eye to eye with the owners of some of the birds. The markings on birds cannot be measured with compass or rule, and these little differences are bound to arise, but then, after all, they are welcome. A good discussion without loss of temper is good for the bystanders, and many little wrinkles are added to one's store of knowledge in this way.

Of all the plucky exhibitors at the show we think Mr. A. M. Gardner, of Newton Grange, Midlothian, deserves the medal he didn't get; he not only sent a team of Norwich to the show, but journeyed down to see how they do things in South Wales. His share of the plums was not particularly great, although he has a couple of lovely unflighted hens standing second and fourth that many fanciers could do with.

Perhaps for levelness in type throughout the show the Borders headed the list. Even old fanciers in other sections failed to discriminate between them: "They are as like as two peas." We must say the men of the south made a grand display; they appear now to be able to grasp the importance of type, and some of them those other important factors, quality and condition. We could easily have selected birds in almost every class, however, that might have been among the leaders had they been put down in the best possible condition.

On Equal Terms, Now.

The West Country fanciers are particularly keen over the merits of their birds, and we noticed considerable discussion going on between such fine exhibitors as Messrs. Pratt, Madagan, Jenkins and others. The Borders in the south have advanced enormously, and are now well able to hold their own with the clears and marked birds, but the North Country exhibitors still take the lead in Greens and Cinnamons. At present these are not particularly popular, but will no doubt take on in time.

The great disappointment of the show was the paucity of entries in the Foreign section. One would have thought the patronage of the Foreign Bird Exhibitors' League would have ensured a good show, but with 10 classes provided and a specialist judge only 17 birds were on view. What was the cause? The hall was all that could be desired, and the show a big one. These 17 birds were sent in by four exhibitors, one of them, Mr. Howe, of Wellingborough, and another Mr. Chadwick, of Bridlington, in Yorkshire. Evidently the distance had no terrors for these plucky exhibitors.

The Hybrid and British bird sections were particularly interesting. Welshmen are exceptionally keen upon these, and little knots of visitors waxed quite eloquent (and a Welshman can) on the merits of some of them. Strangely enough, it was the field-moulted birds that caused the most discussion. Of course, as everybody knows, these birds are difficult to handle, and many a winner has been passed because of his flightiness.

Mr. Parlett's "White Rose" was there, but the rose had lost a lot of her bloom and freshness. Evidently she needs a rest, although she was blithely singing when the sun shone, her Bullfinch-Canary-Greenfinch song. What a pity she cannot talk!

By what we gleaned the Welsh National is to be a great annual event; and why not? The society have the right men to run it and the right hall, and Cardiff is an excellent centre for a big show. If they can make a success of the show in what one might term an off year, and they did, surely they can do so when peace once more reigns over the land?

A TRIUMPH FOR THE FANCIERS OF WALES.

THE FIRST WELSH NATIONAL SHOW IS BROUGHT TO A SPLENDIDLY SUCCESSFUL CONCLUSION.

THE first Great Welsh National Show was held at Cardiff on February 5, 6, and 8. "Stick it the Welsh," the dying command of a brave Welshman, will go down in history, and we venture to think that at the coming of age show in 1929 the President (let us hope it will still be Mr. E. J. Banks) will recall with pride how Welsh fanciers small in number but large in heart "stuck it" against most tremendous odds to make the first Welsh National the success it undoubtedly was. All things considered, the entry, just over 1,100, was very gratifying. Scottish fanciers generously supported the show, as also did the provincial fanciers, but the society really expected better support from the Londoners, and we are sure it only wants bringing to their notice for them to see that no complaint can be made as to their laxity on a future occasion. The hall is admirably adapted for a show, being not only lighted from the sides, but also from the roof, giving a perfect light for judging in every part, and at night being electrically lit. The exhibits were neatly staged two tiers high, the whole of the staging being neatly covered with dark-blue cloth, whilst here and there beautiful palms and ferns were tastefully arranged, and the hall itself was splendidly decorated with bunting. The society feel deeply grateful to Mr. H. P. Dymond for the decoration of the hall; also to Mr. D. Raymond and his assistant for the excellent staging; and to Mr. S. Tresider for the plants and shrubs.

Everything was arranged perfectly, the exhibits being all staged, carefully tended, and the judges at their work early. When one considers that the Welsh National was suggested less than three months ago it is evident that these few fanciers have worked with a will. First and foremost comes Mr. E. J. Banks, the genial president, who, although not now an exhibitor, owing to pressure of business, still has his heart in the Fancy, and to whom the inception of the society is due. He has left no stone unturned to obtain success, and we are sure, judging by his happy smile whilst receiving the congratulations of a host of fanciers on the opening day, he feels amply repaid.

The Man at the Helm.

No more popular show manager than Mr. Will Sampson would it be possible to obtain. He is a veritable Lord Kitchener for the position. Quiet, unassuming and courteous to a degree, lucky indeed is the society that can command his services. With him at the helm it was no wonder that everything passed off without a hitch. We must not forget to mention the valuable help given him on behalf of the society by his estimable better half, Mrs. Sampson, who at home cheerfully aided in the tedious writing of long addresses and on show day presided at the ticket office, and saw to it that nobody paid twice.

For his lieutenant he had on judging day Mr. S. F. Whetton, such a glutton for work that he even kept the camera man waiting whilst he was persuaded to come and take his place amongst the officials to be photographed, and we believe it was only the pangs of hunger that made him vacate his chair to take luncheon. The hon. sec., Mr. E. Thomas, is "one of the best," and did everything possible in his department to ensure success. The stewards worked with a will, as also did the members of the Cardiff Society, and amongst others we noticed Messrs. E. J. Davies, Alf. Shellam, P. Brailli, H. H. Mortimer, J. H. Pearce, E. Thorn; and D. Raymond ably carrying out their respective duties. The committee, Messrs. E. J. Davies (Llandaff), G. T. Jones (Brecon), D. Thomas (Treorchy), W. T. Couch (Abersychan), H. H. Mortimer (Abertillery) and D. A. S. Longden (Swansea) have all rendered most valuable service.

Unfortunately, the society had to cancel some entries, and we are sure fanciers will quite understand that the financial position of so young a society would not allow of any risks being taken. We hear that it is the intention of the committee to present to each of these exhibitors a souvenir of the show as an acknowledgment of their appreciation and regret. Fanciers will also be pleased to know that although the Clerk of the Weather did not smile on the opening day quite £30 worth of tickets had been disposed of, and a nice little company braved the elements; the committee have great hopes of handing over a respectable sum to the Prince of Wales' Fund.

The Lord Mayor of Cardiff visited the show officially, and expressed his delight at the arrangements; he was much pleased with the beautiful condition of the exhibits. Amongst well-known fanciers present we noticed Messrs. Gardiner, all the way from bonnie Scotland, Knight (London), Harber (Merthyr), Davies (Aberaman), Jeffreys (Swansea) and Wm. Sampson, senr., one of the old school of Sampson and Exton fame, who, although well past three-score years and ten, still delights to have a look at "a real good 'un." The judges, Messrs. H. C. Smith (Yorks), E.-W. Allsopp (Norf.), D. Jenkins (Borders), J. R. Leech (Lizards), J. Robson (Cresls, Cinn. and Foreign), D. A. S. Longden (Hyb. and Brit.), and W. F. Lloyd James (Brit.), carried out their duties well, and very little grumbling was heard, which is a great credit considering that some of them were officiating for the first time at a show of such magnitude.

THE YORKSHIRE CANARIES.

Judge, Mr. H. C. Smith.

The Yorkshire section was a big feature of the show. The entry in all classes was excellent, the novice yell. ck. class leading with 22 entries. The exhibits were of unusual merit throughout, two sets of winners being easily obtainable in most classes. Yellow cocks were excellent, Mr. L. Dykes being successful in heading the two old classes and both the unflighted yellow classes, a really notable performance. Buff cocks were a very fine lot; buff hens were also a very level lot. The novices were well to the fore, and, indeed, in many classes the leaders would have all ruled the awards had they been staged in the champion section. A notable performance was put up by Mr. W. Hamlyn, Harrogate, who with four exhibits headed the yell. cock, buff cock, yell. hen and unflighted hen classes.

CL., ETC., YELL. THE NORWICH PLAINHEADS.

Judge, Mr. E. W. Allsopp.

Norwich made a most imposing exhibition, and were nicely arranged all down one side of the big hall. The quality was excellent, many of the winners of the season once more facing the ordeal. Many grand birds were handicapped by being a trifle too forward in condition, pulling themselves out of shape directly they were handled, thus making the judge's task a difficult one. The entry was really excellent, which says much for the confidence exhibitors had in the promoters, as the classification was quite extensive. The two classes for unflighted birds drew an entry of 38, 21 of these being yellow rocks. The judge seemed to have been caught napping in class 29, the schedule reads "Heavily marked or variegated, yellow or buff," with an explanatory note attached "This class to mean more dark than light." The two leaders were more light than dark, and the third bird just on the border, so might have been passed.

The amateur section failed to obtain entries, and when one looked at the excellence of the novice birds one failed to see how another section could be squeezed in between them. One could easily have selected a dozen birds from the novices which would have been well up in the champion tickets. Mr. Crawshaw won the spl. for best bird with his unflighted and spl. for best hen with a nice yellow.

CL. ETC., YELL. (7): 1, Crawshaw, old winner, in fresh hands, wonderful size and head qual., full neck, rich deep col., full of bloom, grand fettle; 2, Thomas, rather more typical, fuller front, scarcely so rich in col., fine bold head, good back and wings, nice qual. feather; 3, Silk, chubby, smaller than leaders, good all round, but hardly in the best possible condition; 4, Houghton, grand size, bold and massive, not the head of winner, still a real good one, capital style; 5, Howard; 6, 7, Mortimer. BUFF (10): 1, Hathaway, massive, short and typical, full head and neck, nicely rounded back and front, smart wings, nice carr., in the pink; 2, Greaves and Richards, somewhat smaller and a shade on the slim side, but teeming with col. and qual. of feather, good wings, nice carr.; 3, Dipple, extra short, thick set, nicely balanced throughout, well rounded, neat full head, capital wings, good qual.; 4, Houghton, grand size, bold head and neck, good back and wing; 5, Dr. Wood; 6, Tedstone; 7, Jones. LIGHTLY MKD. YELL. (8): 1, Thomas, wonderful type, qual. and style, grand size, big massive head, without browing, full neck, nicely rounded back and front, good wings, rich col.; 2, 3, Stubbs Bros., back mkd. leading, bold chested, fails a bit in neck, but grand col. and qual.; 3, bold and clubby, wonderful qual., hardly the best of wings, still a good one, nicely put down; 4, Houghton, wing and eye mkd., nice style, shade on the long side, capital wings, full of qual.; 5, Morrison; 6, Howard; 7 Maggs. BUFF (13): 1, 2, Houghton, grand size and type, short, thick set, good bold head, full neck, nice width of shoulders, good wings, grand qual.; 2, another short one, scarcely so good in head, but very typical, good back and wings, nice style, grand qual., 3, Williams, somewhat smaller but typical and cleanly cut, neat head, good back and wings and tail carr., A1 cond.; 4, Thomas, beautifully rounded, bold full front, teeming with qual., lovely cond.; 5, Davies; 6, H. J. Davis; 7, Tedstone. HEAVILY MKD. (12): 1, 3, Crawshaw, grand size and type, beautifully rounded, fine bold head and neck, lovely qual., a real good buff; 3, massive buff, fine type, bit loose in feather, grand stock bird; 2, Greaves and Richards, good yell., shade longer than winner and scarcely so good in head, capital col., full of qual.; 4, Davis, nearly green, very typical, nicely moulded, good head, back and wings, nice qual.; 5, Houghton; 6, Gardner; 7, Howard. YELL. HEN (14): 1, 4, Crawshaw, clear leader, beauty for type and style, neat full head, good neck, closely braced wings, A1 col., for a lady grand qual.; 4, grand bird, but a bit patchy in col., which told against it, bold full head; 2, Houghton, very fine var., short, thick set, quite a Norwich, shade weak in head, but a grand hen; 3, Thomas, grand size and type, good head and wing, bit down in cond., or might have done better; 4, Dr. Wood, also a little down in cond., rare size for a lady, nice type; 6, Hathaway; 7, Silk. BUFF (13): 1, Dipple, lovely cl., sweetly typical, carries herself well, nicely proportioned throughout, grand qual. of feather; 2, Thomas, shade larger in build, but nicely filled in, quite fat enough, which spoilt the shape, pink of cond., good qual.; 3, Gardner, lovely qual., abundance of meal, shade loose in wings, nice neat head, stands well, lovely feather; 4, Hodder, we liked quite as well, very tight feather, good type, lovely qual. and col.; 5, Sheldon; 6, Houghton; 7, Broome. UNFLIG. YELL. CK. (21): 1, Crawshaw, well known bird, lovely all round, grand carr. and style, still looking fit; 2, Williams, not far behind, grand typical body, neat head, good back and wings, looks like improving with time; 3, Houghton, short, thick set, wing mkd., plenty of subs., nice style and movement, good head, nice qual. of feather; 4, Greaves and Richards, hot col., lovely type, hardly the best of wing, nicely rounded, grand qual.; 5, Howard; 6, Davies; 7, Tedstone. BUFF (17): 1, Crawshaw, quite long enough for a winner, and none too cleanly cut, but perfect qual. and round., good bold head; 2, Houghton, very typical, nicely rounded throughout, clean cut to a well carried tail, scarcely so bold in head as winner, but some preferred it for 1st; 3, Maggs, short, thick set, nice type, neat full head, good wing carr., nice qual. feather and good col.; 4, Silk, good col. and qual.; 5, Stubbs Bros.; 6, Hathaway; 7, Wood; No. 9, Hathaway, unnoticed, we thought one of the best in the class. HEN (16): 1, Stubb Bros., coveted by many, sweetly typical, moulded throughout, in the pink, a real good one; 2, 4, A. M. Gardiner, not far behind, lovely type and style, hardly looking at her best, a very fine hen; 3, charmer, grand type, nice stylish movement, well balanced, grand qual. feather; 3, Wood, good thick set buff, nice style and feather, neat head and wings, would improve with a wash; 5, Houghton; 6, Thomas. NOV., YELL CK. (15): 1, Mrs. Scholes, very fine, good size and type, full head and neck, bold front, good short wings, lovely col. and qual., 2, Rev. Jolliffe, back mkd., shade longer, good head and neck, nicely braced wings, neat tail, A1 cond.; 3, Heald, grand cl., typical, close up, beautifully proportioned, grand wings, lovely qual.; 4, Shirley, good cl., just a shade longer, neat head, good wings, nice style; 5, Slee; 6, Llewellyn; 7, King. BUFF (21): 1, Thomas and Durham, fine size, well in front of perch, clean cut to a good tail, neat head, nice qual. feather, but scarcely the bloom of 2, Shirley, full of qual., with grand bold head, massive bird, just a wee bit feathery; 3, Dudley, variegs., fine size, good bold front, well filled back, capital head, clean cut, shade long behind, nice qual.; 4, Williams, bonny variegs, plenty of subs., neat head and wings, nice qual. feather; 5, Mrs. Scholes; 6, Jenkins; 7, Kerr. YELL. HEN (9): 1, Walkden, stylish and free in movement, nicely rounded and finished, neat head, smart wings, lovely qual.; 2, Rev. THE BORDER FANCIES.

Judge, Mr. D. Jenkins.

Borders were the best collection we have seen south this season. The entry was excellent, the latest addition to the classification of the "wee gems," that is, a class for hens, heading the poll, and they were without doubt a most creditable lot, and if there is anything in the merit of the hen to transmit her beauties to her young the novices will make things hum a bit next season. But perhaps the best class in the show for real excellence was the one for buff greens, this was truly a battle of champions, every bird looked a winner right down to the last card, and Mr. Jenkins must have had an anxious time in sorting them out. The yellow and buff cocks were simply marvellous; type, quality and condition being all there.

CL. OR TKD. YELL. (17): 1, Pratt, lovely type and style, neat head and wings, beautifully rounded and modelled, good movement, capital col. and qual.; 2, Burton Bros., typical, handles beautifully, very jaunty and free, sweetly moulded, perfect wings, put down in the pink; 3, Mrs. Taylor, not far behind, nice type and style, neat head, good back and wings, very fine qual.; 4, Wilson, rare style, beautifully balanced, neat head, grand col. and cond.; 5, Madagan; 6, Cooper; 7, Elston. BUFF (18): 1, Madagan, beautifully balanced and moulded, free movement, grand head, well filled back, tightly braced wings, in the pink; 2, Mrs. Taylor, fine size, nicely balanced, neat head, well packed wings, good tail, lovely qual.; 3, 4, Pratt, leader beauty for type and style, scarcely so good in head as winner, grand wings and cond., 4 good size and style, nice qual. feather; 5, Wilson; 6, Pearce; 7, McDonnell. YELL. HEN (13): 1, Pratt, very smart and jaunty, fine col. and qual., scarcely modelled to our liking, still a good hen; 2, Mrs. Taylor, on the small side, charming bird, nicely moulded, neat head, good wings and lovely qual.; 3, 4, Madagan, leader all there for type, beautifully balanced, well placed wings, nice style, 4 a young one of great promise, sweetly typical, beautifully balanced, rich col. and full of qual., we liked immensely; 5, Sampson; 6, 7, Burton Bros. BUFF (17): 1, Mrs. Taylor, grand type and style, nicely balanced and moulded, good head, wings, smartly packed, clean cut, in very fine fettle; 2, 7, Burton Bros., quite the type, good in head and wings, and nice jaunty style, scarcely the bloom of winner; 3, 6, Pratt, stylish, but scarcely filled in enough to our liking, good head, well braced wings, sound cond., grand qual. feather; 4, 5, Madagan, lovely type and style, both in A1 cond. VAR. THE LIZARD CANARIES.

Judge, Mr. J. R. Leech.

The classes for Lizards were only moderately filled, the whole exhibitors in the half-dozen classes being six well-known names. The birds, as usual, were almost perfection; Mr. Rukin winning the spl. for best clear cap, and Mr. Hamer the one for broken.

CL. CAP GOLD (6): 1, Rukin, well known, grand size and shape, good skull, clean cap, perfect spangling, sound col., in the pink; 2, 3, 5, Barnes, grand team, leader full of work and col., very shapely, grand wings, 3 similar; 4, 6, Hamer, perfect spangling, sound col., fine order. BROKEN (6): 1, Hamer, lovely patch cap, fine size, very shapely, well carried wings and tail, beautifully spangled, grand tone of col., in the pink; 2, Green and Son, tkd. cap, fine qual., bold head, grand wings, regular in spangling, and good body work, sound col. and qual.; 3, Barnes, fine size and shape, dense, well carried wings, richly spangled, capital tone of col., rare cond.; 4, Rukin, shade small, but lovely qual., very shapely, beautifully spangled; 5, 6, Bradley. CL. CAP SILVER (6): 1, 2, Hamer, very shapely, good size, nice black wings and tail, full of work throughout, splendid tone of col.; 3, Rukin, rather slim build, splendidly spangled, lovely tone of col., grand wings and tail, fine cond.; 4, 6, Green and Son, little irregular in cap, but beauty for spangling and depth of col., shapely, grand qual. and cond.; 5, Bradley. BROKEN SILVER (5): 1, 3, Hamer, leader patch cap, magnificent qual., grand size and shape, full of spangling to the eyes, very rich under col., graud cond., 3 rather smaller, richly spangled, grand tone of col., in the pink; 2, Barnes, fine wings and tail, even spangling, A1 col., full of qual.; 4, Millington, good tone of col., fine cond.; 5, Bradley. GOLD HEN (3): 1, 2, Rukin, both good in work and col., in fine cond.; 3, Millington, good cl. cap. SILVER (4): 1, Hamer, full capped, nice type, rich col., lovely even spangling; 2, 3, 4, Rukin, grand team, as near perfection as possible, grandly spangled, all in the pink.

THE REMAINING CANARY CLASSES.

Judge, Mr. J. Robson.

Crests and Crest-breds though not large in numbers were unusually level in quality, some really grand birds being staged, which must have given the judge an anxious time in sorting them out. 1914 Crests and Crest-breds were also a fine lot, some very promising birds being put down, in fact, we do not ever remember seeing such a fine lot at a Welsh show. Cinnamons also were not large in numbers, but were indeed a very level lot; as were also the Green Yorkshires.

CREST CK. (3): 1, 3, Bale, cl. body, dark tail and crest, good body, grand head, nicely lashed, 3rd grizzle marked crest, lovely head, nice body, wonderful qual.; 2, Rev. Joyce, wing mkd. D.C., lovely feather. HEN (3): 1, Bale, var. D.C., good length of head feather, nice entrance, grand body; 2, Evins Bros., D.C., var., beautiful body, hardly as wide in entrance; 3, Walker, cl. body, D.C. and tail, grand body, nicely centred, hardly as dense feather. C.B. CK. (7): 1, 3, Bale, lightly var. dome-shaped skull, splendid lashing, wide entrance, splendid qual., 3rd cl., grand style, lovely lashing, best of skull; 2, 7, Colledge, var., good stout body, lovely entrance, well lashed, nice skull; 4, Evins Bros.; 5, Rev. Joyce; 6, Barker. 1914 CREST CK. (7): 1, 3, Colledge, wing mkd. D.C., splendid frontal, beautiful centre and droop, 3rd good lightly var. D.C., good all-round crest, nice frontal; 2, Taylor, lightly var. D.C., nice size and back, good frontal and droop; 4, 5, Bale; 6, Edward; 7, Walker. HEN (3): 1, Barker, long frontal, dense vein, a real good one; 2, Rev. Joyce, var., rattling good bird, nice centre and droop; 3, Bale, cl. body, var. cr., good frontal, nice back. C.-B. CK. (8): 1, 3, real gems, both var., leader wonderful skull, grand body; 2, Rev. Joyce, cl., grand body, wide head and entrance; 3, Taylor, foul green, nice oval skull, good lashing, rare body; 5, Colledge; 6, Edwards; 7, Walker. HEN (3): 1, Bale, lightly var., a nice skull, good lashing, rare body and size; 2, Taylor, var., well lashed, nice body, hardly the full of Colledge, var., close up, [illegible] CINN. YELL. CK. (8): 1, 4, Colley, splendid body, nice head, well [illegible] and qual., 4th a trifle longer [illegible] col. and qual.; 2, 3, [illegible], nice level col., [illegible] and qual., grand [illegible] Mrs. Tweddle, [illegible] real topper of admirers; 5th, Can.-Bullf., best of col., good shape, but on close examination seemed stone blind in at least one eye; 6, Dr. Wilson; 7, Lawrance. A.O. HYB. (8): 1, Martin and Archer, Greenf.-Chaffinch, noted exhibit, lovely shape, col., and qual., topping order; 2, 7, Dr. Wilson, Greenf.-Chaffinch, nice shape and qual., shows parentage well; 3, Collins, neat Redpoll-Goldf., perfect shape, nice size and cond.; 4, Whitney and Son, good size Goldf.-Greenf., neat exhibit, very shapely, in fine order; 5, Lamb; 6, Campbell.

THE BRITISH BIRD SECTION.

Mr. D. A. S. Longden's Classes.

The British bird section though not as well filled as it might have been contained the cream of the Fancy: most of the noted winners being staged. The moulted Goldfinches were rather disappointing, no real stonners being seen, but some really promising youngsters that will be heard of again were put down in the black-legged class; in fact, the judge had his work cut out to sort them, some really good birds having unavoidably to be left out of the tickets. In the three classes provided for amateurs some really good specimens were staged; many of the exhibitors would not have disgraced themselves in the champion classes. The Albinos were greatly admired, and were a really excellent collection, in fact, we believe we are right in saying the best lot ever staged in Wales.

GOLDF. (18): 1, S. Jones, jun., neat Finch, rich crimson blaze, well cut, nicely tanned breast, good wing bars and buttons, lovely cond., good col. and qual.; 2, Richards, good square cut blaze, nicely tanned and buttoned, beautiful quality feather, best of cond.; 3, Conkie and Loudon, nice size, good shape, rich blaze, though hardly so rich as leader's; 4, Richards, grand square cut blaze, of good col., nicely tanned and buttoned, good shape and size, nice col. and qual.; 5, Pool; 6, Edwards; 7, Williams. BULLF. CK. (8): 1, Dr. Wilson, bold and shapely, graud back, wonderful depth and clearness of breast feather, grand cap and bars, put down to the moment; 2, Tonks, smaller, beautiful type, lovely breast col., grand back, best of bars and cap, a real good one; 3, Morgans and Williams, good level breast col., nice size and shape, grand col. and qual., hardly as rich as leaders; 4, Osborne, correct type, dense cap, nice back and breast col.; 5, Ford; 6, Jones, jun.; 7, Jeffreys. LINNET (10): 1, Dr. Wilson, wonderful body, tremendous size, grand shape, well laced, trifle small in head, his only fault, good col., qual., and cond.; 2, Mrs. Dalton, grand exhibit, rather small in comparison to leader, still a real good one, full of work, right across breast, in A1 order; 3, Nicholas, good col. and size, nice col. and qual., lails lacing to leaders; 4, 6, Heal, neat exhibit, former good size, shapely, lovely col. and qual.; 5, S. Jones, jun.; 7, Richards. GREENF. (15): 1, Lawrance, grand headed jonque, hot-fed, immense size, best of shape, lovely wing bars, in perfect order; 2, Parlett, best of shape, grand tone of col., nice size, lovely qual.; 3, Mrs. Dalton, non-fed jonque, very shapely, trifle smaller, beautiful qual., best of wing bars, and cond.; 4, Martin and Archer, non-fed buff, nice tone of col., good size, shape, and cond.; 5, Holborrow; 6, Nicholas; 7, S. Jones, jun. LESSER REDPOLL (13): 1, Bullock, good size, real waggon horse shape, but seemed harsh in feather, and rather indistinct markings, many thought rather lucky; 2, Miss Whishaw, nice size and col., hardly as much chest as leader, but well pencilled, in nice order; 3, Cook, F.M., probably one of the best ever staged, wonderful size, waggon-horse shape, profusion of distinct lacing, grand col. and qual., naturally handicapped by not being house-moulted; 4, Conkie and Loudon, good size and shape, well pencilled, nice col. and qual.; 5, 7, Jeffreys; 6, Heal. CHAFF. (8): 1, Jeffreys, bouncer for size, grand shape, lovely breast col., good skull, best of whites on wing, splendid head colouring, well put down, romps home; 2, Pearce, shapely, rather smaller than leader, good bold front, grand breast, back, and head colouring, nice whites, first-class cond.; 3, Mrs. Dalton, good shape, though a trifle longer, best of whites, good colouring, cond. and qual. A1; 4, Bullock, very shapely, hardly as prominent in skull, good col. throughout, nice cond.; 5, Lox; 6, Morgans and Williams; 7, Winstone. YELLOW BUNTING (5): 1, Rowe and Richards, real gem, grand width of skull, lovely head and eye markings, good rich col. throughout, best of shape and cond., wins; 2, 4, 5, Mrs. Dalton, trio of good ones, leader real good head, nicely pencilled, grand col. and qual.; 4, good col., nicely mkd. throughout, had flights missing; 3, Jeffreys, well mkd., good V., nice col., size, and qual. HEN (11): 1, Heal, well-known Corn-Bunting, grand size, lovely col. and qual., well laced throughout, steady as a rock; 2, Rowe and Richards, Siskin, neat, lovely col., well defined markings; 3, Cottingham, well known Hawfinch, wonderful size, best of shape, col., and qual., shining like satin; 4, Miss Whishaw, Yellow-hammer, lovely shape, good size, well mkd., grand order; 5, Campbell; 6, Davies; 7, Miss Whishaw. REDSTART, ETC. (3): 1, Burrows, Redstart, grand rich reddish breast, clear white forehead, nicely frosted, staged to perfection; 2, Taylor, Black Redstart, wonderful size, dense col., fine shape and cond.; 3, Woodhouse, Redstart, good size, presumably a hen. ALBINO (6): 1, Martin and Archer, well-known clear Yellow Bunting, very shapely, in grand order, feathered like box-wood; 2, 3, 5, 6, Miss Whishaw, House Sparrow, Cinn. Redpoll, Hedge Sparrow, and Silver Redpoll, charming exhibits, put down in this lady's usual good style; 4, Hart, black Bullfinch, another interesting exhibit, in good order. AMAT. LINNET, ETC. (13): 1, Strathearn, Linnet, good cone shape, nice size and col., in grand order, wins; 2, Bullock, neat Redpoll, good shape, nice size, well laced, grand col. and qual.; 3, Fowler, Linnet, hardly as large as 1st, lovely type and qual., well pencilled; 4, Bullock, Siskin, shapely, good eye mkgs., nice col. and qual.; 5, Bowdridge; 6, Lucas Bros.; 7, Copp.

Mr. Lloyd-James's Classes.

GOLDF., F.M. (22), a good class, many grand birds, unavoidably cardless: 1, Richards, good rich square blaze of grand col., nicely tanned breast, good col. throughout, best of bars and buttons; 2, Williams, fine blaze, good tan, nice size and shape, lovely bars and buttons, in grand order; 3, 7, Gibbon, former good size, nice level col., grand neat blaze of good col., well tanned breast, best of bars and buttons, splendid shape; 4, Escott and James, most expansive blaze in class, hardly as bright a colour as leaders, well built throughout, beautifully tanned, good size and shape; 5, 6, Jeffreys. BULLF., HEN (8): 1, Still, real gem, good bold chest, very cobby, lovely tone of col. throughout, grand cap and bars; 2, S. Jones, jun., very shapely, nice type, grand col. and qual., well staged, close up; 3, McPherson, fine feather, very cobby; 4, Campbell; 5, Wallis; 6, Jeffreys; 7, Goodall. LINNET, F.M. (14): 1, Parlett, Nor. type, good size, bold chest, neat lacing, rather pale in col.; 2, Osborne, good size, neat cone shape, well laced, grand col. and qual.; 3, Lewis, fair size and markings, but not the best of shape or col., some thought lucky; 4, Jeffreys, good size, cone shaped, distinct breast markings, nice col. and qual; 5, Bowdridge; 6, Heal; 7, Nicholas. No. 2 and 10, probably the best Linnets in class, hard lines. HAWFINCH (63): 1, Camm, Horticultural Hall winner, gem for colouring, nice nutty back, large bib, dense black, good head col., nice blue neck, grand size, lovely sheen; 2, Thomas, good size, neat well cut bib, rich col. throughout; 3, Crone, fine size and qual, neat bib, good rich back, well polished all over; 4, McPherson; 5, Davis; 6, Coxham. SISKIN, ETC. (8): 1, Conkie and Loudon, Twite, grand size, very shapely, rich nutty col. throughout, well pencilled; 2, 6, S. Jones, jun., Siskin, leader excels in clearness of col. and eye markings, in fine order; 3, Miss Whishaw, Twite, lovely tone of col. throughout, very shapely, little to choose between this and 1st; 4, Martin and Archer, Siskin, nice shape, good clear col., lovely order; 5, Mrs. Dalton; 7, Winstone. BRAMBLE (10): 1, Hart, jonque, good mantle and back spangling, nice thigh lacing, very shapely, nice size and cond.; 2, Miss Whishaw, lovely rich col. throughout, well spangled, very shapely, good thigh lacing, might have won, and nobody grumble; 3, Jeffreys, good size and shape, nicely spangled back, hardly as rich col. as leaders; 4, Barton, shade smaller, good col., nice type and qual., well spangled, good thigh lacing; 5, Heal; 6, Conkie and London; 7, Ford. A.O. FINCH OR BUNTING (6): 1, A. J. Lewis, Yellow Bunting, good bold head, lovely V., grand col. throughout, well put down; 2, Carter, Bramble, fine size, well spangled, only wants feeding to make a topper; 3, Copp, Greenf., shapely good col. and qual., nice wing bars; 4, Fowler, rich col. Bramble, well spangled, trifle smaller than leader; 5, Jones and Davies; 6, Carter.

THE FOREIGN BIRDS.

Judge, Mr. Robson.

Foreigners were disappointing, no less than seven classes out of ten having to be cancelled, the remaining three classes only containing seventeen exhibits provided by four exhibitors, notwithstanding the fact that the show was under the patronage of the F.B.C. Such poor support does not give societies much encouragement to provide classification.

AVADAVATS, ETC. (7): 1, 4, 6, 7, Howe, St. Helena Waxbills, leading, in lovely plumage; 4, Conhassous, lovely metallic sheen, perfect cond.; 6, White-headed Mannikins, well shown, lovely feather; 7, Ribbon Finches, as tight as wax, best possible order; 2, 3, 5, Mrs. Longden, Goldbreast, leading, lovely couple, in exquisite cond.; 3, Cordon Bleus, an excellent couple; 5, Firefinches, perfect pair. WEAVERS, ETC. (8): 1, Howe, Vinaceous Firefinch, a neat exhibit, but many thought lucky to beat 2, Chaffinch, red collared Whydah, lovely colouring and cond.; 3, 5, 6, Mrs. Longden, Pintailed Nonpareil leading, lovely colouring, splendid cond.; 5, Jackson's Whydah, a real gem, lovely tail, best possible cond., might have been higher; 6, grand pair Black-headed Gouldians. FRUIT-EATING (2): 1, 2, Arnott, Lesser Double collared Sunbirds and Golden Fronted Sunbirds, magnificent colourings, all in splendid order.

HOW TO BREED EXHIBITION YORKSHIRE CANARIES.

By JOHN B. WATERMAN (Dulwich.)

IN the present exciting times when the crack of the rifle and the boom of big guns can almost be heard on this side of the Channel, one requires relaxation of some kind or the other more than at any other period of one's existence, as to read daily of war and nothing but war has a tendency to make one's nerves a trifle "jumpy." Hence it has occurred to me that as we are on the threshold of another spring, a few notes anent the fascinating hobby of Canary breeding and keeping may not prove inopportune.

My especial favourite, I may at once say, is the Yorkshire, and I therefore purpose dealing exclusively with this variety—truly styled the birds of grace and beauty. My remarks, too, are specially addressed to the novices in the Fancy, for although I have bred and kept birds of various kinds for more years than I care now to look back upon, I still regard myself as being outside the charmed circle of the so-called "professionals," as I keep my birds purely for the hobby.

With this little explanation I will commence at the beginning and deal with the room and cages; albeit it is not absolutely necessary that one should have a room specially for the birds, for some real good specimens have often been bred and reared in an odd corner of the homely kitchen. However, if a spare room can be found for the stock so much the better. Like many another fancier, I started with only a few birds, and these were kept in a living room, but after leaving the parental roof I was able to set apart a small room for the accommodation of my feathered pets, and am pleased to say I have met with a fair measure of success on the show bench, and otherwise.

The Right Kind of Help.

One of my most treasured possessions, too, is the fine original water-colour drawing of Yorkshire Canaries which I won in CAGE BIRDS' Essay Competition some few years ago; and if by this short article I should in any way help some of the young readers of your bright little journal to pick up a few prizes I shall feel amply rewarded.

I may here say that my bird-room faces the south-west, and inasmuch as the hot-water pipes from the kitchen boiler run through it, the temperature is always just right during the cold weather. But even if the room lacked this little artificial heat I should not introduce any, as I do not believe in "coddling" the birds; my experience is that it tends to make them go "soft."

The room should be airy and light, but all draughts must be most rigidly excluded. Commodious shelves should be placed round the room for the cages, and the floor of the apartment should be well washed at least once a week with hot water, in which a little liquid carbolic has been placed. This treatment will keep the birds' domicile sweet and clean, a condition which even the feathered inmates seem by their manner to thoroughly appreciate. Should mice be troublesome—they are particularly fond of canary seed, and invariably pick out the best! just mention the matter to your family chemist and he will make up a preparation that will quickly give these pests their "quietus."

Beware of Boiling Water.

Having got the room ready, our attention is now directed to the cages. My own are double-breeders, 36in. long, 18in. high, and 10in. from back to front. They are all wood except the front, which is of wire. The fronts are removable, as this facilitates the cleaning out process. When washing the cages never use boiling water, as I have seen some fanciers do, as this causes the wood to warp, and red mite insinuate themselves in the holes thus made.

When the cages are dry, apply the following solution well round any crevices, and at the ends of all perches:—Equal parts spirits of wine and turpentine, into which a small piece each of camphor and soda has been placed. A half-pint will last many months, and the mixture should be tightly corked when not in use. Birds should not be turned into the cages so treated for a day or so, as the smell of the powerful lotion should have time to evaporate.

Having got the room and cages ready, I would recommend the beginner to procure a copy of CAGE BIRDS ANNUAL, as from this valuable little work he will, besides other very useful birdy information, be able to obtain the address and particulars of his nearest cage-bird club. He would do well to join this society in order to get into close touch with local fanciers.

This done, a visit should be paid to the room of one or more of the members who are known to have a few birds for disposal, and then a pair properly matched for breeding can usually be purchased at a reasonable price. Don't, however, expect to secure "Palace winners" for a trifling sum, or dire disappointment is certain to follow. It is usually best to leave the selection of the birds to the older hand, who will, generally speaking, deal honestly by the novice.

Failing this arrangement, there are always reputable fanciers advertising spare stock in the columns of CAGE BIRDS; but when doing business in this way it is usually more satisfactory to all parties concerned to have the birds on approval and adopt the excellent deposit system of the paper. I have found this arrangement to work excellently myself when desiring to obtain birds possessing certain characteristics.

The Usefulness of Selling Classes.

Another good method of securing fair class birds at a reasonable figure is to attend local shows and keep a sharp eye on the selling classes. It is advisable, however, to commence with only moderately-priced pairs until one gains experience with practice, when the better and more expensive specimens can be tackled with more confidence. My advice is to always go slowly at first, but with patience and the exercise of a little judgment the beginner will usually be able to breed some birds of sufficient merit to win in the novice classes at local members' shows—which is all that should reasonably be expected at this early stage.

Personally, I wish I had remained longer in the novice ranks, but only a few months after I had decided to take up exhibiting Yorkshires, one of my birds won a championship diploma and silver medal in open competition, and I was at once pitchforked into the champion section, and had henceforth to show my birds on the same footing as some of the greatest breeders in the country. For this reason it is usually wise to try and remain in the novice ranks until one has, so to speak, found his "sea-legs" in the Fancy.

When Judges Disagree.

SIR,—No wonder some judges disagree when such a rare exhibit is bred as the "White Rose," especially those who are still exhibiting. I sent two Greenfinches in the same class to three shows under three different judges. Result, 1st and 2nd Sunderland, 12 in class. Next Saturday at Brandon 1st Sunderland was hc; 2nd Sunderland was 1st, seven in class. At the Welsh National bird hc at Brandon was 2nd, and the 1st at Brandon was cardless, 15 in class. When there can be such varied opinions on a common Greenfinch how can we expect all judges to agree? R. D. PARLETT.

Winter Management of Canaries.

SIR,—I quite agree with what Mr. Allsopp says as regards feeding. My birds have enjoyed the best of health since the moult on a diet consisting as a staple of plain canary seed. In addition I mix maw and English summer rape (double the quantity of the rape to maw) and give half a teaspoonful per bird three times a week, with a bit of sweet apple twice a week. They are quite ready for putting up now, cocks on full song and the hens flapping their wings, which I don't think is so bad, considering the weather we are having. I hope to have a good season and wish all fanciers the same and CAGE BIRDS the success it deserves. AN OLD READER.

The Importance of Good Hens.

SIR,—The article on Norwich hens by your well-known artist, Mr. H. Norman, is very interesting, and I feel sure that if fanciers were to take more pains in selecting hens for breeding, we should have far better results. I am a sticker for type myself, as a good many fanciers know, and to my mind type and quality should stand first. One of the best Norwich that I have ever bred and which was the father of one of my big winners was bred from a small yellow hen, but of lovely type and quality. She bred me five youngsters, and these all turned out big winners. I had several fanciers to see my stock, and they were surprised at the size of the hen that produced those youngsters. They told me that if I had asked five shillings for the hen they would have thought it quite enough. I always, when selecting my breeding hens, try and use those hens that are of good Norwich type, even if they do run on the small side, as I generally find those are the kind of hens that breed me my birds that I win with. Of course, I also use one or two good sized hens to help keep up the size in my stock. I believe that where a good many of our novice fanciers go wrong is in the selecting of their hens for stock. Some of them seem to have got size on the brain. They get birds with plenty of (or rather too much) feather and lovely "trousers" on them, and then they wonder why they don't see a red ticket on the cages of these birds at the shows. Scarcely ever am I asked for a bird of good type and quality, but generally the applicants say birds must be very large. I hope no one will misunderstand me and think I like small show birds, for I like a good big bird myself, but not at the expense of type and quality. I feel sure if we as fanciers get the real Norwich type firmly bred into our stock, and my experience is it will be done chiefly through the hens, we shall not be long before we turn out winners. Of course we must have some size on the cock side to pair to the medium sized hens. I hope other fanciers will give their ideas. G. W. S.

Future of Chester-le-Street C.B.S

SIR,—Judging from the report of Mr. Robinson (Sec. for Pelton Fell C.B.S.) in CAGE BIRDS last week, I think he must be mistaken re the above society being done for, as there has never been any meeting to decide whether it shall be carried on or not. Now as there are a few members greatly in favour of amalgamation, I hope that all members and intending members will make a special effort to attend this meeting at Pelton Fell. Let us have the matter thoroughly discussed. As regards old members who would not join the amalgamation I don't think they have the welfare of the society at heart, or they would have fallen in with the majority and given the idea a fair trial. Now, fanciers, a good supper and a jovial evening together is the wish of R. WARD.

Where Are the Yellow Buntings?

SIR,—It was a most gratifying array of birds which met the eyes of those who were fortunate enough to attend the first Welsh National Show at Cardiff last week-end. I was, however, disappointed to find that though the promoters were good enough to provide a class for the Yellow Bunting they only received five entries, three of which belonged to the writer. To my mind this bird is one of our most beautiful exhibits, and I believe if an appeal is made to the British section of the Fancy they will endeavour to take the same interest in filling a class provided as in the case of the other species, viz., Linnets, etc. We do not want to have this class abolished, for fanciers know that when the Buntings have to compete in a mixed class what the result invariably is. I do not know if there is a class provided for this bird alone at the next Bathgate Show, but should same be the case I sincerely hope the result of my venture in appealing to fanciers will amply reward the promoters. (MRS.) L. E. T. DALTON.

The Value of "Push."

SIR,—I have read with interest the letters under the above heading, amongst them one of Mr. H. Coker. I can quite understand him when he says he cannot get the full price for his birds. I may be wrong, but he seems to be in about the same fix as I was myself at one time. I had a strain of Norwich far above the songster stage, quite good enough to win at small shows, but not good enough for hot competition. Result, I mostly had to part with my surplus stock at a small price. Sometimes with a little "push" I did get rid of one or two at about fifteen shillings each, but not very often. Well, I thought if I am to keep in the Fancy this won't do for me, and I want to have the pleasure of breeding a good winner or two, also the pleasure of accepting or refusing a ten pound note for a bird or two, which I heard fanciers were doing. So I used a little of this precious "push," studied the Fancy Press, attended several of the large shows, got into touch with a few decent fanciers, and found out just where I failed or where my stock of birds failed. With the cash I got for some of my surplus, I went to a fancier who I knew bred his own winners, and only sold his own surplus birds (there are a few fanciers like him left). I told him just what I wanted, paid him a fair price for three or four birds, and with a determination to get to the top of the Fancy I was able in a year or two to be showing amongst the best of company, and winning with birds I had bred. Since then I have had the nice feeling of accepting or refusing that ten pound note, and now by a few adverts. in CAGE BIRDS I have no trouble to dispose of my surplus. I am afraid friend Coker will not get full value for his birds until he has advanced a bit more in the Fancy. But I can assure him that if he has made up his mind to come out on top he will do it. Go to a man who breeds his own winners, not those who buy their winners and buy other birds to sell as "all bred from their cup and medal winners." That, to my mind, is pushing novices out of the Fancy every year.

JOHN BULL.

IS MIXED SEED AS BAD AS A DISEASE?

Our correspondent says plain canary seed for Canaries and small British seedeaters alone ensures long life and perfection of condition.

SIR,—Many small seed-eating birds are lost yearly through over-feeding, and the breeding season is now approaching and many birds are, through this, not in condition. The young fancier is at a loss what to do. After 30 years of breeding Canaries, Mules and Hybrids I have learned the right way of saving the lives of many of our cage birds. I started in the hobby by feeding my birds on mixed seeds. Canaries did fairly well for a time, but my Finches would drop off in a decline—many a good Finch have I lost. I collected wild seeds; but no, they would live a season or two, then drop off.

I was told by an old bird catcher to try plain canary seed. I have done this for some years, and can now truthfully say I can keep Finches as long as any fancier about here. I have in my bird-house six cock Goldfinches in the best of health and plumage, fit to enter any show, and these birds get only plain canary seed. A fancier once told me you could not get the colour into a Finch on plain canary seed. I have proved this to be untrue. The Finch is born, not made; has not many a young lass who has lived on the plainest of food made a beautiful woman?

Looking for Trouble.

I remember showing a Finch which was claimed at a good price. I told the buyer to feed it on plain canary seed. No, he said, I use mixed seed. Result: death of the Finch in a short time through over-feeding.

I wish your readers to plainly understand that I consider the feeding of birds on mixed seed to be a kind of disease. I have known beginners start off and do well for a time on mixtures of seeds, but at last come to grief. Some may say they fail to understand how one kind of seed can keep British birds alive. But they cannot understand that the birds require plenty of exercise if fed on a rich diet. A Finch in his wild state is a traveller and a hard worker. What is there for the Finch at this time of the year? Very little in the way of rich seed. You will now see great numbers of them in the elder trees partaking of the seed, of which they are very fond.

The Time for Mulers.

As the spring draws near the Goldie will live on the flowers of the groundsel and is easily caught on patches of this where it grows. I find the cocks taken then make the best mulers, for they are then in their prime. Why I speak mainly of the Goldfinch is because he is more likely to go into a decline than any other bird. Give the plain canary seed a trial; I am sure you will bless the day you tried it. You can do this by adding to the mixed seed a portion of plain canary seed, gradually increasing it until you have done away with the mixture altogether.

The cock Siskin is an easy muler, but rarely do you keep him over two seasons. Why? Because he is a glutton and always at the seed box. Give him plain seed and he will stop with you as long as you like.

What better hobby is there for the working man than bird-keeping? None! I love my birds as much as my life, and believe in helping the working man to keep the Fancy going; this plain seed method will go a great way towards it. It is the proper way to feed, and is a good "war diet," as it is the cheapest in the end.

CORRESPONDENCE.

Are Scotch Fancy Exhibitors Overstepping the Mark?

Sir,—I was very pleased to see the letters by Mr. McLure and "Old Fancier." These no doubt caused a little healthy excitement in the Fancy, and much comment has been made as a result. I was very much struck by a letter from Mr. R. H. Livingstone in your pages, referring to an exhibition arranged for and guaranteed in the space of an hour or two. I suggest another meeting such as he speaks of should be convened, with perhaps a special invitation to our friends of the former meeting, to consider this most delicate matter of "Faking and Fakers, the causes and the cure." Indeed, a side-subject might be introduced if perchance they got through the main item as quickly as they seem to have done on the occasion referred to. A suitable one I suggest would be "Price raising and price raisers," and the effects of such on the Fancy. The whole matter reminds me of a skep of bees, where, as in all skeps, we have drones and workers. It seems many, like "Old Fancier," are bent on trying to bring "old times" back again. The drones have fed on the honey for quite a lengthy period of years, but now it seems the workers mean to have a say. The time has come when they realise they are impoverishing themselves to feed the drones, and so I suggest such a meeting to fix up matters and say no one shall be impoverished by paying £15 to £20 in order to get into the skep. But the question is asked: "How can this be done?" I have come to the conclusion that 30 to 50 per cent. of the fakers are money grabbers and price raisers. I should suggest to all show committees a lowering of the prize-money, say to 6s. for 1st, 4s. for 2nd, 2s. for 3rd prize, and also a universal entrance fee of 1s. 3d., including entrance for all specials; also to say that any bird exhibited must either be bred by the exhibitor or a sum of not more than £5 has been paid for it. This, to my mind, would to a great extent stamp out these evils. I overheard a certain man in Paisley show accuse another of faking, and this man at the Glasgow show was himself accused of such, and, I must say, took it with bad grace. I thought of the blacksmith who put an iron in another's hand which he himself could not hold—"Never give a joke which you cannot take." I suggest, if Committees do find after trying such a scheme that their balance is on the wrong side, that they be assisted from a National Fund raised by a shilling subscription from all real lovers of the Scotch Fancy Canary, such, to my mind, would meet the case.

Old Country Fancier.

Mice and Rats in Aviaries.

Sir,—As regards Mr. W. Bennett losing his favourite Hybrid Redpoll-Greenfinch, also other birds, of which I was very sorry to hear, I have, I may say, had the same experience myself. If he will watch the birds just before dark, he will notice some of them looking dull, also on floor of aviary he will find some of the birds, unable to fly to their places, so hiding in corners on the floor. This is through eating mice dirt, taking it for niger seed, which makes the birds very weak. When in this state the mice attack the bird, either on the back, or under the beak; I have noticed they attack in these two places only. I give Epsom salts in water to the birds, after placing them in cages. Then I overhaul the aviary, cleaning everything down, taking care to get in all the corners, and fill all holes up with cement and broken brick. By white-washing everything you can soon tell when Mr. Mouse has made his appearance. I hope Mr. Bennett has better luck in the future.

H. Johnson.

Sir,—I had the same sorrow the year before last. I came home from L. and P.O.S. show, Holborn Hall, and found about a dozen of my poor birds (in outdoor aviary) lying dead on the floor with brains out, and breasts and under wings eaten. After a minute examination my husband found a small hole gnawed in the woodwork, to which the half-inch mesh wire-netting was fastened. He immediately got some more half-inch mesh wire-netting, and nailed it over the first, arranging it so that the holes of the new netting came half over (half way across) the old, making it quite impossible for any animal, however small, to get in that way (through the holes of the netting). I have lost none of my birds since in that way, although from time to time I find traces of mice, i.e., seeds eaten, also soft food placed on the floor. I ask myself very often if it really was a mouse which did the mischief, or some small (it must have been very small) kind of weasel or stoat.

M. A. Feist Madewell.

The Norwich Plainhead and How to Improve it.

Sir,—As regards Mr. Allsopp's remarks, my object in writing was a desire to draw the attention of the Fancy to the varying types of Norwich which have been exhibited for the last few years. The character of the objectionable properties are well known to my friend Mr. Allsopp, and all observant fanciers. Are we to charge the judges, or the one, two, or three specialist clubs, for allowing to win good stock birds with unequal properties, and far away from the standard they have printed for the guidance of their members? Of course, Mr. Allsopp, there are, I am fully aware, more Norwich fanciers outside the specialist clubs than belong to them (I should say, by 10 to 1). Again, I know the difficulty of our artists to convey to our minds the desired Ideal. I would like to mention three pictures which I consider are typical plates of what is required, viz., the N.P.C. model and two plates in the fine standard work, "Our Canaries," the yellow cock, page 289, and buff hen, p. 330. I know the difficulties of the judges with no typical specimens in the classes before them, but instead two different types of birds in one class. The judge, however, invariably gives 1st to one type, 2nd to another and so on, the same as when judging an A.O.V. class. My desire is to remedy this sort of procedure in Norwich Plainhead classes. It is not a case of one specimen or one show. If we are going to maintain the popularity of the variety we must have a uniform class of birds, and judges appointed who know their duties.

Barker Clegg.

Sir,—I have taken up the breeding of the Norwich Plainhead, and am interested in this correspondence. Mr. Bastock says the best cross to use would be a yellow Crest-bred hen. Have we not enough, or too much crest in already? I think so. Then he speaks of a dash of Cinnamon blood in it. What sort of a Cinnamon? Not one of the winning Cinnamons of to-day, surely, as they are bred from Crests and Lancashires, and would bring heavy feather and lashing (or browing) with a vengeance. We all know how birds will throw back. Why not advise breeders to breed from good Plainhead Norwich? I should think we have had enough of crossing. Advise them not to be greedy; not to be in such a hurry to make money. Breed good type birds and breed for colour, as they did in your young days, Mr. Bastock. It can be done. What have they done with the Lancashire, with their crossing with the Crest-bred? That bird is about knocked out. I think Cinnamon blood is very good in Norwich, but you must have the old Cinnamon, that they used to send out of Northampton, to do it, not the winning Cross-breds of to-day. We have too much overlapping feather on Norwich. Keep away from Crest-breds.

E. Fuller.

Glossop.

Sir,—My advice is, stick to the Plainhead and do not introduce any foreign blood. If one uses the Crestbred for size, one is sure to make a mistake, for it will add what is not required. For instance, you will get a lot of slackness about the waist (a great throw-back in this variety). If you use Cinnamon blood you will find it will turn up when least expected. I have proved both of these points. My advice is, pair up a three-year-old cock, a yellow, that was not used the first year, and for no more than two nests the second. This bird needs to have a good large head and a full neck, and be clean cut away at waist. The head should have plenty of top skull, and the eye be bold and in the right position. Pair him to a buff hen, a variegated preferred (not cinnamon, but green), one year old, bred from a buff variegated cock and a ticked yellow hen. That will keep your green blood and your quality of feather right, if they are bred right. I have tried this method and it has proved a success for size and free from browing, and slackness at waist. You will perhaps not get all that is required the first season, but you are bound to be on the right track. I have a buff hen in my possession that I might have had £10 for last season; but I said "No!" I wanted her myself. She bred me four good ones, one buff cock and three yellow hens, of great size, and chubby, very short in tail and flights, clean in head and well cut away. Those I also want myself. In double yellowing to reduce feather, I have found there is good, and also evil; but if you get a buff from this method (or what is supposed to be a buff) it is generally a good one. Keep it, and pair it to a buff bred from yellow and buff, and you are again bound to be on the right track. The youngsters pair in the ordinary way, yellow and buff.

PAISLEY.

Annual show of the Paisley O.A., in the Tannahill Hall, Moss-st., Jan. 30, a hall well adapted for the purpose, being well lighted from overhead. The birds were nicely staged on three tiers round three sides of the hall, which gave plenty of room for the comfort of visitors. The entry was somewhat poor, probably due to the holding of the show so late in the season, or its being insufficiently advertised. At the same time fanciers in and around Paisley might have given better support to this go-ahead society. The management is in every way in capable hands, and it would be difficult to find workers to equal the very painstaking and willing band here. President, Mr. John Taylor, was much in evidence, and Sec., Mr. John Sinclair, had everything in A1 order to the minute. The Committee are too numerous to mention. Judges were: Scotch Fancies, Mr. J. Smith (Howwood) and Mr. A. Livingstone (Paisley); Nor., Mr. W. Hutchieson (Glasgow); Bord., Mr. A. K. Chalmers (Paisley); British, J. Cowan (Paisley); and all seemed to give general satisfaction.

SCOTCH FANCY, YELL. CK. (1): 1, spl., Baird, nice size and thickness, good worker. BUFF (4): 1, Ferguson, fine length of side, nice thickness, determined drive, steady worker; 2, Stewart, rare top end, nice size and cond., well set on legs; 3, Alex. Baird, nice bird, not size of those in front; 4, A. M. Baird, might have gone up one, fine top end and style, could do with more size. YELL. HIGHGATE, HAMPSTEAD C.B.S.

The annual show of matched pairs, held Jan. 23, at headquarters, the Spencer Hall, Dartmouth Park, N.W., was very interesting and brought together over 120 entries, the great majority of them stock of really high-class quality. Evidently the members of this society, all good fanciers of the genuine British workman type, have birds of the right stamp in their rooms, the excellence of the pairs in the amateur and novice sections being especially a matter for congratulation. Despite the bad weather, a good number of visitors attended. The arrangements were, as usual, excellently carried out by the popular hon. sec., Mr. J. Hyde, who was ably assisted by several of the members, one of the hardest workers being that jovial old fancier, Mr. W. Shakespeare. The special for best pair fell to Mr. A. Lovegrove, a magnificent buff Norwich cock and yellow hen doing the trick. These were closely pressed by a wonderful good pair (also buff cock and yellow hen), which secured the amateur section special for Mr. W. H. Wills. The special in the novice section fell to the fine Yorkshire shown by Mr. P. Johnston. The special for best muling pair went to a grand British Goldie (12 year old, and still a breeder, we heard), and yellow hen put down by Mr. W. Shearer, this Goldie also securing the special for best British bird. The judge was Mr. G. E. Weston.

Club Reports.

METROPOLITAN C.B.A.

Members, please come as early as possible on the night of pair show, to discuss a point with regard to the cups to be competed for in 1915. There are several prizes to be won; try and bring some friends, also some new members.—H. F. Bowring, Hon. Sec.

COVENTRY O.S.

Annual general meeting, Feb. 3. We made a profit of £5 4s. 11d. after a grant of £1 11s. 6d. to the local Relief Fund. Decided to hold our Open Show Oct. 16, when we hope to have the support of all old exhibitors and new ones. The above Society has been in existence 38 years and has never failed to hold its Open Show; I think all will agree this is a record to be proud of.—A. Green, Hon. Sec.

EAST ARDSLEY AND DIS. C.B.S.

Meeting, Feb. 6, Mr. J. Burnell in chair. Decided to have presentation of prizes on Feb. 20, and to hold in conjunction with the same a judging competition. A. Hargreaves, Esq., vice-president, will officiate in the presentation and the competition. All members are expected to bring at least two birds. Fanciers cordially invited. Members please note time, 6.30 p.m., owing to alteration of hours.—A. Walton, Sec.

SHETTLESTON AND DIST. C.B.C.

Annual general meeting, Good Templars' Hall, Main Street. Mr. S. F. Wood in chair. Office-bearers for 1915: Pres., E. Taylor; vice-Pres., T. Forrest and W. Lunn; sec. and treas., S. F. Wood; committee, Messrs. J. Baird, R. Davidson, N. Yule, W. Williams, R. S. Jarvie, and G. A. Henderson; auditors, Messrs. R. McKenzie and J. Hood. It was decided to hold pair show Feb. 13, at 7 p.m.; yell. ck., buff hen and buff ck., yell. hen, in each of the following varieties: Crests, Nor., Borders, Yorks., Scotch Fancies, and one class each for muling and Hybrid pairs. A good turn-out is requested. New members now being enrolled. Annual subs. 3s. 6d. Particulars from S. F. Wood, Sec. (4, Tolleross Road, Parkhead, Glasgow).

CLAPHAM AND DISTRICT C.B.A.

Meeting, Feb. 2. Final arrangements for pair show were made, and Mr. J. Robson elected judge. Schedule comprises 10 Canary and 13 British classes, besides an adequate number for Foreign birds, Hybrids, and pairs. The classification, therefore, is as extensive as could be desired. This year we have rearranged our method of awarding club medals, and are giving a silver and a bronze medal for most and second most points gained during the year in each of the following sections: Norwich, Yorks., Borders, A.O.V. Canaries, Hybrids, British Hardbills, British Softbills, and Foreign, with a gold medal for most points gained during the year in any of these sections. Members not able to attend meetings lately ought to post their special prizes to sec. without delay. Pair show is at Clock House, Clapham Park Rd., Feb. 17, at 7.30.—A. R. Coe.

SOUTHAMPTON AND DIS. C.B.S.

Meeting Feb. 3rd, Mr. W. G. Fellows in chair. Mr. Norman consents to judge annual show in Dec. next. Three new members were elected. Final arrangements made for table pair show. Mar. 3. Exhibits to be judged by members, awards going to birds scoring most votes. The chairman kindly offered a prize to member whose judging card is nearest the correct result. Two new rules were passed, one of which defines the term "novice" as regards members' and open shows. The notice to rescind recent alteration in meeting nights to Wednesdays, found to be inconvenient to many (as also was the case with the old night, Monday), resulted in the first Tuesday in each month being fixed, time 8.30, but lectures and shows are to take place on dates previously fixed.—G. J. Slade, Asst. Sec.

SWANSEA C.B.A.

Monthly meeting, with a fair attendance of the old fanciers present, to try to bring the old society up to date. A discussion took place as to a meeting night, to allow all fanciers to attend, and it was decided to hold meetings in future on Saturday nights, and remove headquarters to the Mansel Hotel, Oxford Street, kindly offered by Mr. Geo. Llewelyn. It now behoves all fanciers around to give their names in, to allow the officials a really good fresh start. Next meeting, Saturday, Feb. 13 (to-night), when all are invited. Officers elected for the ensuing year: Chair, T. J. Allen; vice-chair, G. Llewelyn; committee, Messrs. J. H. Ford, J. W. Ford, F. Heal, E. M. Evans, E. P. Hoddinott, W. G. Thompson, A. E. Mitchell, A. Richard; show managers, Messrs. Phil Jenkins and J. Hocking; sec. and treas., Mr. Alf. Hitching, pro tem. A hearty vote of thanks to Mr. Geo. Llewelyn for placing his club room at the disposal of the committee brought a successful meeting to a close.

A Pleasing and Successful Function.

On Jan. 28, a company of over 100 members and friends, among whom were many ladies, spent an enjoyable evening on the occasion of the 4th annual dinner and concert of the society in the tastefully decorated room of the Stephenson's Restaurant. The toast of "The King, Queen, and the Royal Family," proposed by the Chairman, Mr. T. Dawn, was received with cheers and the singing of the National Anthem. The next principal toast of the evening, "The Sheffield O.S.," was proposed by Dr. J. G. Mylam, who expressed his pleasure in proposing so important a toast. He congratulated the society on the success which it had attained during its four years of existence, and wished it even greater success in the future. Sec. Mr. E. C. Job responded, and said that, notwithstanding the misfortune of having, in common with so many other societies, to abandon the annual open show, the year had been a successful one, and they had been able to hand over, as profits from the two members' shows, £4 15s. to the Lord Mayor's local Relief Fund, and £5 7s. 4d. to the Belgian Relief Fund. He thanked Dr. Mylam for his good wishes, and trusted they would be realised in 1915.

The Chairman presented cups and medals as follows: Yorkshire cup to Dr. Craig, his third win in succession; Norwich cup, Mr. A. H. Waters; Crest cup, Mr. J. Evans; British cup and foreign cup, Mr. O. Fletcher. Dr. Craig generously promised another Yorkshire cup to replace the one he had now won outright, and Mr. Fletcher, who had now twice won the British and foreign cups, said that he would try to win them outright next season, and if he succeeded he would present the society with two new ones.

The toast, "Visitors and Kindred Societies," was capably proposed by Mr. Woodall, who pointed out the good feeling which existed between the various Sheffield societies, and concluded by hoping that the visitors present would be spared many years to grace the annual function with their welcome attendance. Mr. T. Swain, in responding, said he knew he was speaking for all present in expressing enjoyment of a pleasant evening, and appreciation of the excellent music to which they had listened, and Mr. H. H. Towers supported Mr. Swain in his remarks.

The health of the Chairman was eloquently proposed by Mr. T. Ridal, chairman of Walkley C.B.S., who said how pleased he and everyone were to see Mr. Dawn in his old place after his recent severe illness and operation. He was sure that members of the Sheffield O.S. would never hear of having any other chairman, so long as Mr. Dawn was spared to preside over them, for no society had his equal. The toast was drunk with enthusiastic musical honours, and one of the best evenings in the history of the society came to a close.

BRADFORD EAST O.S.

Ninth annual general meeting held Jan. 19. Balance sheet was passed, showing a nice balance in hand. Officers elected: Pres., Mr. E. Suddard; Vice-Pres., G. R. Rushworth, J. Farrar, L. Briggs, W. A. Brown; Y.U. delegate, J. W. Kaberry and D. Bartle; Sec., A. Firth. Meeting night to be second Saturday in each month at 7.30 at the above school. Decided to have social evening on Feb. 27, when prizes won during 1914 will be presented by our lady member, Mrs. C. M. Sunderland. We are to have two First Feather shows, June 12 and July 10, and four Old Bird shews, Oct. 9, Nov. 13, Dec. 11 and Jan 8, 1916. Six classes for First Feather shows and 12 classes for Old Bird shows. Up to the present we have no specials offered. If any member knows of any, please let me hear as early as possible, so we can have them put on the syllabus. Lectures will be given and two rambles will be arranged.—A. Firth, Sec.

NORTHERN BORDER & S.F.C.C.

Meeting and Table Pair Show, Feb. 3, Pillar's Cafe, Mr. W. Smith chair. It was announced that our President (Mr. A. Parkin) had passed away after a very short illness. Great sorrow was felt at this, as Mr. Parkin was a man who was well esteemed. Decided that a letter of sympathy be sent to Mrs. Parkin. Decided to have a supper at next meeting, 1/- each, meeting to commence at 7. Awards at the Table Show: CL. OR MKD: 1, 4, vhc, W. Smith; 2, 3, W. Affleck. GREENS: 1, 3, W. Affleck; 2, W. Smith. Champ. Section: Prizes given by Mr. W. P. Snaith, most points with three highest birds, W. Affleck; 2nd most, W. Smith. Nov. silver medal, given by Mr. W. Espie for most points with three highest birds, A. Affleck. Vote of thanks to the judges (Mr. T. C. Crawhall and Mr. T. Robson) brought a pleasant meeting to an end.—M. C. Potts, Sec.

WIMBLEDON C.B.S.

Meeting at headquarters, 6, The Broadway, Feb. 1, Mr. W. H. Stoakley in chair, and some thirty members present. A letter was received from Mr. F. Easterling (Federation delegate) regretting his absence, and enclosing his report of the last Federation meeting. Then the question as to whether the L. and P.O.S. and Clapham shows were to be considered as open shows was very thoroughly discussed, and it was carried unanimously that Wimbledon did not consider either to be an open show, and delegates were instructed to vote accordingly. A vote of sympathy was passed to Mr. Easterling on his illness. Five new members were elected: Mr. C. Brown (Putney), Mr. A. Ramsey (Purley), Mrs. Baker (Merton Park), Mr. L. Howard (Merton Park), and Mr. W. Culver (Purley). Decided to hold pair show at Queen's Hall, on Feb. 16, judge, Mr. Robson. This starts competition for season of Thynne Cup and Chairman's Trophy. Mr. E. J. Pegg and Mr. F. W. Hamilton were appointed auditors. The event of the evening was the distribution of the cups, medals, and other trophies won at the annual show, and a goodly array they made. Scarcely anyone went away empty-handed. The Chairman's Trophy for most points had been well won by Mr. H. Smith, with 79 points: the Border cup for most points, given by Mrs. L. M. Thynne, went to Mr. E. J. Pegg; the Rev. H. A. Soames' Green Border Cup to Mr. W. H. Holden; and the Saunders' Cup to Mr. G. Birch, who also secured the Sandiford medal, and Society's diploma for best bird shown by a novice. Mr. Heath was awarded diploma in champion section: Mrs. Griffiths' special for best bird shown by a lady novice was won by Mrs. Farley. The distribution of about forty other special prizes brought a very pleasant meeting to a close.—G. Griffiths, Hon. Sec.

NEWCASTLE-UPON-TYNE C.B.S.

Annual meeting, Feb. 4, Shields Cafe, Mr. Tindale in chair. Mr. J. E. Richardson (Gateshead) elected a member. Balance sheet showing balance £2 3/8, assets £14 13/-, and reserve fund £7 3/3, adopted. Letter read from Mr. T. C. Crawhall, vice-chairman, resigning that position, and saying he did not wish to be elected to any official position in the society; also letter from assist.-sec., Mr. J. Craig, 1st Cameron Highlanders, who is at present stationed in Scotland, but expects he may shortly be sent to the front again. By the way, I have still some of Mr. Craig's birds for disposal, reasonable. Mr. Tindale will open a discussion at our next meeting, March 5th, "Pairing, breeding and rearing of Canaries." Let us have a good attendance. Decided to postpone election of officers to next meeting. The following were nominated:—President, vice-presidents and patrons as 1914, with the addition of Mr. T. C. Crawhall. Chairman, Mr. R. Tindale; vice-chairman, Mr. Espie. Auditors, Messrs. C. Farrer and M. Cossar; show manager, Mr. R. Tindale; sec. and treas., Messrs. J. W. Reed and F. W. Laidlow. Committee as 1914, with addition of Messrs. N. C. Potts, J. B. Bell, W. Lyst, H. Bird and S. Lindsay. Secretary was instructed to write the Lord Mayor re Canaries for War Fund. Will those members who have been nominated for official positions and cannot accept same please let me know before next meeting? Since last meeting I have had a p.c. from Mr. Laidlow withdrawing his name. Let us have a good beat-up at next meeting; do not leave the business on a few shoulders.—J. W. Reed, Sec.

HALIFAX C.B.S.

First annual meeting, Trafalgar Inn, Feb. 4, Mr. E. Stobart presiding over a good attendance. Annual report and balance sheet showed that the Society's first year had been very successful. The Open Show made a profit of 14s. and the Members' Show £1 12s.; the members' prize money paid for the season's shows being £6 12s. All accounts have been paid and a balance of £4 remains with which to begin the second season, which it is hoped will prove as successful as the first. Members' subs. have all been paid with one exception, and it is hoped that this one will be forthcoming. Officers for 1915-16 appointed; Chair, Mr. E. Savile; Vice-Chair, Mr. P. Child; Sec., A. Sutcliffe; Treas., Mr. W. Morton; Auditors, Messrs. P. Sunderland and E. Stobart; Sub-Committee, Messrs. J. E. Priestley, E. Stobart, J. Gelder, G. Mitchell and H. W. Walsh; delegates to Yorkshire Union of C.B.S. meetings, Messrs. E. Stobart and P. Child. The challenge cup was presented to the Society by Mr. W. Morton, to whom warm thanks were tendered by Mr. Stobart on behalf of the Society. The trophy, which will be known as the Morton Cup, was handed to the winner, Mr. J. Gelder, by Mr. A. Sutcliffe, who complimented the recipient. His success was particularly praiseworthy, as Mr. Gelder was a novice competitor. Mr. G. Mitchell, another novice, was only 3½ points behind. Decided to hold an Open Show under Yorks. Union Rules. Annual sub. is 3/6, 1/- to be paid on nomination. Meeting concluded with thanks to the officers. A new member was made. Syllabus for 1915-16 is left in the hands of the Sub-Committee.—A. Sutcliffe, Sec.

Meeting, held Jan. 30, Mr. W. S. Clark, president. Members unanimous for club show. Show to be held Feb. 20th, judge Mr. A. Chalmers, Kirkintilloch; 30 classes, Norwich, Scotch Fancy, Brit. and Bord. Medal to be given by B.F.C.C. Show confined to a radius of five miles. Prizes, 5s., 3s., 1s. 6d., and 6d. Entries close Feb. 13, at 7 p.m.—Hugh M. Ferguson, Sec.

CITY AND SUBURBAN A.C.B.

Meeting, Feb. 8, at 60, Paddington Street, Mr. J. A. Chard presiding. Owing to the wet evening very few members were present. Our Hon. Sec. has scored another record, as eight new members were elected, and eight nominations received for election at the next meeting—these will constitute a list of 140 active members. Closed rings will again this year be provided, and members are requested to make early application to our Hon. Sec. as to the number they will require. Result of voting for judges for the coming season: Canary section (3 shows), Mr. Robson; British section, young bird show, Mr. G. E. Weston; annual and pair show, Mr. C. Prior. Mr. A. J. Marley, who was to have lectured on "British Birds," wrote that he was prevented from attending owing to his military duties, but sent a paper on the subject, which was very ably read by Mr. V. Wynn, and proved to be most interesting and instructive. A very hearty vote of thanks was accorded to Mr. Marley.—F. Thynne, Asst. Hon. Sec.

GLASGOW AND WEST COUNTIES NOR., MULE, BRIT., & F.B.C.

Annual general meeting, Feb. 6, Good Templars' Hall, Ingram Street. Mr. Peter Pettigrew presided over a good attendance. Balance-sheet was read and adopted, and at present there is a substantial credit balance. Specials won at annual show were handed over to winners, and a grand and varied collection they made, comprising smoked hams, cheese, cakes, medals, and cash specials galore. Mr. Peter Pettigrew, after considerable persuasion, was elected pres., Mr. G. Bannerman vice-pres., Mr. W. Munroe treas., Mr. J. H. Adam sec.; committee, Messrs. J. Dick, J. Cross, W. Cassels, J. Findlay, J. Liddell, Messrs. J. Livingstone, J. McGowan auditors. New members elected: Messrs. Cochrane, J. Wilson, W. Hamilton. Decided to hold pair show Feb. 20. Good Templars' Hall, Ingram Street, at 6.30. Classification: Cl. or tkd. Nor., variegd., do. cl. or tkd. Bord., variegd., ditto, A.O.V. Can. Fanciers desirous of becoming members (the club caters for all varieties of Canaries except Scotch Fancy and Belgians), can have full particulars from sec.; annual subs., 4s.—J. H. Adam, Hon. CANARY QUERIES

Answered by CLAUDE ST. JOHN.

ROOSTS ALL DAY (Novice). You should have given some particulars about your treatment, feeding, etc., and described as well as you could any symptoms shown besides merely roosting all day and opening and closing the claws, which does not explain much. She may be a little run down, or even nothing worse the matter than being overfed, and consequently lazy. Add ten drops of syrup of buckthorn to the water daily for three or four days, then stop this and give instead 20 drops of Chemical Food every second day for a fortnight. Also give every second day a morsel of bread and milk sprinkled with soft sugar, in addition to the usual seed diet, and on the alternate days give a spray of watercress. If this does not have the desired result, write again, and give the particulars mentioned, when I will endeavour to help you.

CLEANING HUSKS FROM SEED (Bird Shop).—Blow more gently; that should be the obvious remedy to prevent the husks getting in the eyes and about the dress. Or you might empty the contents of the hoppers on to a tray, and take it into a suitable open space in the open air in a gentle breeze, and, standing with your back or side should consult St. John's "Canary Breeding for Beginners" (7d.); House's "Canary Manual" (1/2); Battye's "Yorkshire Canaries" (1/1½); House's "Norwich Canaries" (1/1); Weston's "Stock Book" (7d.); Dr. Clarke's "Septic or Bird Fever" (7d.); Norman's "Aviaries, Bird-rooms, and Cages" (2/3); Ramsden's "Colour-feeding" (3½d.); "Seeds and Foods for Cage Birds" (1/2); or the "Nutshell" booklets (2½d. each): No. 5 "The Pet Canary," No. 6 "Ailing Birds and How to Cure Them," No. 9 "The Disinfection of Cages, Bird-rooms, etc.," No. 10 "The Roller," No. 23 "The Border Fancy," No. 24 "Green Canaries." All thoroughly practical and instructive. Prices quoted are post free, from "Cage Birds," 154, Fleet Street, London, E.C.

to the wind, gently toss the seed about on the tray, and allow the wind to blow the husks away from you, aiding the dispersal, if necessary, by blowing with your breath, or if a large quantity you may blow it very gently with a small bellows. Small winnowing machines have been described in our columns which are easily made by a handy man, but except when there are large quantities of seed to deal with, it is barely worth the trouble of making one.

COCK WITH THREE HENS (Birdie).—You should have mentioned the size of the cage definitely, as "a long cage" may mean almost anything. If the cage is really of a good size, so that you could put up half a dozen nesting sites without crowding them upon each other, there is no reason why you should not succeed by running one cock loose with three hens for breeding. But if the cage is not a very large one, you would probably get better results from keeping each hen in a separate cage—single-breeder size—and mating the cock with them consecutively, leaving each hen to hatch out and rear the young by herself.

MATING QUERIES (J. Kay).—(1) It is just possible that you may meet with success in breeding with a cock and two hens all together in a cage 2ft. by 26ins. by 26ins. high, but much will depend upon the temperament of the individuals, and you would be practically certain to get better results from mating them separately in single breeding cages, and running the cock with them consecutively. I have known many trios of birds make a hash of things in even a larger cage than yours. (2) If you mate a cock Mule with a hen Canary you must do it purely as an experiment, and not expect any result whatever. Mules are, as a rule, quite sterile, and although there are a very few cases on record wherein a mule parent has apparently had offspring, such cases are so extremely rare, and always exceedingly dubious, that such a mating should never be looked forward to as a productive union.

BREATHES HEAVILY (M. C.). See that the bird is quite free from direct cold draughts, that it does not hang in or very near a window, nor quite near or over burning lights in the evening. Keep in a fairly comfortable place, but not over-heated, and as equable as you can manage. Give a staple diet of plain canary seed only, and separately give half a teaspoonful of a mixture of equal parts hemp, niger, millet, and teazle every second day, and on the alternate days give a similar quantity of crushed sponge cake, with four drops of sherry and two of cod liver oil emulsion mixed in it, and sprinkled with maw seed. Give a morsel of green salad four times a week. Continue this feeding for three or four weeks. In the drinking water add ten drops of lemon juice, and as much Epsom salts as will cover a sixpence every second day for a week, and afterwards six drops of tincture of gentian and four of dilute sulphuric acid every second day for a fortnight.

GROWTH ON BEAK (Not Singing Roller).—Your letter gives no clue whatever as to the nature of the growth, or its position. Could not you manage a rough sketch to show the latter, and describe its appearance? If it is merely an overgrowth of the tip of the lower portion of the beak, you can carefully snip off the excess growth with a small pair of nail or embroidery scissors so as to bring the mandibles to an equal length, but be careful not to go quite near the pinkish streak you will see on the beak near the margin all round. After this trimming keep a piece of cuttlefish stuck in the wires for the bird to nibble at and thus help to keep the growth down.

ROLLER HEN WEAK (Borderer). I should say the hen is abnormally weak and delicate in constitution, and not likely to be of any material use as a stock bird. However, you may try what a month of the following treatment will do for her. Give a staple of plain canary only. In addition, give separately every third day half a teaspoonful of scalded summer rape and a morsel of banana, and on the intervening days give first a similar quantity of a mixture of equal parts hemp, niger, millet and broken groats and a fair sized spray of watercress, and next a piece of bread and milk the size of a hazel nut with three drops of cod liver oil emulsion on it, and sprinkled with soft sugar. Add to the water ten drops of syrup of buckthorn for three consecutive days, and afterwards give instead 20 drops of Chemical Food four times a week for a month.

A YORKSHIRE DUET (E. H. G.).—(1) You should not limit the bird to a diet of sloppy foods, which will not make matters any better. In addition to the staple of plain canary seed, give every second day half a teaspoonful of scalded rape seed, and on the alternate days a similar quantity of dry summer rape and a morsel of banana. A small teaspoonful of mixed seeds may be given twice a week. In the drinking water add six drops of syrup of rhubarb and a crystal of sulphate of soda the size of a small pea for three consecutive days, and afterwards six drops of tincture of gentian and four of dilute sulphuric acid every second day for a week or a fortnight, as may seem necessary. (2) Very lightly moisten the bare spot once with tincture of iodine, and after that slightly anoint it twice a week for a month with sulphur ointment.

BRITISH BIRDS, MULES AND HYBRIDS.

Answered by H. NORMAN.

THRUSH IN MOULT (May E. N. Sclater). Your feeding is excellent, and the bird should do well on it, which I expect he does, but no doubt has managed to take cold. Whatever you do, be careful of a draught, and keep him in as even a temperature as possible. If the bird is still suffering from a cold, make up a mixture of equal parts of glycerine, fresh lemon juice, and whisky, and give 30 drops in an ounce of water. Mix half-teaspoonful of extract of malt and hypophosphates in the soft food. Commence with less than this quantity or the bird may refuse to eat it. This treatment should soon have the desired effect and put him right.

PAIRING LINNET-CANARY (Bosco).—As a rule, the Linnet will attach itself to one hen and neglect any other it may be put with. Of course, individuals thing, but he was an exception to the rule. As you have a Goldfinch as well as a Linnet, I would advise you to pair the former with one of your Canary hens, and let that be his partner only. The Goldie differ, and I knew of one could be run with anycan be run with more than one, and if you have a three-compartment cage, place a Canary hen at each end and the Finch in the centre. When the breeding time comes, which will be when the Finch is ready (that is, some time in April), you can let him run with one bird until she goes to nest, and then with the other, putting in a wooden partition between them and the first hen. You can tell when the Finch is ready by his beak being perfectly clear and his singing to the hen he fancies, and otherwise "showing off." Meanwhile, the hen romps about the cage flapping her wings and repeatedly calling. The Linnet is ready for breeding when his beak has turned to a dark slatey-blue, and he is in full song. The fact of your Finch being a freshly-caught bird would not prevent him breeding when he has got used to the Canaries.

INSECTILE MIXTURE (Reader).—It is against our rule to give the name of the maker of any particular food, but if you look on the first page of advertisements in last week's CAGE BIRDS you will see the food you want for Nightingales, Wagtails, etc. If you are unable to get it in your district the makers would send it to you by post. You are quite right in giving the bird the mealworms.

TROUBLE WITH FRESHLY-CAUGHT LINNETS (Silliw). I think the trouble arises from your not getting the birds early enough (that is, soon after they are caught), also your giving them too much dried seed. Newly-caged birds should be well supplied with soaked rape, canary, and teazle. They should have a little of this fresh every day. In addition to the soaked seed they should be offered a mixture of linseed, maw, niger, dandelion, thistle, etc., and a little cracked hemp. A pinch of common salt among this will aid digestion. I would also advise you to use rain water for a time; but if you are unable to get this, then try boiled water. With this treatment I think you would have a better percentage of successes than you do. As an aperient try glauber salts instead of that you have been using.

FEEDING LINNETS (Workman's Hobby).—The two birds you have will be quite right for breeding purposes. It is not absolutely necessary for a bird to be cage-moulted for muling. Get them as steady as you can, and they should do nicely. (2) You do not say if you are giving them anything beyond the Finch mixture, but if you want to bring them on to sing I would advise you to treat them on the following lines. Make up a mixture of gold of pleasure, niger, plantain, sesame, and thistle, 2 ozs. of each, dandelion, maw, lettuce 1 oz. each. Give a teaspoonful daily, also a little cracked hemp every other day. This should be in addition to their plain everyday seed. With this treatment your birds will soon come on to song, and be quite fit for breeding when they are in full song, and the beak a dark blue-grey.

FRESHLY-CAUGHT GOLDIE (Borderer).—Keep the bird in a cage by himself and give him a pot of cracked hemp, teazle, niger, maw, and a little canary! Crack a few sunflowers and supply him with these as he eats them. Soak a little rape and teazle and give him a spoonful daily, gradually decreasing it as he gets on to dry seeds. A good stock mixture is teazle 4 parts, Canary 3 parts, hemp 2 parts; a little niger and maw occasionally, and if you can procure a packet of good wild seed mixture give a teaspoonful on alternate days, and a few sunflower seeds on other days. When the spring comes supply dandelion, sow thistle, groundsel, and other wild green food. I would advise you to send to this office for the "Nutshell" booklet on the Goldfinch, price 2½d., post free. You will find in it all particulars as to management. For advice on feeding the Linnet see "Workman's Hobby" and other replies in this issue.

FOREIGN BIRDS.

GREY PARROT (Ava).—The bird would be best kept in the one room and not changed about. Stop giving the bread soaked in milk and tea, but to avoid too sudden a change, moisten the bread with chemical food and water (three parts chemical food to one of water). So long as bowels are not waterloose give one teaspoonful of Dinneford's magnesia in the drinking water every fourth day. You can add to your dietary, nuts, plain biscuit and plain cake. Keep grit (not sand), cuttlebone, and the piece of a branch continually in the cage. Feather-picking arises from such as skin irritation, parasites, and also in many cases is simply a vice; in the latter case it is practically incurable. In any case improvement will be slow and you must persevere with the treatment. Spray the bird twice a week should consult Page's "Foreign Birds for Beginners" (1/1½); Arthur's "Budgerigars and Cockatiels" (6d.); Arthur's "Parrots for Pleasure and Profit" (7d.); "Aviaries, Bird-rooms, and Cages" (2/3); "Seeds, Foods and Wild Plants" (1/2); Dr. Clarke's "Septic or Bird Fever" (7d.) "Colour-feeding" (3½d.); or the "Nutshell" booklets (2½d. each); No. 6 "Ailing Birds and How to Cure Them," No. 9 "The Disinfection of Cages, Bird-rooms, etc.," No. 14 "Gouldian Finches," No. 16 "Avadavats," No. 17 "The Grey Parrot," No. 18 "Budgerigars," No. 19 "The Pekin Robin," No. 20 "Warbills." All thoroughly practical and instructive. Prices quoted are post free from "Cage Birds," 154, Fleet Street, London, E.C.

with a tepid quassia solution, but while the cold weather lasts you had better cover round the sides of the cage (leave top uncovered), till the plumage is quite dry. You would find the Grey Parrot "Nutshell," 2½d., post free, from our Manager, very helpful as to general treatment.

PARRAKEET (W. P.).—Continue in every detail the treatment already advised. If the bird will allow you to handle it, foment the eyes with a rose-water and zinc eye solution (from any chemist), but avoid getting any into its mouth. This bird must be kept as warm as possible, where the temperature is even and there is no draught. Get also a box of honey and borax, and put a little in its mouth once or twice daily, so long as the mixture lasts. You can easily give this from the end of a stick, but the stick must be well cleansed each time before being put into the mixture. Lightly spray the bare parts with tepid water every other day, but see that it does not take a chill while the plumage and skin are damp. You must keep the bowels moving quite freely; at the same time you must not keep up a state of chronic diarrhœa. Lightly anoint every other day the dry scaly areas of skin with boracic ointment. The cage must be kept very clean, and voidings should be promptly removed. As soon as the trouble has passed, the cage, perches, and food vessels should be thoroughly cleansed with boiling water, every crevice being well swilled.

BUDGERIGARS, ETC. (Beginner).—It is not dangerous to handle Budgerigars, but their beaks are needle sharp and they are quite ready to give you a sharp nip while you hold them. It is best to wear a pair of garden gloves till you are accustomed to the operation. If you wish to try and cross them, try mating a cock Budgerigar with a hen Madagascar Lovebird. It does not do to say anything is impossible, but I should say it was very improbable that a Java Sparrow would mate up with a Canary. Try a cock Java with a hen Cutthroat or a hen Red-headed Finch. The former cross has been successfully reared once in this country.

GENERAL.

Answered by THE EDITOR.

E. R. Crisp.—We have not had any enquiries re the Blackbird. We hope you are now enjoying better health.

Henry J. Davis.—Your self-styled "pertinent" question strikes us as being decidedly impertinent. We have no use for personalities of this nature. It is so easy to scoff at and to criticise the work of other fanciers. The point is: Can you write something more helpful to fanciers and the Fancy? If so, send it along for publication and earn the gratitude of your fellow bird-breeders.

POST MORTEMS.

Mr. G. Yates, M.R.C.V.S., 1, College Road, Harrow, Middlesex, will examine and report upon dead cage birds for a fee of 1s. 6d. each bird; for reply direct, 2s. 6d.; analysis, 21s. Subjects for post mortem examination must be sent packed in a box direct to Mr. Yates, with the fee, this and any accompanying letter being kept from contact with the dead bird. Send by letter-post; it is cheaper and quicker than parcel post. Any bodies sent to the office of this paper will be thrown away, and if a fee is enclosed the loss will be the sender's.

The BULL-DOG STRAIN

The above strain needs no bounce. All I need do is to refer you to the reports of leading shows. My birds are winning consistently. For years they have been in the front rank, winning numerous champion trophies of the Specialist Clubs. I have also bred and sold birds that have won for my clients all over the country. Testimonials in proof of this are always open for the inspection of my visitors. There is no better blood in the Fancy. I am now offering a few pairs bred from these noted winners at above prices. Single birds, cocks or hens, at proportionate prices. Every bird is worth double. I have also a number of good birds from other well-known strains as follows: Smart Thick-set Cocks, 6/-, 7/6, 8/6, 10/- each. Good Cobby Hens, 4/-, 5/-, 6/-, 7/6, 10/- each. JAN., 1915. UNSOLICITED TESTIMONY. JAN., 1915.

The following testimonials, in addition to hundreds of others (which are always open for the inspection of my visitors), have been received during January, 1915.

Montreal, Canada.—The 4 birds you sent me did well at our show. I got 4 Firsts and 4 Specials with them. The buff Crest hen won 1st and spl. for best Crest hen in show; the yellow Crest hen, 1st and 2 specials. Those two were also entered for the C. and C.B. Cup, which I won. The Yellow Green Yorkshire won 1st and Silver Medal for best green in show. There were 15 birds in his class. The Clear Buff Yorkshire Hen also won 1st. Your birds have opened the eyes of a few fanciers out here.—P. J. Thomas to Joe Thomas. 237, Chapel Street, Leigh, Lancs.—I am pleased to say the Buff Norwich Cock won First at our show. I am very proud of him. J. Dawson to Joe Thomas. Mount Grace, Potter's Bar, Middlesex.—Many thanks for the 2 Yorkshire Cocks you sent me. I got 1st and 2nd with the 2 birds in a class of 13. The birds deserve more than you claim for them. They are real beauties.—G. Ogleton to Joe Thomas. Rotherby, Leicester.—I am very pleased with the Roller Cock. He sings beautifully.—J. M. Snodin to J. Thomas. 13, Broughty St., Leigh.—Thanks for the bird you sent. I have had more than double offered for it. I have had birds from all over the country, but none to equal it.—J. Cowburn to Joe Thomas. 29, Sydney Road, Tilbury.—The pair of Norwich arrived safely in good condition and very comfortable. They are a very nice pair, and I shall be sending for more at an early date. J. E. Petty to Joe Thomas.

Considerations of space only prevent me from publishing scores similar to above, but please remember this: I guarantee the same absolute satisfaction to all customers.

IT'S A FACT

that my Yorkshires are the best stock birds ever offered in CAGE BIRDS, being a strain that breed winners in every nest. All fanciers that wish to have success and breed birds that will sell for high prices and make you a name on the show bench give me a trial. I have some grand (1914) long, slim, typical brids, full of quality, style and position; they have wings like Larks and legs like ostriches: cocks 7/6, 8/6, 10/6 upwards; grand, slim, stylish hens (unrelated), 3/6, 4/6, 5/6 upwards. I guarantee cocks in full song and to fertilise every egg; hens guaranteed to lay a full nest of eggs without showing any signs of being egg-bound; send cash with order; enquirers enclose stamp: W. Bowd, 1a, Rowell-square, Rowell-st., Salford.

SUTCLIFFE & SONS FOR VALUE

If you want to breed winners buy direct from the breeder; same strain as our National winners; state wants; approval; stamp for reply: 1, Back Watson st., and 21, Valley-rd., Windhill, Shipley, Yorks.

25/- WORTH FOR 12/6

In order to reduce my stock to make room for breeding I offer 3 grand yellow Yorkshire cocks, over 7in. long, with 3 lovely buff hens, feather like silk and 3 very good buff cocks, over 7in. long, with lovely long slim yellow hens to match; these are properly mated to breed winners and are in breeding condition; cocks in full song; and to effect a quick sale I will take half price for the 9 pair, 12/6 could not be bought elsewhere under 25/-; six days approval: Edwin North, Breeder, 443, Manchester rd., Bradford. (79)

T. BENNETT

the Yorkshire Canary King, is now offering a few choice birds, exhibition or stock, at less than traders' prices; every bird warranted his own breeding, from his noted strain of 30 years' standing, winner of more first prizes than any Yorkshire fancier (with own bred birds). Note following, the same old story for 30 years:- Dear Sir, I received birds all right; I'm very well pleased. Thanking you for your honesty and kindness. Yours truly, G. Kinnear, Buckhaven, Fife, Jan 29th, 1915. Hundreds similar to above filed for your inspection. Remember, no bought or claimed winners here, so send direct to the fountain head for your Yorkshires, thus saving the middleman profit. Inspection invited or birds on approval: T. Bennett, 14, Cumberland-rd., Lidget Green, Bradford.

COME ND SEE THEM

The most wonderful collection for sale in the World.

The quality I send you with anything you can get elsewhere at anything like similar prices: that for great value is the only true test of cheapness. I therefore invite you to test my statements by having any of the following on approval, as all at their respective prices are undeniable bargains.

PLAIN-HEADED NORWICH.

Cocks, 6/6, 7/6, 8/6, 10/6, 12/6, 15/-, 20/-. These cocks at 15/- and 20/- are well worth 50/- to 100/-. Hens, 3/-, 4/-, 5/-, 7/6, 10/-; pairs, 8/6, 10/6, 12/6, 15/-, 20/-, 30/-, 40/- up.

YORKSHIRES.

The Extraordinary Value I am now offering in Yorkshires must be seen to be believed. Cocks, 5/6, 7/6, 8/6, 10/6; hens, 3/-, 3/6, 5/-; pairs, 8/6, 10/6, 12/6, 15/-, and 20/- up. These include many close and some fully 8 inches long, invaluable for small hens. Cages in all cases 3d.

For all other varieties and prices, see my 1915 Detailed Illustrated List.

W. RUDD, The Bird Specialist, NORWICH.

CHAMPION YORKSHIRES

I have the finest stock of Yorkshires in Bradford that are for sale, and bred from some of the biggest winners that ever were benched. I offer grand lengthy Yorks. cocks, in full song, at 5/6, 6/6, 7/6, 10/6, 12/6 upwards. Grand racy hens, feathered like silk, at 3/6, 4/6, 5/6, 7/6 upwards. Try one of my properly matched pairs to breed winners, at 8/6, 10/6, 12/6, 15/- upwards; specials pairs at 20/-, 30/-, 40/-; send your cash to Editor, and your order to me, and I will convince you that I give the best value in the world. A few good pairs of Norwich, same prices, all cold-room bred, and colour-fed to perfection; 6 days' approval: Edwin North, Breeder and Exhibitor, 443, Manchester-rd., Bradford. (79)

"WHO'S THE CHAMPION?"

Read following, and judge for yourself who the Yorkshire king is. Winner this season of the following trophies against all comers: Yorkshire Canary Club's ten guinea trophy, and seven guinea challenge cup, Green-marked Yorkshire Club's ten guinea trophy, Yorkshire Union, Ramsden's, and "Cage Birds" Competition, cup best Yorkshire, Bradford National, cup Llanelly, several gold and silver medals, and other specials too numerous to mention, and 84 firsts, 51 seconds, 39 thirds, finishing up the season with 4 firsts, second, 3 thirds, ten guinea challenge cup, etc., Welsh National; and remember my offer of last week is still good. I have scores of testimonials from successful customers, open for inspection at any time. Without doubt, I hold the most up-to-date stock in the Fancy, not a good old has been (30 years ago), and I still have several winners for disposal; also some clinking stock pairs at following prices, 10/6, 12/6, 15/-, 20/-, 25/-, 30/-, 40/-, 50/-, 60/-, 80/- per pair. Clears, ticked and marked, and every bird in the best of health, and all cold room bred and kept. Odd birds in proportion. Kindly state wants, or better still, come and see them, or I will send any on a full week's approval, cash or deposit with Editor. Place your orders with the old reliable breeder, who breeds his own winners, and can therefore give you the best value for your money: L. Dykes, "Reliable Aviaries," Shann-st., Bolton Woods, Bradford. (70)

Not Singing

Wanted, a Trial. We are confident our medicines will give you satisfaction. Special notice to all bird fanciers. If you have any birds you are relying upon for the coming breeding season that are not singing, or have gone into the soft moult, we guarantee you a perfect cure; Ditchfield's Tonic Drops are undoubtedly the grandest medicine ever introduced for getting birds in song and into breeding condition. They are a guaranteed cure for soft moult, not singing, going light, egg-binding, dullness, feather-plucking, and inflammation of the bowels, sold in 7d., 1/1 and 2/- bottles. A trial order will convince you of the wonderful results obtained from this medicine. W. Reid, Greenock, writes: "Your medicine has been a great success, for both my birds are now singing." G. Chappell, New Mills: "The Tonic Drops have worked wonders. I was astonished at the quick result." C. J. Roberts, Bayswater: "Your medicine for egg-binding is marvellous." Mr. Hatton, Atherton: "Your Tonic Drops are excellent. They have cured me four birds in soft moult. They are now in full song." For bronchitis, wheezing, and hoarseness, get Ditchfield's Special Lung Tonic, the grandest medicine ever introduced for chest and lung affections in cage birds; also in 7d., 1/1, and 2/- bottles. For constitutional weakness and debility and for birds that are run down, or in slack feather, get Ditchfield's famous Revivo, in 7d., 1/1, and 2/- bottles. This medicine is absolutely unequalled for giving new life and vigour to the birds, and for producing that smart tight appearance of the plumage so much desired by all fanciers. As an advertisement, we will send two 7d. bottles of any of the above medicines for 1/-, three for 1/6, or two 1/1 bottles for 1/9, three for 2/6; the 1/1 bottles are treble the 7d. size. All medicines are post paid, per return at our risk. Also four valuable food recipes, how to feed the Lark, Linnet, Roller, Thrush, and Blackbird for health and song given free to purchasers of our medicines.
